From the airport, a motorcade will take the royal party to Jamestown Island, 10 miles from Williamsburg and the site of the first landing of the first 100 early English settlers in 1607. They will see the stockade the colonists put up to protect them against the assaults of both Indians and the harsh North American winter.

The Queen and Philip will visit the site of the church erected in 1639, attend private services in the reconstructed edifice and hear a recital of graveyard legends from Winnipeg-born Ron Robinson, Negro who moved to Virginia in 1953.

The Royal couple will tour a reproduction of the wilderness fort erected in 1607 and visit copies, anchored in the James River, of the few yards away, of the three ships — the Susan Constant, the Godspeed and the Discovery — which brought the first colonists to Virginia's shores.

WROTE "I REMEMBER"

GUELPH (CP) — Mrs. Elena Young, author of the book, I Remember, died Thursday, 13 days after the death of her husband, Rev. G. M. Young. Survivors include two sons, Padre W. A. Young of Guelph and Rev. M. C. Young of Gananoque; and two daughters, Mrs. G. F. Gibson of Burlington and Mrs. G. E. Wilson of Kingston.

GOVT.

Observers have taken the reference to point to tax exhaustion since Prime Minister Diefenbaker has repeatedly spoken of selling an autumn election if enjoyment for the express purpose of slicing taxes.

Mr. Fleming's new $61,385,000 in estimates, added to what departments got through Finance Minister Walter Harris placed before the parliament last spring, adds up to a record $5,597,316,000 for a year. It is for the fiscal year that ends next March 31.

But Mr. Fleming said much of it—such as $31,900,000 for Liberal-initiated civil service increases effective last May 1—had to be put through by the Conservatives. Another inevitable item was $8,100,000 to cover the prospective 1957-58 deficit of the publicly-owned CBC.

Mr. Fleming, while tabling his new spending figures and rebabling those of the Liberals for the record, added about the Liberal figures:

"This is not to say that the present government will support all of the detailed programs contemplated when these estimates were originally prepared.

INDIVIDUAL ITEMS

"Rather, such changes as this government proposes to make in current year programs will be brought to Parliament's attention when the individual items affected are being considered."

Conservatives also heard members move and second the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The mover—new Conservative Arthur Smith of Calgary South—suggested Canada and the United States pool their oil resources for marketing purposes.

Mr. Smith, whose riding is a main headquarters of Alberta's oil and gas wealth said his suggestion would relieve the suspense in which many consumers of oil to the United States find themselves.

Seconder Maree Arsenault, freshman Conservative member for Bonaventure, Que., asked the government to give Quebec's Gaspe peninsula a new economic deal.

ALONE IF NECESSARY

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Nathan Phillips told board of control Wednesday Toronto will act it alone if necessary in opposing increased telephone rates being sought by the Bell Telephone Company. He said he understood the Ontario municipal board is backing out of the case.

RADIATION PROBLEM

HAMILTON (CP)—Fred Staunton, chief fire prevention officer, said Thursday an increasing use of atomic energy among Hamilton industries has created a serious problem for firemen. Danger to firemen from radiation in the event of a fire in such industries is a major problem, he said.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — By studying better ways in which to have greater harmony with closest ties, relatives, you uncover precious possibilities for helping and being helped in return. See that you are fair, hard-working and orderly.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Worrying over how to assist your comrades who are in rather serious situations, or do not agree with you, is not good. Rather, a greater understanding of their side will give you something to work on. P.M. relax and pray.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — The planets are poised for assistance to you in all practical matters concerning your own. ings and your job. Take advantage of fine influence now. Show others how practical you are and how successful you can be.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Subjugation to the more forceful personalities about you could be very harmful today. Wear a broad smile and a willing look and show others your superior intelligence. Be a leader now and not a follower.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Secret worries have you a bit nervous, almost to the point of not being physically able to attend to important matters away from home. Rise above that petty influence at home by showing look and show others your superior intelligence. Be a leader now and not a follower.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Think constructively today before you attempt to see anyone from whom you want support or vital financial backing. You are not quite clear in your mind as to true desires or right approach. Never attempt anything unless well prepared.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Take care! Higher-ups or fellow-workers are in fighting mood today and would take advantages ow your good nature. Take in a good movie, or go to the races — anything that will save your already tired nerves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — On the far-off horizon is a will-o'-the-wisp you would badly chase after today, for it seems so real to you. Stay close to your present orbit and find ways of making quick progress and improvement.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Here is a day when you must be like the person who looks at life and others through a mirror. Don't let anything touch you, for there are many situations coming up that will engulf you if you are not prepared.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — That agreement or new venture needs the most precise thought and attention today, since you have already committed yourself and would retract some clause. Don't be afraid to follow through. The end will justify the means.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Your nerves are tingling today since you are overtired and you could easily put too much strain on self and others about you, plus not doing the A-1 job which is your religion. Relax a while, then labor methodically.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — The desire to enjoy yourself is so great today that you could easily run roughshod over the loved ones about you. Curb it, use will power and be understanding, thoughtful. A fine opportunity for real enjoyment when greeneis Itself.

If Your Child Is Born Today — The wonderful child born today will be possessed of such an inimitable manner and speech that he or she will charm the saints themselves. Do be sure to teach right precepts quickly or your progeny may become very self-centred. Also, teach to work early for the highest attainments in life. The best chart can be realized by proper understanding and by being the finest example yourself.

Invasion of Flu Creating Hero In Tireless, Early-Rising Rooster

By TOM HENSHAW

WYCKOFF, N. J. (AP)—The invasion of Asian flu is creating a new sort of hero.

He is the apparently tireless, early-rising rooster.

And many of them are living longer, fuller and more interesting lives into the bargain.

SUPPLY EMBRYO EGGS

The farm's major activity is supplying embryo eggs to Lederle Laboratories, one of six drug houses designated by the U. S. public health service to produce Asian flu vaccine.

Spring Lake, a 13,000 - chicken farm, has been supplying Lederle for 20-odd years, ever since sleeping sickness epidemic among horses in the 1930s. But the threatened plague of Asian flu has increased demand even beyond Spring Lake's tremendous production facilities. Eggs have to be imported to fill orders.

The additional eggs—fertilized but not incubated—come from smaller farms in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania which lack Spring Lake's incubator capacity (450,000 eggs at a time) or its laboratory outlet.

It is at these smaller farms that roosters are living it up on borrowed time. Chances are they'd have long since been executed as useless had their services not been needed by science.

An egg has to pass a stiff test. It must be of a certain size, 23 to 34 ounces to the dozen. This standardizes the amount of vaccine obtained from each egg. The National Institute of Health says one egg provides about five shots.

The egg must be 11 days old when shipped to the laboratory. This ensures that the embryo is large enough to grow economically the virus from which the vaccine is made.

And the egg must be white for ease in candling, i.e., determining if the embryo inside is alive.

QUICK UN PROBE OF TURKS' PLANS BACKED BY U.S.

Russia, Syria Charge Turkey Plotting War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations General Assembly was expected to clear the way today for quick action on the Middle East crisis as the United States and Russia both announced to move in if shooting starts.

Russia and Syria, in apparently co-ordinated moves, demanded Wednesday that the assembly act to stop an imminent Turkish attack on Syria. The Russians charged the United States is sparking the Turks.

The United States quickly agreed to call for a United Nations investigation, saying it will clarify "who it is that threatens peace in the area."

The UN's steering committee was expected to urge the assembly to take up the Russian-Syrian charges on an emergency basis, bypassing committee debate as it did last year on the Hungarian and Suez crises.

DEBATE NEXT WEEK

Diplomats predict the assembly will begin debate on the issue early next week.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of Russia, in a letter to assembly President Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, charged that the Turkish general staff, working with American advisers, had made plans for an attack on Syria immediately after the Turkish election Oct. 27.

Gromyko proposed that UN members raise a force to meet any such attack — and said Soviet forces will take part. The Russians also entered the Syrian demand for a UN committee to investigate the situation on the Syrian-Turkish frontier and recommended that it be instructed to report within two weeks of its creation.

In Washington State Secretary Dulles told a press conference that any Russian-Syrian attack on Turkey would bring the U.S. forces to the aid of the Turks. Dulles warned that in such event Russia would not be "privileged sanctuary." safe from American retaliation as Chinese Communist territory had been in the Korean War.

POLICEMEN THIEVES

WORCESTER, England (AP). Two police constables were each jailed for three years Wednesday for stealing an office safe containing £27 which they were supposed to be out looking for burglars. Laurence Spiers, 44, and Roy Dawkins, 31, pleaded guilty to the charge.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The prolonged spell of dry weather, 23 rainless days in many parts of eastern Ontario, ended. Rain moved into Northern Ontario Wednesday and continued slowly eastward so that by this morning it was raining over most of central and south-western Ontario.

This band of inclement weather is followed by a large area of clear skies covering the Canadian Prairies and mid-western states. Consequently sunny weather is forecast for the province on Friday.

NON-ASIAN FLU CLAIMS ANOTHER CANADIAN VICTIM

Death Toll Reaches 40, Outbreak Is Up, Down

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Another Canadian has died after catching influenza, bringing to 40 the number of victims this fall.

Thirteen-year-old Michael Carr of Welland died Wednesday of pneumonia, an old most of the others. Although some of the 40 victims were killed directly by the Asian strain.

The boy's death brought Ontario's fatalities to 14, a Canadian Press survey showed. Quebec had 11, Alberta four, Saskatchewan two and Nova Scotia one.

Influenza appears to be declining in some Canadian centres. In others outbreaks were growing. Several schools have been closed in five more communities and several more hospitals have barred visitors.

Health authorities in Windsor and Oshawa said the outbreak among school children appears to be subsiding. But the incidence among Protestant children were down to 15 per cent for the first time this week, but the incidence among Roman Catholic students rose to 29 per cent from 23 per cent.

John Davy, owner of an English car-hire firm, strolled briefly among the stands and placed the order—for 700 British-made family sedans.

Hear Fugitive Rocket Experts Say Russians Will Fire at Moon Nov. 7

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Examiner says it has been told Russia will try to hit the moon with rockets Nov. 7.

The science editor, Christian Clausen, writes today that the information came from a European scientist who has talked to rocket experts who have escaped from the huge Russian rocket and missile base at Peenemunde in Germany." The scientist's name is not given.

Clausen says his source told him the Russians will aim three of their huge rockets at the moon from a launching base on the Caspian Sea, "the same spot whence the Red satellite was sent aloft."

"The first Soviet moon rockets will be unmanned," Clausen writes. "But if they are successful with their first vehicles, the Russians plan to send animals and then men to the moon."

He says the scientist told him schools have been set up to select men and women from the Russian Air Force to make a trip to the moon 'and to teach them how to live there.

"They will be the 40th anniversary of Lenin's accession to power in Russia. There will be a full moon that day.

Radiant, Laughing Elizabeth Wins Americans With Humor

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (CP)—Washington sees a new Elizabeth today — a radiant, laughing woman who on occasion Wednesday evoked laughs from the crowds with gentle jokes and good humor.

She departed from her prepared script at a formal dinner Wednesday night, at Williamsburg to make jokes—one of them a wry reference to ancestor George III, the king who was largely responsible for losing the American colonies. Although the Queen was in her usual formal, restrained self as she started her first day in the United States, the shouts, general informality and obvious affection of the crowds reached her ears as the day went by and grew more relaxed and seemed really to enjoy herself.

When she went down to a Jamestown pier to board a replica of a colonial ship she seemed almost a part of the crowd. At several points along the way, reporters covering her progress were ahead of members of the royal household—inadvertently breaking the old rule that the press is kept behind.

At a reception for Jamestown festival committees, held at the reconstructed Williamsburg governor's palace, the Queen and Prince Philip in a wide arc through 1,200 guests, shaking hands frequently and smiling and talking. The prince, in fact, was so interested in talking with guests he dropped far behind the Queen, and when he tried to rejoin her found the crowd almost impassable.

"You need a snorkorn to get in here," he commented, pushing his way through. Back inside the palace, the Queen sat down briefly and sipped a sherry, while the prince had a scotch and soda.

The Queen's first gentle stab at humor drew a good laugh. The governor had prepared text from a balcony to a crowd of students and townfolk in the College of William and Mary yard, she commented that "It might surprise some of them, but I can say quite sincerely that I am very proud of the fact that this city here educated so many founders of your nation." Many of the country's foremost rebels, including Thomas Jefferson, were graduates of William and Mary.

The Queen's first response came at the formal dinner, when for the first time she started dabbing and made mention of her ancestor George III, who reigned when Virginia and the other colonies won their independence.

Reading her prepared text, sticking to her prepared text, "that there is a county in Virginia which bears the name of my king and queen from Elizabeth I to George III." Then she glanced up and interpolated: "Even George III."

British, American Scientists Disagree Over Sputnik Doom

WASHINGTON (AP) — British and American scientists disagreed today over whether the Russian satellite's carrier rocket is hurtling toward an early doom.

British astronomer A. C. B. Lovell and Harry Wexler, of Virginia, said, "I am convince something should be done to get the rocket very shortly."

Lovell, director of the Manchester-made radio astronomy station, said the carrier rocket will run into the earth's stratosphere layers and start breaking up by Friday or Saturday.

But in Cambridge, Mass., the head of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said Wednesday night it is impossible for the rocket accompanying Sputnik to come down in less than a year.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple said "It will stay up for at least two months," and that the satellite will remain in the sky longer than the rocket which propelled it there. Dr. Whipple said Russia's life expectancy could not be forecast at this time.

Meanwhile, Moscow radio reported that Sputnik has travelled about 4,750,000 miles in completing its 1750th trip around the earth Wednesday. The sphere has been aloft a month Thursday, it added.

A U.S. legislator who recently visited Moscow said Wednesday the Russians told him they are planning to fire a second satellite into outer space soon.

Democratic Senator Pastore, (Sen. Pastore, Conn.) also said the Russians are preparing to launch another rocket Wednesday during the rest of the International Geophysical Year, a world-wide scientific research effort running through the end of 1958.

Offer Still Good Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal government offer for the entire employment of some employees laid off by the pulp-and-power city still holds good, Transport Minister George Hees told the Commons Wednesday.

Mr. Hees was replying to a question.

The government offered last summer to finance the CNR in keeping on about 600 employees which the company was laying off in several cevites because of a drop in rail traffic. The plan fell through when unions involved could not agree on the operation of seniority provisions in contracts.

Arrest Two Men, No Connection With Slaying

FENELON FALLS, Ont. (CP) Two Toronto men face charges of breaking, entering and theft in connection with a summer cottage thefts in this district, 25 miles northwest of Peterborough, provincial police said today.

They were identified as John Earl Richmond, 36, and Clarence Hall, 34. Hall was arrested Wednesday by North York police in suburban Toronto. Richmond was arrested here following information from North York.

OPP Constable Ian Williams said the arrest of neither man has anything to do with the search for two men wanted for the slaying of bank manager J. J. Watson, 57, during a daring successful attempt last week to hold up the Royal Bank of Canada branch in the Northern Ontario mining-town of Blind River.

A Toronto report earlier today said a man was arrested here in connection with the Blind River holdup.

DIES RESCUING GIRL

Syrian Army Placed on Alert, May Mobolize

DAMASCUS (AP)—The Syrian army was placed on alert today as the cabinet was reported weighing general mobilization in the face of Turkish charges Turkey is planning to attack.

A government spokesman declared the army alert, but said it amounted only to a cancellation of soldiers' leaves. The spokesman denied an Egyptian Middle East News Agency report that full mobilization had been declared.

Troops would cancel all leaves and order all absent soldiers to report to their units. The Egyptian report was published in Damascus newspapers.

The spokesman said the officers whose leaves were cancelled a few weeks ago, then the orders were issued to call them back, has been reinstated The spokesman said no mobilization or even partial mobilization of the army has been ordered.

Premier-minister Adnan Kurat met with the acting foreign minister, Kalil Kallas, and delivered a report on the situation. Afterwards was understood the note denied the charges that Turkey plans any "premeditated action" against Syria.

ATTACKED PRIEST

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Furiott, 20, pleaded guilty Wednesday to breaking into a church and striking the parish priest over the head with a crowbar. Judge P. A. Poulsinos set the date for sentencing. Rev. Guy Schetagne required two stitches in a head wound.

Eisenhower At Airport To Welcome Queen, Prince On Arrival In Washington

Big Crowds Cheer Royal Couple at Williamsburg

WASHINGTON (CP) — Radiant, Queen Elizabeth brought greetings from "a friendly neighbor and, a staunch ally" on her arrival today for a state visit to the United States.

"I have come to the United States from Canada," she told President Eisenhower, "and it is as Queen of Canada that I bring you the warm greetings of a friendly neighbor and a staunch ally.

"I express it as you the friendship and respect felt by my peoples of every race and creed in the British Commonwealth of which Canada is a member."

TESTED IN WAR

Those ties, Eisenhower said, "have been tested in the crucible of war when we fought side by side."

The Queen and Eisenhower rode for nearly an hour through cheering throngs lining Washington's historic avenues, bound for the White House.

The Queen and Prince Philip were seated in the back of the bubble-top White House parade car with Eisenhower between them.

They waved smiling acknowledgement to the cheers of crowds that stood in deep ranks along the sidewalks. Prince Philip's acknowledgement of the cheers ran to vigorous gestures.

Close to 16th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, the Queen passed under the traditional V made by two huge fireladders with a sign overhead in huge letters, "Welcome Queen Elizabeth II."

Eisenhower's personal plane, Columbine, III, bearing the Queen from a triumphant visit to historic Williamsburg, Va., landed at National airport at 11:12 a.m.

The splash and color of full military and naval honors contrasted with the dull, gray autumnal day. But a light rain which had been falling earlier in the morning had stopped.

Eisenhower, hatless in grey, arrived at the airport in a limousine just five minutes before the Queen's plane came into view.

DRESSED IN BLUE

The Queen wore an afternoon dress of electric blue in heavy silk crepe. Over the dress Elizabeth wore a three-quarter length Yorkshire woollen woven to match the dress.

Prince Philip Does It With Smile But Quips Seen as War With Press

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)— Is Prince Philip carrying on a running war with the press during the Queen's North American visit?

He does it with a smile, but reporters and photographers are wondering if he overdoes it.

Prince Philip is such good copy —tall, good looks and relaxed informality. He's a man not upset at his little aides. Take the reaction Wednesday of his capital in Colonial Williamsburg.

The prince and the Queen were touring the Williamsburg Inn which has two classic misprints. There's a "gazebo" in the garden and "vinegar" instead of "parable" of the vineyard."

But it was the other—"printers have persecuted me with out cause" instead of "princes" — which evoked laughter and comment from Prince Philip.

"Very true words," he laughed.

At the Jamestown festival, Prince Philip talked to a man dressed 18th-century style who was locked in stocks inside a replica of the old James fort.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (CP) Queen Elizabeth leaves for Washington today after a happy, tumultuous visit in the land settled by her forefathers more than three centuries ago.

The Queen and Prince Philip take off in President Eisenhower's private plane from the nearby airport where they were greeted Wednesday by cheering crowds.

During their brief but busy stay they visited the historic sites where the early English settlers worked, lived and worshipped—and later fought for their independence.

THE ROYAL VISITORS

The royal visitors leave from Patrick Henry airport, where they arrived Wednesday from Ottawa. They will be met by the president at Washington National airport — a rare distinction for visiting dignitaries who usually are officially welcomed at the White House.

Friendliness and boisterous enthusiasm marked the welcome given by crowds estimated at more than 50,000 as the royal couple arrived to open their six-day U.S. visit.

The huge crowd at the airport shouted, "There she is," as the Queen stepped, smiling brilliantly from the BOAC Comet jet plane which carried the couple from Ottawa.

A 21-gun salute boomed out as the Queen waved to the crowd which had waited for hours in the Williamsburg, Va., area to welcome her.

She inspected a guard of honor, then told the vast throng that her only regret was that the visit here had to be cut short.

TOURS HISTORIC SPOT

Minutes later she stepped into a limousine for a quick tour of old Jamestown, the coastal area where 350 years ago adventurous Englishmen landed in three sturdy ships to establish the first permanent English settlement in the New World.

May Consider Supreme Court of Commonwealth

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Lord Gibson, chairman of the Scottish Land Court, said Wednesday the visit of the Queen to Canada made this an opportune time to consider setting up a supreme court of the Commonwealth.

It would have its central office in London but should sit as occasion required in Ottawa, New Delhi, Canberra, Kuala Lumpur, Capetown or Pretoria.

Such a Commonwealth court could have a powerful influence as a constitutional factor strengthening the fabric of the Commonwealth," said Lord Gibson, addressing the Law Society of Glasgow.

Druggists Hear Pharmacy Dean In Trade Talk

Members of the Quinte District Pharmacists' Association heard Mr. F. Newton Hughes, Dean of the Faculty of Pharmacy at the University of Toronto, as he addressed their fall meeting held Wednesday evening at the Shrine Club.

Hosts for the dinner, attended by approximately 40 druggists in the Quinte district, was the Drug Trading Company. Topic of Dean Hughes was, "The Changing Practice of Pharmacy. Mr. Bruce Lattimer introduced the speaker.

The speaker noted that we were living in an age when everything was changing faster than ever before.

This trend was also present in pharmacy, the speaker noting it was the duty of pharmacists and the college of pharmacy to meet these changes in the best interests of the public.

Pharmacists today were more highly developed professionally than ever before and never before was the universities education been at such a high level. Present day standards were introduced in 1948 had been 40 years overdue, according to Mr. Hughes.

BIG DISPENSARY CHANGES

Biggest changes in pharmacy had been in the dispensary, where modern drugs were being used in filling prescriptions. So rapid had been the change that 75 per cent of the prescriptions filled today could not have been filled in 1940.

Prescription business has increased, prescriptions were more effective and more lives were being saved, it was stated.

Mr. Hughes said there was a growing tendency for the pharmacist to be considered a partner of the medical man, the trend being for the physician to look more to the pharmacist as a consultant.

A closer association with the veterinarians in filling prescriptions for livestock diseases, was also forecast by the speaker.

The number of graduate pharmacists had kept pace with the increase in population but the trend was toward larger pharmacies, more employee pharmacists and fewer owner-operated businesses.

Guests at the meeting included H. M. Corbett, registrar of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Inspector Tom Greenfield, and Alf Watson and George Butler, representing the Drug Trading Company.

FLU IN MOSCOW

Many of Major Suggestions Of Commission Implemented

TORONTO (CP) — Walter L. Gordon, chairman of the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, said today many of the major suggestions of the commission have already been implemented.

Speaking to the Ontario Insurance Agents' Association, Mr. Gordon said: "Some people have asked me rhetorically whether I think our suggestions and proposals will be implemented.

"As a matter of fact some of the most important ones were implemented almost immediately.

Mr. Gordon said the commission's final report should be ready for the printers by the end of this year. He said it will contain the commission's views on subject of increased aid to the universities.

EVIDENCE NEEDED

"We have made many other suggestions and proposals in our preliminary report but we have not yet sought to call the support- ing explanation and evidence which is necessary in order for them to be considered thoroughly."

Text of his speech was issued to the press before delivery.

The Toronto chartered accountant said the terms of reference of his commission was "to present some forecasts of the economy for the next 25 years or so, and 25 years from now."

The commission made these forecasts on the premise that there will not be a world war of the magnitude of the last one, nor will there be a world war of lesser magnitude. Such a war would not adopt foolish policies that would hurt trade.

He did not expect the commission's forecasts would be borne out exactly by events.

TRENDS DEVELOPING

"However, there are certain broad trends which seem likely to continue or to develop.

"In the first place, it seems clear that Canada's population will continue to grow at a rapid rate."

Secondly, "Canada is no longer predominantly an agricultural country. According to the commission's forecasts, it will account for only about six per cent of the total output 25 years from now."

"Another trend which may have important implications is the extent and direction of our foreign trade.

"We should remember that the considerable volumes of Canadian exports to the United States is one of the great strengths in the Canadian economy and an important reason for our optimism about the long-term future.

"These increased exports will mean a tremendous growth in some of our resource industries, including oil and gas. . . ."

FINDING JOBS

LONDON (CP) — All but 3,000 of the 15,000 Hungarian refugees who settled in England after the Hungarian uprising last fall now are fully employed, says Dame May Curwen, chairman of the Hungarian department of the British Council for Aid to Refugees.

Hog Cholera At Leamington, 45 Pigs Killed

OTTAWA (CP) — An outbreak of hog cholera has been identified at a farm near Leamington, Ont., and efforts are being made to track down any possible spread of the disease, Agriculture Minister Harkness informed the Commons today.

He said the disease was clinically identified Tuesday. The Leamington herd of 45 animals was destroyed the same day.

The owner, whom Mr. Harkness did not identify, was paid compensation.

The minister said the hogs had been bought Sept. 26 at a community auction yard. The yard had been cleaned and decontaminated.

Federal officials also were trying to identify all recent sales of animals from the farm and of animals which might have come into contact with the herd. Those which were found would be tested for the disease.

Hogs in county herds were given anti-cholera serum.

Mr. Harkness said the last outbreak of hog cholera was between May and-December of 1952. It was hoped that the prompt action taken now would be successful in confining the present outbreak.

Would Not Use Word 'Liz' In Headline

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain's permanent Representative at the United Nations, said Wednesday he feels that American newspaper headlines describing the Queen as "Liz" are "a sign of affection." Interviewed on a television network, he said "i am sure that one could possibly object to that, although it is not a heading which would be used in Britain."

ARMY GROWS

BONN (Reuters)—About 10,500 new recruits moved into barracks today to bring the total strength of the West German Armed Forces to 118,000, the defence ministry said. Present plans envisage a total armed strength of 130,000 men by the end of this year and about 180,000 men by mid-1958.

CARMICHAEL. — In memory of Clara E. Carmichael, who passed away October 17th, 1950.
Sadly missed and fondly remembered sons
Brinan and Brought of you.
Sometimes a flower we pass
The further we are from you
And we say we love you more,
Or a silver lining in the clouds
When the sun is shining through.
—Ever remembered by Selma.

EGGLETON. — In loving memory of Clara E. Sprague Eggleton, who departed this life October 17th, 1952.
We say 'goodbye' but not for ever-
The call but summons you to
Our further home;
And we know it is not for the dark
Unknown we pass, but for the welcome meeting
With loved ones gone before, who wait one greeting
Living in God's Faith, we fear not death
But trust
Tis but the Gate of Life,
Sadly missed and will always be remembered by her brothers and sisters, nephews and nieces.

Suspend Train Crew

VANCOUVER (CP)—A second five-man crew was suspended by the Canadian Pacific Railway Wednesday for refusing to take a train through a union picket line at nearby Ioco.

The action was taken by the railway as the Oil, Atomic and Chemical Workers Union strike at the Imperial Oil Products refinery entered its 22nd day.

A CPR official said both crews are composed of a yard foreman, two yard men, an engine man and a fireman.

The union went on strike after the company rejected three contract changes recommended in a conciliation board award.

Little Hope Plumbers Will Accept Offer

TORONTO (CP)—The Master Plumbers Association Wednesday offered 2,800 striking Toronto plumbers a 65-cents-an-hour wage increase in a three-year contract but held little hope the offer would be accepted.

"If they don't take that we will throw up our hands," an MPA spokesman said. "They'll be out until after Christmas, and that goes for the entire construction industry."

The union has been on strike for about 10 weeks. It asked for 56 cents an hour with a one-year contract.

The offer was the result of a five-hour meeting in the office of Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and followed a meeting between plumbing contractors and Toronto general contractors.

French Author Gets Nobel Prize For Literature

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Albert Camus, a French moralist and one of the most contemporary critics of totalitarianism of all kinds, today won the 1957 Nobel Prize for Literature.

The 43-year-old author of The Plague and The Fall was cited for "his important literary production which with clear-sighted earnestness illuminates the problems of the human conscience in our times."

Camus was the second youngest author selected by the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature for the international prize. British author Rudyard Kipling was 41 when he was tapped in 1907.

Although The Plague and The Fall are his best known works in the United States, Camus himself claims to like best Man in Revolt, a major treatise on the philosophy of oppression through the ages.

A Communist himself for one year at the age of 21 in his native Algeria, Camus in this book sums up his later views thus:

"Every revolutionary ends as an oppressor or a heretic . . . revolt and revolution both wind up at the same crossroads: the policy or folly."

Vote to Set Up Corporation Within Synod

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The synod of Toronto and Kingston of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Wednesday voted to set up a corporation within the synod to guarantee money loans to its presbyteries.

The corporation will hold collateral on loans which have previously been secured by the presbyterial independently of the synod or the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Collateral for the corporation will be provided from a fund which will be built up from what Mr. McCullough described as free-will offerings, gifts and contributions.

Comptroller Says Union $14,000 In Arrears

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Richard Bauer, comptroller of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CLC) said Wednesday IUE local 599 was more than $14,000 in arrears on its per capita payments dating from 1953 to Feb. 20 of this year.

This is approximately the sum the Crown alleges is the difference between indicated and actual payments in records kept by Kenneth Soutter, former local 599 treasurer.

Bauer testified at the trial of Soutter in county criminal court on two counts of alleged theft of union funds. They are:

1. Converting $10,000 to his own use.

2. Failing to account for $9,000 in union funds.

Soutter pleaded not guilty to both charges and the trial now is in its second week.

EISENHOWER

The brilliant blue of Elizabeth's coat contrasted with the grey of Philip's suit.

A murmur arose from the crowd as the Queen descended the ramp and shook hands with Eisenhower, Mrs. John Foster Dulles, wife of the U.S. secretary of state, handed her a bouquet of two dozen red roses.

Wiley Buchanan, U.S. chief of protocol, presented Her Majesty to Eisenhower and then introduced Prince Philip.

"Welcome to Washington and the United States, Your Majesty" Eisenhower said to Elizabeth with a little bow from the waist.

IKE JOCULAR

Then he took the Queen by the elbow and gently pivoted her around for photographers.

Eisenhower gestured in the direction of the cameramen and said to the Queen: "That's the nearest thing we have to a dictator in this country."

They all enjoyed the quip.

The party smiled and chatted together, posed for pictures and then headed down the receiving line.

The Queen then stepped onto a railed platform to receive formal honors. The guard of honor came to present-arms and the band struck up the Queen's Birthday and The Star Spangled Banner.

In the distance a battery boomed out the 21-gun salute.

The Queen and Eisenhower inspected the guard and then stepped before a battery of radio and television microphones to exchange official greetings.

Eisenhower made a brief welcoming address and the Queen responded with a prepared remarks:

"Thank you for this kind and generous welcome. . . .

"I have come to the United States from Canada and it is as Queen of Canada that I bring you the warm greetings of a friendly neighbor and a staunch ally. I express to you the friendship and warm feelings of my people of every race and creed in the British Commonwealth of nations. . . .

"We are both looking forward to your visit to Washington and to New York. It is going to be a memorable experience for us. I am very sorry that we cannot visit other parts of this great continent on this occasion but I would like the whole American people, north, south, east and west to know how happy we are to be here and I send them all my warmest good wishes."

EAGER FOR VISIT

In his formal greeting Eisenhower said the U.S. had looked forward eagerly to the visit. He said it should result in "stronger, closer co-operation" between the

Workers Fear Radiation Danger

WHITEHAVEN, England (AP) Construction workers at the Calder Hall atomic power station have voiced fears over radiation dangers from a runaway plutonium pile.

The 1,500 workers, at a mass meeting Wednesday, turned down a call for an immediate strike at the plant but passed a resolution demanding an investigation to establish the plant is free from danger.

The atomic energy authority issued a statement saying neither radiation nor radioactive dust hazards are present around the nuclear factory next to Calder Hall.

The scare began Friday when some uranium cartridges overheated and sent a shower of radioactive iodine from the chimneys. The accident disabled the factory for months.

The Queen got another presidential assist, hand on elbow, as they came down the steps. Eisenhower followed her into the bubble-topped White House car for the motorcade ride into the city along Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues.

Philip climbed in behind Eisenhower and the two men began talking, with gestures, while the Queen was ignored for a minute. She peered through the plastic at the crowds and the participants in the welcoming honors.

Quickly, however, Eisenhower included the Queen in the conversation.

GENTLE RAIN RESUMES

Just as the motorcade pulled out, the rain which had been threatening all morning began falling gently.

The airport ceremony was only the first event of a rugged schedule that will keep the young Britain and Philip on the go until late tonight.

Oliver Bars Reaume, Wren From Caucus

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver announced today he will instruct the chairman of the party caucus not to invite two legislature members, A. J. Reaume and Albert Wren, to future meetings of the caucus.

In a statement, Mr. Oliver accused Mr. Reaume, member for Essex North, and Mr. Wren, member for Kenora, of disloyalty and insubordination."

He said he is recommending to the executive of the Ontario Liberal Association that a leadership convention be held in conjunction with the association's next annual meeting, set for April 18-19, 1958, in Toronto.

BARRED FROM TALKS

A party spokesman said the expulsion of the two members from the caucus means they will have no share in consideration of any party business and will be barred from discussion of any matters to be brought before the legislature by the Liberal opposition.

The Liberal opposition leader said: "I have been deeply concerned with the publication in the newspapers from time to time over the last two weeks of statements by two Liberal members of the legislature, bearing upon my position as leader.

"I have been especially concerned, as have other members of the Liberal caucus, by the fact that these statements have been given out in such a way that the assumption is they carry the support of a majority of the caucus members. This is entirely erroneous."

CBC DOES MAGNIFICENT JOB

The television coverage by the CBC of the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip to Ottawa deserves the highest praise.

Before the Royal couple arrived, Ottawa officials were quoted as saying that plans for press, radio and television coverage of the visit were "fantastic." As far as the TV coverage was concerned, events proved the overworked adjective almost merited.

The CBC is facing a rising tide of criticism these days, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that its critics, always vocal and not inconsiderable in numbers, are now generally believed to have gained the ears of some of those clothed with power. In other words, the overthrow of the Liberal government brought into office in Ottawa some who might conceivably agree with the main theme of the foes of the CBC - - that it is doing at the taxpayer's expense a job which could be done much better by private enterprise without costing the taxpayer a cent.

Whatever truth there may be in this argument with respect to some phases of the CBC operations, it would appear unlikely that private television concerns would have been able to afford to cover the royal visit on the ambitious scale conceived by the CBC, unless, of course, the coverage had been "sponsored." Surely no one will argue with the contention that interspersing scenes of the Queen's journey through Ottawa with advertisements would have detracted much from the presentation?

Nor did the manner in which performance measured up to planning provide any ammunition for critics of the CBC. At the technical level, the mastery of the CBC employees of the medium in which they work ought to provide Canadians with a glow of pride. The coverage was equal in quality to the historic importance of the event itself.

One wonders whether those in the CBC's "ivory tower" - - a favorite phrase of some of its critics - - foresaw the possibility of turning the Queen's visit into a convincing demonstration of one of the advantages of a state-owned and operated broadcasting commission. Or did they just plan the coverage without any realization of the fact that events had provided them with the perfect answer to much of the criticism?

In any event, it is worth noting that that segment of the population which is most likely to turn a sympathetic ear to pleas that private enterprise is being hamstrung by state competition is also precisely that segment of the population which includes those likely to be most impressed by the magnificent coverage given the Queen's visit.

HO! GUARDS

The manner in which Ottawa - - its residents and its visitors - - greeted the Queen and Prince Philip on Saturday can hardly have surprised those in charge of arrangements for the visit, for they were largely responsible for it. But it must certainly have surprised - - amazed would be the better word - - many of those in other Canadian centres who previously had never enjoyed that intimacy with royalty which the marvel of television brought into so many homes.

It must have been almost with a sense of shock that many viewers noted the close proximity of the crowds to the Queen and the Prince and the apparent complete absence of any security measures.

That some measures to safeguard her had been taken, that there were watchful eyes upon her and upon the spectators during every foot of her journey we do not doubt. Nevertheless, it was obvious that security measures were nowhere near as stringent as those enforced in most lands when dignitaries of much lesser importance pay a visit - - or even when the head of a state moves amongst his own people.

In a very real sense, here was the highest compliment which the Queen could pay Canadians. She moved among them as confidently as she would circulate at a palace party.

But it did cause some raised eyebrows, in living rooms across the nation, to see some enterprising Ottawa boys being permitted to escort the royal car on their bicycles, with an apparent effort by any of the abundant brass to restrain them.

Of course, the only possible hazard created by the bike-riders was to their own safety. But that they should not have been summarily checked in their wild rides provides proof of another surprising feature. Not only did security measures appear prominent by their absence; stuffiness was likewise non-existent.

It would be interesting to know what the Queen and Prince thought of their unofficial outriders.

Oh! just a few short months away,
She seemed a fairy queen.

Just like a blushing rose so fair,
It seemed that she was born

That all the world might brighter be;
Her task was to adorn.

But she is married now, and oh!
The past comes up and mocks;
The scene is changed; that fairy queen
Is darning hubby's socks.

Night Is Time of People

New York Times

It was a member of the Marine Corps speaking, and naturally no one chose either to interrupt or to argue. A social gathering too quickly can degenerate into a fracas, and, besides, of all the future guardians of heaven's streets, this was one of the biggest. Further, the statement had terseness, and the style of delivery had that unanswerable quality which can be imparted only by a good top sergeant. What he said could be put down immediately as basic law. "Eight p.m. to 4 a.m. is the time of people," he remarked. "Daytime is the time of machines." He did not say that daytime also is the time for birds, but that is what he meant. There was a moment's silence, as everyone waited for him to expand the thought, but he did not. Like a smart poker player, he stopped when ahead. In the words he had expressed a truism which has cost uneasy philosophers the writing of many a lengthy book. Those words, we think, will be very well guarded indeed.

As anyone knows who has stayed up for only a little while after midnight, the people are made for people. People are at their best then, cheerful, witty, amiable and agreeable. Even at almost any given instant like a sergeant of Marines. The days belong to talking things of machines. Consider the days, and all their list of sounds, rather than spirit, driven devices. At what seems some hours before the dawn of day there is no alarm clock, a vicious machine if one ever has been invented. Then comes the loud machine called a time clock. After that, the daylight hours are filled with machines, some of them ringing bells, some totalling up deficits, some making sensitive on the nervous system, turning it by evening into a patchwork of frayed strands.

Then there comes evening. Lucky it is that by human race that at the end of each machine-tortured day there is a time to start of the time of people. Some would, of course, set the beginning hour a bit earlier, say at 5 o'clock, or 6 or 7, but let the gentlemen of the Marines define it.

LIFE'S HIGH SPOTS

For a long time, before I had any understanding as to those charts that zigzag up and down showing the fluctuation in the stock market, I was amused, for I thought to myself that that is the way with life, our emotions, gains or losses, and a picture of what is going on all the time with us.

In a healthy market, when confidence is high the top peaks of the charts are like those with us when we are happy, or when we show a gain of knowledge and solid advancement in business, or our everyday life. Life's High Spots.

When the stock market is depressed those sharp peaks show losses and point down, but when high up, the peaks show healthy gains. We ought to get a lesson from those charts, we ought to think about the High Spots, and try to keep among them!

The High Spots in many of our lives are when love buds, when we are married, and children bless our home, and the many experiences that enrich our lives and give us happiness. Our life span mirrors these High Spots, which give us rest, hope, and often a bit measure of contentment and pride.

THE PACKSACK

Pictures on the wall seem to have a divine right to their position. In most homes, great and small, the same pictures usurp and hold the same places for as much as the entire lifetime of the householder. It makes a major decision and quite a lot of courage to oust a picture.

Even when the room is redecorated, it appears to be unthinkable that the big picture that has sat over the mantel for the past thirty years should not still hold back to its rightful position. New furniture can be bought, new carpets, new lighting fixtures. Out go all the old furnishings, without a qualm. But, oh, not the pictures. They has to go here, that has to go there, but they always look right if the pictures were changed.

Not that they are good pictures. As a matter of fact, some of the most arrogant of pictures have resolutely maintained their status though thirty years have passed, and are atrocious. But they have a dignity that somehow partakes of the

Personal Health Talks

Oxygen For Angina

William Heberden, physician and scholar of the eighteenth century, described what he called pectoris dolor (breast-pang), in 1818. The seat of the discomfort and sense of strangling, and anxiety with which it is attended, he wrote Heberden, may make it not improperly be called angina pectoris (angina derived from the Greek root meaning to choke). The pain, said Heberden, is sometimes in the upper part, sometimes in the middle, sometimes at the bottom of the breathbone (sternum), more often inclining to the left side and frequently extending down the left arm. The best he had to offer by way of treatment was "quiet and warmth, and spirituous liquors . . . opium at bedtime . . . I know one who set himself a task of sawing wood, for half an hour each day, and was nearly cured."

William Osler, physician and scholar of the nineteenth century, found, as did Heberden, that angina occurs about forty times as frequently in men as in women. Heberden had observed that "a very skillful anatomist" found the cause or fault in the heart, in the valves, in the arteries or neighborhood of the heart, and died suddenly of this disease, excepting some small rudiments of the valves, "of one sort". . .

A century later, Osler declared that "almost without exception the subjects of angina have arteriosclerosis" (there we have it again) "either general or localized at the root of the aorta" (the heart's tapered vessel) "in the coronary arteries" (the arteries that deliver blood to the heart muscle) "and in the myocardium" (the heart muscle). Mind, now, even though I appear about such equivocal language in what purports to be scientific medical literature, I still believe Osler as the greatest medical teacher this country has ever known.

William Brady, physician of the twentieth century, begs to state that all of the conditions Osler associates with angina are commonly observed at autopsy on persons who have never had angina.

Osler mentions four theories of angina:

1. That it is a neuralgia felt in the heart region.
2. Cramp of heart muscle.
3. Extreme tension of heart wall.
4. Transient ischemia of heart muscle, that is, insufficient blood delivered to the muscle, hence anoxia or oxygen deficiency.

The oxygen deficiency theory, says Osler (Osler's Practice of Medicine), was advanced by Allan Burns and revived by Potan and others.

That's more like it. Allan Burns, Potan and others make sense. In the light of our newer knowledge of physiology and pathology.

Suppose the individual subject to angina or any periodic fall of oxygen in the blood or character can avail himself of the benefit of nitroglycerin or not, when he feels earnest symptoms of tion for the emergency.

Sit down for life does and take two or four inflations. Belly breathing, that is. Of course you must know how to breathe, otherwise you may as well go holler down the rain barrel. Put your hand on chest is squeezed in a vise I might ask who said anything about the chest? With chest inflated belly breathing, remember?

Satellite Kindergarten

Ottawa Journal

In the brown building on the top of a hill on the north side of the highway at Shirleys Bay live the bloodhounds who track the satellites. Here, the young men of the radiophysics laboratory jumped into action the moment they heard the satellite had been launched. They put together their radio equipment, tuned in to the first wave length and there, immediately, was the Russian beeping away merrily.

It was quite a moment. The way they speak, you can hear them taking off their hats to their scientific friends on the other side of the Iron Curtain. On such occasions, even through the laboratory is one of the Defence Research Board and therefore associated with the military research, the knowledge and achievement makes international disputes take second place momentarily.

As seems proper the room in which the satellites are tracked is in what could be called the kindergarten class for satellites. It was well supplied with equipment. Those prepared to accept one type of signal, the light as a new miracle machine were a trifle taken aback when they heard and felt no more than a tape recorder. When played, the instrument recorded what the satellite transmitted back to the ground while breaking striking facts. And to the sonorous voice of the announcer in the sky the press contingent took its departure, wearied by its usual intelligent countenance.

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike and Liz Todd are set to rock the town tonight with their "intimate little party for a few friends."

Already the splurge in pink-Square Garden is sure to be remembered—for causing the wildest Broadway ticket scramble of the season.

"You'd think with 18,000 invitations to pass, everybody would be happy for once," reports host Todd. "Instead, about 60,000 people are peeved at me."

Besides those packed into the vast arena, television spectators will view 90 minutes of the festivities over the CBS coast-to-coast network starting at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

ANNIVERSARY OF FILM

The party is a salute to the first anniversary of the premiere of Todd's prize - winning film, Around the World in 80 Days.

Mrs. Todd, sometimes known as film star Elizabeth Taylor, baked confection 30 feet in diameter, 14 feet high, coated with pale blue icing.

The guests include a cluster of movie celebrities (Fernandel, the French star, is coming over from Paris just for the night), Texas Rangers and Australian beauty Queens.

Everybody has been asked to dress in evening attire.

The programmed entertainment includes a 74-piece symphony, Arthur Fiedler, a couple of circus elephants, a spectacle called Dancing Waters and a troupe of flown in from California.

The food menu includes 15,000 hot dogs, 10,000 Chinese egg rolls, 500 gallons of lobster, endless pizza pies, 15,000 doughnuts.

GIFTS FOR ALL

Gifts have been contributed to the party and Mike plans to make sure every guest gets at least one memento. Included are a a light airplane with flying lessons; a speedboat, a 44 - foot trailer; four or five American cars, three Italian cars and a half dozen motor scooters.

Todd previously entertained 3,000 people in a London amusement park, and 2,000 humans and 50 caged lions at Cannes to help celebrate Around the World.

The television rights, it is reliably hinted, were let for $300,000. Renting the Garden for the evening cost Todd $5,000 and he has also to foot the bill for the entertainers and other working personnel.

"But," a Todd lieutenant explains, "Mike is apt to make a buck out of it all."

Quinte Gridders Take Twin Bill From Picton CI

In the junior game, the Little Saints trampled Picton 47-12. Overcoming a 6-0 lead, Quinte scored three unanswered touchdowns to take the lead which they never relinquished. Locke, Hull and Follwell scored Quinte's majors while Weese picked up Picton's. Denyes booted two Quinte converts.

In the second half each team exchanged touchdowns. McNaughton scored Picton's final major while Denyes got Quinte's. Denyes converted his own T.D.

Morris, Fuller, Townsend and Buddle played superb defensive ball while Wardle, Locke and Hull were Quinte's best on offence.

In the senior game the Saints just pulled out a close 23-13 victory over Picton. At half time Quinte led by a 9-6 margin. Kerrulish with a T.D. and safely touch and Aquino with a rouge totalled Quinte's points. Picton picked up their major on a 24-yard run.

The second half was a different picture. Picton burst into the scoring with a pair T.D. pass and on a rouge by Greenwood. Quinte came to life late in the fourth quarter with Garrison picking up two T.D.s on 10 and 37-yard runs. Garrison converted one of his majors.

Picton threatened to burst the game wide open in spite of a powerful air attack, but fine defensive efforts turned in by Chard, Aquino, Garrison, Wilson and Jamieson prevented their further scoring.

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Albert Ross, 51, and his son Aime, 20, both of Sudbury walked out of the bush near here Wednesday after being lost for three days.

They said they ate partridges and kept warm by lighting camp fires during their ordeal in the dense bushland surrounding this uranium mining community 75 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie. The pair disappeared Sunday after going out partridge hunting.

64 European H.S. Students Go to Michigan

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of 64 European high school students arrived by ship Wednesday en route to Michigan where they are to spend the next 10 months absorbing American culture in Michigan high schools.

A similar group of Michigan students have left for European high schools in an exchange plan sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches.

The students are from Ireland, England, Holland, Germany, Austria and Italy.

CCF Govt. Hopes Federal Govt. Will Pay Cost

REGINA (CP) — A provincial CCF government is hoping that federal government will pay the entire cost of the long-discussed South Saskatchewan River irrigation and power dam.

Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines said Wednesday there is no indication what the Progressive Conservative government may propose as to the building of the dam. The throne speech at Ottawa said only that talks would be initiated with a view to an early start on construction.

But, said Mr. Fines, "the Conservatives did propose to build the dam themselves within six months of coming to office."

He said he hopes this means the federal government will be willing to go ahead without any contribution from the province.

Following parliamentary debates, a royal commission was appointed in 1952 to investigate the feasibility of the dam.

The commission report said the project would cost $250,000,000. An earlier estimate had set the cost at $103,000,000.

The project would irrigate 600,000 acres, doubling production throughout the Outlook area, 60 miles south of Saskatoon. Power installations would produce 435,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year.

DIEFENBAKER

Shortly before, Mr. St. Laurent himself had stressed the need for action against inflation to ensure that the benefit of promised increases in old age pensions would not be wiped out by rising prices.

The government intends to propose removal of closure from Commons rules "at the first opportunity," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

It would do so "to the end that Parliament will be restored to something of its ancient glory," he said.

"We have a tremendous responsibility in this Parliament to restore in the hearts of the people something of the prestige of Parliament."

HAS ITS PLACE

Closure had its place, "if properly used in order to prevent an unjustifiable action on the part of the opposition against the government of the day after a debate lasting for a very considerable period of time," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He was referring to the bitter pipeline debate last year in which the former Liberal administration imposed the closure rule at the outset.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement of government plans also included the setting up of a Commons committee to study the spread between what the farmer is paid and the consumer is charged for food products. If necessary a royal commission would be established. It was also planned to introduce legislation this session to "lay the foundation" for a program to stabilize agricultural prices.

Today the government still ask for an interim money supply to permit continued operation of government beyond Oct. 31. Parliament last spring did not have time to approve government spending plans for the full fiscal year and voted a five-month interim supply which expires at the end of this month.

START POLITICAL FRAY

Wednesday's debate, in which only Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Coldwell took part, initiated the political jockeying from which it likely is to continue through much of the session.

The Liberal leader's promise of support for the government speeded only non-confidence motions in the throne speech debate, which will occupy the early part of the new session. But it is believed unlikely that the Liberals will bring about the government's defeat and a resulting election before their new leader is chosen.

Mr. St. Laurent, with sarcasm and shading parts of his speech, said the new government had given Canadians a change in faces but not in policies. Much of the throne speech might have been written by a Liberal government.

People in the election June 10 on the slogan "it was time for a change," the government in his throne speech seemed "singularly reluctant to make important changes" in policies of the former Liberal administration.

Since taking office June 21, one member after another of the new government had "asserted he found little to change in the policies or administration of his department."

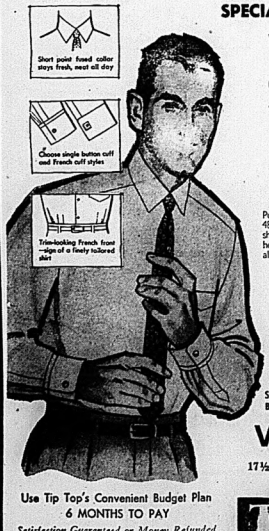
Defence Minister Pearkes had paid tribute to the efficiency of Canada's armed forces and indicated no fundamental changes in them.

CRITICS NOW PRAISE

"Two of the harshest critics of our (Liberal) administration" Transport Minister Hees and Postmaster - General William Hamilton, "seem to have gone out of their way to praise the departments over which they preside."

After criticising Liberal wheat marketing as an opposition member, Trade Minister Churchill, now handling that job, had been echoing the very words used about this problem by his distinguished predecessor, former Liberal trade minister C. D. Howe.

He dealt at length with Mr. Diefenbaker's announced goal of switching to the United Kingdom only 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States.



This could be accomplished, he said, only by high tariffs against the U.S., by state control of trading, or by trade measures freeing trade among Commonwealth nations. And the new government did not seem warm to that third choice as it was put forward by U.K. Chancellor of the Exchequer Thorneycroft in trade talks here.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in reply, twitted Mr. St. Laurent for having criticized the new government without putting that criticism into a non-confidence motion.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kenneth Jeffrey are shown following their wedding in First United Church of St. Thomas, Ontario. The bride is the former Amy Robinson Futcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson Futcher, of St. Thomas. Mr. Jeffrey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harold Jeffrey, of Belleville.

JEFFREY — FUTCHER

First United Church of St. Thomas, Ontario, was decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums and gladioli in autumn shades for the marriage of Amy Robinson Futcher to Roy Kenneth Jeffrey. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson Futcher, St. Thomas, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harold Jeffrey, Belleville. The Reverend R. B. Craig officiated.

Mr. Carl Edmonds presided at the console of the organ and rendered the wedding music. He also accompanied the soloist, Mr. James Wicher, Toronto, a finalist ing Stars of Tomorrow, award winner, who sang, "Be Thou With Me", "O Lord, Most Holy" and "Where E'er You Walk".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robinson Futcher, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of Monastery-made, corded silk, with classic bodice having a high "V" shaped neckline with small stand-up collar, and long, lily-point sleeves extending over the hands. The bouffant skirt was accented by molded hip pannlers, offset by bands of satin and bow-knot swept into a chapel train. A coronet of seed pearls held her fingertip-tip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white Shasta 'mums mingled with white stephanotis.

Mrs. Julien Martin, St. Thomas, as sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was gowned in sapphire blue velvet fashioned on empire lines, with fitted bodice having a scoop neckline in front and ending in a "V" in the back. The skirt was accented by empire drape and floating back panel. She carried a cascade of gold colored 'mums and pompoms, with matching headdress.

Miss Betty Jones and Miss Alli Saving, Toronto, and Mrs. R. MacDonald, Woodstock, as bridesmaids, wore gowns fashioned on similar lines to that of the matron of honor. They wore matching headdresses and carried similar floral cascades.

Mr. Donald Jeffery, Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, attended his brother while Messrs. Ronald MacDonald, Woodstock, Drury Denyes, of Belleville, and Allison Futcher, of St. Thomas, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church hall, where the bride's mother, wearing an imported French silk brocade with turquoise and gold tones, on a chamois background, with matching accessories, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother, attired in an imported gown of Dior blue peau de soie, with accents of Chantilly lace, assisted. She wore dusty rose accessories and a corsage of pink Briarcliffe roses.

For the wedding trip to Virginia, Florida and New Orleans, the bride donned an imported black wool suit with leopard jacket and blond mink collar, mink-toned and black accessories completed her ensemble. She wore a white gardenia corsage.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery will reside in Brockville.

Out-of-town guests attended from Cheyenne, Wyoming, Peterborough, Kingston, Guelph, Windsor, Detroit, Toronto, Belleville, Hamilton, Brockville London, Brighton and Trenton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a number of showers and parties: Mrs. J. Robinson Futcher entertained at a trousseau tea for her daughter, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Julien Martin. Receiving with Mrs. Futcher were the bride-elect and Mrs. Donald Jeffery, sister-in-law of the bridegroom elect. The bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. McKillop, entertained the bridal party at their home in London, Ontario, following the rehearsal.

A number of showers were held for the bride, including a "Round the Clock" shower, given by Mrs. Lloyd Fulton, Mrs. Robert Farley, and Miss Elaine Fulton. Neighbors of the bride entertained at a community party and shower at the Institute hall and Mrs. Stanley Lyle and Mrs. Ronald Medlyn held a buffet supper and shower.

In Toronto, college friends of the bride, Mrs. R. MacDonald, and Miss Alli Saving, were co-hostesses at a shower; also Miss Betty Jones and Mrs. Ivan Peterson, who entertained the bride to be at Fort Stanley. Business associates of the bride entertained in her honor in Brockville, where two showers were held, and a family dinner was held by Mrs. Julien Martin, at St. Thomas.

The bride is a graduate of MacDonald Institute where she received her B. H. Sc. The bridegroom is a B.S.A. graduate from Guelph Agriculture College.

LOCKE — FLEMING

CAMPBELLFORD — Baskets of baby 'mums decorated Trinity United Church in Hastings last Saturday afternoon for the couple ring ceremony at the wedding of Marjorie Isobel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fleming, to John Thomas Locke, son of Mrs. Helen Locke and the late Henry Locke. The Rev. T. Lindsay officiated.

During the signing of the register, Miss Muriel Heagle of Campbellford, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Donald Pollock.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Alencon lace and nylon chiffon featuring a bateau neckline with fitted bodice and a full bouffant skirt, emphasized by a straight panel of lace over satin. Her fingertip veil was gathered to a headdress of braided mohair entwined with pearls. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

Mrs. Mel Merrill, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a waist-length gown of periwinkle blue embroidered lace over satin, with a bolero-type jacket over a fitted sheath of lace. Her matching headdress of periwinkle blue was nylon chiffon covered with sequins.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Bernard McDonald who was similarly attired in a waist-length gown of blue embroidered net over satin with a bolero-type jacket. Her skirt was emphasized by Dutch ruffles. Both attendants carried bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Linda Fleming, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a short dress of yellow net over taffeta with puffed sleeves and Peter Pan collar. She carried a basket of pink 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Ted Grills of Napanee. The ushers were George Fleming of Hastings and Gerald Locke of Campbellford.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of dusty rose lace over taffeta, with matching hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Later the bride and bridegroom left on a trip to the west. For travelling the bride chose a grey tweed sheath with a blue feathered hat and matching gloves. Her corsage was of pink carnations. On their return, the couple will live near Campbellford.

Prior to her wedding the bride was entertained at a surprise shower given by the Women's Club of Campbellford. Mrs. Bernard McDonald gave a kitchen shower at the home of her mother, where she received many useful gifts. Mrs. Ellis Fulcher entertained with a luncheon and shower at the home of Mrs. Manse Shaw.

Chief Operator On Pelee Island 24-Hour Job

To fill the position one has to know who's boxing on Friday night, how much sugar is needed in a cherry pie and who won an election in 1882.

Mrs. Buster Williams has a fund of information, but she admits she sometimes gets stuck for an answer, as chief operator of the Pelee Township Municipal Telephone Company.

She has been the centre of the telephone communication system on this island in Lake Erie for more than a year. One of her duties is to keep an ear on the life and property of the 400 residents.

NOT MUCH REST

"It's a 24-hour job," says Mrs. Williams. On many nights, she gets less than four hours' sleep.

Her busy time is during summer, when she can expect calls at any hour of the day or night. Two or three 'emergency' calls may come in at once—meaning anything from an injury in the stone quarries to a stranded fishing party.

Then there are calls for residents or persons vacationing on the island. In August alone—the switchboard handled some 1,670 long-distance calls.

Karmen, her eight - year - old daughter, is proving helpful. Although she can barely reach the switchboard, Karen can handle long distance calls like a veteran operator.

Mrs. Williams says there's only one real snag in the job—she sometimes doesn't see her fisherman husband for several days.

She has been mapping out a work schedule which would give her one week at the office and a week at home, using a second operator.

That would mean, she says, that Mr. Williams would have at least half of his meals cooked for him.

Topping The Costume

By TRACY ADRIAN

Mr. John, one of our most fabulous milliners, has decided to give the younger set a break with some fascinating hats that will give fall costumes that much added zilch.

This is one that is certainly the perfect complement to a new outfit. It is a breton with an interesting silhouette made of cafe au lait brushed beaver and the hat is trimmed around the outer brim in royal blue satin. A matching royal blue satin bow adds a perky look.

Swaps Life of Editor To Be Wife of Fisherman

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — An elegant Englishwoman, formerly co - editor of a glossy magazine, will shortly become the wife of a Breton fisherman.

For Mrs. Hero Kanis it will mean leaving her London home with its comforts and works of art to live in a large unheated stone cottage on the Ile de Sein, off the coast of Brittany.

The island has rough cobbled roads and lacks proper sanitary facilities. Electricity is not switched on until the evening.

Mrs. Kanis, a 46-year-old widow who has been married four times, says she fully appreciates what she is letting herself in for when she marries 23-year-old Jean Noel Fouquet.

"Home comforts won't be the same as they are in London," she says. "But I shall make the most of what there is and Jean Noel doesn't expect me to be wholly domesticated."

SOME CONCESSIONS

A striking-looking woman with deep-set hazel eyes and brown hair touched with grey, Mrs. Kanis says she has decided several concessions from her future husband.

For one thing, she won't do any housework, enabling her to devote her time to writing and fishing. Then, too, the couple will live on the island for only eight months of the year, spending the rest of the time in London.

The couple met last summer. In April, Mrs. Kanis saw an advertisement seeking a crew for a ketch sailing to Tahiti and decided to join it. But the boat had to put in for repairs at Auderne, Brittany, and it was there Mrs. Kanis met Fouquet.

"Jean Noel took me to visit his island," she says, "and when my boat was ready to move on I was reluctant to go."

She left the ketch when it reached the Canary Islands to return to Fouquet and later the couple sailed back to Britain in a fishing smack on a rough voyage which nearly cost them their lives.

Later, Fouquet went home and Mrs. Kanis returned to her London flat. "But we found we missed each other terribly," she says, and now we have decided to marry in December."

After a registry office wedding, Mrs. Kanis, who has a 27-year-old son, Mark, and a 19-year-old daughter, Victoria, says she will get ready to take up her new life.

"My children have no objection —they just want me to be happy."

She will leave her chic clothes behind in London and just take practical sweaters and slacks to the island she describes as "barren as a rock." It is 1½ miles long and one-half mile wide with a population of 1,446. The people are tough and sour and the nearly all wear black. Mrs. Kanis says this is in memory of a cholera epidemic which took members from every family in 1888.

THE IMPORTANCE OF MAKE-UP FOUNDATION

Illustrated by Mary Frances Goodwin

Cream foundations are excellent if skin inclines to dryness.

Fifty years ago, women who powdered their noses were considered daring to the point of dishonour. But thanks to the few who defied convention through pasty veils of rice powder, complexion make-up is now an essential aid to the well-groomed female of '57, who can run a cosmetic gamut from tinted cream and liquid foundations to compressed powders and face powders, without raising so much as an eyebrow.

Cosmetics, so delicately textured they'll blend into the skin, highlighting it without ever appearing powdery or mask-like, make it almost impossible for modern women to face the world with muddy complexions. For instance: Compressed powder, a combination "medication and veil" that's applied dry with a puff. As it's a complete make-up in itself, it should be worn next to the skin and not over a tinted liquid foundation. "Pan-cake" stick [illegible] and "perfect" [illegible] that probably [illegible] best to apply.

A tinted cream or liquid foundation takes a little more elaborate preparation to apply — but once on, that peaches and cream complexion is yours! Either can be worn with or without face powder — the latter is primarily called on to give the skin a "mat" effect if you prefer it to a dewy look.

It pays to take a little time when you're applying a liquid foundation. Use your fingertips and feather it up into your hairline, smooth it under your jaw and down your neck as far as the eye can see. Buff it lightly with a tissue then smooth on a matching face powder, if you like.

Cream or liquid foundations are particularly appealing if your skin is inclined toward dryness. A sallow complexion will glow if you use a make-up base tinted peachy pink. A beavier cream foundation becomes a splendid cover-up for dark circles under the eyes; also for minimizing blemishes, enlarged pores and unpleasant skin conditions. A light coat of foundation helps keep skin soft in cold, blustery weather, too. Something to think about in the days ahead!

Women's Institute

ELDORADO-BANNOCKBURN

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Brenson on Tuesday afternoon with a fair crowd in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Pigden, opened the meeting.

Business dealt with. It was decided that a quilt and other articles be made by the Lady family who lost their home and its contents by fire. It was also decided that Mrs. C. Blackburn assisted by Mrs. J. Thompson, would go to District Area to be held in Belleville, October 21st-22nd.

Mrs. C. Blackburn had charge of the program. She read a poem "Sympathy". Mrs. Kenneth Bateman had a demonstration on table decorations. A reading by Mrs. R. Empey "Work To Do and Strength To Do It". Mrs. C. Blackburn read a poem on "Thanksgiving". After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the hostess and a half hour enjoyed by all.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Evelyn G.—Mother really gets on your nerves.

Mrs. M. G.—She's always fussing at me.

Evelyn G. — I am a career woman, single and in my mid-40's. I had lived alone in a city not far from my home community until recently when I invited my widowed mother to come stay with me.

The reason I had mother come was because she couldn't get along with my brother and sister-in-law with whom she had been living. She told me they were treating her very badly and had made her quite miserable.

Well, now that I've had her for a few months I can understand what they were up against. She can really get on your nerves. She talks constantly — always nonsense — she is sloppy around the house and has no consideration at all. I could forgive it all if she was suffering from old age, but she is just 60 and in excellent health.

Mrs. M. G. — When I tell my children I want to live alone and not be dependent on anyone, they both set up a big howl. They don't like it. I have my own money and I'm in good health, but they insist it's dangerous for me to live alone.

Everyone seems to think I'm a sex woman and good-natured — everyone except my children, of course. I have never been accused of sloppiness by anyone except my daughter. She is a typical old maid, always fussing about this and that. If I read the papers, she can't stand the rustle. If I leave my pocketbook on the dining table for an instant, she is after me about my sloppiness.

My son says he wants me to come back and live with him, but I know it will be the same thing all over again — with him and his wife picking on me.

The Council: When someone can't stand the rustle of someone else's newspaper or is driven frantic by that somcon's personal habits, it's just a way of saying, "I wish you weren't around me just now". Most of us will put up with some fairly offensive behavior from the person we want to live with.

Of course, even happily married couples sometimes get into the "I-can't-stand-what-you're-doing-with-your-knuckles" mood but if things get to the point where they feel that way most of the time, it is generally considered things have come to a serious pass.

We can't see why Mrs. M. G. should put up with this kind of situation if she has the ability to get out of it. Her children want to do the right thing, but they do not really want to live with her. There is no reason why she should have to suffer the hurt her children feel from stabs of guilt at having left her alone.

Mrs. M. G. would be wise to take things into her own hands. She should find a nice place to live, possibly with a woman of her own age or a couple who would like her company. When her children "set up a big howl," she should just rustle her newspaper and plunk her pocketbook on the dining table and an inch on the dining table and announce that as long as she is healthy and has the means, she intends to live as she likes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SEASON'S FASHIONS COOPERATIVE TO BRIDE-FOR-SECOND-TIME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This wedding is planned for January. It is the second marriage for both the prospective bride and groom, and each has grown children.

1. What would be the correct dress for the bride to wear (not a suit), for a four-o'clock wedding and a dinner following the ceremony, about six o'clock?

2. Since there are to be many guests of the groom, friends of his whom the bride does not know (and more than she could telephone), would it be acceptable to send informal hand-written notes of invitation?

3. At the party should there be a set form of greeting the guests by both families? If so, how should this be done? — J.C.

1. This season's fashions are indeed a good and cooperative friend for the bride-for-a-second-time in wear to her afternoon wedding. She may choose a fine-quality of cotton or taffeta or brocade in a shade very becoming to her, but please, not one too-light; perhaps one of the soft, rich jewel or stained-glass-window shades so fashionable today. The simple and more dignified the design of the dress, the more appropriate and smart; not floor-length and of course not too short. A small, smart, becoming hat, of the same or harmonizing shade; and other accessories most carefully chosen. She should choose her costume to be appropriate for the ceremony, and appropriate too (with or without small hat) for the informal dinner to follow.

2. It will be not only "acceptable," but in the very best taste for the bride-to-be to write cordial notes of invitation to her relatives and friends of the groom.

3. The most convenient procedure for the greeting of the guests is the traditional receiving-line. First in line the bride's mother; then bride's father (if he wishes); groom's mother (and groom's father if he wishes); then bride and groom (bride at right of groom); then bride's attendant. After all the guests have been greeted by the members of the receiving-line, the bride and groom lead the way to the place where the dinner is to be served.

BETTER NOT ASK FOR THE RECIPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is my face red! Last evening my husband and I went to dinner at the home of very food friends of ours, and the hostess served the most delicious casserole dish I have ever tasted. As she was serving it, she said, I'll hope you and Bill like this — it's a specialty of mine." My husband and I certainly did like it, and most enthusiastic things about it. Then I asked her for the recipe. And that, I guess, was my error. As she entirely ignored my request, changed the subject, and did not mention it again even when we were leaving. To say that I was embarrassed is certainly an understatement. Was I so very much in the wrong to make this request? My husband insists I was. Was our hostess rude? I think she was, but my husband thinks she wasn't, that she had a perfect right to do what she did. Should I have apologized, or should I now apologize? Please set me straight about this. — Reader.

Your husband has already "set you straight" about this . . . and I completely agree with his point of view about this situation. I too think you were in the wrong to ask for this recipe . . . particularly when the hostess had so definitely told the casserole was a "specialty" of hers. I should say that most women who have de- . . . she was just wisely silent. It was less attention-calling that you did not apologize, and I advise you don't apologize now. The less said, the better . . . but learn your perfect right to do what she did!lesson!

Quinte W.I. Members Discuss Women's Role as Citizens

JOHNSTOWN — The Bay of Quinte Institute held their October meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. VanSchepen on Thursday evening with 21 for lunch.

The president, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, was not able to be present, so the first vice-president, Mrs. Clayton Curtis, took the chair, opening in the usual manner. The roll call was announced and a question "What can I do to help our teacher?" was asked. The members felt that the most important thing was to stand behind the teacher. During the business session a donation was made to the blind. Delegates to the Women's Institute Convention held at Belleville on October 21 and 22 are Mrs. Alva Meyers and Mrs. Floyd Sandercock's alternates, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson and Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Curtis said she was happy to see so many visitors out and thanked Mrs. VanShepen for the use of her home. The meeting was then turned over to the convener of citizenship and education, Mrs. Alva Meyers.

She opened with a sing song. A paper on citizenship was given by the convener. What can women as citizens really accomplish in a community? 1. Attend school board meetings, rate payers' meetings, and council meetings. 2. Have book reviews at meetings. 3. Have more exchange letters with those of other countries. Try to make Canada a better place in which to live by boosting all forward movements. 4. Make more study of a woman's duty as juror. 5. Any law being put through parliament which one does not believe in should be referred to the local representative. Anything a person thinks is not right on radio and television, write in about it, as they won't know how listeners feel unless they are told. As institute members, all should teach their children the three "R's". Respect, Reverence and Responsibility.

Three fine musical selections were given by the VanSchepen family and Mr. DuVries, with the latter playing the accordion and Harold and Jolie VanSchepen playing guitars and all singing, with their mother and sister joining in.

A reading by Mrs. R. Ketcheson "South's Pies to Go Slowly". A paper was then read by Mrs. Meyers on Education. "In the broad sense, education and its branches take in the entire history of mankind, and bear directly upon the entire culture of a people. Living standards, politics, production, contributions, in fact, all phases are influenced by education" she said. In addition to general culture, purposeful education also implies a perparation for life, for the individual's role in society as a worker and as a citizen and for the worthy use of his leisure time. Education may be divided into several categories, philosophical, religious, physical, intellectual, esthetic and technical.

MUSICAL PERIOD

A couple of selections were then given by the musical five, the VanSchepen family and Mr. DuVries — New Canadians. Mr. A story of "Thanksgiving" was read by Mrs. Meyers. Then, taking a lamp shade made of cloth, she renewed it by painting it with a paint, making it look like leather. She also told them she had put the same wine paint on her chesterfield and one chair and turquoise on the other chair and she was very proud of them.

Mrs. John Reid gave a reading "The Queen Opens Parliament" followed by "God Save the Queen".

Mr. Harold VanSchepen of Bowmanville, who works for K.L.M. Royal Dutch Air Lines very kindly brought movies and spoke of Holland and the Mediterranean. Mr. VanSchepen asked the ladies to make a guess when the Dutch Air Line started. Mrs. R. Ketcheson and Mrs. Vera Sine won overnight bags as a prize, because they guessed nearest the right answer. Mrs. John Reid thanked Mr. VanSchepen for his lovely pictures and all for helping in making the meeting so interesting.

Mrs. Ernest Curtis brought 10 large watermelons to make money out of for the institute. Harold and Jolie VanSchepen acted as auctioneers causing much merriment and selling them for a nice sum. The gracious hostess and conveners provided a nice lunch with all enjoying a sociable half hour.

Blouse Beautiful

No matter the trend of fashion in fabric, lace is always part of the picture. Paris likes her filmly laces and every designer tries to work out an outstanding lace fashion. The choice of Pierre Balmain for a very beautiful blouse is wispy, filmly, black Chantilly lace which he poses over rose organza. The sleeveless lace shirtwaist could be the making of any afternoon suit, or, with a beautiful skirt, to shine for "little" evenings.

At a dinner given by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his wife, Queen Elizabeth wore this gleaming necklace of rubies, pearls and diamonds and matching earrings, the wedding gifts of her mother and the late King George VI. Custodian Glad To Get Rid of Little Black Box

The box contains sketches and photographs of Queen Elizabeth's North American wardrobe. For the last four days, Mrs. Baird has been custodian of the box and first-peeker at sketches of new royal costumes for Canada.

The American outfits are still secret, held with a double lock in the wooden, leather - belted box. Details of the Queen's costumes customarily are not released too far in advance.

"I'd never been confronted with anything so much like dynamite," says Mrs. Baird, member of the special government committee's newsroom set up for the royal visit here.

Descriptions of the Queen's wardrobe for each occasion were first relayed—by number—from the Queen's press secretary, Mrs. Baird said in an interview.

Mrs. Baird then raced to the locked room, selected the sketch and photo from the number given her and got the description ready for release to the press.

Actress Ready To Battle for Child's Custody

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Marie Wilson, driven to tears by the prospect of losing the baby girl she wants to adopt, says she will fight to retain custody.

"I'm just as much that baby's mother as she is," the blonde movie star said Tuesday. "We've taken this child into our home and she's in our hearts, and always will be.

"She is like our own child now."

The baby's mother, a 21-year-old unmarried college student, said she had a "change of heart."

Marie's husband, television producer Bob Fallon, said he began negotiating with the mother for adoption of the child last January. He said he met her through a mutual friend.

"We talked it all over—the baby's mother and her mother," Fallon said. "They discussed it with my lawyer and they both agreed that adoption was best for the child."

Fallon said the mother later signed a paper letting us have possession of the baby," who now is 3½ months old.

"Two weeks ago," Fallon said, "the baby's mother got word from the county bureau of adoption to appear to sign legal papers for adoption. She decided then that she wanted the baby back."

Loew's President Wins Control Of Company

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph R. Vogel, president of Loew's, Incorporated, has won control of the world's largest motion picture company.

Vogel's victory over a group of opposition directors led by Joseph Tomlinson of Toronto came at a special meeting of Loew's stockholders Tuesday.

Vogel had called the showdown meeting.

The company president and directors allied with him succeeded in electing nine of the 10 new board members they had nominated. Vogel now has a 13-to-6 majority on the board.

More than 7,100 stockholders of the 26,000 with holdings in Loew's common participated in this climax to one of the bitterest proxy fights in corporate movie history.

SHOUT DEMANDS

The meeting was punctuated by stockholders who shouted demands to be heard from the floor and calls for points of order.

Vogel's victory was signalled when the stockholders overwhelmingly endorsed his proposal to increase the board to 19 members from 13.

The only new member of the 19-man board who is sympathetic to Tomlinson's faction is Samuel Briskin, a former Paramount Pictures Corporation producer. The Vogel-backed director who failed to win election was 2nd head of the MGM Studio.

Tomlinson had gone to the courts seeking to prevent Vogel from holding Tuesday's meeting on the ground that proxies were invalid.

The courts ruled the meeting must be held.

Tomlinson and his group have been dissatisfied with the company's earnings since Vogel became president a year ago. Vogel contends a long fall in profits began with his predecessor, Nicholas B. Schenck, who is no longer with Loew's.

Geologists Seeking Natural Gas on Lake Erie Bottom

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Geologists are attacking the shallow bottom of Lake Erie in what is believed to be the first large-scale over-water search for natural gas in Ontario.

And they're not worried about competition from western natural gas destined to flow into the province via the Trans - Canada pipe line. The theory is that there's a ready market for all the gas that can be produced.

Long Point Oil and Gas Limited, with capital of $1,000,000, holds extensive leases for off-shore drilling along a 100 - mile stretch of the Lake Erie north shore between Port Dover and Crystal Beach. This is the "under-side" of the Niagara Peninsula, where the company will sell whatever gas it is able to find.

WITH DRILLING BARGE

Last weekend, tugs towed into position a mile off the Crystal Beach district a drilling barge that lifts itself on three hydraulic legs 10 feet above the water. The rig was built by the Port Colborne Iron Works Limited.

The firm hopes to bring in its first producing well about the end of October or early November. Under the terms of the leases, drilling can't be undertaken any nearer than 1,000 feet of the Erie shoreline.

Other attempts have been made to find natural gas by over-water exploration on the Great Lakes but none is believed to have been successful. The Long Point project at any rate is the first for the northeast coast of Erie.

There already are natural gas wells at Point Abino, nine miles east of Port Colborne. The underwater gas would be fed into the same three-inch pipe that carries the Abino gas to Niagara region consumers.

STURDY RIG

P. S. Bazett, Long Point general manager, said the drilling barge can work in up to 35 feet of water. It can withstand winds of 80 miles an hour and waves at 20. It weighs 40 tons—without the gear that goes with it.

Mr. Bazett said the man-made island has living quarters permitting round - the - clock operation. There are bunks and showers, refrigeration for foods and electric stoves. A 48-foot workboat is used for commuting.

The company expects to drill into a pay zone between 850 and 900 feet down. The lead-in to the Pounth Abino feeder line would be underwater all the way.

Long Point said it hoped to drill a second and maybe a third well in the leased area before the end of the year.

Span of Alaska Highway Bridge Collapses and Centre Section Sagging Dangerously

TAYLOR, B. C. (CP) — The largest bridge on the Alaska Highway was impassable today after one big span already collapsed and the centre section sagging dangerously.

The 465-foot northern end of the $4,000,000 suspension bridge tumbled 100 feet into the Peace River Wednesday, disrupting travel on the 1,500-mile Alaska Highway.

An army engineer said the 930-foot centre section of the suspension bridge was sagging and "could go anytime." The North-west Highway System, manned by the Canadian Army, maintains the highway and its 133 bridges.

Shifting clay and sand around the 25,000 - ton northern anchor caused the collapse. The bridge was built in 1942 by the United States Army.

As a crowd of some 3,000 persons watched, the anchor began to tilt as loose soil gave way and the span fell, taking with it most of the northern approach. No one was hurt.

Road blocks were put up by soldiers who detoured traffic to a small ferry 20 miles downstream.

"It came down with an awful crash," said Chuck Madrack, news editor for radio station CJDC at Dawson Creek, B. C., 40 miles to the southeast.

"About half the span fell on the river bank and the rest in the water. The steel superstructure was crushed like an accordion."

Madrack, who was walking under the northern span only two minutes before it fell, was stranded on the northern bank of the river by the collapse but managed to get to the south side by walking across a narrow bridge 200 feet downstream carrying the Westcoast Transmission natural gas pipeline.

Madrack said the centre span, held up by two 190-foot cable towers, appears "pretty solid" but "it's sagging and the engineers expect it to come down pretty soon."

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)— Officials of the Dawson Creek airport commission say an airlift to the North will be necessary following the partial collapse of an Alaska Highway bridge near Taylor, B. C.

The commission Wednesday sent a telegram to Transport Minister Hees asking aid in improving the airport here so it might handle larger planes. The only airport in the area where large planes can land is at Fort St. John, 40 miles north of Dawson Creek on the Alaska Highway, which was cut Wednesday when one span of the bridge collapsed.

Dawson Creek is the northern terminus of the Northern Alberta railways and the southern terminus of the Alaska Highway. A large amount of supplies are transferred at Dawson for further shipment north on the Alaska Highway.

Post of Speaker Offered Knowles By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker offered Stanley Knowles the post of Speaker of the Commons but the deputy CCF leader turned it down.

Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday confirmed in the Commons he made the offer to the recognized authority on parliamentary rules and member for Winnipeg North Centre, but denied a report that he offered the Speakership on a permanent basis.

The acknowledgement of the offer came as the prime minister replied to Irvin Studer (L—Swift Current-Maple Creek) who asked whether Mr. Diefenbaker had asked the "Socialist" member to take the job on a permanent basis.

"Categorically, no," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "There was no offer . . . to be Permanent Speaker."

ASKED TO WITHDRAW

Later in his reply he added: "I asked him whether, because of the fact that he was regarded as an authority on parliamentary rules, he would allow me to place his name in nomination and if he were chosen by the House of Commons, would he accept the appointment?"

Mr. Knowles offered no comment and his correspondence was tabled. However, it is understood Mr. Knowles has no objection and that the correspondence may be tabled later.

Mr. Diefenbaker's reply to Mr. Studer's question was made with Roland Michener, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto St. Paul's and now Speaker, sitting in the chair.

The prime minister said that he believes action should be taken to bring a higher degree of authority in the Speaker which would be above partisan consideration. He has urged the appointment of a permanent Speaker.

Horse Still Filling Key Role In Pulpwood Harvest Being Gathered in Far Northland

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) —The horse, almost vanquished on most fronts by the march of mechanization, still fills a key role in the pulpwood harvest near this paper millstown.

When timber-cutting operations are at their peak, the Abitibi Power and Paper Company uses about 500 horses in the woods, as many as it did 30 years ago before giant trucks and tractors came into the picture.

However, production figures indicate that even here the horse is losing ground. The pulpwood harvest last season was more than a double what it was in 1926-27.

Once the horse was the motive-power king of the woods. He skidded logs from the cutting areas and then hauled them to lakes and streams to be floated to the mill here, 35 miles north-east of Timmins. Now his job in this area is only in the woods, skidding single logs to roadside skidways or piles where mechanical equipment takes over.

In late winter giant diesel trucks and trailers haul up to 74,000 16-foot logs a day, some from the nearest waterside, some directly to the mill. In hauling season, they roar night and day over a 133-mile system of all-weather roads and another 250 so miles of bulldozed roads used only in winter when frozen muskeg and the normally soft muskeg solid.

To old time bushmen, water was the only economic means of transporting "the long distance" in the woods; the economic cutting range with horses was three miles from water sites. The 4,300-square-mile Abitibi limit reached the three-mile stage 35 years ago.

Advent of tractors stretched the range to 10 miles from water. Abitibi lengthened that first by building of its own railway. By 1954 when the railway line was abandoned and converted into a gravel road, it stretched 35 miles north of Iroquois Falls with temporary branches running to cutting areas in the woods.

Now the company hauls with diesel trucks and trailers and woods manager Hulme Stone says the economic hauling distance is "virtually unlimited."...

Each unit in the fleet of 51 trucks and 46 trailers carries 10 to 14 cords of pulpwood a trip. They are loaded and unloaded by hydraulic grapples designed and built in the company's machine shop here. Each grapple will pick up as many as 28 16-foot logs at a lift.

"Right now we're operating 25 miles from water," says Mr. Stone, a native of Chatham, Ont., who took up woods work at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where his father was senior judge of Algoma district for many years. "Now we can harvest logs from any part of the limit."

The horse still hauls in the woods because of the nature of the timber stand which has 3,000 or more trees to the acre with only about one - tenth mature enough for harvesting. Mechanized devices damage the immature trees. The horse does less damage and facilitates a faster start on another crop.

Horses on the limits are in good condition, reflecting good care, ample food and comfortable stables. A veterinary makes periodic inspection trips to check on their health.

Authorities Doubt Britain Has Harnessed H-Bomb

Militia Training Will Emphasize Civil Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence minister Pearkes said Wednesday that since Oct. 1 the emphasis in Canadian militia training has been on civil defence rather than on "some phoney glamorous role that no longer exists."

Questioned in the Commons by former fisheries minister James Sinclair (L — Coast-Capilano) as to what "phoney glamorous role the militia has had in the past," Mr. Pearkes said he had not suggested, that it had.

The minister had been asked by William M. Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) when the reserve army would go on to civil defence training.

It would be more, Mr. Pearkes added, that there really was no change in the militia's role. "Part of the emphasis during the coming year will be on civil defence."

This may not be as glamorous as some roles it has had in the past, but I have no doubt that the militia will continue to be as patriotic as it has been in the past and will not seek to perpetuate some phoney glamorous role that no longer exists."

When Mr. Sinclair pressed him on the reference, Mr. Pearkes said he had not suggested militia roles in the past had been "phoney" or "glamorous," but "there might be roles in the future which would not be practical."

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian atomic energy authorities say they doubt that Britain has made any real breakthrough in attempts to harness the hydrogen bomb for peaceful purposes.

They were commenting Wednesday on a London Daily Express report that three scientists, including one from Canada, produced a controlled thermonuclear reaction in a Harwell atomic energy research laboratory—an H-blast in a test tube.

The Canadian was identified as 35-year-old Dr. William B. Thompson, a graduate of the University of British Columbia and Toronto. Officials said Dr. Thompson had worked at Canada's Chalk River project but was not a member of the Canadian atomic research team.

They said it—has been well known for some time that both Britain and the United States have been experimenting with ways of harnessing the H-bomb.

But discoveries so far indicate it would take a lot more energy to produce hydrogen power than the amount of energy that would result from the fusion. In other words, it would be extremely uneconomic.

Authorities here said they would get in touch with Anglo-Canadian atomic liaison officials to find out whether any significant new discovery had been made. But they doubted that Britain would have reached any startling new stage of experiments without informing Canada.

In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission which is subordinating research on the thermonuclear process for producing electricity power in three laboratories, gave its usual "no comment" reaction.

Army Officers Hopping Mad Over Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—Top army officers are reported hopping mad at what they say is the preferential treatment given the navy and RCAF during the Queen's visit.

The Queen inspected an RCAF guard of honor on her arrival here Saturday and a Royal Canadian Navy guard of honor at her departure Wednesday.

The Regiment of Canadian Guards comprised the guard of honor for the op-ning of Parliament Monday but the Queen did not inspect the unit or take a salute at a march-past. The Queen is colonel-in-chief of the unit.

The guards also collected money in the regiment to purchase a $2,000 diamond-and-platinum copy of the unit crest but were denied an opportunity to present the gift to the Queen.

BLUFF SEEN

Some feel it may be a clumsy one. Denmark's sharp reply, saying the Danes oppose aggression anywhere — in Korea, Suez or Hungary, is cited by British informants as indicative of the kind of reaction the Russian note will arouse.

It is also thought that the Soviet action is appealing to European socialist parties behind the back of elected governments may have a boomerang effect, as shown by the promptness with which British Labor party leaders put Prime Minister Macmillan into the picture.

The British foreign office strongly denies the Russian suggestion that aggression is being plotted against Syria. Undoubtedly the weight of informed opinion is that Moscow is bluffing. One mild expression of doubt comes from the Manchester Guardian, which says:

"It could be sincere. It could be that Mr. Khrushchev genuinely believes that Turkey, aided and abetted by the United States, is planning to attack Syria. This belief must rest on ill-founded or wrongly interpreted information."

COLD WAR

The general view, however, is that Russia's fundamental strategy remains to divide the West, to play on latent anti-American fears in Europe, to seduce Arab opinion in the Middle East. One informant commented that Khrushchev's round-robin may sound pretty good in the Arabic

Khrushchev's Letter Another Chapter in Book of Strategy

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nikita Khrushchev's letter to European labor parties is seen as a new and rather lurid chapter in a book of strategy the Russian leader started writing 25 months ago with the first arms-for-Egypt agreement.

With that first intervention, Russia became the new soviet in the Middle East situation. Having sought unsuccessfully to undermine NATO position in Europe, the Soviets tried to turn NATO's flank by making a maximum of mischief in the Near East, first in Egypt and then in Syria.

From this perspective, Khrushchev's claim that the United States and Turkey are preparing for a new adventure against Syria is viewed as merely another move in the trouble-making strategy.

Seek Federal Aid for Sewage Plants

CHATHAM (CP) — Mayors of Great Lakes municipalities Wednesday decided to seek federal aid to help finance sewage plants costing about $60,000,000. The municipalities have been ordered by the province to stop polluting boundary waters.

The mayors, meeting in a group called the municipal joint committee on sewage works, elected Mayor G. R. Stewart of Riverside to head a deputation to see federal Health Minister Monteith at Ottawa.

The committee was formed after the Ontario government had informed lake - edge municipalities steps would have to be taken to prevent pollution of streams emptying into the Great Lakes.

Premier Frost has said provincial aid could not be given unless the federal government gave a greater share of taxation to the province.

BLAZE DESTROYS CAFE

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Fire Wednesday destroyed a cafe and several second-story suites in downtown Port Arthur. One fireman was overcome by smoke in the two-hour blaze.

Two 'Criminals' Give Royalty Light Moment

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (CP)— Two "criminals" gave Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip a light moment when they toured the replica of an old fort here Wednesday.

The two had been put into the stocks at the fort — their hands fastened and their feet bound.

One of the victims answered "not yet."

"Is it painful?" the Queen inquired.

He replied: "No, ma'am, Your Majesty."

Detroit Couple Killed in Crash

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP) — A Detroit couple were killed Wednesday in a car-truck collision on No. 2 Highway at Pine Hill, about six miles northeast of here.

Dead are Gustaf van Gheluwe, 59, and his wife, Sallie.

The two vehicles were approaching each other on a high-way curve when they collided.

Driver of the truck, 29-year-old Josiah C. Hoskin of Wyoming, Ont. himself severely when he smashed a window of the car with his fist in a frantic attempt to release the dying couple.

translation beamed to Mediterranean countries.

"It's just one more gambit in the cold-war technique," the informant said.

At the same time, there is a disposition to detect a new vigor and a new flexibility in Russian foreign policy. The conclusion may be that Khrushchev is either more firmly in the saddle now, or that he is using foreign policy to district attention from the home front.

Prime Minister Sends Message To Queen, Prince

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday informed Queen Elizabeth and her four-day stay here "strengthened in us all our pride in Canada and in Canada's Queen."

As the royal party sped by air to Jamestown, N.C., the prime minister sent the following message to be delivered to the Queen aboard the RCAF C-5 aircraft:

"As Your Majesty and Prince Philip leave Ottawa to visit the United States of America, I ask you with humble duty a message of loyalty and love from all Canadians.

"During this historic stay Your Majesty has strengthened in us all our pride in Canada and in Canada's Queen."

"It is with high hope that you will come to us soon again that Canada's Parliament may God bless Your Majesty and Prince Philip."

Barrie Applies For 9,750 Acres By Annexation

BARRIE (CP) — Judge J. G. Harvie, Toronto County court, Wednesday told a municipal board hearing second annexation by Barrie would take in 90 acres of his farm in nearby Innisfil Township.

He spoke at a meeting of the Ontario municipal board which is hearing an application by Barrie to annex 9,750 acres of neighboring Oro, Innisfil and Vespra townships.

Mr. Hancock, member of Project Planning Associates Limited, the company hired by the town council to plan annexation, said residential building in Vespra Township would likely be the first project following annexation. Industrial expansion would probably be near Innisfil Township.

The hearing is continuing.

GASOLINE IGNITES

MONTREAL (CP) — A police cruiser and two cabs were destroyed by fire in downtown Montreal Wednesday night when gasoline from a punctured tank ignited after a traffic accident. One man suffered minor injuries. Police said a car driven by the injured man, Matthew Sayee, 25 Dorchester said Wednesday, was were chasing his vehicle in collision with a side-swiping accident earlier.

Briefs From House

OTTAWA (CP) — Frequent reports of submarine-like objects off Newfoundland have been seen off the Atlantic coast, Defence Minister Pearkes said Wednesday, but none has been confirmed. He told Parliament that efforts had been made by senior naval and RCAF officers to verify each report, without success.

OTTAWA (CP) — An investigation into alleged price-fixing in Quebec paper industry mills still is being carried out, Justice Minister Fulton told Commons Wednesday. The inquiry was started about two years ago after 20 members claimed pulpwood companies combined to fix prices of pulpwood supplies purchased from farmers' woodlots.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday he will make investigations into charges that Westcoast Transmission Co. is distributing gas to the United States at rates lower than those charged British Columbia industrial customers. The charge was made in the Commons by Ernest Hall (CCF — Vancouver East) who said that such exports contravene the company's charter granted by Parliament.

OTTAWA, (CP)—A division of costs between the federal and the South Saskatchewan water power and irrigation project still is the major problem, to be settled before Prime Minister Diefenbaker leads this clear in the Commons Wednesday when he tables the details of engineering studies, the project's feasibility seems to be undoubted.

OTTAWA (CP)—Two CCF bills which would open up income tax returns of corporations were introduced Wednesday in the Commons by Stanley Knowles, member for Winnipeg North Centre. One bill would enable the revenue minister to produce in Parliament the returns of corporations. This now is prohibited by law. The second would limit closed hearings of the income tax appeal board to appeals by personal taxpayers only.

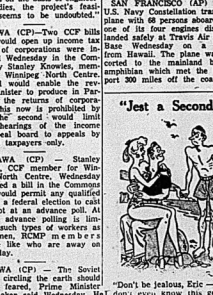
OTTAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre, Wednesday introduced a bill in the Commons which would permit any qualified voter in a federal election to cast his ballot at an advance poll. At present, advance polling is limited to such types of workers as railwaymen, RCMP members and the like who are away on voting day.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Soviet satellite circling the earth should be seen in Canada Wednesday, Defence Minister Pearkes told the Commons that dedicated efforts toward dissemination should be made by all "so that we have been told is the case that we did not . . . go to the extreme limit in securing agreement concerning the use of outer space and the maintenance of freedom."

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of setting up a Canadian coast guard is a matter of government policy on which there will be an announcement "in due course," Works Minister Green said Wednesday in a reply in the Commons.

OTTAWA (CP) Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated in the Commons Wednesday that the government may appoint a royal commission on energy resources may well look into development of hydro power on the St. Lawrence seaway system. He was replying to a question from Allan Lionel Chevrier, new Liberal member for Montreal Laurier and former president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

TO COUNTER PROPAGANDA



WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday named Theodore C. Streibert chief of the U.S. information agency, and presidential aide in charge of countering Soviet propaganda efforts on projects such as the Soviet satellite. The White House also announced Eisenhower's selection of George V. Allen, now ambassador to Greece to succeed Larson as director of international cultural affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A U.S. Navy Constellation transport plane with 68 persons aboard and one of its four engines disabled landed safely at Travis Air Force Base Wednesday on its flight from Hawaii. The plane was escorted to the mainland by an amphibian which met the transport 300 miles off the coast.

She stressed the need of reaching the allocation and told how each member could lay away 25 cents each week for Missions and thus give systematically. The minimum giving of each member who is interested in the spread of the gospel should be $13, and many members are giving twice that amount.

The W.M.S. organization is committed to provide 50 per cent of the all missionary work in Canada and abroad. Seventy five cents out of every dollar is used for Home Missions and the other 25 cents for Foreign Missions.

The members were asked to remember their mite boxes and bring them to the December meeting, also to bring a record of books read. The autumn thankoffering will be taken on Sunday next, or can be given at any later date.

The service closed with a charge to keep, grave and prayer by Mrs. Don Johnson.

Pre-Game TV Swelled Braves' Share of Loot

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball secretary Charles Segar has put his finger on the $63,000 received for a pre-game world series television show in 1955 as the reason for the difference in the winning shares of this year's Milwaukee Braves and the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The $63,000 also went into the players pool," explained Segar Wednesday. "We did not have a pre-game show this year and that is why the Braves' full shares were less than the Dodgers."

The figures announced Tuesday by commissioner Ford Frick revealed that $709,027.55 went into the players' pool in 1957. In 1955, the total hit $727,853.59.

This accounted for the difference of more than $800 per winning series share—$9,768.21 for Brooklyn players and $8,934.36 for Braves.

Baseball Leafs Acquire Five Young Players

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League Wednesday announced purchase of five young baseball players, bringing their roster to 35.

It brought the number of young players bought within the last two days to seven.

Obtained from St. Louis Cardinal farm clubs were infielder Wally Shannon, 23, from Houston Buffs of the Texas League; pitcher Harold Byrnes, 24, from Winnipeg in the Class C Northern League and outfielder Charlie Staniland from Decatur in the Midwest League.

Larks Cut Dean, May Go to London Lords

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary Wes Brown of the Big Four said Wednesday after Big Four teams have until midnight tonight to claim Bob Dean. The import tackle was cut Wednesday by Montreal Alouettes and named by London Lords of the Ontario Rugby Football Union as one of their 12 imports at midnight Thursday, ORFU import-declaring deadline.

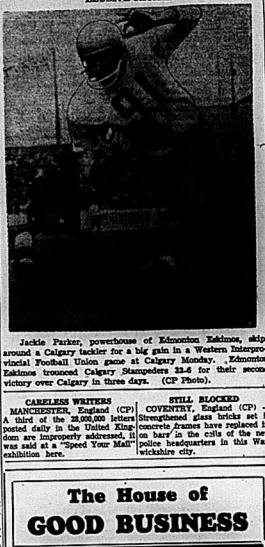
However, Brown told a reporter, Lords may have named Dean knowing no Big Four club intended to claim him.

Normally other Big Four teams in reverse order to their league standing last year, would have 72 hours from noon Wednesday, when Brown received telegraph notice from Montreal, in which to claim Dean for the $750 waiver price.

But because Friday midnight is deadline for declaring their imports for the rest of the season, another Big Four club would have to claim Dean before then.

Sticka Sticks With Argonauts

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union said Wednesday full-back Import Charlie Sticka is still on the team's roster. An Argonaut official said Sticka has not been placed on waivers.



Reports from Kitchener earlier in the day said London Lords of the Ontario Rugby Football Union obtained Sticka and named him among their 12 import players.

Sticka is expected to be named by Argos as one of five players to be retained for next season above the 12-man import limit.

AT THE PARK — Lovely Rita Hayworth holds Jack Lemmon's attention in Columbia Pictures' "Fire Down Below", at the Park Theatre tonight in CinemaScope and print by Technicolor. The romantic drama, filmed on location in the West Indies, also stars Robert Mitchum. On the same program Howard Duff stars in "Sierra Stranger". Both hits are first showings.

AT THE BELLE — Doris Day and John Raitt are the romantic-singing pair of top performers in "The Pyjama Game", and stars of the high-scoring stage hit. The big fun show is now in its 5th and final day at the Belle Theatre.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The tall, nature man in the crew cut was watching the filming of a South Pacific scene more intently than the usual visitor. And no wonder —it was Oscar Hammerstein II.

The scene was a dramatic one in which Emile Debecque (Rassano Brazzi) turns down a proposal to spy on the Japanese with Lieut. Joe Cable (John Kerr). Between takes of the long scene, director Jose Logan came over to confer with Hammerstein.

Hammerstein wrote the play with Logan and penned the lyrics to accompany Richard Rodgers' songs. He naturally has a proprietary interest in the movie, and he was making one of his periodic visits to watch over the production.

The scene I watched was remarkably faithful to the original, which I had seen recently on the stage with Mary Martin in her original role.

"Yes, we haven't changed the story much, except to fit it into the cinematic medium," Hammerstein said. "There are some obvious things which you can do with movies but not on the stage."

MUCH THE SAME

"It's pretty much the same thing we have done with the other three films that have been made from our musicals. I'm speaking of the shows I did with Dick. I've done some other things in the past that came out far differently.

"But I don't think the studios do that so much any more. When they put out a lot of money for a property, they generally use it."

Of the three R and H musicals filmed so far, Hammerstein said he thought Oklahoma! and The King and I were well done. He had some reservations about Carousel.

What about the other three?

"There have been no offers that I know of for them," he said. "I have an idea that some day I may re-work Allegro. I was always very fond of it, but somehow it missed in the second act.

"No, I don't expect to do anything more with Me and Juliet and Pipe Dream. Why? Because I hate them."

There is happy news in the fact that the team is getting busy on a new musical. It will be based on a book about San Francisco Chinatown by C. Y. Lee. The Flower Drum Song Hammerstein added that Rodgers is recovered enough from his illness to start work on the music.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Living up to his ranking as No. 4 middleweight contender in the nation, Spider Webb knocked out Jackie LaBua Wednesday night after 59 seconds o fthe first round in their scheduled 10-rounder.

Webb, who weighed 160, absorbed two solid rights from LaBua, then floored his opponent. Not more than 10 blows were struck before the fight was over.

LaBua, unranked middleweight from Brooklyn who scaled 157½, then had his three-victory win streak broken. He had won 28 of 29 previous professional bouts.

Webb substituted at the last minute for Ralph (Tiger) Jones who pulled a leg muscle, collected his 34th victory in 36 fights. It was his 13th knockout.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Anna Kashfi has been kicked out of her club for marrying Marlon Brando. No hard feelings though. It's just that the Hollywood Bachelor Girls Club can't have married members. Argentine actress Linda Cristal, a newcomer to Hollywood, has been given Anna's place on the club roster.

Polly Bergen Says Her Home More Important Than Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Polly Bergen could recite pots of money-ple of flattering offers to make and lead a much easier life if she flooted around as a guest on television programs this season.

But—to the satisfaction of a large following of fans—she has her own program on alternate Saturday evenings (9 p.m. EDT) over NBC-TV. Why does she make the effort?

Why should a beautiful young woman, who makes hit recordings, who has a devoted and most profitably employed husband, who has a charming young daughter, a dog and cat and spacious Park Avenue apartment, want to descend into the hurly-burly and flurry-awry of running her own TV show?

HAS BEST REASON

Her answer, delivered the other evening while lounging with shoes off in her apartment and surrounded by husband, daughter, dog and cat:

"I like it. I enjoy creating something that I try to make the very best I can."

And, critics agree, she has created a highly-entertaining variety program thanks to her superb voice and pleasant presence. She also, like every host and hostess on television, has the problem of obtaining guests—a problem she has solved ably thus far.

Next Saturday evening, for instance, her principal guest will be Kay Kendall, co-star of the new movie Les Girls and wife of Rex Harrison, who will be making her American television debut.

NO WEAK SPOTS

"Rather than have a weak guest," says Miss Bergen, "I'd prefer not to have any guests. I'd rather go on by myself and sing for half an hour. But it's doubtful if the audience would stand for that."

Maybe it's not so doubtful in the case of Miss Bergen.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Jack Dulmage of the Windsor Star, doesn't like the chances of the Whitby Dunlops against the Russians come world hockey tournament time. All of which must cost Mr. Blair countless nights of insomnia and worry.

Says Dulmage: "Windsor had a look at this club (Whitby). It was intact except for defenceman Ron Casey and forwards Wally Maxwell, Gord Myles and Fred Eicher. Blair likes it. He says it has speed, scoring power and a good defence. He feels it is suited for combat against the Russians and European refereeing.

"Blair's appraisal is probably accurate. However he's overlooking something. Whether it will cost him defeat remains to be seen but this column doesn't like his chances. The overnight is that he is putting himself into Russian hands by going with a team that isn't geared to hurt anybody in deference to European refereeing, and that emphasizes speed which is the Russians' strongest suit.

"It was suggested to Blair that he was "a mite light up front." Blair agreed and said that was the way he wanted it. He said he would make changes to inject hitting power if the Dunlops were to play only against senior Canadian competition, but with the world tournament at Oslo the target, the fast foot and no-hit forward is his desire.

"This has to be good news to the Russians who probably are still rubbing sore spots, inflicted by the Warwicks and Penticton Vees in 1955. Penticton proved a point to the Russians which the latter will not soon forget. The Vees were a tough, experienced hard-hitting club and they did not depart from it. They compelled their way of play upon the Russians and soundly whipped them 5-0. The Russians were impressed, even imbued with admiration.

"Having given to Russia the red-blooded Canadian game via the Warwicks we have now become tourists engaged in speed-skating contests—disdainful of the penalty box and delicate in public sentiment. If Hurst was the last guy to throw a bodycheck at the Russians and they tell us the rest of the Kitchener Dutchmen have been apologizing for him ever since, Perhaps Mr. Blair could carry with him a note from the state department that Hurst has been banished to the wastelands of the Yukon for his indiscretions."

We do not go along with the Dulmage ideas of the Dunlops. It could have been that the Kitchener Dutchmen were a mite too easy with the bodying in their last whack at world hockey, but there is no point in re-hashing what the Penticton V's accomplished and holding it up as an example.

We saw the Dunlops play many games in league, playoff and playdown competition last winter and their defence compared favorably with any and better than the most of the opposition clubs. Dulmage need have no worry about Blair nor the ability of his defence to hit the Russians if the occasion demands. Harry Sinden, Alfie Treen, the O'Connors et al, are not exactly pantywaists behind that blueline regardless of whether it is Swedes, Russians or Bulldogs in front of them, as the Windsor club has already discovered.

Knowing the inimitable Blair as we do, we have no fear of his being intimidated by European hockey, rules or officials. He is able to readily adapt himself and his club to the conditions whatever they are and in fact might invent and use a few of his own. He may not be the best coach or judge of hockey ability in Canada, but then, as the CAHA has stated, his Dunlops will get the benefit of a "discover" by such noted coaches as Bobby Bauer and Joe Primeau before the final payroll is made out.

Then, too, they will be aided to a large extent by the showing made by the Dunlops against the Russians in Toronto on November 22 when the Kremlin Kut-ups inaugurate their Canadian tour. Blair and his advisory board will be able to judge from the play and style just what they will be up against and remedy any defects in their own make-up.

But has anybody stopped to think that the Russians are not dumb spunks. Has an one stopped to ponder over the possibility that the team which will wear the hammer-and-sickle over here next month could be one of their intermediate "A" clubs, while back in the shadow of the Kremlin greedily licking their chops will be the pick of the Russian puckchasers, ready and set at what ever the rest of the hockey world wants to toss at them?

That may sound crazy—but it's a possibility.

New Look Giants

Willie Mays and Antonelli Only Remnants of Old Guard

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bill Rigney, retained as manager of the San Francisco Giants for two years, says Californians may see an almost entirely different club than the one that played at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The only two players sure to be in the lineup are outfielder Willie Mays and southpaw pitcher Johnny Antonelli.

President Horace Stoneham signed Rigney to a new contract Wednesday. The terms were not disclosed.

Rigney, 39, managed the team to sixth-place finishes the last two seasons.

Next year will be different, he says. "The new surroundings will affect the club. This city has enthusiasm and it wears off on to the players. New York wasn't supplying the enthusiasm."

Rigney says Mays should hit better because of the shorter centre field at Seals Stadium here—410 feet as compared to 483 at the Polo Grounds.

SIGNS WITH TEEPEES

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Fred Gardiner, 20, of Calgary, who played last year with Edmonton Oil Kings, has signed for the 1957-58 season with St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Teepee coach Judy Pilous announced Wednesday that Gardner had been obtained as a replacement for Bobby Hull who turned professional with Chicago Black Hawks organization earlier this month.

Sledgehammer Style Results In Three-in-Row Victories; Leafs, Habs Tangle Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins are using the finesse of a sledgehammer to batter their way to the top of the National Hockey League standings.

Coach Milt Schmidt's surprising Bruins have scored three victories in three starts and used the same formula in each. The style of play is simple—just keep hammering at the opposition till goals result.

Wednesday night the battering resulted in a 6-2 victory over New York Rangers in New York and moved Bruins into a first-place tie with Montreal Canadiens, each with six points.

ONE GAME MORE

Canadiens, who have played one game more, have their total on two wins and two ties in four starts. Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings are fifth with one win and two losses. Toronto Maple Leafs have no wins in two games.

Both Bruins and Canadiens will be in action tonight trying to stay ahead of the pack. Montreal is at home to Toronto and Boston moves on to Detroit.

Last season, when Schmidt guided Bruins to a third - place finish, he did it by distributing his firepower through three lines.

SIX SHARE SCORES

The same tactics are paying off even better in this campaign. Six Bruins players shared scoring honors Wednesday night.

Real Chevrefils opened the scoring late in the first period and Parker MacDonald tied it less than three minutes later.

Boston counted two quick markers in the second period by Jerry Toppazzini and Larry Regan and Rangers put up a last gasp on a goal by Larry Popein.

EXHAUSTS SCORES

Bruins pulled away again a half minute later on Johnny Bucyk's tally and the period closed after a fifth Boston goal by Brooks Dougherty, who spent part of last season with New York.

Doug Mohns closed out the scoring in the third period.

Toppazzini added an assist to his goal and Don McKenney and Fleming Mackell each had two assists.

In tonight's Toronto-Montreal encounter, Leafs will be faced with stopping a line that ran wild against them last season.

Maurice and Henri Richard and Dickie Moore were the most potent Canadiens threesome during the course of last season, especially Moore who notched nine of his 29 goals against Toronto.

GEOFFRION STILL OUT

This year the trio has scored 10 of Montreal's 16 goals. Maurice has four and Henri and Moore three apiece.

Habitants still will be missing Bernie Geoffrion, who is just re-working his skating legs after a severe case of flu.

There was word when Jacques Plante, regular goaltender who underwent a sinus operation last week, will return. Charlie Hodge, from the Quebec League Montreal Royals, is suffering.

Leafs expect to be in healthy shape and have returned Gary Aldcorn to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League. Ed Smith and Bob Pulford likely will do double duty on lines with Billy Harris and Tod Sloan.

Yankees Start Rebuild Plan, Purchase Four

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first promised step aimed at bringing the world baseball championship back to New York, the Yankees today purchased four farmhands including Ryne Duren, leading pitcher of the American Association.

Yanks also bought the contracts of first baseman John Jacluk, shortstop Fritz Brickell and left-handed pitcher Ed Dick.

Duren, who was acquired in the June trade that sent Billy Martin to Kansas City and brought Harry Simpson to New York, won 13 games and lost only two for Denver. He was the league leader in percentage with .867.

Jaciuk batted .320 for Richmond of the International League. Brickell wound up with .295 for Denver and Dick compiled an 18-9 record for Binghamton of the Eastern League.

Big Four Coaches Talk Chop Friday Deadline for Imports

BY MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Drop in at three of the Big Four Football Union offices and chances are the coaches will be talking chop.

That's because Friday midnight is the deadline for declaring the 12 imports each team will use the rest of the season.

One coach, Hamp Pool of Toronto Argonauts, doesn't have the decision problems.

His cuts were all made for him as he used up the 14 import changes allowed each team by last Monday's game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats. The 12 imports he used then are the ones who will play the club's remaining four games.

Pool also lacks another problem—planning playoff strategy. Argos, with one win in 10 games, are too far behind to make one of the three playoff berths.

TAKE THEIR TIME

Since first place is still wide open and with it a bye into the league's finals, Pool's fellow coaches are taking all the time possible before making their decisions.

Montreal Alouettes' Doug Walker, after placing two players on waivers Wednesday, has but one more to chop before hitting the limit.

The selections, they assured reporters, will not be made until just before the deadline.

Montreal's imports include Art Powell, a flanker picked up from Toronto. Als announced Wednesday backfield mate Jerry Prick and tackle Bob Dean have been placed on waivers.

Trimble has two choices to make at Hamilton. One appears to be between kicker P. W. Underwood and Bob Golic and the other fullback Cookie Gilchrist and Robert Bobo.

CUT EARLIER

Golic cut earlier in the season but returned to action after Underwood was hurt Saturday.

If Underwood can return by Saturday's game against Montreal or if Trimble figures he can go with 11 imports until his return, Golic probably will be cut again.

Bobo hasn't seen action since he arrived and Gilchrist's play has improved considerably since Bobo turned up in Mel Dore's spot.

Ottawa's choices all appear to be in the backfield. Tom Dimitroff seems to have won the first-string quarterback position but Hal Ledyard can switch to the halfline if a halfback is hurt, should the situation now.

EXPECT REPORT TODAY

Tom Lewis was hurt Monday against Montreal and a doctor's report is expected today indicating whether the fullback can play again this season.

Though Toronto can't make any more import switches, Pool indicated they'll keep tabs on five other players for next year. They are end Henry Hair, half C. R. Roberts and guards Ed Mushinski and Bud Sheleran, all out with injuries, and halfback Charlie Sicks.

The rosters:

Hamilton: Ends: Paul Dekker, Ralph Goldston, Ray Bawel; tackles: Bob Golic, Dave Sumnicht, P. W. Underwood; guard: John Barrow; centre: Bob Kelley; quarterbacks: Bernie Faloney, Tony Curcillo; halfbacks: Eddie Macon, Hal Waggoner; fullbacks: Cookie Gilchrist, Robert Bobo.

Willie, Williams Win Major Loops Slugging Titles

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox won his ninth American League slugging championship and Willie Mays of New York Giants his third National League title in 1957. Williams' .731 average was the highest for the majors in 16 years.

Williams collected 307 total bases in 420 times at bat, figures compiled by The Associated Press disclosed Wednesday. Among the 20 - year - old outfielder's 163 hits were 38 doubles, one triple and 38 homers.

Ted, who also won his circuit's batting crown, had the previous high slugging percentage—.733 in 1941. The big league record is .847 set by Babe Ruth in 1920.

MUSIAL SECOND

Mays slugged .626, edging Stan Musial of St. Louis and Hank Aaron, of Milwaukee. The Giants' centrefielder had 366 total bases in 585 trips. His extra base output included 26 doubles, 20 triples and 35 homers.

Musial wound up with a/.512 percentage on 307 total bases in 599 at bats while Aaron was third at .600 with the most total bases in either league, 369, in 615 official trips. Aaron had 198 hits and 77 were extra bases—27 doubles, six triples and 44 circuit blows.

DIVIDE BY AT BATS

Slugging averages are computed by adding the total bases on all hits (one for a single, two for a double etc.) and dividing the aggregate by the number of official times at bat.

Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees, the American League slugging champs in 1955-56, was second this time with a .665 mark. He had 23 two-baggers, six triples and 34 homers among 376 safeties.

Ray Sievers of Washington, the American League's home run leader with 42, was third in slugging with a .649 average. In addition to his homers, the hard-hitting outfielder collected 23 doubles and five three-baggers.

Tribe Gives Greenberg Gate DeWitt Is Likely Successor

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill DeWitt of St. Louis, a man with 28 years of baseball background, seems to have the inside track to become the next general manager of Cleveland Indians.

The Indians' directors fired Hank Greenberg Wednesday without any mention of who might succeed him but those in the know say that DeWitt is being considered.

The 53-year-old DeWitt, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals, St. Louis Browns and New York Yankees at various times, says he's interested in the Cleveland job although he hasn't been approached.

"I'm very happy in my present position," he said, "but a fellow's always willing to improve himself." His present position is coordinator of the major leagues' fund for aid to minor league clubs.

NO BAD WORDS

Although 10 of the 13 directors voted to fire Greenberg, none had a bad word for him. They dropped him because they believe the fans didn't like him, he had a bad press, and a new face might stop the steady decline in attendance.

At Wednesday's session no mention was made of moving the franchise, and Greenberg called such rumors "ridiculous."

Talk that the team would move to Minneapolis started last season, when attendance fell to 722,256 as the club finished sixth for its worst performance in a decade.

After the last game, Greenberg fired the field manager, Kerby Farrell, with the comment that injuries to key players might have had some effect on the poor showing.

BRAGAN HAS SUPPORT

Greenberg hired Bobby Bragan released as Pittsburgh Pirates' manager last August, to succeed Farrell and the directors said Bragan has their "full support."

There was some question whether the club lost money in 1957. Greenberg said it didn't. Board chairman William R. Daley smiled and said:

"I suppose we could depreciate certain items and make it appear that we operated at a profit."

Greenberg said he plans to stay in Cleveland and keep his stock in the team—a reported 20 per cent.

Soo, Dutchmen Take Openers In New West-Northern Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A spanking new six-team Ontario Senior A hockey league got under way Wednesday night as the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Greyhounds and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen scored victories in the opening games of the league's first season.

Greyhounds scored three overtime goals to beat North Bay Trappers 5-3 at the Soo and the Dutchies edged Chatham Maroons 2-1 at Chatham.

The new league, as yet unnamed, included three teams from the Ontario Hockey Association's Western Division — Windsor, Chatham and Kitchener—and three from the southern group of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association — Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and Sudbury.

OPEN SEASON FRIDAY

Dutchies, last season's champions of the Western Division, took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Jack Stoddart's goal. The lead held up until Eddie Busch scored for Maroons early in the third period.

Greyhounds survived a third-period slump, after leading 3-1 at the end of the second period, to beat Trappers, who tied the game up in the third.

GOALIES BUSY

Trapper goalie Denis Brodeur handled 40 shots while Don Campbell had 34 fired at him in the Sault net.

The two Senior A hockey loops banded together this season in an effort to stay alive in the face of financial difficulties. Owen Sound Mercurys, Stratford Indians and Soo (Mich.) Indians all threw in the towel after suffering heavy financial losses last season.

The new league is an outgrowth of an interlocking schedule staged by the OHA and the NOHA last year. The league will play a 60-game schedule with each club playing a home-and-home series with Canada's world hockey representative, Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions.

On the Tracks

NEWMARKET, England (AP) Sandiacre shot 'to the front at the halfway mark and raced on through mist and mud Wednesday to win the 2¼-mile Cesarewitch Handicap by half a length from Morecambe.

Predominate was another three lengths away in third in the field of 24 starters.

The Cambridgeshire, to be run at Newmarket Oct. 30, is the last of the season's races on which British bookmakers are willing to bet.

Sandiacre was 100 to 8 in the betting. Morecambe was 100 to 7 and Predominate was 100 to 6. All three are British-owned and bred.

Bears Defeat Cleveland 6-2

HERSHEY, Pa. (CP) — Paced by Willie Marshall's three goals, Hershey Bears defeated Cleveland Barons 6-2 Wednesday night and moved to within two points of the leading Providence Reds in the American Hockey League standings.

The Bears' victory was their third in four starts, with their only loss to Providence. Lorne Davis, Jim Fisher and Al Dewsbury were the other Hershey marksmen.

Johnnie McLellan and Bo Elik scored for Cleveland.

COASTS TO VICTORY

TORONTO (CP) — Frank H. Merrill, Jr., among North America's leading trainers until he ran into bad luck in recent weeks saddled his first winner in some time when Buncha won the Sherwood Purse before a crowd of over 5,000 at New Woodbine Park Wednesday.

Buncha took the lead at the start, opened seven or eight lengths at the far turn and coasted in ahead of Heptad with Billy Brier third.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. John Munro spent the weekend here with his mother, Mrs. Agnes Munro, and his aunt, Miss Mary Quinn.

Mrs. Charley Jeffrey spent an enjoyable holiday the past week end with her daughter, husband and family in Campbellford.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred LeSage, Metcalfe Street, were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lott, Campbellford; Miss Mary LeSage, Miss Norine LeSage, the Rev. Father Simon LeSage, of St. Mary's-on-the-Lake, Kingston, and Sister Mary Gertrude.

Mrs. Caroline Beach spent the holiday with her son, Arthur E. and Mrs. Beach and family here.

Mr. A. E. Beach, who is attached to the Department of Lands and Forests here, left on Tuesday for Sudbury, where he will be spending the remainder of the week on business for his department.

The installation of officers will be held at the Orangelodge room in the IOOF building on Friday, Oct. 18, and visitors from various places will be in attendance.

The flu bug is still prevalent here, many are still very ill with it, but the high school has re-opened, as the students there somehow seemed to be the first to be efficient with the germs and also the teenagers and persons in their twenties were hit violently harder than the others. It is stated that it will soon clear itself out after the weekend, a week or ten days things will be back to normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug E. Spencer motored to Toronto Wednesday returning on Thursday night, a combined business and social trip.

Mrs. Hugh B. Fobert, of North Victoria Street, was again stricken with a heart attack on Tuesday night and it necessitated him being taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance. He had only returned from the hospital on September 6th, after a four week's stay there with a heart seizure. He is resting comfortably and is in oxygen.

The mission is on for a two week's stay at Sunday, at St. Carthagh's Church. It started with the Sunday morning mass on October 13. Rev. W. J. McCarthy, who is on the mission staff of Saint Michael's Cathedral church, with headquarters in Toronto, is the Capuchin charge of the services for this week, and throughout the second week Oct. 20 to 26th. Rev. J. Walsh, well known for his Sunday Sacred Heart Hour over CBC, will be in charge the next week, second week of the Mission, services will be held at St. Michael's Church, Sulphide. This week the services are for the women only, next week will be designed for the men, while in Sulphide they will be for both men and women. Dean J. J. Shannon of St. Carthagh's states that the congregations are not quite as large as had been anticipated on account of so many families being visitors of the flu.

The safety patrol sponsored a tag-day on Saturday, and the receipts were $81.00, which, according to Chief Police Wannamaker, was quite gratifying. This money will be used partly to buy equipment, but the greater amount of it will be used to finance a bicycle campaign rodeo, which will be held on Spring Day. Just outside the police station, on Oct. 28th. This will be for all bicycle owners, and their tests will be: what would be expected of them should a problem arise, etc. There will be free reflector tape for the "bikes" and several trophies will be presented to the safest club.

Chief Walter Higgins organized this safety patrol after he came to see the youngsters have done an excellent job. The co-operation of the public was much appreciated in their donations on Saturday.

Ernest Tufts, Tweed, has been transferred from the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Camp Borden, to the Canadian Army Postal Corps, and is now stationed at the army post office in Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Tufts have been successful in obtaining an apartment in Montreal. Both children are attending school in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Tufts previously resided at Crescent, Ontario, while he was stationed at Camp Borden.

The water levels are reported very low this past week, which is very discouraging to the duck hunters in this district. Some of the marsh land is completely dry, which left many of the favorite haunts of other years high and dry.

Pleased to report that the condition of Reeve T. C. Graham is steadily improving, although visits to the hospital are impossible, due to 'flu, it will be best not to chance taking the germs to the ones already ill.

The annual meeting of Tweed branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held on Sunday evening at St. John's Church hall. The speaker was Rev. C. R. Rudd, district secretary, who also occupied the pulpit of St. James' Church at 11 o'clock and St. Andrew's at 3 p.m. on the same Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rivers and Helen motored to Toronto over the holiday weekend.

Mrs. "Ted" Collins, who have been residing in the Badgley house on South Victoria, went to Mr. Fred Bedard, moved to Peterborough this week where he has obtained new employment. They shall be missed in Tweed. Mrs. Collins was the former Carmen Dion of Tweed.

BIG CROWD

The brief tour there was replete with touches of informality. Prince Philip spotted a faded Union Jack in the crowd and found it held by Mrs. L. T. Warbey, a British war bride now settled in the United States with her American husband.

"Now you're well settled in now," the prince chuckled as two youngsters romped around the woman's feet.

The royal couple then moved down to the Snug Harbor, a scarred stone's throw away, to visit the anchored reproductions of the three ships. They boarded the 100-ton Susan Constant, the largest of the three vessels, for a brief inspection.

"LOOK THIS WAY"

The tour through the park was an amateur photographer's paradise. Cameras by the hundreds appeared in the throng and the Queen and the prince were implored constantly to "look this way, please."

Crowds waved and cheered as the royal car passed. Reporters who followed the royal couple from Ottawa said the reception at times surpassed the welcome there.

The couple's first official stop was at the Old Tower Church, on Jamestown Island, where they attended a brief private service. The prince laughed heartily and the Queen smiled at a tale told them by Sam Robinson, 56-year-old Winnipeg-born Negro who came here 30 years ago and is noted as a story-teller.

The informal air continued as the Queen moved on to look at a replica of old Fort James, built by the first settlers as protection against Indians.

Observers said the reception given them by the students was the most enthusiastic to date in their North American visit. Cheers of the male students at times were drowned by the screams of the girls — particularly when Prince Philip stepped forward to make a brief speech from the balcony of the college's main building.

After the visit to the college, the royal couple drove to the governor's palace down historic Duke of Gloucester Street in a chaise drawn by two brown horses sporting fresh permanent waves in their manes and tails.

Sharing the carriage and pointing out places of interest were Winthrop Rockefeller, chairman of the board of Colonial Williamsburg Incorporated, and Mrs. Rockefeller.

A BIG SUCCESS

The day was a success from the time the big Canadian transport arrived at Patrick Henry airport, named after the red-haired firebrand who once cried: "Give me liberty or give me death."

The airport reception was warm but restrained, as though the crowd felt it had manners to yell at so demure a Queen. But at the festival, excitement took hold.

At one point, as the Queen responded to the official welcome from Governor Stanley of Virginia, a small section of the crowd jumped the rope barrier for a closer look. Some had been waiting for her there for eight hours.

FAMOUS SMILE

overseas settlements made throughout the world by British pioneers," she said. "Jamestown grew and became the United States. Those other settlements grew and became nations now united in our great Commonwealth."

One of the most remarkable features of the tour of Jamestown was the absence of rigid formality and the relaxation of security measures which at first it was thought, would be more strict.

INDIAN GIRL

An Indian girl named Sparkling Eyes was presented to the Queen. Sparkling Eyes was pounding meal corn in a large metal bowl and the Queen watched her with keen interest for some time.

One of Robinson's stories concerned a graveside ceremony — which grew between two graves separating a wife from the husband her mother-in-law objected to her marrying.

The Queen and Prince Philip shook hands with Robinson and thanked him for the story.

MAKES SPEECH

Prince Philip made an unexpected extemporaneous speech when the royal couple appeared on the balcony of the college of William and Mary.

Speaking in his customary breezy style, he recalled that the founder of the college, Dr. Blair, had taken his degree at Edinburgh University.

"I am chancellor of the University of Edinburgh," he said. "So, as a sort of super-chancellor, I have been asked by the university of Edinburgh to bring a present from them to you to commemorate this link."

The prince then handed several books to the president of the college, Vice-Admiral the Chandler.

The Queen spoke in unhesitating fluent tones.

She said:

"I am very happy to have this opportunity of paying a brief visit to this, the first college of royal foundation in North America.

BOTH TAKE PRIDE

"I cherish this link between the Crown and your college because it is a part of our joint histories, particularly as it is a part of our history in which we can both take pride. It also demonstrates the very close association which has always existed between learning, the arts and sciences of our countries. In the early days of this college those links played an important role in setting the early pattern of American scientific and academic development.

"It may surprise some of them, but I can say quite sincerely that I am very proud of the fact that this college educated so many founders of this nation.

"Surely has any country been able to produce a group of such enlightened and skilled statesmen as those who gathered around George Washington.

BROUGHT BOOK

"I have brought with me a book for your archives which will, I hope, remind you of the association between the college and the Crown.

"It is a copy of the statutes of the Order of the Garter. Each Knight of the Garter is presented upon his investiture with such a copy. This copy was presented to Prince William, Duke of Gloucester, the nephew of King William, some three years after he and Queen Mary had granted a charter to their royal college in Virginia.

"It gives me great pleasure to present this book to you now."

Earlier, the royal couple took a 25-minute break from their hectic round of visits to have tea with Admiral Chandler and his wife. The Chandlers had sent to England for a supply of the Queen's favorite blend of tea.

IN QUEEN'S HONOR

The highlight of the tour was the banquet given by Governor Stanley in the Queen's honor at Williamsburg Inn. The Queen wore a white satin gown and a tiara of diamonds and pearls with a matching necklace. The gown had a long-fitted bodice and full skirt.

Replying to a tribute from the governor, the Queen said:

"It has been a fascinating experience for us today to follow in the footsteps of your forefathers, and my countrymen, from Jamestown, the site of their first settlement, to this lovely capital of colonial Virginia.

"Here at a great period in your history, their descendants proclaimed their faith in certain great concepts of freedom, justice, law and self-government. These concepts have had a profound influence on the political development, not only of the United States, but all freedom-loving countries. . . ."

The panelled banquet hall was lit by candles and rare antiques graced the rooms.

REPORT 'IKE' WOULD POOL NATO BRAINS

Queen Views Art As Prince Given Scientific Medal

Queen Opens Exhibition Of Works of Wm. Blake

WASHINGTON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth started a royal whirl around Washington today on a cultural note and eight minutes behind schedule.

The young monarch was late—without explanation—as she left the White House for the National Gallery of Art. She drove there through a steady morning rain.

While the Queen was at the art gallery Prince Philip stayed at the White House and received from President Eisenhower a National Geographic Society gold medal.

The award was for his bringing "to millions a better understanding of our planet and its peoples." It was given mainly in recognition of Philip's 40,000-mile round-the-world trip which took him to many outposts of the Commonwealth last year.

OPENS EXHIBIT

One of the highlights of the gallery tour was the opening by the Queen of an exhibition of the works of William Blake, English artist and poet, which had been arranged in honor of the royal visit.

Garbed in brown, the Queen arrived at the gallery in Eisenhower's bubble-top car, with a robe drawn over her knees. She was met under a protective canvas canopy by gallery director John Walker.

"Isn't this a dreadful day, Mr. Walker said. "I must apologize for it."

Walker took Her Majesty on a tour of 34 of the exhibition galleries, where she saw works of British, American, French, Dutch and Italian masters.

Diefenbaker And Eisenhower Exchange Views

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker met privately with President Eisenhower for 45 minutes Thursday to discuss what the prime minister later described as "matters of mutual interest between our two countries."

Diefenbaker, here to attend the Queen on her visit to this capital, called at the White House in response to a telephone invitation made two days ago by the president.

It is not known whether Diefenbaker's call was connected with the visit to Washington next week of Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain. Both the Canadian prime minister said Macmillan will visit Ottawa for a few hours on his way back to London.

Canadian Ambassador Norman Robertson and State Secretary Dulles sat in on the meeting. After the session, Official or indicate whether the dialsi lor indicate whether the discussions centred on Canadian-American problems or the international situation.

It was the first formal meeting between the two government leaders since Diefenbaker became prime minister.

URGENT SESSION OF UN ASSEMBLY STUDIES CHARGES

Complaint by Syria Will Be Considered

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations General Assembly today called an urgent session to look into charges that the United States and Turkey are about to touch off a war in the Middle East.

The assembly planned to convene after the steering committee meeting to take up the Syrian complaint, which was seconded by the Soviet Union, charged that United States is masterminding the alleged plot against Syria. The Russians say the Turks plan to attack immediately after their election Oct. 27.

Turkey's UN delegate, Seyfullah Esin, termed the Syrian charge fantastic. He said the Soviet accusation was part of the Kremlin campaign to "put the blame for the tense situation in the Middle East on the shoulders of Turkey and the United States."

U. S. delegates conferred with delegates seeking support on a UN investigation not only of the Syrian-Soviet charges but also the U.S.-Turkish contention that Russian arms deliveries to Syria have created maneuvres in the Middle East are the real threat to peace there.

ALERT

The Syrian Army was placed on the alert, but a spokesman explained that meant only that officers' leaves were cancelled. The Arab council met for an hour in Damascus and decided general mobilization was not necessary. Arms were distributed to civilian "resistance" groups in certain areas near the Turkish border.

Reports from Istanbul said the Turks believe an attack is unlikely, and that Soviet threats of intervention are only a propaganda move to put pressure on the West in the Arab world and isolate Turkey.

The grave western view of the situation was underlined by the announcement that Prime Minister Macmillan would fly to Washington Tuesday to confer with President Eisenhower. British and American officials were reported to say that secret incident along the tense Syrian-Turkish border might get out of hand, touching off a shooting war.

250,000 STRIKE

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—About 350,000 workers went on strike Tuesday, demanding a 45-per-cent wage rise. In the walkout were metal, textile and leather workers and printers. Their present wage averages from $35 to $185 a month.

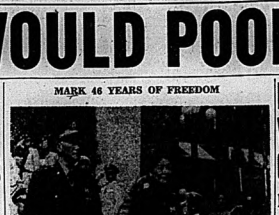
Will Be Many Years Before H-Bomb Can Be Tamed for Peaceful Power

LONDON (CP — It will be many years before any power from a hydrogen bomb can be used commercially for peaceful purposes, says British physicists who are working on this problem.

Uranium shares were disturbed Wednesday by stories in British newspapers that experiments are making H-bomb power a reality. Time when limitless supplies of energy will be obtained from atoms.

Experts say they think it fantasy to suggest that uranium, oil and coal power will become obsolete in any foreseeable period of years.



Scientists estimate that from the achievement of controlled thermonuclear reactions, still sought experimentally, to the beginnings of commercial application may take anywhere from 15 to 40 years or more.

First results of tests of Zeta, a machine evolves at Britain's Harwell atomic research station, are expected in about two weeks. The machine may have outstripped similar Russian and U.S. devices by producing temperatures of perhaps 5,000,000 degrees centigrade.

But Harwell director Sir John Cockcroft said last month that for output of energy to exceed input, even experimentally, temperatures of about 50,000,000 degrees are needed. And Harwell men emphasize that it is not established that neutrons produced by Zeta are thermonuclear in one time the Russians thought their neutrons from a hydrogen bomb are thermonuclear, but later decided they were not.

The most optimistic recent estimate, by Sir George Thomson, Cambridge University scientist, is that unlimited thermonuclear power might be available in 15 years.

But, he added the proviso that its capital costs are not known and that "nobody can prove it will work, if by work you mean not producing a few neutrons but producing something which is a serious commercial proposition."

Though on Wane in Ontario Flu Has Claimed 23rd Life

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario has recorded its 23rd death attributable to influenza—the 45th in Canada—but the province's deputy health minister says the outbreak is waning in Ontario.

Fourteen - year - old Beverley Mary Blackman was Thursday night's victim. The Payne's Mill, Ont. girl died of what her doctor called "influential pneumonia" with the flu listed as definitely a contributory factor.

Despite the death, and reports of new outbreaks in several areas Dr. J. T. Phair said in Toronto, the epidemic has probably reached its peak in Ontario and is declining, He said the 23 deaths were not above his department's expectations.

Elsewhere in Canada, the only new flu developments were in the Maritimes. Nova Scotia health authorities reported the outbreak is on the wane in Kings counties but has closed another school in Cape Breton. In New Brunswick also flu was on the decline but some schools were still closed.

Thus far, a Canadian Press survey showed Ontario the worst-hit province with its 23 deaths. Quebec reported 11, Alberta four, Saskatchewan two and Nova Scotia one.

Evidence of the outbreak's decline came from Fort William, where the hospital resumed normal visiting hours after a two week 'ban.

From Brantford, came news of renewed attack, as school authorities reported rising school absenteeism—25 per cent in Brantman Catholic separate schools and 20 per cent in public schools.

But in Ottawa, Dr. Hector Featherston, assistant superintendant of the Civic Hospital, said "Asian flu seems to be on the wane in Ottawa." He said the city had fared better than expected.

Bevan Gives Khrushchev's Story of U.S. Plot in Syria

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan disclosed Thursday night Nikita Khrushchev had outlined to him an alleged four-stage plot by the United States for the overthrow of the regime of Syria.

Bevan's account appears to be the first detailed indication of what lies behind the Soviet Communist party chief's repeated charges that Turkey, under American prodding, is about to attack leftist Syria.

The Soviet Union has launched an all-out propaganda campaign designed to blast U. S. influence out of the Middle East. The main objective may be to drive the U. S. from air bases which at present serve to neutralize the nental missile.

Bevan, the Labor party's spokesman on foreign affairs, made his disclosure in a copyright article published in the Weekly Tribune.

Khrushchev, who received Bevan and his party Sept. 17, told him certain "gentlemen from Syria are in Istanbul" and are manoeuvring under Turkish governmental protection to take over power in Syria. These are the words U. S., Khrushchev added.

Leading American spokesmen have denied that there is any basis to Khrushchev's charges.

HOUSE CRACKLES WITH INSULTS, GOVT. UPHELD

Parliament Votes Money for Needs

OTTAWA (CP)—Crackling with a steady crossfire of insults, the Commons has unanimously approved the first request of the new Progressive Conservative government.

But, after joining other members Thursday in voting money enough for another month's government operations, C.C.F. leader Coldwell challenged the Conservatives to stick to their stand of last year as opposition members against the Liberal plan for construction of the St. Lawrence seaway natural gas pipeline.

Mr. Coldwell said former Conservative leader George Drew had proposed that as a last resort the pipeline should be built entirely as a publicly-owned project.

"What are they going to do about it now" Mr. Coldwell demanded.

He said that while he welcomes Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement that he expects that a royal commission will study all aspects of energy use in Canada, including pipeline operations, he fears this will postpone any government action on the Trans-Canada pipeline.

The loaned Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited money to build the Prairie section of the line and established a Crown corporation with federal and Ontario funds to build the uneconomic Northern Ontario section.

Mr. Coldwell said it is too late for any of the alternatives to this plan suggested by Mr. Drew. But it was not too late for the government to take over the whole project, long the C.C.F. policy in the matter.

Conservatives in 1956 had described Trans-Canada as "the pet of the Liberal government." Where are they now? Mr. Coldwell asked.

Earlier the Commons approved the government request. for an interim supply of money—$305,222,235—to cover one month's expenses.

But the money was not voted until most of the day had been consumed by an intense exchange of insults during the between Liberals and Conservatives.

BAPS METHOD

Hon. James Sinclair (Coast-Capilano), his party's financial critic, led the Conservative attack of the way the government asked for the money. By not saying whether all of it was needed, he said, the government clearly violated "every principle of parliamentary rights."

But he concluded by saying Liberals would not oppose the request.

'We've Been Had' Mourns Showman As Mike Todd's Party Lays Egg

The show, televised in part, was a hodgepodge of blaring commercials, Cossack dancers, dead-spots and flying frankfurters that Broadway won't soon forget.

"We've been had," commented one veteran showman as the Todd party, featuring cross-section of the theatre world and cafe society, moved through the exits of Madison Square Garden.

Many left soon after the formal program began at 11 p.m. and the other thousands of the restless, fidgety throng lingered to dance to the music of Xavier Cugat and to feast on pizza pies, doughnuts, ice cream, beer, champagne and hot dogs.

Todd, a showman who leaves little to chance, set up his explanatory boat ride today a few hours before the party went on. Invited for a three-hour excursion steamer outing up the Hudson River were writers and editors who sat in on the grim Garden doings.

Todd said he wanted to "chat" —and perhaps expand the comments he publicly made over the television network—with some of the televised part of the program ended.

But the whole spirit of the idea tonight is to have fun," he proclaimed. "We had a few unforseen difficulties."

Beside him as he spoke was his wife, film star Elizabeth Taylor, who presided at the cutting of a huge birthday cake, which stood in the centre of the arena floor.

The celebration was a first anniversary tribute to Around the World in 80 Days, the film producer Todd ever made and which won five Hollywood Oscars.

Mike's show turned out mostly an endless walk-around the arena of processions ostensibly featuring Siamese twins, Siamese tinsel and folk dresses. Occasionally there were fire engines, Fire Chief Cedric Hardwicke precariously riding an elephant and a symphony of beer trucks, covered wagons and a rubber-tired locomotive.

Frequently there were competing orchestras, blackouts of lighting and murmurs from emcee Georgie Jessel of "something they throw me a cue." No one ever did.

Queen Gives Prince Gift Trip On His Proposal

Must Put Power Together He Says at State Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is developing a far-reaching proposal to pool the scientific brainpower and creative resources of the North Atlantic alliance. The aim is to meet the challenge of Russia's weapons advances as well as its progress in the conquest of space.

The first hint of a program along this line came in the toast Eisenhower proposed to the Queen Thursday night.

Informed officials said today the project may be the major topic of discussion when Eisenhower meets Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain here next Wednesday.

What the president has mind, they said, is a proposal to persons familiar with his planning, is broader than a British-American partnership. It is designed to bring into play the resources of the entire North Atlantic alliance.

GAVE THE TIPOFF

Eisenhower gave the tipoff in this portion of his toast to the Queen at a White House dinner: "... We have the power. The only thing to do is to put it together.

"Our scientists must work together. NATO should not be thought of merely as a military alliance. NATO is a way of grouping ability — of our manhood, our resources, of our industries and our factories."

Eisenhower said the total assets of the free world are far greater "than those of our potential enemy," but, he added, "we are too much separated by things that ocean us locally."

Board Requests City to Take Action to Reduce Traffic Hazard on College Street

Members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board at their October meeting held this week have urged that the city immediately action be taken to ease the traffic hazard on College St. by building or grading the knoll in front of Bayside Secondary School.

The Board also requested the city and township of Thurlow to implement the recommendation of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board with respect to widening College street.

At the meeting, board members heard a delegation of residents from the West College St. district seeking the support of the board in pressing for the widening of College street.

Following discussion the board directed a letter to go to Acting City Manager Percy Brayne requesting that the blind knoll in front of Quinte Secondary School be leveled and that the city be asked to not to obstruct the vision of drivers leaving the school grounds.

Also letters will go to the city and to the township requesting implementation of the Suburban Planning Committee for widening of the entire street.

TRAFFIC AND BUSINESS

In the letters the board said that in their opinion traffic conditions along College street were extremely hazardous, pointing out that 240 high school students have to use the roadway in getting to and from school.

This figure, it was stressed, does not include Bayside School students, or elementary school pupils who also use the roadway.

In the letter it was also pointed out that only one will be requested to travel on the school when the auditorium is being used for public functions.

The board in connection with traffic conditions on College St., the board directed a letter be forwarded to the district provincial police Inspector expressing appreciation for the supervision of control on the street at times when students were going to and from school.

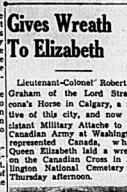
Night Prowlers Scared Away After Entry

What is believed may have been an attempt to enter the Toronto-Dominion Bank at Madoc was thwarted early today when night operators got scared away after forcing entry to an office directly over the bank.

The would-be thieves left behind them a heavy bar and an electric drill in their hurry to get away.



Police said that the night operators fired entry to the police office of Senator George S. White who is directly over the bank. Entry was gained through a window from the roof of an adjoining building at the rear.

Nothing was taken from the law office, according to police who said the attempt had been made some time after midnight.

Unemployment Up Considerably Over Last Year

Although less than five per cent of the district labor force currently out of work, unemployment in the Belleville area is considerably up this year, over the same period last year.

This was noted today by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the Belleville unemployment office, who stated that currently there are 672 persons in Belleville and district receiving unemployment benefits.

On a comparative date last year the number of people out of work and receiving benefits was only 346. This was the low point in unemployment in the Belleville area last year.

In addition to the 717 persons now receiving benefits possibly another 75 persons, mostly married women, have exhausted their benefits and are trying to find work have more or less withdrawn from the labor market.

Mr. Reed said that registrations in Belleville and in the district for the week after Thanksgiving office is about 18,000, he stated.

SAY 'POSTAL' CLAIMS

In the city and immediate local area there are 292 "regular" claimants who report personally to the local unemployment office. The balance of the current unemployed are considered as "postal" claims and live in the northern sections of the country.

"The local situation is bad, bad," noted Mr. Reed, "and we are keeping our fingers crossed that the unemployment figure does not build up as the winter approaches."

Local plants, with the exception of canning factories, have been able to retain their workers. Most of the canning factories have now completed their seasonal work.

Belleville is not alone in the threat of unemployment over last year with the situation being quite general across the Dominion.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported a quiet night watch with little more than routine matters coming to their attention.

There were a couple of reports of prowlers believed present around residential districts and police investigation failed to turn up any suspicious characters.

A Cedar Hill woman reported the loss of a $100 cheque while attending a show but called later from a bus terminal stating the cheque had been found.

Two minor accidents were reported in the city, one of them a rear-end collision at the corner of MacDonald Ave. and Cherry Gardens. Damage in both instances was only minor.

New Electronic Tappan Range Heats Only Food

What, exactly, is an electronic range? It is truly the greatest cooking appliance equipment in our lifetime. It is well-designed and engineered to give you the most up to date, modern range. It cooks by microwaves which are simply a particular type of high frequency radio energy, and, as the name would imply, microwave cooking is the application of this type of energy for producing heat within foods. The only heat produced is in the food. The air in the range, the range itself, and the utensils remain at room temperature except for such small amounts of heat as they may pick up from the food.

At first glance, this is a pretty startling turn of events, particularly when evaluated against the conditions we usually associate with cooking. All this speed and no extraneous heat! "How come?"

The answer lies in the character of microwave energy. It so happens that, when microwave energy comes into contact with foodstuffs, any one or a combination of three things can occur. First, it can be absorbed. Second, it can be transmitted. It can be absorbed. When it is absorbed, and only when it is absorbed, it is converted into heat. Foods absorb the energy and consequently become hot. Air, and many (but not all) glass, china, and paper products transmit the energy; and, since there is no absorption, they do not become hot. A much akin to the situation where, on a cold winter day, the sun streams through a window to warm a person lucky enough to be sitting in the line of the glass in the window remains relatively cold. Microwaves are reflected by metals or metallic substances — the walls of the range, for example, and, of course, there is no absorption.

The net result is the opportunity to produce hot food in a cool atmosphere in cool utensils and in a cool kitchen. From the user's point of view, this means a cooler kitchen, significant reduction of burn burns, and a cleaning technique which consists only of wiping the range with a damp cloth (for no burning or scorching can occur to require "elbow grease.")

Speed of cooking results from the ability of the microwave energy to penetrate the food from all sides to depths of about two and one-half inches and to generate instantaneous heat throughout the food within that depth. In contrast with the age-old concept of cooking which depended upon the slow process of conduction to carry the excessive heat imparted to the surface of the food to the interior of the food.

The reactions which produce the heat in the microwave energy is absorbed are highly complex, but the effect of this heat is that a major result is the friction created between the molecules of the food, as they rapidly rearrange themselves under the influence of the microwaves. Despite the complexities involved, it should be understood that no harmful radiation is produced in the cooking process. Nor does the cooking take place in the food, except those normally produced by heat.

The range is a compact requiring only 24 inches of wall space and can be built into the wall or on kitchen cabinets. It requires regular 220 volt, 3 wire electrical service and makes a modern addition to any kitchen with its brushed chrome and tubular chrome finish. See it now during Percival's open house!

And out of this old world of sorrow,

Miss M. Peart Guest Speaker At Hospital Aux.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was conducted by Mrs. Ben Riley, vice-president in the absence of the president, Mrs. Finkle. After a short business meeting Mrs Burley called on Mrs John Buchan, to introduce the speaker of the afternoon. Miss Peart, director of nursing services at the Belleville General Hospital

In her introduction, Mrs. Buchan said that Belleville was fortunate to have such a qualified and experienced person as Miss Peart as head of nursing services for the past five years.

Miss Peart trained at St. John's Hospital in Hamilton, received post graduate work in nursing education at the University of Toronto and after two years at the Ontario Red Cross Hospital in Englehart as nurse-in-charge, she came to Belleville bringing not only a wide experience in nursing science but also an outstanding ability to organize and administer nursing services. She has been instrumental in developing the new recreation and cultural facilities. Miss Peart holds executive positions on the provincial council for nursing education, the provincial program committee and has pending an appointment as nursing consultant for Civil Defence.

Miss Auxiliary felt they were indeed privileged to hear Miss Peart explain in detail the nursing service in the Belleville General Hospital. Although the basic function of the nurse is to maintain standards in the care for the sick and injured, the work of the hospital nurse has become very complex and modern trends in nursing require a constant study in addition to nursing service and education. Changes in clinical practice, surgical sciences, equipment of health service and facility services all tend to make the staff nurses' [illegible]

ITS SYSTE.

Miss Peart traced the method of recruitment and diversified system of education of the nurses-in-training throughout their four year course to insure a proper distribution of their time activities. This entails a time and job evaluation study, a planning and administering not only for the nurses-in-training but also for the staff nurses, nurses' aids, ward clerks certified nurses and orderlies. The staff of 250 is administered by Miss Peart to insure the best possible care of patients.

Miss Peart described the two main branches of the training school, which is headed by three administrative supervisors under the direction of the associate director of nursing services. The area supervisors of specialties are the next branch and under them the instructors and different aspects of the work are covered in units by them.

Miss Peart pointed out some of the problems facing the nursing profession, most acute of which was the shortage of nurses. These problems are being solved gradually by various means, one of which is the use of licensed auxiliary nurses within the nursing team, thus saving time of the professional nurse.

There are 28,000 registered nurses in Ontario, a very strong organization with its own publications and holding a high standing in the province. Miss Peart summed up her lecture with the three objectives of nursing: to render service in the interest of the public; to advance educational standards of nursing; to maintain the honor and status of the profession.

Mrs. Harry Fuke in thanking the speaker agreed that Belleville was indeed fortunate in having Miss Peart directing the course of the nursing division at the hospital and voiced the appreciation of the members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. F. Beeby convener of the Opportunity Shop made a further appeal for merchandise for the shop, especially for used bedding of all kinds, children's clothing dishes, etc. She pointed out that the shop will take remains of rummage sales of other organizations, giving back to them a share of the profits when sold.

Mrs. Ben Burley reported the progress of plans for the fashion fiesta to be held in November. Tickets are now available from members of the auxiliary and as there is to be only one performance it would be wise to secure tickets early.

A social hour followed.

Queen Approves New Sack Look In Dresses

For her arrival in Washington she chose a full-skirted wool coat of brilliant electric blue, with beaver-trimmed cuffs—and the straight sack look was emphasized by its low-slung double belt in back.

Earlier this week, in Ottawa, she wore a suit whose jacket was scarcely more than waist-longer in back than in front. And the consensus was it looked very well on her.

In the course of her U.S. visit she has shown up in at least some very definite clothing preferences, notably square necklines that set off her fetching pearl necklaces to great advantage.

She also likes hats which match the rest of her costume. The Queen wore a pert number off the face so crowds can see her.

WEARS HARTNELL GOWN

The magnificent creation of Norman Hartnell which she wore at Presidential Mrs. Eisenhower's state dinner Thursday night is the Empire Leaf of Canada" dress first worn at the state dinner in Ottawa last Monday. It is of pale green satin, with fitted bodice and great skirt. A garland of leaves in the shape of maple leaves runs around the skirt, each velvet leaf appliqued with crystals and emeralds.

It is an exquisite gown and with it the Queen wears the Russian fringe tiara—a blaze of diamonds in a sunray pattern. With it she wears a pearl and diamond necklace which is equally dramatic.

This formal finery is reserved for state occasions. Queen Elizabeth usually wears small button pearls at her ears, a double or triple strand of pearls at her throat, but frequently a dramatic clip or pin on her lapel. Thursday, however, she wore a small diamond buckle with "E.R." in diamonds on the back of her close-fitting hat.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. R. T. — She's throwing ten years of work down the drain.

Barbara S. — But my marriage is at stake!

Mrs. R. T. — My husband and I are the parents of four intelligent, attractive children. We have tried to give them a lot of the advantages we missed in life, but I'm afraid they don't appreciate it very much.

Our daughter, Barbara, is a very talented musician. We sent her to the best teachers and the won scholarships. At 19, she decided she wanted to get married so headstrong we didn't feel it right to oppose her. Now she blames us because her marriage isn't working out very well.

What worries us more is that she has completely given up her studies. She could very easily go on with the scholarship she won, but she said she couldn't do that and be a good wife at the same time. We feel she is throwing ten years of hard work down the drain for no reason at all.

Barbara S. — That is just typical of my mother. My marriage is at stake and she's worried about my giving up my scholarship.

I have tried and tried to show my mother she was so wrong in training me as a violinist for everything except life as a woman. Didn't she realize we'd have to cook at least sometimes as a house? The first time I tried to cook dinner for my husband I nearly died of stage fright. I found that keeping up our small apartment took more out of me than it either. I couldn't concentrate on my work.

Naturally I'm very unhappy about the scholarship. But I feel it's a small sacrifice to make if it will lead to a happy marriage and home — which is what I really want most. Just the same, my husband and I fight so much that I am terribly worried about what the future has in store.

The Council: Mrs. R. T. may have been wrong in not better preparing Barbara for the kind of life she would face as a married woman, but Barbara now appears to be going to childish extremes to remedy the damage.

Young girls who have no training in homemaking sometimes fly into panic when confronted with the responsibility of making a home, but they should realize that it is a job like any other. It can be learned, but not all in one day.

If Barbara had not strived for perfection in that first dinner for her husband, she undoubtedly could have produced something quite satisfactory at less cost to her nerves.

The real difficulty for Barbara and other girls who had great educational advantages is in clarifying their mind and feelings about what they want to do in life. Barbara has made up her mind she wants to be a good wife, but the fact that she fights so hard for her career is likely indication that her feelings are in rebellion

She can't help resenting the husband for whom she made the "small sacrifice" of a scholarship and a possible career as a violinist. In her attempt to repress this resentment, she punishes herself cruelly by cutting herself off from work she loves.

There is no easy solution, but Barbara should be aware that she will get her homemaking problems under control in time. She should not find it necessary to throw her years of work "down the drain," but should look for a way to give some expression to her talent in music. If she finds it, she may be happier with her husband.

BEAUTY

A group of young girls were talking the other day about the spanking clean appearance of a friend of theres in the Waves. And guess what impressed the most? The fact that a wave's white gloves are always clean enough to put on . . . not to just carry! Well, that's revealing, if ever a remark was. Now where do you suppose sometimes get the idea that soiled white gloves are permissible as long as you just carry them . . . that nobody will notice smudges when gloves are simply held in the hand? Unfortunately, they probably got the idea from mother, auntie, or older sister.

Actually, a busy woman sometimes has to feel positively selfish when she devotes a lot of time to her own wardrobe and her own personal appearance with her family demanding so much attention. But she should remember that time spent on her own grooming has a beneficial influence on everybody around her. A youngster just naturally takes it for granted that appearance matter does is right. The little grooming habits that become second nature to a growing girl . . . or boy, for that matter . . . come from a desire to imitate their elders. Which is why the idea of white gloves for even tiny little girls is such a good one. Not only do they look sweet as sugar wearing them, but being glove-conscious at an early age pays rewarding dividends later in life. Nothing stamps a woman as well-groomed more quickly than her immaculate gloves. If she insists on fresh gloves every time she goes out, it's a satisfaction that she cares about all the details of good grooming.

Even a little girl of two or three years is quick to catch on. Mother doesn't have to say many times that a lady never wears soiled gloves. Once or twice is enough then it becomes gospel and a lesson that's never forgotten.

There's no little trouble and effort involved in this lesson in daintiness that it's a pity not to make the most of it. For if grown-up size cotton and nylon gloves are a cinch to wash, a couple of tiny pairs are hardly noticeable.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: Would you know how to make the Rye Bread of the quality which is made in the "Health Bakeries"? . . . I tried making a cracked wheat loaf, but we were not too satisfied with it. Should I have boiled the cracked wheat first or would that be possible? Perhaps another type of flour would be the answer.—Mrs. R. K.

FRIDAY
(Oven Dinner)

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Grilled Golden Pickerel with Lemon Sauce; Stuffed Baked Tomatoes see Thursday); Mashed Potatoes; Peach Crumb with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

Answer: I am mailing you my recipe for whole wheat bread. I think you would get good results and a loaf roughly similar to cracked wheat if you would use my whole wheat bread recipe but substitute ½ of the whole wheat flour with all-purpose white flour. Try it, but let me know if you are not satisfied.

RYE BREAD

Rye flour bread dough is sticky — you have to use your own judgment about adding enough flour to make kneading easy. Into a large mixing bowl measure 1 cup warm water, 1 tablespoon sugar and 2 packages of granular yeast; stir once then let stand 10 minutes, then stir again. Add ¾ cup lukewarm water, ¼ cup molasses and 1 tablespoon salt. Mix; then add 2 tablespoons soft margarine, 2½ cups sifted rye flour, and 3½ to 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour. (Note: If desired for Spanish Limpa bread as sold in Health Bakeries add 2 cup raisins, finely grated rind of 3 oranges and ¼ cup sugar.) Mix well turn out on rye-floured board and knead at least 100 punches. Return to greased bowl and let rise until more than doubled in bulk, then cut down dough, knead again 100 punches, let rise again. Cut down dough and knead again and shape into 2 round loaves and place on greased corners of lightly greased baking sheet (corn-meal sprinkled if desired.) Let rise until more than doubled then bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes. After making your first 3 or 4 batches of rye bread you will master the techniques and produce professional loaves.

Question: Would you kindly send me the recipe for Grandmother's Cherry Cake? I did it, but have mislaid it. You had it in the paper several years ago.—H.B.

GRANDMOTHER'S CHERRY CAKE

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup butter, 1½ tablespoons orange juice, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, grated rind of 1 orange and half lemon, ¼ cup thinly sliced glace cherries, 3 large eggs, yolks and whites separated, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar. Butter and flour medium-sized tube or loaf pan. Sift together flour, salt and soda. Cream butter into them thoroughly. Beat in yolks, one at a time, and the salt. Add cream of tartar to whites and beat until beginning to stiffen, then sprinkle over remaining sugar gradually, beating until very stiff. Add remaining ingredients to the yolk mixture and fold in white mixture very carefully, but do not overmix. Pour into prepared pan and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 1 or 1¼ hours. Cake shrinks from sides.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

The October meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. James McMillan with 18 members and 3 visitors present.

The president, Mrs. John Mcinroy, opened the meeting with the opening ode and Mary Stewart Collect, and also a poem, "Recipe for a Day."

It was decided not to have a Hallowe'en party this year.

Mrs. John Wright was appointed delegate to the area convention in Belleville October 21 and 22, Mrs. James MacMillan, Mrs. Reg Haggerty and Mrs. Edward Cooke were appointed to a program committee for the annual "At Home" which will be in the form of a pot-luck supper in the town hall on November 13th at 6.30 p.m.

Mrs. H. Cooke read a paper which had been prepared by Mrs. E. McMaster on the motto — "There are three things a woman can make out of almost nothing — a salad, a hat and a quarrel."

Mrs. Hugh MacMillan read "Have They Found A Cure for Arthritis?" Mrs. Milton Shaw gave a solo, "Dreaming." A reading was given by Edna Tanner, "Old Fashioned Remedies," written by Edgar A. Guest.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. McInroy introduced the guest speaker, Dr. John Empen, of Roslin, who spoke on "Arthritis."

He spoke of the different forms of arthritis which affect people at different ages. He said it was a disease of cool climates and warmer climates at very helpful but do not always help cure.

All places of infection such as teeth, tonsils and gall bladder, should be looked after at once. Rest is one of the treatments, also vitamins and hot baths of water or paraffin are a great help. Cortisone is being used and so is chlorodyne, a new drug.

A discussion followed, after which Mrs. Clarence Douglas, convener of home economics and health, tendered a hearty vote of thanks; to Dr. Empson for coming to speak to the group.

The program closed with the W.I. national anthem, after which Mrs. MacMillan and her assistants served a dainty lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

TODAY'S HOSPITALITY TIP . . . TO THE HOSTESS

The hostess who makes us happy is the one who puts us each cordiality and warmth in her greeting that she immediately establishes the hospitable "personality" of her party. The charming grace with which she says, "Hello, Ann. I'm so glad to see you!" or "Bill . . . welcome! I'm so happy you could come" gives a high-hearted welcome, and gives a fine prologue to the party.

GIRL REFUSES TO RETURN GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

A good friend of ours has recently broken her 3-year engagement, without offering her fiance any reason. Since then, however, it has developed that prior to the termination of this engagement the young lady had been keeping company with another man, although at the time she had been wearing the first man's engagement ring. She did return the engagement ring, but has steadfastly refused to return a very beautiful hope chest and also the expensive fur coat presented on her by her former fiance and his family. We think we have been giving her gifts is indicative of poor manners, and we'd like your opinion about it. If you would think so too. We would appreciate your opinion about this.—Friend of Yours.

The thinking of this young "Lady" is decidedly lacking in tact, and indeed I agree with you that her tenacious holding onto the presents she has got by her ex-fiance and the members of his family shows a most unfortunate lack of right taste and good judgment. These presents were for an engagement that no longer exists, and therefore should of course be returned. Obviously, these things — things are desperately important to this girl, as witness that she refuses to return the engagement presents she should return. Also, she seems to think the man's engagement ring while she is "keeping company" with another man! I'm hoping, just hoping, that your friendship and your right to advise her will be able to persuade her to do what she should do (and I'm sure she knows what she should do) about returning these gifts. That hope extends to your having a darkly-disapproving look if she keeps it and uses it for the imminent (I think) second engagement!

WHICH HONOR-ATTENDANT DIRECTLY PRECEDES BRIDE?

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

Will you please give me a definite answer to a question which is causing my wedding plans? When the bride has both a matron of honor and a maid of honor, which do you have, and I do not want them to walk together, which one walks just in front of my father and me?

Bride-to-be

The place of greater honor in the Processional is directly in front of me and your father. Therefore in this place is the honor attendant who is to be the actual witness. For example, if your sister is to be your matron of honor and a close friend your maid of honor, you would doubtless ask your sister to be your witness and also to take charge of your veil and train and bouquet at the proper times) and to directly precede you and your father up the aisle.

WANTS HER THREE BRIDES-MAIDS TO WALK SINGLY

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

I have only one sister, and she is to be my maid of honor, make a too-long line.

Then I have three particularly close friends whom I would like to have for my bridesmaids. We have been dear friends ever since kindergarten days, and since our graduation from high school have worked in the same office. I would like them to me an awkward plan to have two of them walk together and one alone. Would it be proper for them to walk singly? I have never seen this done.—H. M.

Quite often, when there is an uneven number of bridesmaids, they walk singly, and this is entirely proper procedure. When the number is three, in your case, and when, as is also your case, the bride wishes to give equal importance to each bridesmaid this is an especially good plan. This number doesn't Corduroy has certainly changed its tune these days. Once relegated to dungarees for sports and rural wear it has risen the sartorial ladder and allies itself with fine furs for exquisite suits and coats. Vera Maxwell uses a delicious thick and thin corduroy for an ever-so-smart coat which she fashions on slim lines, with side button closing, the whole thing topped off by a new sack type mink collar. And to make the coat even more versatile it has its own velvety corduroy skirt.

Training Domestics is Part Of 'Y' Work in Barbados

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO — Training domestics may seem an odd project for the YWCA to undertake but Miss Foster, area secretary for the YWCA in the Caribbean, says it's an important part of her organized work in the Barbados.

While visiting in Toronto, Miss Foster said the courses in Barbados grew out of the unemployment problem there. Domestic employment serving the tourist trade offered one solution and the YWCA set up domestic training for both men and women.

In Barbados and Trinidad the Y is co-operating with the Canadian immigration board in selecting girls to come to Canada. They offer courses to familiarize the girls with such things as vacuum cleaners and automatic washers.

"It's the answer to the Canadian housewife's prayer," said Miriam Moore, program director of the Toronto Y.

Domestics that have already been placed in Canadian homes have proved to be very satisfactory.

"We have received few complaints," Mrs. Moore added.

Miss Foster "keeps an eye" on YWCA work in many places in Central America and the West Indies, suggests new methods and gives advice and leadership where necessary.

"We are most fortunate in the type of volunteer leadership we have attracted in these areas," she said. "Many of the women are Canadian and some are British and American women whose husbands are in the colonial or consular service.

"These women take the lead and although the program is mainly geared for native women more and more white members are joining," she said.

Programs vary with the country. In St. Vincent's, Windward Islands, the big problem is illiteracy. Here the Y has set up reading and writing classes.

Other Y programs in the Caribbean are similar to those which Miss Foster said. However there is less emphasis on keep-fit and gym classes.

Miss Foster will return to Canada next year as national orientation secretary for the YWCA of Canada.

A graduate in social work from the University of British Columbia, she was formerly director of the Peterborough, Ont., YWCA before going to Surinam, Dutch Guiana.

Bench Quashes Charge Against Peach Farmer

LEAMINGTON (CP) — Magistrate J. Arthur Hanrahan has dismissed a charge against district peach farmer Albert L. Bruner, 72, of witholding information from the Ontario fresh peach growers' marketing board required to be supplied the board under a marketing scheme.

Earlier Tuesday, defence counsel Murray Yuffy had argued that the board was acting beyond its authority in asking for details of a year's sales as was asked of Mr. Bruner. He said the board could ask for information covering only the sale of peaches over a 48-hour period.

He said they could ask for the information only of growers registered with them. He said they had never asked Mr. Bruner to register with them.

The board is the principal marketing agency of Ontario peach growers. It levies 19 cents on each basket of peaches it markets, using the money to pay producers unable to sell their peaches.

HIGHWAY OUT

The Alaska Highway was cut when a 465-foot span of the 2,-200-foot suspension bridge over the Peace River between Taylor and Dawson Creek, B.C., collapsed. This photo shows the crumpled span in the river and another span sagging dangerously.

The collapse of a bridge over the Peace River in northern British Columbia has blocked travel over the Alaska Highway, important artery for supplies being trucked to DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line sites in the north-west.

One span of the 2,200 - foot bridge collapsed Oct. 15, disrupting travel over the 1,500 - mile highway. The break occurred near Taylor, B.C., 40 miles north of Dawson Creek, where the mile-zero post on the wartime-built highway stands.

Some of the highway traffic was diverted to a small ferry 10 miles downstream and Dawson Creek officials called for federal help in improving their airport so that an airlift with supplies for the north could be organized.

The Alaska Highway was built in 1942 by the United States Army to provide access to American bases in Alaska. The highway now is maintained by Canadians. Superstructure of the Peace River bridge, biggest of the 133 bridges on the highway, was moved into Northern B. C. from salvage of a bridge in Oakland, Calif.

It is a two-lane bridge and is used by more than 200 cars daily as well as supply trucks.

Sunday School Lesson

Satisfaction Is Best Reward

By ROY L. SMITH

The story is told of an old man, a veteran churchman, who was accustomed to prayer every Sunday, "Lord, keep our preacher humble, and make us humble, too!" And there is a widespread belief, at least in certain quarters, that poverty and piety are natural affinities.

QUESTION OF PAID MINISTRY

One of the questions that has divided the Christian Church through the centuries has been that of the compensation to be provided for its ministers. There are those denominations that take the position that no man who preaches the gospel should be paid for his services, and there are those other Christian bodies that believe in paying all the clergy the same amount.

The question of payment to the clergy arose very early in the Christian Church early in the first century in fact — and the Apostle Paul took a very positive position in the matter. Although he did not, himself, accept any compensation because o fthe fact that he preferred to support himself by working at his trade, he insisted that the right of the minister to compensation for his services should not be surrendered.

The principle of a paid ministry was everywhere accepted in the pagan world. The Jewish priests in the Temple, and the rabbis in the synagogues, were provided with their livings in payment for their services. At the pagan shrines the priests and attendants were given the meat and fruits offered at the altars as sacrifices. Because there was always a huge excess, the sale of the surplus provided them with a lush living.

There is a certain irreducible minimum in the matter of material support. Every person needs a certain amount of food, clothing and shelter, to maintain life. But it is one o fthe marks of the image of God in which every man is made that when he has eaten and is full, and when he has been clothed and sheltered, his demands on life have just begun. From that point on he demands a strange thing called satisfaction.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 20: "THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER" 1 Corinthians 3.

There is, of course, a certain amount of satisfaction in luxuries, comforts, safiety, achievement, power and authority. But for the Christian minister (as well as the Christian layman) the chief satisfaction is found in making and being a contribution to the spiritual life of the world about him.

To the Apostle Paul, as to all true ministers of the gospel in all ages, the lasting satisfactions are those that come from the lives that have been redeemed through the preaching of the good news of Jesus Christ. The young men whose lives have been directed into great usefulness, the families whose lives have been sanctified by a great purpose, the elderly who have been introduced to serenity — these are the rewards of the man who has given his life to spostleship.

Persecution, defeat, criticism, opposition, betrayals, hardships — all such difficulties only blunted the inner defenses built up within the soul of the inspired.

This is the reason Jesus once said, "I have meat to eat that you do not know about," and why the Apostle Paul was able to say of his hardships, "none of these things move me." Furthermore, it explains what Jesus meant when he said, "The peace I give you is not like that which the world offers you."

INTEGRATED PERSONALITY

The psychologists enjoy talking about the perfectly integrated personality by which they mean that one for wahich there is but one center.

The tragedy in the lives of literally millions of people is the fact that they are constantly endeavoring to make their existence revolve about two centers at the same time, and it cannot be done. As Jesus expressed it, "no man can serve two masters."

The Apostle Paul represented the perfectly integrated life — that one whose entire existence revolves about a single center. To him there was but one supreme purpose in living. He sought to do what he believed to be the will of God, under every circumstance and condition.

Let any man dedicate his whole life to one goal and he will find at least some measure of peace, the size and extent of that peace depending upon the magnitude of the goal.

SELL PERON'S CARS

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — An auction of imported cars, speedboats and jeeps seized from deposed dictator Juan Peron netted more than 2,000 000 pesos ($50,000) for the national wealth recovery board Wednesday night. Argentine race driver Roberto Meires paid the top price, 400,000 pesos ($10,000) for a brilliant fire-engine-red Alfa Romeo "flying saucer" racer.

EDITOR EXPELLED

Ramon Merrero Aristy, editor of La Nacion of Ciudad Trujillo, walks with bowed head out of the 13th OAS meeting and the Inter American Press association in Washington. The organization voted to expel La Nacion from its ranks on grounds that the newspaper's policies were set by Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo who "was clearly against freedom of the press." A similar action was taken against Havana, a Cuban daily.

OMA Proposes 'Service Fee' Basis of Operation Under New Hospital Insurance Scheme

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Medical Association disclosed to day it has proposed a "fee for service" basis of operation to maintain high standards of medical practice under the proposed government hospital insurance plan.

The proposal was contained in a brief presented to the Ontario Hospital Services Comm ission on Aug. 28. The contents were released for publication today.

Dr. Glenn Sawyer, OMA general secretary, said: "We recognized the hospital insurance plan was insuring two aspects of work of those physicians responsible for the provision of diagnostic services (1) the service rendered the patient, and (2) the service rendered the hospital.

"It was also insuring the hospital costs associated with these services."

He said those phases of the doctor's work which have to do with administration, supervising and teaching of technical staff are responsibilities to the hospital, and chargeable to the hospital. It was recommended the doctors enter into a contract with the hospitals for this portion of their work.

The professional services of those physicians coming under the proposed plan, he said, do not differ from those rendered by other physicians. These services were rendered to patients and the patients should be responsible for their payment. If the patient was insured under the plan he has the right to recover the amount allowed for insured benefits.

"We believe that the doctors providing insured services should render their accounts directly to the insurance plan," Dr. Sawyer added. This would save subscribers much detail in dealing with general hospital cost on a per diem basis.

OMA President Dr. Murray S. Douglas of Windsor said: "This fee-for-service plan should help maintain Ontario medical service as it was, the best possible."

"Our proposals have been well received by the committee," said Dr. Sawyer.

The Herald, Montreal's Oldest Daily Paper, Halts Publication

MONTREAL (CP)—Brash and breezy to the last, the Herald today printed its farewell thin.

Just 24 hours from its 167th birthday, the tabloid - format newspaper that sought sparkle in its news ceased to publish, a victim of clumping costs.

But its biggest story—its own sad story—got only one column today and then one and was jumped to inside pages. The paper reserved for other news its front page, big headlines and appealing pictures.

Herald readers, about 40,000 a day in recent months, were told the paper, Canada's oldest, had published at a loss for many years.

"Montreal's habits have changed," it said editorially. "The Herald . . . apparently does not belong."

PUBLISHER ADVISES'

The Herald staff learned of their paper's death in a pre-dawn message Friday from John G. McConnell, president of the Montreal Star which owns The Herald. Editor-in-chief Robert C. Hanson was to have read it to them, but instead the statement was tacked on the bulletin board, and he spoke to his staff one-by-one.

Some Herald writers will join The Star, and the parent paper plans to place on sale its early edition about the time the mid-morning Herald used to appear. The others will get a cash severance payment.

In his statement, Mr. McConnell said no other decision but to close down The Herald was possible on economic grounds.

"... But this does not mitigate the genuine wrench involved in making it," he said. "The living personality of a newspaper will disappear."

CHANGING TIDE

Since its first issue of Saturday Oct. 19, 1811, The Herald has had many personalities. Its politics have ranged from high Toryism to free-wheeling Liberalism. It opposed Confederation, and then backed it. One editor used the paper chiefly to further the cause of the Presbyterian Church against the Church of England.

The Herald's founder and first editor, William Gray, a Scot from Aberdeen, fought for the barons in their booming hey-day of early Montreal with its 18,000 people. He argued for agriculture and immigration to advance young Canada's future.

In the thick of events, Gray covered the War of 1812 for his paper, and probably was Canada's first war correspondent.

The paper shared in — and helped create—a boom after the War of 1812. It advocated formation of the Bank of Montreal, urged the Lachine Canal to really and build itself into the colony's leading newspaper. In the process, it became Tory and reverence between Canada and the United States.

NEW IDEAS

It imported the first steam-operated cylinder press, began to use display type, saw new editors, owners and ideas.

John W. Dafoe, a young western newspaper man, joined the staff as editor in 1892, later won national honor as editor of the Winnipeg Free Press. Josiah C. Atkinson worked for The Herald and, went on to found the Toronto Star. B. K. Sandwell, a Herald staffer, became the influential editor of Saturday Night in Toronto.

In those early, brighter days, a young sports writer joined The Herald. His name was Elmer Ferguson, and although "Fergie" retired in 1954, he still wrote a sports column, called "The Gist and Jest of It," for today's farewell edition, and will continue it with The Star.

He is the only present Herald employee still working who surfaced in its disastrous 1910 issue that took 22 lives in the newspaper's plant. A borrowed press produced the next edition about the big fire.

NEEDED PRODUCTION

During the lean times of the Second World War, The Star, which owns The Herald, merged its production facilities with The Herald. Later, The Herald Company was made a division of The Star.

"Prolonged study has convinced the management that the place occupied by The Herald in the competitive Montreal newspaper field is too small to ensure a sound economic publication," The Herald announced.

Its departure from the field leaves the city with only six dailies, compared with eight four years ago. In 1953, Le Canada, Liberal party organ, ceased publication.

Think Soviet Ship Refueled Subs on Way to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says a Soviet freighter, recently in Vancouver to pick up Canadian wheat, had a North Pacific rendezvous with two Russian submarines.

The newspaper says the subs had been off the British Columbia coast for the last three weeks.

The freighter Alexander Nevsky had hurried visits from high officials of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa while she was in port here.

The newspaper describes the submarines as a Second World War type. They have been observed by aircraft from Alaskan bases. the report adds.

The first report on the two submarines and the freighter were given to the newspaper by "a reliable waterfront source."

Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner, Pacific flag officer for the Royal Canadian Navy, would not comment except to say:

"In recent months, there has been considerable evidence of unknown submarines in the North Pacific. Naturally every report is fully investigated."

On the Atlantic coast, Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen disclosed Thursday that a sea-air hunt is under way off Newfoundland try- ing to locate and identify submarines reported to have been sighted there "during the last few months."

Coldwell Against Govt. Relying On U.S. Capital

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Coldwell said Thursday night Canada will be in increasing danger if it continues to rely on the influx of American capital investment to offset its trade deficit.

Expanding U.S. investment, he said in the Commons, will result in higher future payments of interest and dividends. It would make Canada more vulnerable to economic pressure "and I believe ultimately to political pressure."

Of a $914,000,000 Canadian trade deficit in the first half of this year, $212,000,000 was due to a deficit on international payments of interest and dividends.

Mr. Coldwell said the Progressive Conservatives, in their federal election campaign last spring, had spoken much about Canadian control of resources and industries. Yet Finance Minister Fleming had recently gone to New York for a speech "to assure U.S. investors of an open-arms reception in Canada."

U.S. Television Coverage Of Queen, Prince Draws Ire From Canadian Viewers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some Canadians disliked American - network coverage of the Queen's visit to Washington.

A few score of the more vocal ones telephoned the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Thursday to say so specifically they criticized one National Broadcasting Company commentator as being too flip.

The CBC said it received between 50 and 60 complaints at Toronto and at least 60 in Winnipeg. The Ottawa head office at Ottawa estimated the national total at between 200 and 300.

At Ottawa the CBC spokesman said: "There was a difference in coverage provided which, to us, merely stressed part of the difference between Canada and the United States.

"The very tone of our commentators is different. because basically Elizabeth is our Queen as we think she should be treated in a certain way. The Americans take a different approach."

CRITICAL OF COVERAGE

There were complaints in Vancouver and Halifax, too, but callers there appeared more critical of the extent of the coverage than its quality.

At no point did the CBC offer any comment. Tht. pattern was to thank the caller and merely note the complaint.

A CBC spokesman in Toronto said most of the calls complained of "buncombe" and a "sneering" inflection. One person claimed the commentator referred to the Queen as "she" on one occasion instead of "Her Majesty."

The CBC quoted one observation was that U.S. coverage was neither as polished nor as complete as that by Canadian TV crews at Ottawa earlier in the week.

"The CBC did it much better; all we saw in American coverage was Elizabeth and Philip out of cars," one complaint said. "We didn't only saw the Queen at all."

It was reported the Queen did not appear on television screens during the commentators' apparently an ad lib effort to fill time that brought the most criticism.

CLAIMS RIDICULE

Said another Winnipeg viewer: "There's sneering, are ridiculing the Queen, making fun of the dignity and ceremony of her visit to Canada and the way it was handled in Canada."

However, at Halifax, the CBC said it got three calls criticizing the U.S. coverage. "about a dozen" protesting excessive royal coverage.

In the first twin, one woman said: "I think it was positively disgusting that the American commentators are making fun of the Queen and her attendants."

But, demanded another: "Why do we have to watch all this stuff? If the CBC took a vote, they'd find 99 per cent of the people against it."

Among the rocket exhibits at the Radio Engineers' exposition is this model of the 1,500 mph Sparrow, the air-to-air guided missile used by the U.S. navy. The exhibits included a number of inventions shown for the first time. Special interest was shown in the robots behind automation displayed by Canadian, U.S., and European firms among the 165 exhibitors.

Queen Places Wreath on Tomb Unknown Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth drove through a light rain to Arlington National Cemetery Thursday to honor war dead in solemn rites at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and at the Canadian Cross.

The Queen arrived at the cemetery gate to the sound of a 21-gun salute reverberating across the wooded hillside where sleep thousands of former servicemen.

Her motorcade drove to the east entrance to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where the Queen marched up a long mall, on a tan carpet, past the graves of all the U.S. states and territories. The flags dipped in salute to her.

Prince Philip, in an admiral's uniform, followed behind.

Several hundred persons along the route applauded in restrained fashion as the royal couple made their way to the tomb which is guarded day and night by members of the U.S. Army's 3rd Infantry Regiment.

Then the Queen and Prince Philip joined the correspondents laughing heartily when Wooton, reporting from the prepared text of his speech of welcome, said he wanted to know if the Queen or the prince, whom he described as the man "who won the heart of Elizabeth" would like to see a sizable bride in the White House.

The royal couple leaned back in their chairs, laughed and then exchanged whispered remarks until the laughter died down.

The Queen was a plaided loudly when she stood to address the reception.

The Queen said the speed of modern communications might lead to giving newspaper men time for reflection as they reported the news. She added:

"Moreover, your readers, as their interests widen, demand more background to the news and about more intricate subjects."

The Queen said that in other ways modern communications are bringing the United States and the Commonwealth closer to each other.

"The people of the United States and the peoples of my Commonwealth cannot visit each other nearly as often as they would wish and ignorance breeds fear and suspicion," she said.

CLOSER AND CLOSER

"But each year modern techniques of communications bring them closer and closer to each other. Your reports are transmitted throughout this vast continent and around the world in seconds. By radio we talk and publicly debate with our friends across the oceans. Before long by television we shall, literally, be looking in on each others lives and activities.

"But in some other ways, technical progress and the rapidly changing pattern of modern life increase the difficulty of the responsibilities of your task."

The Queen said the role played by the press is important when each country is trying to adjust its thinking and institutions to the challenge of a changing world.

The Queen added:

"I'm expecting twins."

Only One City In West Approves Fluoridation

EDMONTON (CP) — Hardly any cities are rated fluoridation have ended in four Alberta cities with only one city approving the controversial treatment.

Outcome of fluoridation plebiscites received considerable attention in the toughest mayoralty contests in years as Alberta's eight cities went uniformly conservative Wednesday.

Final returns Thursday gave Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton a fourth term. In Calgary, Mayor Don Mackay handily won his fifth successive two-year term.

Fluoridation plebiscites were not as clear-cut.

Red Deer, a city of 13,000 in central Alberta approved fluoridation by 1,901 votes to 1,784. The per-cent affirmative vote. A two-thirds majority was required.

In Edmonton the percentage was slightly more than 64, while 66 2-3 per cent was needed.

Fluoridation was defeated in Calgary, 28,358 against and 16,196 in favor, of a Medicine Hat there were 1,943 for, 1,549 against.

One of the Calgary opponents of fluoridation was the city's medical health officer, Dr. W. H. Hamilton. Mackay said this was the main reason the bylaw was defeated.

Charged With Murder

TORONTO (CP) — William Frederick Hall, 21, was arrested at gunpoint Thursday on a downtown street and charged with the murder of Ling Lee.

The 79-year-old Chinese laundry proprietor died in hospital Sept. 28, nine days after he was beaten in his laundry. The premises were ransacked in what police said was an apparent robbery attempt although $97 was found in Ling's pockets.

Roland Carrier, 25, of Sudbury was arrested last Friday on a charge of murder in the same case.

Police said the charge against Carrier will stand.

Mammoth Reception Staged By Washington's Press Corps For Queen and Her Prince

WASHINGTON (CP) — Several hundred journalists were present to the Queen through the mammoth reception by the Washington press corps.

For half an hour, the Queen with Prince Philip at her side, stood in the ballroom of the Statler Hotel and shook hands with press, radio and television correspondents covering the royal visit to the United States.

The journalists were presented by Paul Wooton, a veteran southern newspaperman who is chairman of the joint committee of press, radio and television correspondents.

It was Wooton who presided over a similar press reception in honor of the Queen, then Princess Elizabeth, during her visit to Washington six years ago.

The Queen appeared relaxed. She smiled happily during the presentation.

Later she addressed the correspondents.

INTRODUCES PRINCE

The Queen and Prince Philip joined the correspondents in laughing heartily when Wooton, reporting from the prepared text of his speech of welcome, said he wanted to know if the Queen or the prince, whom he described as the man "who won the heart of Elizabeth" would like to see a sizable bride in the White House.

Canada's Wheelchair Athletes

Paralympic Players Prepare

Canada will be represented at the 1958 Paralympic Games by the Wheelchair Wonders and Wonderettes from Montreal. Founder of this annual sports event for crippled athletes is Dr. Ludwig Guttmann, a German neurosurgeon who went to Britain in 1938 and became interested in the plight of paraplegics. In 1944 he launched a sports program to help patients strengthen weak muscles. Athletes from 10 countries will compete in next year's event. Above, Canada's archery team: Pierre Brousseau, Roch Poirier, Jean Rochon and Thérèse Tourangeau.

Popular coach of the Montreal team, Bill Hepburn, instructs Bertha Gilbert in the proper grip for the javelin throw. Canadian team placed 4th in javelin throwing in the 1954 games.

Star contestant Jean Rochon has won gold medals in swimming and archery. Travelling expenses to Paralympics are paid by individuals themselves with assistance if necessary from the Canadian Paraplegic Association.

Although they will never leave their wheelchairs, most paraplegics are able to support themselves, hold jobs in offices and factories. Rochon, trained as an electrician, earns a good living for his family of five.

Miss Clymar Sowery practices for the swimming event. Paraplegics use a swimming stroke invented by Dr. Guttmann: swimmer sits upright in the water, paralyzed legs floating in front, and propels himself backward.

The Canadian basketball team which reached the semi-finals in 1954 is today a formidable force and high hopes are pinned on the team for the 1958 games. Club members (35 men and 15 women) are also trained in ping-pong and floor hockey. Coach Hepburn has successfully taught members to concentrate on their abilities rather than on their disability.

Gouzenko Says Spies May Have Sabotaged Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Igor Gouzenko, former clerk in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa who exposed a spy ring in Canada, says Soviet spies may have sabotaged the U.S. missile program and put Moscow ahead in launching an earth satellite.

Gouzenko made the statement in a recording heard Wednesday by Senate investigators.

Robert R. Secrest, Milwaukee journalist and radio commentator, played the tape recording at a public hearing before the Senate internal security subcommittee.

He said he made the recording in a recent interview with Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. Gouzenko defected to the West, exposed a Soviet espionage ring in Ottawa and now lives in Canada under an assumed name.

Weekend Football

Make or Break for East, Lions Aim for Playoff Spot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

This could be the make-or-break weekend for first place in Eastern Canada's three football leagues.

Five games are scheduled Saturday in the Big Four, Ontario Rugby Football Union and Intercollegiate Union.

In the Big Four the leader has every chance to help itself. Hamilton Tiger-Cats, two points ahead of Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes, are at home to the Als. Riders move into Toronto against the crippled Toronto Argonauts.

London Lords, ORFU leaders by two points, will sit and watch while the runnerup Sarnia Golden Bears attempt to move back into a first-place tie. The Bears meet third - place Kitchener-Waterloo. Toronto Balmy Beach is idle.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs, holding down top spot in the Intercollegiate league, get a chance to knock off one of the runners-up when they tangle with University of Toronto Blues at London. McGill Redmen, tied with Varsity, play Queen's University Golden Gaels at Montreal.

CUTDOWN DEADLINE

The Big Four clubs will each play their last four scheduled games with their final list of players for this season. The import deadline is midnight tonight and those last shops—involving five players on three teams—are expected to trickle in the last moment.

Ottawa's Frank Clair dropped half Jim Roseboro Thursday and has two more to go, as has Hamilton's Jim Trimble.

Montreal's Doug Walker has the one to cut and there was some speculation he would be cleared Billy Shipp, who reinjured his back last weekend but managed to struggle to practice Thursday.

Clair, if he decides to drop fullback Ton Gabellas and lineman Tom Jones, could send up going against Toronto, with only 19 the 14 imports allowed. Fullback Tom Lewis has a charleyhorse and tackle Eave Vaughan a knee injury. Neither may be able to start.

Argos' Hamp Pool had all his cuts decided for him when he used the 14 import cheating allowed each team by last week-end. This week he may really be on the spot with injuries to backs Corky Tharp and Dick Shatto and ends Pete O'Garro and Menan Schriewer.

TICATS FAVORED

Trimble's Tiger-Cats are in good shape and most observers are figuring Hamilton for a win against Als, something they haven't been able to accomplish in their last two meetings.

The Intercollegiate race may turn into a two-team fight.

Western's big line and powerful offence easily ran over McGill and Queen's had chances and they can dy the same against Toronto.

Coach Johnny Metras has everybody on hand including Ed Meads on the line and Bill Britton in the backfield.

McGill, apparently recovered from flu which hurt them in their opener against Western, clipped Queen's 23-0 in a pre-season exhibition and are favored to do it again. Three Gaels, Bill Halvorson, Ron Young and Bob McAleese, will be out of action.

McGill is at full strength which means Dick Carr pitching to Joe Poirier and Johnny Bennett if Carl Hansen and Jan Sandzelius running if it comes up wet.

British Columbia Lions undefeated in four straight games, in a rough test this weekend in their struggle with Calgary Stampeders for first spot in the final standings of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers already have clinched spots in the three-team WIFU playoffs. The third berth is still open.

Lions, three points behind Calgary, are aiming at a victory in Vancouver Saturday night, with the Eskimos, seeking their fourth consecutive national champion ship.

Stampeders, who have won only twice in their last nine starts are at home Saturday night to Winnipeg.

The other weekend fixture has Saskatchewan Roughriders, already out of the playoffs, in Winnipeg Monday night.

In their three remaining games Lions meet Eskimos twice and Winnipeg once. Calgary must meet the Blue Bombers twice and Saskatchewan once.

Lions, hoping to extend their longest winning streak since entering the WIFU in 1954, may be without hard - running halfback Vic Micle against Eskimos Saturday. Vicic has had a torn ligament.

And five other Lions missed Wednesday's practice because of flu.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Edmonton announced East Carolina quarterback Don Getty is recovering from pneumonia but will be out of action for three weeks.

WANT TO CLINCH 1

Stampeders, hoping to avoid being "shocked" into the playoffs, will be seeking a win over Winnipeg to clinch third place with a British Columbia loss would assure Calgary of third place.

The cutting of backfielder Bud Leake was the big surprise Thursday night as the Blue Bombers announced the 12 imports they will keep for the remainder of the season. The club retained halfback Denis Mondich from Michigan State by way of New York Giants of the National Football League.

Besides Leake, the league's leading scorer last year, the club cut tackle Ed Hamilton from Baltimore Colts, and guard Vern Uecker from Texas Christian.

The Eskimos were expected to drop former Oklahomans Earl Lindley and Tommy Forrest. Both have been sidelined with injuries. Coach Ivy also must choose between import centres Kurt Burris and Bob Weber. Another choice probably will be made between two other Oklahoma college stars, Jerry Edmon Grey and John Bell.

Stampeders have already announced their imports. They have cut former Washington Redskin ends Eric Christensen and John Pyrzest, tackle Tom O'Brien from Notre Dame and Montana, Houston half Don Carsway and end Willie Roberts.

B.C. coach Clem Crowe's big import problem is choosing between the injured Vicic and Earl Lindley of San Francisco, and between Rick Kaser and Dan Edwards.

Leafs, Canadiens Hit Back at Western Club

WINNIPEG (CP) — Counter-suits of $35,000 each have been lodged by Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League against Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League.

The counter - claims say the Warrior hockey club was so mismanaged that net profits were reduced. They also allege that various statements of financial affairs were incomplete and that expenses which had nothing to do with determining the net profits were included.

Last month, Warriors started a damage suit against the two NHL clubs, asking $137,631 general damages and repayment of net profits.

Warriors alleged that the two NHL clubs failed to live up to their agreement to provide players of WHL standard between Dec. 1, 1956, and April 30, 1957.

Canadiens and Maple Leafs in their statement of defence said they were ready, willing and able to provide such players, but the Warriors refused to accept them.

The clubs asked for a further accounting of net profits and payment to them of their share of already received from the Warriors.

Roberts Led 'Gopher' League

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phillies gave up 40 home runs in 1957 to pace the National League in gopher balls for the fourth straight season. But he still trailed Washington's Pedro Ramos, who set an American League record of 43.

Roberts broke the major league standard by allowing 40 homers in 1956.

Jim Bunning, a 20-game winner for Detroit Tigers, served 32 home runs in 267 innings while Hal Jeffcoat, Cincinnati righthander, was the runnerup to Roberts in the National League. He yielded 29 homers in 207 frames.

STILL BUYING

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League have purchased the contract of Ronald Hervey, 21-year-old catcher from the St. Louis Cardinal chain. He is the first of a string of seven Leafs hope to line up by spring, and brings the number of players bought by Leafs within the last three days to eight.

Jersey City May Be Back In International

MONTREAL (CP) — President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League says the triple A circuit has taken a "big step in becoming a first major league" by claiming the Jersey City, N.J., territory.

He said the league intends to operate again in Jersey City next season with either Miami or Havana, comparative newcomers to the league. Both suffered heavy financially last season.

Mr. Shaughnessy said that becoming a third major circuit has been the International League's life-long goal. He doesn't know how long it will be before the league realizes its ambition, but said "we are on our way."

The International League last was in Jersey City in 1950.

YANKEES ONLY RIVALS

"When we were in there before we had too much to buck with three major league clubs in New York," said Shaughnessy. "Now we will have it all to ourselves when the Yankees are out of town.

"Miami and Havana have lost some money but otherwise we are in good shape. The addition of Jersey City will make us that much stronger."

Difficulties over a lease of the Miami stadium as well as lack of interest of Miami fans are among reasons prompting Miami owner George Storer to consider transferring to Jersey City, said Shaughnessy.

Shaughnessy was asked what would happen to Havana Sugar Kings if Miami, the other Florida club, transferred to Jersey City.

He said so far as he knows Havana will again operate, having that right as long as the club carries out its responsibilities. President Bob Maduro of the Sugar Kings has not spoken of transferring the franchise, said Shaughnessy.

MATCH MACHEN, JACKSON

Machen is a successfully challenged Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight crown July 29.

Well, Well, Hamilton Cubs Whomp Whitby

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series defeated the defending Allan Cup champions Whitby Dunlops 7-5 Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game watched by 1,300 fans.

Pat Baker, Ray Preston, Brian Smith, Jim Shropshire, Stuart McNeill, Garry Tuyben and Jerry Sullivan scored for the Cubs.

Bob Attersley and Tom O'Connor with two goals apiece and Gordie Myles were the marksmen for the squad which will represent Canada in world competition in February.

That it was Richard I who made the famous law of cloth and fixed standard measures?

This measure and the principle of measurements was embodied in the Statute of 1196 which stated "one width of cloth whether dyed or russet to wit 2 ells within the lists" (an English ell is 45 inches, but the Flemish ell is 37½ inches). The Flemish ells therefore make 54 inches, which is the common width of cloth of cloth manufacture at the present time)

Rocket Needs One More Goal To Create Sensational Record Of 500

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Big Moe Benoit stood behind the counter in his coffee shop and cast an appraising eye over the new decor. He liked what he saw and so did a contingent of mid-morning coffee-breakers. The "Bar.2" has been redecorated in soft colors, and with the new window effects, trophies, etc., is very pleasing to the eye.

Next week Moe expects his new restaurant facilities, such as tables and chairs and within a few days the clientele, will be able to wrap itself around juicy steaks and chops.

Fortunately for Moe's business activities and unfortunately for the puck-chasing McFarlands, Moe will have a week or ten days off to finish his business dealings. For the sad news broke yesterday that the big defenceman will be out of action for that period of time due to an aggravation in Peterborough the other night, of an old shoulder injury.

"It was painful the day following the game," Moe said, "so I had a medical examination. The doctor told me to rest from hockey for the next week or so, which will put me in good shape for the big opener against Whitby Dunlops on October 25th."

And that is not all. Tony Pecta will be out indefinitely with that injured ankle and Johnny Murelich will be lost to the club for the next two or three weeks. Johnny fractured a bone in his hand, for the second season in a row, and is laid up with the same lines as the Peterborough Petes. Local fandom hoped that it would be able to see Bobby Hull in action with the Teeps, but Bobby has been signed by the Chicago Black Hawks and is now playing with the National Hockey League club.

The Teepees, nevertheless, are a powerful young club and tonight's battle with the Macs should be a thriller. They are no tour in the Eastern circuit and will meet Kingston CKLC's and the Cornwall Chevies before returning to Rex Stimers' Midnayay. Rex Stimers, by the way, is the well known radio personality known as "The Voice of the Niagara Peninsula," and "you ain't heard nuthin' yet," until you hear the Stimer hockey warblings, are sorry for that number, over a radio microphone. What that guy can do with the Queen's English is enough to make Dan Webster shake his honorable bones. It has been stated that Rex will accompany the Ste. Catharines clubs.

Speaking of that more or less quarter-staff engagement between the Petes' kids and the Macs the other night, what has been puzzling the McFarlands is why did not two referees, one of whom was blacklisted from at least one Eastern Ontario senior "A" arena last winter, note forty or more penalties but failed to see and penalize the Peterborough coach who was waiting in the penalty box when Kowalchuk received his major, and greeted him with a fist, as he was "serving out." After all, it was this incident that led to the near free-for-all that resulted in nine McFarland misconduct penalties.

SENIOR "A" MEETING

At the senior "A" meeting the other night it was decided, we learned via the Cornwall sports editor, that the loop will again use the one referee-two linesmen system. This official fact, incidentally, has been boosted. The line forms up at the right, gentlemen.

The new penalty-box line rule will be in order this year. To stop any player-jamming around the hoosegow while the "judge" utters sentence, a circle will be placed around the sin-bin. No player can cross the line while His Nibs is dispensing justice or otherwise. Sudden-death overtime will again be the style.

The powers-that-be unwittingly handed the McFarlands' Booster Club a jolt, inasmuch as a schedule change sees the Macs playing Kingston on the week-end of November 22, the night the Russians play Whitby in Toronto. This will probably affect the sale of tickets which the Whitby Dunlops so generously provided for members of the Boosters.

The team which will play the Russians in Kingston on November 2 came up for discussion and it was mentioned in this column before, will basically be a CKLC squad bolstered by forward lines and defencemen from Belleville, Cornwall and Pembroke. A new note was added at the meeting. The Kingston club will donate a new set of sweaters for the all-Eastern team which the players will keep as a souvenir of their battle with the Stephans of the Slegpos.

An important decision was the adoption of a waiver system. This will give the member clubs of the league protection against clubs of the other senior groups. In other words if an Eastern Ontario club has a player to release, it will notify other clubs in the league of the intention to let the player go. The teams at the bottom of the league will in turn have a chance to pick up the player at the waiver price designated by the releasing club. But the club putting the player on waivers has the chance for recall if they decide to keep him. They also can place him on waivers the second time. If the player is not picked up he is declared a free agent and can deal with any club he prefers, regardless.

Scores Twice Over Leafs With Pocket Homing Three; Boston Bulldozes Wings 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal hockey fans will have eyes for only Rocket Richard Saturday night.

Chances are his every shot will be a signal for general pandemonium.

The player is Maurice (Rocket) Richard, one goal away from the 500-goal mark in regular season National Hockey League play.

The 36-year-old Canadiens star scored twice Thursday night as the Habitants whipped the winless Toronto Maple Leafs 9-3. That brought him within one of the mark and his next chance comes Saturday against Chicago Black Hawks.

The win was Montreal's third, along with two ties in five games. The steam-rolling Boston Bruins kept pace at the top with their fourth win in as many games, a 5-1 win over the Red Wings in Detroit.

Boston will move into Toronto Saturday, where York Rangers, with one win, two losses and a tie, and Detroit, with one win and three losses, are idle.

A RICHARD SHOW

Montreal's thumping victory also provided a three-goal performance by Maurice's 31-year-old brother, Henri.

Milt Schmidt's beaming Bruins struck for three first-period goals with 41 seconds and coasted to the win. Four players who counted the Boston goals all were Detroit property at one time.

Montreal's scoring parade was strictly a Richard affair. The brothers and Dickie Moore picked up 13 points, 10 by the Richards.

The Pocket Rocket hit for three assists to go with his three goals while the Rocket added a pair of assists to his two markers. Moore was good for a goal and two assists.

Tod Sloan scored twice for the Leafs, both in the first period. Dick Duff got the third Toronto marker.

Coach Toe Blake straightforwardly approached the always-important task of the game and said: "If you can't get any more than two goals a game, you might as well stay home."

It took Maurice a long stare at his former linemate Duff to realized Blake was kidding.

While the score sheet was overwhelmingly one-sided, shots on goal saw Montreal's Charlie Hodge, filling in for Gump Worsley, Jacques Plante, stop 29, and Leafs' Ed Chadwick 38.

At Detroit, play was even for almost seven minutes and then Bronco Horvath speed a foe Bruins at 6:54. Ten seconds later Vic Stasiuk made it 2-0 and 31 seconds after that Johnny Bucyk brought it to 3-0.

Horvath scored again in the period. Real Chevrefils got the only marker of the second period.

Rookie Bill McCreary finally put Wings on the scoresheet with a third-period tally.

Will Try to Break Record On Picton Bay

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Miss Supertest, unlimited class hydroplane owned by Harry Thompson of London, will attempt to break the existing world record for motor-powered craft at Picton next week.

J. Gordon Thompson, father of Miss Supertest's owner, said Thursday the boat will be sent to Picton next Monday and if proper weather conditions prevail an assault will be made on the record the following weekend, with Danny Foster driving.

Miss Supertest holds the Canadian record of 154 miles per hour which she established at Picton in 1955.

"It knocked me out in the first round before class could begin to tell!"

Rory Calhoun Favored Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Rory Calhoun, the middleweight division's strongman, is a 3-to-1 favorite to beat elusive Rocky Castellani in their televised bout tonight.

A pro only three years, Calhoun has racked up a 29-0-1 record, including 15 knockouts. Castellani has only 16 kayos in 81 fights.

Damage Could Make Trouble For N.L. Teams

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Negotiations to determine damages to be paid the Pacific Coast League by National League teams leaving over the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas are expected to start Nov. 7.

That's the next big step in the move sent by New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers and it could bring some heated debate.

A spokesman for the Giants said representatives would be at the PCL annual meeting which starts in Sacramento, Calif., the first of next month.

Frequent transfer of the San Francisco PCL franchise to the Giants from the Boston Red Sox in return for the Minneapolis club of the American Association is subject to league approval.

Emil Sick, owner of Seattle Rainiers, declared Thursday night he would oppose transfer of the San Francisco PCL franchise unless the Giants and Dodgers "get down to business with us" on damages. Transfer approval requires six of the eight PCL votes.

SUIT THREATENED

Sick has threatened to sue the two National League clubs if damages for invading the PCL fail short. He estimated his investment in the Rainiers at $2,000,000 but said he probably would be "agreeable to a reasonable deal for the benefit of baseball as a whole."

Giants President Horace Stoneham said he hoped the Giants and Dodgers could settle for less than $100,000 each.

Invasion of the west coast by the National League means realignment of at least the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood franchises. Brooklyn already owned the Los Angeles Angels.

FLAMAN RETURNS

BOSTON (AP) — Defenceman Fernie Flaman was pronounced fit Thursday and will rejoin Boston Bruins for their National Hockey League game with Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday night. Flaman has been down with the grippe since last weekend.

Jersey City Makes Move For Majors

JERSEY CITY (AP)—With the far-flung International League indicating a desire to retrench and then drive for major status, this part-time big league city today found itself a jumping off point in baseball's continuing battle of shifting franchises.

Home of Brooklyn Dodgers for 15 games during the last two seasons and for years an IL. sallent before the Jersey City Giants moved out in 1950, this metropolis of 300,000 is just across the Hudson River from New York City.

IL president Frank Shaughnessy announced Thursday that the league would move back into Jersey City in "the first big step in becoming a third major league."

New York, now a one-team city has a metropolitan population of 12,000,000.

NEW YORK SITUATION

As to about reports of a possible future IL move to New York, Shaughnessy said:

"At the present time Brooklyn is still the Dodgers' territory and the Giants, too, are in New York until they make their peace with the Pacific Coast League. And they leave, it becomes the territory of the American League and the rules will have to be changed in order to claim either one."

In New York, baseball commissioner Ford Frick said the matter of territorial rights in the New York area would be tabled until the Giants and Dodgers have come to an agreement with the PCL. But Jersey City has always been considered open territory, he added.

Bernard Berry, former mayor of Jersey City and now parks commissioner, said Thursday night that he doesn't anticipate any stumbling blocks to the IL claim.

Eskys Bright Just Short of Ground Record

REGINA (CP)—Johnny Bright, power fullback with Edmonton Eskimos, is just 36 yards short of equalling the ground-gaining record for one season established in the Western Interprovincial Football Union last year by teammate Normie Kwong.

Figures released Thursday show Bright with a net gain from scrimmage of 1,404 yards. With three games still to play, the former Drake University star seems assured of setting a new record.

Edmonton's Jackie Parker has the best average gain, eight yards on 82 carries. Bright is averaging 6.5 yards on 216 carries.

Don Getty of Edmonton has completed 69 of 102 aerials for a completion average of 61.7 per cent.

MANAGER STILL HOPES

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Chris Shaban, manager of Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion Yvon Durelle, says he still hopes Durelle will meet Archie Moore for the world light heavyweight title.

"Even though Moore has agreed to contract terms for a title defence against Chuck Spencer in Detroit in January, that doesn't mean that the fight is all set," Shaban said Thursday night. He said he has been told it's doubtful the necessary money will be raised to stage the fight.

Big 4 Brass Has Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Big Four Football Union delegates, meeting today to discuss current league business, will also chew over a problem for which the rulebook apparently offers no solution:

What happens if three teams deadlock for first place at the end of the season

And if that isn't enough then the question of crowd control—following some alleged rough-handling of players by spectators —seems likely to upset the calm of union president Bob Morant's office.

Ottawa's Jim McCaffrey is reported unhappy about abuse directed at players Kaye Vaughan and Bob Simpson and the alleged kicking of Roughrider Gilles Archambault by some Montreal fans after Monday's game also has McCaffrey disturbed.

The question of control of junior players is likely to take up some time.

"Western teams are allowed "territorial rights" in which they control all junior players in a certain area. Eastern teams in each territorial to control of one junior team, under Canadian Football Council regulations.

The Big Four's own rules about juniors is also causing trouble. Last spring the union wiped out single-team sponsorship by clubs and adopted a plan whereby players from all eight teams in Junior Big Four competition would be selected at the end of each season by senior teams.

Apparently overlooked at the time was the fact that while Toronto Argonauts, for instance, gave up rights to Parkdale Lions players, Eastern Canada champions, Ottawa Rough Riders retained rights to Windsor AKO players of the ORFU junior circuit.

Ti-Cats Games Not Telecast Thanks to CBC

BARRIE (CP) — Telecasts of Hamilton Tiger - Cats' home games over station CKVR-TV here will not be available in future, it was reported Thursday.

Ralph Snelgrove, owner of the station which has broadcast the games since October, 1955, said the CBC has told them they will be blacked out in future.

Apparently the station's signal has been reaching the Hamilton area.

"The CBC's sudden decision will disappoint people in the Parry Sound, Muskoka and other northern areas," said Mr. Snelgrove.

"Our engineers have calculated that the distance from our transmitter point to Civic Stadium in Hamilton is 77 miles. We're not challenging whether we're within the 75-mile radius. But normally we're not on Saturday afternoons, except for football.

"We're going on the air with something just so that we can give our viewers football scores."

SPANIARDS DOWNED

WOLVERHAMPTON England (Reuter)—Wolverhampton Wanderers, leaders of the English Soccer League, beat Real Madrid Spanish holders of the European Cup, 3-2 here Thursday night.

U.S. Olympics Report Surplus

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Olympic Committee announced Thursday reported a surplus of $1,563,921 and set the sum aside as a trust fund to provide an annual income to meet running expenses.

With other invested assets, the USOA now has an income of $90,000 annually.

The Olympic Association is embarking on an intensive program to raise American standards in Olympic sports in which a poor showing was attributed in Melbourne and in many of which the Russians were outstanding, such as gymnastics, field hockey, soccer and Greco-Roman wrestling.

Fund support from industry, the armed forces, junior chamber of commerce, high schools and many organizations.

Campbell Puts Failure Onus On Americans

He told friends earlier this week that the association insisted on having its own timekeeper on each official run. This meant bringing personnel and equipment from Rochester, 30 miles away. The delay prevented him from getting on the water when conditions were favorable. The APBA also banned test runs on Sundays and Saturdays, further limiting his time for testing.

Campbell said he will resume test runs on Lake Coniston, Cumberland, when Bluebird has been reconditioned.

Detroit Fans Ripping Adams Over Red Wings' New Deal

DETROIT (AP)—The fans protested when Jack Adams, the National Hockey League's master player juggler, traded off all-time favorite Ted Lindsay and all-star goalie Glenn Hall. They are yelling even louder now that Detroit Red Wings have dropped three of their first four contests.

Boston Bruins administered Detroit's third loss Thursday night by a 5-1 count, and onetime Detroit-owned players scored all the Boston goals. Vic Stasiuk and Real Chevrefils, two of the Bruins' top performers and young Johnny Bucyk each scored a goal and much traveled rookie Bronco Horvath, who once played for Edmonton Flyers, a Detroit farm club, scored a pair to complete the rout.

IN SAWCHUK DEAL

The Red Wings gave up Bucyk and cash last winter to get goalie Terry Sawchuk back after Adams had dealt him to Boston two seasons earlier. The veteran goalie has yielded 17 goals in four games but Adams and coach Jimmy Skinner blame the defence for most of them.

The crowds for three home games at Olympia Stadium have been unusually slim and many fans have been clearly voicing an unusual sigh in the town that boasts of 11 NHL championships in nine years.

Thursday night's attendance, 6,627—was the smallest in three seasons.

Adams shuffled last year's title winning team thoroughly and there are eight new faces on the Red Wing roster. The fans are screaming "We want Lindsay; we want Hall."

Adams maintains that some of the five rookies on his team will make the fans forget all about the two-hit gamers and Hall, both of whom he traded to Chicago Black Hawks.

"The Joker Is Wild," based on the life of Joe E. Lewis, famed entertainer

With unrelenting realism, the most electric personality of our time slams home a stunning portrayal of a famous performer who sang his heart out in gangland's hangouts . . . defied the mob and went down fighting, when they refused to take over his career — then fought back into the limelight to make the whole world cheer!

Performances start today at 2.00; 7.00 and 9.00, at the Belle, with continuous showings on Saturday from 1.00 p.m

Royal Photographer Unable To Read Light Meter

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is there anything Cecil Beaton can't do? "Yes," replied the British jack-of-all-arts. "I can't read a photographer's light meter and I can't ride a bicycle."

The latter frustrates him, but the former seems to bother him not at all. Light meter or no, he is one of the world's most noted photographers and official lensman for the Royal Family.

He also has written numerous books. He has designed sets and costumes for many Broadway shows and two British movies. He is now supervising all the visual aspects of MGM's Gigi, with Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier and Louis Jourdan. It's his first Hollywood job and he's having a ball.

"I am responsible for everything that appears on the screen as far as design goes," he explained. "I sketch the costumes, the sets, the colors and the studio departments supply the details from my sketches very efficiently, I might add. Oh, yes, I am taking photographs, too. It gives me something to do during the long waits on the set.

"I must say that I've enjoyed it all immensely."

Beaton was something of a design himself—a tall, mature man with a planter's hat, striped shirt, coat and scarf and ivy league lightweight trousers. He spoke willingly of his most notable function after photographing England's royalty.

"If it's just for some informal shots, I'll take only my small cameras," he said. "But if the Queen or princess is going on a state tour and needs formal portraits in full regalia, then it becomes a big production. I bring along a great number of lights and electricians."

Are the royal figures good subjects?

"Definitely so. They know that photographs are a part of their job and are patient and willing to pose until I get what I needed."

He does the same thing for Miss Caron, he indicated. He receives no pay for the sittings, "Of course I am paid if the Queen should need 100 photographs to be put in silver frames and present on a tour," he said.

For each sitting he shoots around 500 negatives, from which a handful of poses are selected.

About the light meter—"I bring along someone who can read it for me."

Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawinigan Falls Calaracts and Chicoutimi Saguenenns fattened their respective standings atop the Quebec Hockey League Thursday night at the expense of Montreal Royals and Quebec Aces, tied for third spot.

Meanwhile at Chicoutimi, -the Saguenenns clung two points behind with a 3-1 win over Montreal on goals by Robert Courcy, Guy Rousseau and Jacques Locas. Denis Boucher was the Montreal scorer.

For Shawinigan Falls, the goal-getters were Dick Bouchard, Fred Shero, Bev Bell and Ed Johnson. Joe Crozier counted for Quebec.

Trois-Rivieres, fifth team in the league, was idle. The Lions are last with one point.

Sid Caesar Returns With Old Partner, Imogene Coca, Jan.

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Meet the new Sid Caesar.

The comedian who returns with his old partner, Imogene Coca, to a regular, night-time show on CBC-TV in January, is a different person today from the married, exhausted performer who bowed off NBC-TV at the end of last season.

And his humor—has changed too, he says.

"I'm not going to kid people. My humor has changed, I think, to kidding myself some too — to showing people that they're not alone. I want to show that what ever human foibles I hold up to ridicule are my foibles too . . . It's something that evolves from maturity."

A new maturity could be one way of describing Caesar's thought and manner. But in physical appearance he literally looks years younger than he did a few months ago. He's lost 25 pounds. His face is unwrinkled and shadowless. You'd call him one of the healthiest - looking men in New York.

"I feel better and I think in sharper since I took off that weigh what I did when I was 21, and the doctor said I should weigh 160 like when I was 21. I weighed 190 then. Today I weigh 181½—and that pound and a half is coming off."

A protein diet accomplished it, he said.

"And going without lunch quite often. A lot of people would feel better if they went without lunch. I eat a big breakfast—a steak or chops or a can of tuna or salmon; No eggs. There's fat in eggs. And a big glass of fruit juice. No sweets. No starch. A lot of tomatoes. I like tomatoes at every meal."

"I'm glad to be coming back with Imogene," he says. "She's a small person in size, but she's 10 times as big as her size in talent. Her personality is being a great performer," says. No, there's no format worked out yet. We're just coming back."

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept 23) —Now is the time to go after that very precise and fine person who will give you the advice of a dear brother or sister who wants you to become successful. Come out honestly and ask for it. Then start zooming.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) —The present moment is the one in which to get started on all things pertaining to the manipulation of figures for making new arrangements, contracts, etc. The sweat of the brow today will bring leisure for many tomorrows.

HOUSE CRACKLES

Finance Minister Fleming replied: "This weak-kneed course of action is a demonstration of irresponsibility." He called for votes on the measures saying the opposition should be "willing to get away with such "hit and run tactics."

Referring to remarks by the prime minister Wednesday, Mr. Pickersgill said: "I received our customary sermon."

Later, Hon. J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate) was speaking. Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), obviously referring to the Liberals' January leadership convention, said: "Are you preaching for a call too?"

Retorted Mr. Pickersgill: "I leave that to the prime minister. I have no pretensions of being a Billy Sunday or even a Billy Graham." Both men are known for their evangelical talents.

On the first vote on an introductory resolution, everyone including Mr. Sinclair voted for it, 147 to 0. On second reading—approval in principle—only William Fred Lear (PC—Saskatchewan mercy) dissented. The vote was 194 to 1. Final approval was unanimous, 195 to nothing.

CCF "ONLY OPPOSITION"

Colin Cameron (CCF — Nanaimo) complained that the short-term supply discussion showed the Liberals to be "determined" to make the CCF "the only opposition party."

Mr. Fleming said that if there is any muttering of the taxpayers, the Liberals are responsible. The request for supply was based on the previous government's estimates.

Mr. Fleming said that even with Thursday's money, one-third of nearly every item of spending would be subject to Parliament's scrutiny. Parliament's rights to challenge and criticize any operation of government were unlimited.

"There is still ample room for efforts of government to achieve savings in the interests of the taxpayer and sound government."

He said it was physically impossible to give a complete list of expenditure items which would be required. There is not enough time. The job of trying to find savings was "a continuing task and it is being carried out."

The Liberal opposition had showed little responsibility in accusing the government of violating Parliament's rights and then stopping short of voting a vote against the government.

Mr. Fleming said he would call for a vote on every stage of the interim supply bill to see whether the Liberals would vote for the supply bill. It was based on the previous estimates.

But he contended, he had "created out of thin air" Fleming's admission that after four months in office he did not yet have precise figures on planned spending.

Mr. Fleming said Mr. Sinclair's speech was "a flamboyant and demagogic display, a fantastic exaggeration in which Mr. Sinclair retorted: "This crescendo of sound coming from this little man."

In other Commons developments, Colonel Alexander Alex B. Macdonald (CCF—Vancouver Kingsway) questioned the diplomatic recognition of Communist China as an essential step toward increased trade and trade with that country.

Former health minister Martin O'Connor asked the national health minister if there was "little evidence of interest" by the government in imple menting the national hospital insurance plan.

Hon. Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) prodded Health Minister Monteith into saying he is studying the whole matter and hopes to make a statement soon.

TOAST TO QUEEN

The information as to Eisenhower's plans came to light just ahead of a conference between British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. State Secretary Dulles. The aim of that talk obviously was to plow the ground for next week's Macmillan-Eisenhower meetings.

The top-level two-power session was announced Thursday with explanation that other and broader talks may follow for both the prime minister and the president.

There was no official disclosure of the problems that prompted the hurriedly arranged meetings, which start Wednesday.

It seems certain, however, that the Middle East and Arab relations between the Western powers and Russia, including the atomic armies race, will be topics of paramount concern.

QUEEN APPROVES

The White House said that detailed arrangements were completed only Thursday, and the announcement was held up until plans were approved by the Queen. She gave her formal approval shortly after arriving Thursday for a four-day state visit.

Lloyd, who is here as a minister in attendance to the Queen, will stay over to take part along with Dulles in the Macmillan-Eisenhower conference. Macmillan will fly here overnight Tuesday. The conference will continue through Friday.

Macmillan will stop over at Ottawa for a few hours on his way home late Friday, Oct. 25.

Eisenhower, who welcomed the Queen to Washington only about three hours before, said: "I welcome the opportunity to meet with prime minister to Washington next week. It will provide a good opportunity for me to have discussions with an old and trusted friend."

Eisenhower also expressed hope that "there will soon be a session" when he can meet with "leaders of other free countries associated with us for similar discussions."

While diplomatic officials took the line that no sudden emergency prompted the decision to hold a high-level conference immediately, there was no denial that the two government heads and their advisers would be preoccupied with possibly half-dozen current problems of the greatest importance. These include:

1. The state of the U.S. missiles development as compared with Russian progress. This has a vital interest in this situation. One of the Bermuda decisions in March was that the United States should provide Britain with intermediate range (1,500-mile) missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads. That promise has become an integral part of Britain's future defence program.

2. The possibility of tightening British-American co-operation in the development of new research, particularly in the atomic field.

3. The Middle East crisis with its ominous overtones of a conflict between the United States and Russia should Turkey and Syria get into a shooting fight.

MUST

it is ridiculous to compare their brains, their abilities in science, in philosophical thought, or in any phase of culture or of the arts with the combined total of the free world.

"But I say combined total advisedly. We are too much separated by things that compose us locally. This is a struggle of ideologies, of a revival of spiritual values, a clash of, of freedom against dictatorship.

"But we have the power. The only thing to do is to put it together.

"Our scientists must work together. NATO should not be thought of merely as a military alliance. NATO is a way of grouping ability—of our manhood, our resources, of our industries and our factories."

Request Refused

BARRIE (CP)—An annexation request by this city of 3,272 for land in three neighboring townships was turned down Thursday by the Ontario municipal board.

Board chairman R. L. Kennedy said the agreement reached at Belleville in the day between Barrie and Oro, Innisfil and Vespra townships which gave Barrie about half the 9,730 acres it requested, for industrial and residential expansion.

He said the areas agreed upon between the four communities were substantially larger than the board could approve.

Brook No Delays In Missile Work Says U.S. Chief

New Defence Secretary Will Accept No Excuses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary Neil McElroy has never notice he will stand for no delays in planned development of long-range ballistic missiles.

He also indicated Friday he will accept no excuses that bottlenecks or lack of help are impeding progress in this vital defence field.

The new U.S. defence boss, who has been on the job less than two weeks, made known his position in a memorandum to the secretaries of the army, navy and the air force.

A number of Congress members of both parties have voiced concern over the recent launching of a Russian earth satellite before the United States could get one aloft. Some of them have said this, coupled with Russia's claimed success in testing an intercontinental missile, indicates the United States has fallen dangerously behind the Russians.

OPTIMISTIC

In his memo, McElroy said he was "greatly encouraged by the progress" he said is being made at missile centres he visited before succeeding Charles E. Wilson as chief of the defence department. He said it appeared the missile program represented the best balance of advanced knowledge, trained manpower and test installations that we can make at this time."

But McElroy stressed that "great impatience" to our national security of maintaining these programs on schedule."

He told the service heads to inform his guided missiles subordinates immediately of any assistance which any other service, the defence department or any government agency can provide "which will insure the maintenance of the schedules."

Toronto Thieves Steal Paintings Worth Thousands

TORONTO (CP) — Thieves entered the Laing Art Gallery in Bloor Street Friday night and stole an undetermined number of valuable paintings, an official of the gallery said today.

Dr. R. Laing, director of the gallery, said the robbery was very serious. We have been unable to determine how many paintings were taken, but there were quite a number."

Deputy police chief Alex McCathie said the robbery occurred sometime between 9 p.m. Friday night and 8 a.m. today.

He said entry was gained by forcing the rear door.

The deputy said the most expensive painting was valued at $16,000. He described it as Vases of Flowers by Van Os, in a 36-by-30-inch frame.

Two other paintings by the Canadian artist Cornelius Krieghoff were valued at $8,000 each.

The Krieghoff paintings were Winter Cariole and Snowy Landscape with Habitants. Krieghoff's Sleighride, showing a four-horse tandem pulling a sleigh carrying a man and a woman, is one of his better known Canadian paintings.

Paintings were registered and are known as:

Thirteen other paintings ranged in value up to $1,000.

Deputy Chief Cathie said all the paintings were registered and are known to most Canadian art dealers.

UNION NATIONALE ALLIANCE SAID DANGER TO UNITY

Chevrier's Charges Hottest of Session

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has been taxed with threatening national unity by aligning with the Union Nationale party in rural Quebec.

Some of the hottest words of the new session were spoken Friday by Hon. Lionel Chevrier (Lasalle-Laurier) as he charged the new Progressive Conservative government with adopting a new policy in Quebec and another to the rest of Canada.

But the hottest words remained Opposition Leader St. Laurent's earlier commitment that Liberal followers will oppose at this time any motions of non-confidence in the government.

The unity of Quebec's French-speaking people and English-speaking peoples achieved under Liberal government, "now is being threatened by the political strategy of the Conservative party," said the former Liberal transport minister.

FULTON "SICKENED"

Interjected Justice Minister Fulton: "A sickening speech . . . it fills me with a sense of feeling of national unity."

Chevrier said that without the active support of the Union Nationale party the Conservatives would not have won seven rural seats in Quebec.

"Without the seven Conservative members from the province of Quebec outside Montreal, the Conservatives would have had what I have said is not true," Mr. Chevrier said, "the cities of Arsenault, Bonaventure, and Theogene Ricard, St. Hyacinthe-Bagot, formed on their feet but their voices were drowned out by Liberal howls and calls.

"The two members who interrupted me unquestionably elected with Union Nationale support" Mr. Chevrier shouted back.

NATIONAL ISSUE

Would the government say whether it plans to implement such Conservative election promises in Quebec as a national flag, an ambassador to the Vatican, and the abolition of civil servants?

The real Conservative leader in Quebec was provincial Premier Duplessis. In areas where the Union Nationale party is the field the real boss was "the Union Nationale party, not the Conservative party."

When Mr. Chevrier asked for questions Speaker beyond the 40 minutes allowed under House rules, Conservative members refused to grant it. Mr. Chevrier based his request on the many interruptions while he spoke.

Children Plug Dynamite Cap In Wall Socket

In hospital were Carolyn Joyce McDonald, 8; David McDonald, 5; Tommy McDonald, 7; children of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant McDonald; and James Ellis Evans, 14, a neighbor.

The children said they had found the dynamite cap and didn't know what it was. James put the two wires leading from the cap into a wall socket, while Tommy held the explosive. Tommy suffered the loss of a finger and thumb.

Somebody Forgot to Put in Plug So Hope's Show Goes Down Drain

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will one of Bob Hope's television contracts go down the drain because somebody forgot to put the plug in?

Such a development appeared possible today because of a commercial mixup on Frank Sinatra's first television show for ABC-TV Friday night.

Hope, sponsored part of the time on his NBC TV show by Timex, Inc., appeared as a guest on the Sinatra show, which is sponsored in part by another watch company, Bulova.

Television contracts normally prohibit performers from appearing on shows sponsored by competitors. But Hope said he didn't know Bulova was one of Sinatra's sponsors right after the show, the singer's show started.

Hope told reporters he was sorry he would be all right to go on the show, in view of the late hour, provided Timex was given credit at the end of the program.

There was no Timex plug and Hope told The Associated Press that Timex cancelled out as his sponsor right after the show.

The comedian said he had hopes the matter could be "patched up."

But if it isn't?

"Somebody said I needed a rest," Hope observed. "This may

U.S. and Turkey Get Ready For UN Middle East Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and Turkey marshalled their forces today to get a United Nations General Assembly debate, Soviet-Syrian charges of aggressive plans in the Middle East.

The 82-nation assembly voted 68 to 9 to take up Moscow's complaint that Turkey menaces her security. High point of the debate, however, is expected to be Russia's companion charge that the United States is goading Turkey into an invasion of Syria.

Both the U.S. and Turkey have denied repeated accusations, but they said they would welcome a full airing of the charges. Debate is expected to begin Tuesday.

As the UN agreed Friday to look into the crisis, the Soviet Union renewed a warning that it would go to Syria's aid in case of attack.

A statement issued in Moscow also charged Turkey planned to attack along 180 miles of Syria's northern border "with the support of the U.S. 6th Fleet." It said Britain had consented to a top-secret war plan.

Turkey's Ambassador Seyfullah Esin charged in a UN steering committee debate that Russia was trying to intimidate his country by creating a fictitious situation.

Turkey, he said, already has assured both Syria and Russia that she does not have aggressive designs against her Arab neighbour.

The United States, which has been consulting with other delegations since the Syrian-Russian charges came in, is working on proposals for the debate. They would highlight Russia's role in the Middle East.

In the steering committee, which recommended the debate to the General Assembly, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge expressed hope for a discussion would contribute to general peace and security.

Lodge expressed confidence the discussion would "show not only the falsity of the charges against the United States and Turkey, but will also reveal the true source of tension in the entire area."

Reds' 'Abusive Coexistence' Prompts Anglo-U.S. Parley

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The forthcoming Anglo-American talks in Washington represent a reflex-action response to Russia's growing aggressiveness.

There are many possible explanations why Prime Minister Macmillan is flying to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower and his advisers. Macmillan has been watched for a favorable opportunity of continuing the process, which started in the rift during democratic policies.

Thus the whole range of subjects, ranging from the organization of the free world against Communist subversion will be ripe for consideration. Three specific topics are likely to emerge:

1. Tension between Syria and Turkey. Shrill Syrian and Russian propaganda is regarded as having "manufactured" a crisis, but it is being taken seriously.

2. The exchange of scientific information. Recent British statements, and Russian acknowledgement that restrictions have become "somewhat obsolete," encourage the hope of a breakthrough in the American attitude.

3. Possibility of summit talks with the Russians. Macmillan now is thought to see possible advantages in personal discussions with Russian leaders, particularly Khrushchev, where a personal assessment of air of passionate conviction about Turkey puzzle Western observers.

The decision to hold the Washington talks was taken suddenly, it is believed, by a process which one official called "spontaneous combustion."

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and State Secretary Dulles of the U.S. decided it would be a good idea to invite Macmillan at this time. It is hard to say whether Britain or the U.S. exerted the greater pressure for the meetings.

INFLUENZA ROLLS STEADILY EAST, TOLL NOW 44

Many Schools Closed On Cape Breton Island

By The Canadian Press

The death toll from complications following flu continues to mount slowly in Canada and the eastern provinces appear to be bearing the brunt of the disease at the moment.

The death of seven-month-old John McArthur in Toronto Friday raised the provincial total to 24. Two deaths in Manitoba, the first in the province—lifted the national total to 44. Quebec has had 11 deaths, Alberta four, Saskatchewan two and Nova Scotia one.

Theresa Kosowiczof, 3, and her two-year-old brother Brian died in a Winnipeg hospital though elsewhere in the west health officials report the flu outbreak on the wane.

SEES BAD WINTER

Influenza closed seven more schools in Cape Breton Friday and attendances dropped to about 50 per cent. And on the Nova Scotia mainland, Thomas Lee Murphy, medical health officer for Antigonish County, said: "I would be surprised if we have an epidemic all winter."

In Quebec City Dr. Bernard Pinault, city health director, said all the schools in the city could be closed next week. He said 11,600 of the 18,000 students had left city school commission jurisdiction.

POSTPONE SURGERY

Red Cross officials in Montreal blamed the flu scare for a drop in blood donations. At least 350 operations were postponed this week because of blood shortage.

"People are afraid to give blood because they think they have the flu when flu really," said Dr. Marc Fortin, director of the Red Cross free blood transfusion service. "Nothing is further from the truth."

More than 1,000 of the 3,312 students at schools in Edmundston, N.B., were away sick.

Short Session Is Anticipated

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Starr Friday apparently lopped government plans that the current session will be a short one.

CCF member immediately asked whether the government plans an early election. He got no answer.

Mr. Starr spoke of "this brief session of parliament" in reply to a question whether unemployment insurance benefits will be amended this session. The backlog of bills could not be, because of the shortness of the session which is expected to end before Christmas.

Queen Gets Wish, Sees American Football Game

Contest Provides Break In Arduous Tour Schedule

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sports-loving Queen Elizabeth gets her wish today. She'll see an American football game.

Three months ago, when plans for her current royal visit to the United States were in the making the Queen expressed a desire to see two American football teams play.

She and Prince Philip will see two giants of the college circuit—University of Maryland and University of North Carolina. Brilliant fall weather from a royal box on the 50-yard line at the University of Maryland Stadium just north of Washington.

The game will cap the fourth day of the Queen's six-day visit to the eastern seabeard of the United States. Earlier, she will revisit the British Embassy to meet members of the staffs of Commonwealth missions in Washington, award insignia to Americans who have received royal honors and lay the foundation stone of a new embassy building.

Prince Philip, meantime, will visit the U.S. Marine barracks.

STATE DINNER

The climax of today's program will be a state dinner tonight at the embassy honoring President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Elizabeth was reported, meanwhile, to have informally sounded out Eisenhower on the possibility of visiting London next year.

British officials said the Queen's invitation had been extended. They said she would like Buckingham Palace and the cabinet to say they understood the Queen had personally and informally let Eisenhower know a visit would be welcome when he finds time. They did not say what response she got.

The Daily Express of London had said the invitation was issued by the Queen. It implied Eisenhower had accepted.

WASHINGTON'S GAVEL

For the Elizabeth welcome ceremonies, Elizabeth selected a gavel used by one of her kinsmen George III to lay the first stone in building the U.S. Capitol in 1793. Last Wednesday the Marble Palace officials confirmed what had been asserted for at least two years: the gavel was George's—as well as Robert E. Lee, were distant relatives.

The gavel now is the property of the District of Columbia Masonic lodge which keeps it locked up at a bank. They have assigned three lodge brothers to keep an eye on it. It remains Friday in the steel vault.

Friday night, the Queen climaxed another busy day in her week-long visit by attending a sparkling state dinner at which she and State Secretary John Foster Dulles, U.S. and Canadian exchanged pledges of continued free and friendly co-operation between the two great English-speaking powers.

URGES CLOSER TIES

Dulles, in a toast to the Queen before a brilliant assemblage of top-flight U.S. officialdom, urged strongly for even greater ties between the two allies with the declaration that "we have much substance in common that it shows that we could, do more in common."

"There exists here in between our, between the United Kingdom

West Germany's Action Called Understandable

LONDON (AP) — Britain said today West Germany's action in severing diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia was "entirely understandable in the circumstances."

A foreign office spokesman said: "Her Majesty's government already made it clear to the Yugoslav government that they regret the Yugoslav action of recognizing East Germany which they do not regard as a positive contribution to the achievement of German reunification."

Assessments Vary

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Reginald Hunter, assistant supervisor of assessment for the Ontario Municipal Board says a spot check throughout the province indicated that property assessments varied from 10 per cent to 134 per cent of appraisals made by the municipal board.

Mr. Hunter was speaking Friday at the annual meeting of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario. He said the lack of uniformity was due to "oversight in application of the provincial assessment manual."

and the United States," he added, "a solid foundation upon which to mount new efforts which we shall indeed if we are to cope successfully with the new problems of the future."

After this, he told the Queen, will prove to be "historical if it will, as we do, believe it will, a day in our using more fully the great potentials which we jointly possess."

The Queen, in reply, said there was no time of year when activity in which exchanges and contacts between leading men of the two countries have not at one time or another played the major role in the building of our common civilization."

"I hope," she added, "that the practice of such kind friendly co-operation will never cease."

Pilot of Single-Engined Plane Rescued After Flying Atlantic

But he ran out of fuel, ditched his plane and was picked up 25 miles from Corunna by a trawler of Spain. He was brought into port today by the fishing vessel.

Wyatt left Galveston Thursday with Rome as his goal. He wanted to beat the light plane record set 17 years ago by American financial tycoon Will Macmillan at this time. It is hard to say whether Britain or the U.S. exerted the greater pressure for the meetings.

Wyatt left Galveston Thursday with Rome as his goal. He wanted to beat the light plane record set 17 years ago by American financial tycoon Will Macmillan at this time. It is hard to say whether Britain or the U.S. exerted the greater pressure for the meetings.

Soon afterwards the plane went down into the sea. Wyatt said he broke the glass of the cabin and crawled on to the wing. A short time later the fishing boat reached him and lowered the remains of the plane into Corunna.

Nine fighter pilot, radioed Friday night his fuel was exhausted and asked permission to land in Bordeaux, France.

His single-engined plane carried 246 gallons of gasoline. He thought this would last 44 hours, long enough to carry him the 5,693 miles to Rome.

But it said he ran into storms and his wings iced and he began to lose altitude.

He then managed to keep flying for some hours. About 35 miles from the coast he tried to "make" radio contact with Santiago de Compostela airfield.

Egg Prices Bit Firmer on Local Market

With the night for the goblins to roam now less than two weeks away, Hallowe'en pumpkins were very much in evidence on the local farmers' market this morning.

The pumpkins, either for Hallowe'en or for pie, ranged all the way in price from a dime to $1. One vendor who offered a whole truckload of the vegetable was slow with city housewives apparently thinking it was still a bit early to acquire their Hallowe'en pumpkin.

Eggs seemed a bit firmer with vendors quoting 70c for extras, 65c for large, 45c for mediums and 35c for pullets. Mature fowl sold at 45c per lb. with spring birds from 50c to 85c per lb.

Apples were freely offered with Talmas, Snows selling at $3 per hamper and top grade McIntosh and Spys at $3.25. Basket lots brought 75c.

Potatoes were 90c per basket; beets sold at the same figure; cauliflower ranged from 15c to 35c; celery a dime or three for 25c; cabbage 5c to 25c per lb.; radishes a nickel per bunch; carrots 25c the gallon and parsnips 25c per pound.

Mushrooms were 35c or three lbs. for $1, and pickerel 40c per lb.

TRENTON (Special) — Mr. Jesse Baker, Trenton, public works employee and a former Trenton fireman, was seriously injured Friday evening when the car which he was driving collided with another vehicle on the Carrying Place Road south of Trenton.

Mr. Baker suffered a fractured left shoulder while his right shoulder was dislocated. He was on the operating table in Trenton Memorial Hospital for several hours.

Provincial Police at Brighton said the accident occurred as cars driven by Mr. Baker and Ross Bronson collided on No. 33 highway in Dublin Bird's drive-in restaurant and garage.

Just as the first accident was being cleaned up, three other cars were involved in an accident almost at the same spot. Drivers were Harry McDonald, James Kingyem and Percy Scarlett.

'Silent' Kidney Disease Found

MONTREAL (CP) — A montreal medical scientist Friday described as "silent disease," which could be detected by special tests and does not cause pain. It sometimes results in death.

Dr. Michael Kaye delivered a paper to the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons on a study at the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital in course of a form of chronic pyelonephritis, generally believed due to chronic infection of the kidneys.

The only reliable test for the disease is a urine examination, he said.

A study of 21 patients at the veterans' hospital showed the usual symptoms of chronic pyelonephritis were pain in the back and swelling of the face and legs—never always. Also necessary X-rays and biopsies proved its presence.

Dr. Kaye said the disease can be treated with antibiotics.

The Week's News

By MEL SUFFRIN

The opening of Parliament is always a colorful, exciting occasion. But this time there was an excitement, tone — and significance—for Canadians.

"This is for all of us a moment I remember," said Queen Elizabeth as for the first time the monarch read the speech from the throne.

Then Elizabeth II was crowned June 2, 1953, the coronation ceremony made specific mention of the Commonwealth and countries over which she would reign.

But for many Canadians it wasn't until Oct. 14, 1957 as the 23rd Parliament was opened in the Senate chamber of Parliament Hill that her role as Queen of Canada was given its full personal meaning.

The Queen herself emphasized this during her four-day visit to Ottawa with Prince Philip and again during the following six-day trip to the United States.

In a televised address from Rideau Hall she told of her pride and happy to be Queen of Canada and added that when Canadians meet they are treated guests in Washington and other places. This was echoed by Canadians that it is the Queen of Canada and her husband who are concerned in them.

ANOTHER VISITOR

One reported purpose of the royal visit to the United States was to help the world healing of the breach in British - American relations caused by Canada, Great Britain, France and Israel attacked Egypt.

The improvement in relations was further emphasized when it was announced that Prime Minister Macmillan would visit President Eisenhower in Washington next week to discuss world problems. The British leader was to make a brief stopover in Ottawa en route home to talk with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

NEW CRISIS

One of the major topics for the Macmillan-Eisenhower talks was expected to be the new crisis in the Middle East. This centres on the Turkish-Syrian border.

The Syrian government, less than friendly with Turkey at the best of times, charged the latter with massing troops along the Syrian border. Egypt sent armored forces into the territory of the Syrian ally and Russia against the Turks. The United States reminded the Soviet Union that it would not be immune from retaliation in the event of an attack on the Turks. Russia denied any intention of taking aggressive action. And the United Nations urgently debated the problem.

NOREL PRIZE

Lester B. Pearson, who as external affairs minister in Canada's former Liberal government has been credited with helping peace to the Egyptian-Israeli borders, received recognition for his work when it was announced in Oslo that he had been awarded the Nobel peace prize.

"Gosh, gee," were Mr. Pearson's first words when informed of the award, which carries with it a prize of more than $40,000. It was Mr. Pearson who suggested that a United Nations force be stationed in the Gaza Strip to maintain peace along the borders.

And as the Syrian-Turkish crisis continued to boil, Mr. Pearson offered the suggestion that Diefenbaker that Canada propose a similar force for the borders of those countries.

FLU WANES

Influenza, which has stricken millions throughout the world in the pandemic spread of the flu, is the wane in Canada. But while Asian flu for most of the early, complications of ordinary flu were blamed for the more than 40 deaths in Canada. Five other 150 persons had died in the United States.

COMMONS WARMS UP

With Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative government lacking a clear majority in the House of Commons, it is expected all parties will be on their toes when they vie to avoid forcing an election before they are ready.

But this doesn't mean there won't be the usual sharp debates. The Liberal opposition aimed its first fire at Finance Minister Fleming, maintaining he was vilifying Parliament's rights when not saying whether all the money he was asking to cover con struction of Trans-Canada pipeline was needed.

But when the Liberals wound up by saying they wouldn't oppose the resolution authorizing Mr. Fleming's request, the minister replied that the opposition should not be permitted to get away with such "hit and run tactics." The Liberals appeared to be on the defensive.

Meanwhile, 147 to 0 in the introductory resolution 194 to 1 on second reading—approval in principle.

TRADE MISSION

At the recent British-Canadian trade meeting in Ottawa, ways of increasing trade between the two countries were explored. The matter was taken a step further when it was announced a 50 member Canadian trade commission headed by Trade Minister Churchill would arrive in London Nov. 26 for a three-week tour. Purpose: to study methods of industry with the view to encouraging greater imports by Canada.

SEA AIR

Sputnik, the Russian space satellite, continued to circle the globe and the world was hoping to be getting used to the idea. But reports from the Canadian coasts indicated the Soviet Union's extraterritorial activities were continuing in the air. The Canadian navy was said to be investigating reports that Russian subs had been operating in both the Atlantic and Pacific. No direct contact has been reported but Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner said RCN ships are on constant anti-sub-charge underlined subs in Canadian waters if they do not surface when ordered to do so.

Grain-Loaded Truck Stolen At Odessa

Theft of a 1953 model three-ton Ford stake truck loaded with 100 bags of grain from the Odessa Feed Mill at Odessa, is being investigated by provincial police in the Napanee district. Police have reminded the truck was stolen some during the night.

Also provincials police are investigating theft of a pump valve valued at $800 from the Standard Paving Company plant job site north of Trenton on Highway 401.

SPUTNIK ON FILM

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists manning a huge satellite-tracking camera at dawn Thursday they saw Sputnik in its whirling flight around the globe and photographed its passage. Dr. Karl Henize of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said the $100,000 camera will show no detail of the Russian moon. Its function is to determine Sputnik's exact orbit, he said.

U.S. AND TURKEY

L. B. Pearson, former external affairs minister of Canada, suggested the creation of a United Emergency Force stationed on the Egyptian-Israeli border to prevent aggression be used along the Syrian-Turkish frontier. Canada and Peru were reported to have proposals to make during the debate. Pearson won the 1957 Nobel peace prize mainly for his efforts in setting up the UNEF.

DISAGREE ON SCOPE

Syria accompanied her complaint with a memorandum protesting that the assembly set up a UN inquiry commission to investigate the border situation. An informed diplomat said most delegates agree with the proposal but differ on the political scope to be given.

Some believe the commission should limit itself to checking troop concentrations. Others think it should consider the entire question of big-power penetration in the middle east.

The latest Russian charge said Iraq and Jordan would launch the initial attack on Syria, according to the alleged American plot. Then Turkey would strike the main blow with Nato support. Israel would attack Syria later, Moscow charged.

Police Blotter

Three young boys blamed for damaging bicycles outside the Kiwanis Centre on Friday night were due for a reprimand at the city police station this morning. The bicycles were owned by boys who were attending a meeting at the centre. The damage was done while the meeting was in progress.

Outside of a few drunks police had a fairly quiet night and were called upon to investigate but one minor accident on Station Street.

Police said Lionel White, North Park Gardens, was eastbound when a westbound car driven by Bud Kellar, St. Paul Street, turned left in front of him. Damage amounted to about $150 and Mr. Kellar has been charged with careless driving.

When your pharmacist hands you a small bottle of one of the "new" medicines and tells you the cost, it may seem like a high price to pay for a prescription.

But when you consider what these new medicines your doctor prescribes can do—get you well quicker, back on the job, earning money again—you realize what good value you're getting.

Due to the constant advances in medical science and the development of more potent drugs, a siege of sickness costs a person less today then ever before in history.

Twenty years ago, for example, hospital patients stayed an average of 14 days, as compared with 9 days average now. An appendicitis operation used to mean a hospital stay of 3 weeks—now it's usually 5 days. Heart cases were usually hospitalized 21 days—now they're often home in a week. Pneumonia patients, formerly hospitalized, have to stay 3 to 6 weeks. Now they're usually home in a week—if they leave it as all!

Any way you look at it—in terms of saving days of hospital time, the fewer visits needed from your doctor, or your return to income-producing work much sooner—the money you spend for prompt and proper medical care can well turn out to be one of the really big bargains of your life.—Reprinted from an advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Ltd., Toronto 14, Ontario.

A Lift for Living

Continuous Search For Security

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

The recent launching of the earth satellite by the Russians has brought the question of security to fever pitch. What protection are armed forts and paralleling navies or even challenging oceans when man has mastered the air with "moons" travelling 18,000 miles an hour and intercontinental ballistic missiles?

While the prime concern of governments' policies is to find security against war, the burden of their domestic programs is to provide economic security against unemployment, sickness, old age helplessness, and all the other ills that flesh is heir to.

And beyond all our military and monetary worries, consider the search for security against illness itself, especially the dread diseases of cancer and the heart. Our ancestors a few generations ago were living in a world of demons and inexplicable disasters. Physical science has helped to explain away many old fears, but it has created so many new ones. As J. B. Priestley suggests, it almost seems we have lost our angels and kept our devils. Ours is a frightened world.

And let us make clear that up to a certain point, at least, security is desirable. Watch the little child nestling so safely on its mother's bosom or riding so fearlessly atop the shoulders of its father. The infant, deprived of such a sense of security in its early stages, is usually ruined in some parts of its nature. The tender plant of childhood unfolds and blossoms only on the trellis of mutual trust.

And so it is in later life. A certain feeling of security is necessary to release the creative and co-operative powers of a person. When we live under the shadow of impoverished old age or threatened unemployment or impending war, we cannot give our best to the world.

READ YOUR BIBLE

If you doubt the desirability of a sense of security, read your Bible. The pages of Scripture are dotted with promises of divine safeguarding. "God is our refuge and strength; a very present help in trouble" — that is but one of the uncounted promises in the Psalms. And the very first chapter in the Book of Proverbs contains these words: "Whoso hearkeneth unto Me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil."

The hardiest mariner at times longs for the harbor, and the healthiest spirit at times needs refuge from the buffetings of life. In fact, only by such shelter can the human spirit keep healthy.

Yet the search for security must be watched lest it become a weakening thing. If we demanded safety to be guaranteed in all things, where would be the virtues of faith and courage? We are in danger of becoming so security-conscious that we shall be weakened by unworthy fears and become trustful of unreliable securities.

When the standard of living gets low enough, people will prefer a full stomach to a free spirit and even surrender to a police state. That has happened in certain parts of the world That must not happen here.

STABILITY OF VALUES

One great source of security is the stability of values. We of the United States and Canada are profoundly grateful that we live in lands of comparative economic stability. Yet even in great, strong nations ilke ours we cannot be secure against all possible changes in circumstances.

We may loss our money or be stricken with disease. We cannot be secure against what may happen to us. But with God's help we can be secure against what may happen in us. No one can rob us of our character or our courage.

At Mount Blanc this summer I watched the two mountain guides. They daily faced the dangers of those cliffs and glaciers, but their courage was undaunted. They demonstrated the Scriptural truth that "suffering produces endurance and endurance produces a character and character produces hope." We too can catch that spirit.

And we can have the security which Robinson Crusoe felt when he had been shipwrecked on a lonely isle. He read his Bible daily. One day he opened to the promise of God: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

Then Robinson Crusoe wrote, "If God does not forsake me, of what ill consequence can it be, or what matters it, though the world should all forsake me; seeing on the other hand, if I had all the world and should lose the favor and blessing of God, there would be no comparison in the loss?"

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By Winifred Wilson

ACCESSORIES

Birds are given finery to wear for the sole purpose of attracting attention. The gorgeous feathers of male scarlet tanagers, rose-breasted grosbeaks, Baltimore orioles, and so on are to bring prospective wives into the vicinity. Very unfortunately, this brilliance also attracts predators, into which many falls. Consequently, birds that stay near their homes at nesting time (the majority females) generally dress modestly. Once the necessity for all this drawing power is over, a great many birds moult their beautiful coats and don more sombre costumes.

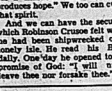
This applies not only to the ordinary feathers but also to accessories.

In summer puffins (both male and female) of our Atlantic sea coast wear a truly grotesque, triangular bill. High, but narrow, it has a pattern of it of red and grey green divided by a wide yellow line — quite a suitable design for a kitchen oilcloth. A little yellow button at each corner of the mouth and tiny horns over the eyes complete the clownish appearance. But in autumn most of this finery is shed.

Horned grebes of our Canadian ponds and sloughs make a similar change when the breeding period is past. Not just the plumage of the neck and chest changes from chestnut to white, but the black, puffy head turns grey and white, while the spectacular, buff colored ear tufts are entirely dropped.

"COME HITHER"

Plumes are the "come hither" attractions worn by herons. They may be on the crown, the lower throat, or the back. At breeding time all Canadian species wear plumes in at least one of those spots. Besides a lovely headdress of long, narrow, black plumes, our well known great blue herons sport a cascade of long plumes on their lower throats.



Both black-crowned and the rare yellow-crowned night herons have one or two long, fine plumes falling from their crowns Green herons have a fancy crest on the tops of their heads and short feathery plumes draped over the wings — quite curious looking. Little blue herons also wear cape arrangements of fine pointed plumes over their shoulders and on the front of their lower necks.

But American egrets and snowy egrets (both belonging to the heron family and only stragglers in Canada) are the greatest sufferers owing to their extreme beauty of plumage plus accessories. Both came near extinction at the turn of the century because the millinery trade demanded their marvellous nuptial plumes, which were called "aigrettes". Forty or fifty of these develop on the backs of the birds just before the breeding period. But you need not look for them now, as they have been shed.

THAT CLOSURE RULE

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has announced his government's intention to seek the abolition of the closure rule in the Commons.

With the memory of the Trans-Canada Pipeline debate still fresh in the minds of most Canadians, despite the passing of some fifteen months, there will be little surprise at this announcement.

And yet it is not a decision which can be contemplated without some misgivings. The reason for such misgivings lies in the accuracy of a statement by the Prime Minister himself. Closure, he told the House of Commons Wednesday, has its place "if properly used in order to prevent an unjustifiable action on the part of the opposition against the government of the day after a debate lasting a very considerable period of time."

The fact that, in spite of this observation, the Prime Minister should decide to move for the abolition of the closure rule forces one to the conclusion that he regards it as the lesser of two evils. He would prefer a situation in which a government could not invoke closure, although such closure would be justified by circumstances, to one in which a government could invoke a closure rule although circumstances did not warrant such action.

If it is necessary to choose between evils, may be the right choice. Certainly most Canadians, including, we are convinced, many Liberals, fervently hope that the House of Commons will never again see legitimate debate stifled as it was during the passing of the pipeline bill.

But one ought to realize that the absence of any closure rule could open the way for equally deplorable tactics to be employed in the Commons. Some of the filibustering tactics sometimes seen in the United States where speakers have mouthed irrelevancies hour after hour for no other purpose than to prevent the end of debate and the adoption of legislation approved by a clear majority of the elected members.

If any person suggests that a recognition of its responsibility would prevent such a group from resorting to filibustering, we can only say that there is no more reason to regard this as a safeguard against a filibuster than it was a safeguard against premature closure.

Is there no way in which the closure rule can be amended so that, while guarding against its premature use, there is still some protection against a filibuster?

THE PRINCE AND THE PRESS

The Associated Press, in a despatch from Williamsburg, suggests that Prince Philip may be carrying on "a running war with the press".

It bases this suggestion on some of his quips. "Very true words," he laughed on reading a classic misprint in an old Bible - - "Printers," instead of "princes". "Just a little without cause . . . They are the first to say that any more," he replied, when a man locked in stocks in a replica of an old fort said he had been placed there for gossiping.

The speculation by the Associated Press that there is a little edge in the Prince's bantering with reporters and photographers gains added weight when we recall the account of an incident at Jamestown, a reporter, complaining that he had not been able to hear what the Prince said to the Governor-General, was told by the Prince that he wasn't supposed to hear. Surely only a man with a thick skin could fail to read into this a rebuke, albeit mild. And, if rebuke was there, we can be fairly certain that it was intended. No man who is so constantly in the public eye as the Prince rebukes unintentionally; he is much too skilled in the art of public relations to fall into such an error.

If the Prince is annoyed with the press, we like him all the better for it. For the press, it seems to us, is rather consistently forgetting its function where he and, indeed, royalty are concerned.

There is a dividing line between full reporting of events of public interest and an invasion of privacy. That line, we fear, has been crossed with great frequency. The Prince, we suspect, is fighting a losing battle in attempting to repulse the invading hordes - - but that does not make the attempt any less deserving of our applause.

Poor old Dobbin is having a pretty tough time of it in many places as in Brunswick, Maine, where only one horse is left in the town. The Council members think he is almost one too many. They said the horse owned by a man who uses the animal to haul wood, would have to have special rubber coverings over his shoes because he was damaging the town's streets. (Stratford Beacon-Herald.)

A SONG

When all the world is bright and gay
And birds are on the wing,
When fortune seems to come your way,
It's easy then to sing.
When peace is in your heart and you
Observe the flowers of the spring,
And every friend you know is true,
It's easy then, to sing.

But when the world is dull and sad,
When bitter is the sting,
When gone are all the hopes you had,
How hard it is to sing.
When friends you loved have proved untrue,
When winter comes for spring,
Then is the time it counts if you
Have but the will to sing.

Wall Goes up in Tooth

By Jack Scott in The Vancouver Sun

The best reporters, being completely objective, never allow their innermost stories to intrude on their stories.

The Sun's Tom Gould, being one of the best, kept to the facts in that manner in covering the unhappy events in Little Rock, Arkansas.

On his return I sought him out to ask his purely personal opinions and impressions after his first-hand observation of the segregation mess precipitated there by Governor Orval Faubus.

I asked Gould: "Isn't there plenty of hope that the Little Rock business will be a milestone in race relations in the long run?

It's at least brought the tensions and the intolerance out into the open and put it on the conscience of the whites, as it wasn't before."

"Doesn't look that way when you're in Little Rock," Tom replied.

"Why not?"

"Well, I think what happened there changed things all over the South. The more progressive Negroes are grasped it as a rallying cry, a battle-flag. The whites are closing their ranks against from."

There is the fact that it's a clear-cut issue and with full light of publicity on it, hasn't helped?"

"Yes, but the whites in Little Rock people in the south were in the position of making occasion- ist, handled integration. Indidentally, integration means the mixing of white and Negro pupils in schools. Faubus' stock. Well, the Southerner didn't like the idea. But he accepted it as inevitable. It was as if he was prepared for defeat before the battle."

"How far is it from here?" I asked.

"Why, it's Faubus, by a single administrative order, gave them a rallying point. Gave them a battle-cry. Gave them an issue they were not necessarily defeated. And now I think you'll find the south fighting back desperately."

"But isn't it true, Tom", asked, "that it's only the riff-raff, the so-called poor white trash, who have caused the kind of ugly scenes we've seen on television and in the papers?"

"Yes, they're the ones who throw rocks. They plant the bombs. They spit on the Negroes. But they're not the cause. They're only the root of the trouble. It's the middle-classer. . . . The average guy, the whites at the bottom of things in Little Rock. They say they deplore violence. But they incite it."

"In what way?"

"Why, they're banding together everywhere in the south in what they call White Citizens' Councils. You find that's a real cross-section of the middle-class. Lawyers, doctors, ministers; house-wives, small retail merchants. They're the epitome of the overwhelming majority of southerners, if not their active support. Make no mistake about it, the average southerner does not want integration."

"A thing I haven't been able to understand is why these nice Negro youngsters wouldn't submit themselves to such a risk", I said. "What motivates them?"

"Jack, those Negro kids at Central High School impressed me more than any group I've ever met," Tom replied. "Their seriousness . . . unbelievable. Of course, they were hand-picked out of about 200 Negro students who live in the area. They're the cream of the crop."

"They know what it's all about?"

"Yes. They're mature far beyond their years. They, and their parents, knew what it would be like. They knew the high risk of violence. But they were willing to put up with anything. Down deep, I think, they had a complete trust in the inherent goodness of people."

"I wonder if they feel the same way now?"

"They've seen. But I can tell you this: There isn't one of them who wouldn't do it over again. To them it was an honor."

"Supposing Faubus hadn't called out the National Guard?" I asked. "Would there have been trouble, do you think?"

"That's the tragic part of it all." Tom said. "Nothing, nothing at all, would have happened. I couldn't find a half-dozen people of all those I talked to in Little Rock who wouldn't agree with that. Faubus' action has caused the whole damned mess."

"What about the white students themselves?"

"The white kids are like kids anywhere. Some good. Some bad. The ones who were feel strongly against the Negroes are more violently opposed to violence than their parents. It's hard to describe how emotionally disturbed they can become over integration. Hysterical is the only word. They become monsters."

"How do the papers down there handle the story?"

"I always had great faith in the intelligence of newspapermen," Tom said, "and I don't mind saying I was disappointed by some I met. The publisher of the Little Rock Gazette happens to have a great respect for the reader's ability to see. He's fought Faubus tooth and nail on this issue. He's been a big supporter of integration, as such. A typical editorial I saw bragged and boasted of the way Arkansas had acted in the crisis and ended, 'No one has been lynched! See how far the south had advanced!'"

"Then, really, there's no compromising going on? You saw no signs for moderation?"

"One day," Tom said, "I saw a woman walking her dog on a leash in Little Rock. They had a parade. In the crowd along the sidewalk I saw a Negro. Not a Negro, two white, sitting side by side. There was something about it that made me feel good. They were all dressed up for the big day. They felt like the top of the world. Nobody had told them they weren't supposed to sit together."

"Integration in its natural form."

"Yes", Gould said. "But behind them there was a hardware store there with a big sign in the window 'Shotgun shells', it said. '29 per cent off.' And it wasn't the hunting season."

Wanted: Homes For Buffaloes

Christian Science Monitor

The American buffalo—which is really a bison—is a huge animal whose massive woolly head and sharp horns must have awed Indians and early white explorers alike. One does not find it hard to see the similarity in the "desert patterns" of the Assiniboine buffalo which so frightened Marquette and Joliet.

The number of the species often stand six feet at the withers, weighs a ton, and how only guess how much they eat. Two centuries ago there were perhaps 60 million. This is a hundred bison to every Indian in the what is now United States; 70 years ago there were less than 600 survivors. Through conservation protection that number has been multiplied almost 50 times. But they must live on something. The animals have never been successfully domesticated, and they must not be allowed to outrun their food supply.

This year 225 have been offered to zoos and parks at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, for free, f.o.b. Thus far, six spoken for. At a price per pound "on the hoof" the list is open to organizations and individuals; 130 remain.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Deane Russell, of Ottawa, a former secretary to the late Mackenzie King, became a little weary of the high and the mighty. His own and his wife's hobby was leather craft, relaxing in the art of shaping hides as essential as the fall leather. To his astonishment and some envy's, he opened a hobby shop.

Stocking the shop with the great variety of raw materials and tools, he found that the sport of throwing knives was a favorite. He — and this is no reflection on his former life — he took up knife throwing for fun. Then he became interested in steel. And from there, the step was easy to make knives in general. It is a hanger-over, he supposes, from the natural bents Canadians had of axes up until two generations ago. Besides, a considerable proportion of Canadians are outdoorsmen who fish, hunt, camp, to whom a good belt knife is as essential as the axe was to their great-grandfathers.

Sweden, Germany, Finland, Britain, France and the United States are all great producers of cutlery, and the latest "throwing knife," of the early American Col. Bowie pattern, has long been the familiar dagger on the sportsman's belt.

Deane Russell got the notion that the stabbing, battling knife of Little Rock who wouldn't agree Col. Bowie and the Alamo has outlived its era. So he conducted over the past five years, a poll of Canadian outdoorsmen and backwoodsmen, each year providing a pattern that grew gradually to be, about 1956, the Nova Scotia, N.S., he found a refugee Cecche, slavak, a knife cutler, who was well-launched in the trade of supplying the Canadian fisheries of the Atlantic coast with hand-made gut knives. Now the National Industrial Design Council has before it, for its comment and rating, the belt knife that is to be called the Canadian soldiers' knife. It has been seen them, as hand-made by Rudolph Grohmann of Ottawa. They bear little if any resemblance to the familiar Bowie, which is a cleaver, but when it comes to the new knife, conceived by the sportsmen and woodsmen of Canada, it seems to be in the hand rather than the fist. It may prove to be, along with the snowshoe and the canoe, and the bush pilot, another Canadian contribution to the bush.

Engaging of School Nurse is advocated. At a meeting of the Board of Education a large deputation of ladies waited upon the members and strongly recommended that a system of medical inspection be established in the city schools and a competent nurse be employed by the Board. Their plea was endorsed by Dr. Yeomans, Medical Health Officer for the city. The ladies stressed the unsanitary condition by the Board. At the present time, however, the scheme could not be arranged as there is no provision made for it in the estimates and the cost would be considerable.

A social evening was given for the members of the Belleville branch of Y's by their president, Mrs. John Williams, at her home at the south east corner of Charles and George Streets. A very pleasant evening was passed and considerable knitting and fancy work done in completing articles for the boys now serving overseas.

The Scantlebury Fire. The worst fire in Belleville for years has been afflicted for some time that which occurred last evening and which started in the C.B. Scantlebury Book and Stationery Store on Front Street. The store was completely gutted. Water and smoke did considerable damage to Allan McFees' Jewellery store. The stocks of Wallbridge and Clarke and Clarke's drug store and Frank P. Carney's book and shoe store were also damaged by smoke. The fire was discovered about eight o'clock in the evening and it originated in a building at the back of the store which was used as a paint shop. The store was owned by Mr. Scantlebury, one of the firm of Wallbridge and Clarke and the loss is covered with insurance. Mr. Scantlebury's loss will be considerable.

From our file at this time in 1897: "The Deacon's Daughter" will be the attraction at the opera house on Friday evening.

Nonsense About Trade

Toronto Financial Post

The U.S. Department of Commerce had its man Henry Kearns, assistant Secretary of Commerce for International Affairs, talking at Buffalo. Mr. Kearns is an automobile and insurance salesman from Salt Lake City, prominent in Republican Party organizations.

At Buffalo he told Canadians that we are "unduly alarmed" and place too much significance on the economic danger from the United States".

"Imports from the U.S.," he said, "are becoming more and more a matter of replacement industry rather than its competition. Canada is fairly rich in natural materials and turning out a finished product."

There is only one possible comment to make on this, and we may as well state it bluntly. It is nonsense. It is not the way in a free republic, it had been as though they had entered a new world.

Much of the bitterness in life would melt away if we could only see the other fellow's point of view, ing to see his point of view by trying to be him for a spell. We would be closer to peace with other people with whom we deal, get their attitude and just for-getfulness.

The Number One Narcotic

"You need not have acknowledged with such extreme candor that you are a "rabid teetotaler". It is quite apparent in everything you say about alcohol or alcoholism. The other day you plead for a more sympathetic and practical understanding of mental derangements. Why so much bitter and intolerant towards alcoholism? Isn't alcoholism a disease . . . ? (R.W.)"

First, I thank you, sir, for your courtesy.

The bitterness I feel is against alcoholic liquor — not against alcoholics. At the very beginning of my medical career, as an intern in a large charity hospital, I saw as much misery, disease and unhappiness from the use of the number one narcotic — and the picture would have been far worse if I had known or cared for the families of the victims that it still makes me sick at the stomach each when I think of those derelicts in the county hospital.

When I speak against alcohol as a stimulant, such as strychnine or caffeine, I mean neither that I need the addicts need. And so is the desire to "feel better." And alcohol is the habit to become less conscious of distress, pain, uneasiness, remorse, and worry, anxiety; and only a narcotic can quell or put to sleep a brain his or wretched feelings.

A young person with good nutrition and healthy primary physical education has not been neglected will just fine and dandy. It would be difficult to imagine better feeling or liveller sense of well being than he or she enjoys thanks to v-i-t-e.

Untutored, undisciplined youngsters get the cocaine, morphine, heroin, marihuana or other narcotic habit. But the "trying" the drug for what they are bounded to believe is harmless thrill, kick or wonderful feeling of exaltation. If the experimenter gets the first indulgence are not too unpleasant or the individual is not very intelligent, the indulgence is likely to be repeated; and presently the intervals between bouts, shots or sniffs becomes so full a fibre spreading after effects that the individual is impelled to repeat the dose of his favorite narcotic immediately—and this is addiction!

"At times I drank to excess," said the periodic drinker in a conscious or sober interval, "because I felt the need of a stimulant, or rather just wanted to feel better."

The strongest attempt to explain his weakness is the best any makes on the part of the intoxicated alike his or her behavior, I think.

"The need of a stimulant" When I ask equivocally for a real stimulant, such as strychnine or caffeine, I mean neither that I need the addicts need. And so is the desire to "feel better." And alcohol is the habit to become less conscious of distress, pain, uneasiness, remorse, and worry, anxiety; and only a narcotic can quell or put to sleep a brain his or wretched feelings.

HEAVEN

Things missing in heaven!

Yes, there will be many things missing in heaven. We read in the Bible that there will be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither will there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away. And there will be no more sea, for the sea divides continent from continent and keeps men from people, and, as a result, war.

Singularly enough, there will be no church in heaven. At first that seems like a terrible deprivation. But it is not. There will be no need of a church, for a church is a sacred area dedicated to such uses as will make men conscious of God. In heaven the consciousness of God will be widespread.

There will be no localized places of worship, no shrines, no sanctuaries.

Of course the most thrilling absence will be the absence of death. The Bible says that the last enemy to be destroyed is death. Heaven will be light and life eternal. The Bible has very little to say about heaven by way of description, for its glories are such that, with the natural imagination of the flesh, we would be unable to understand.

The promise of heaven is the promise of onward-going growth and development in the Lord. "I was caught up," declares St. Paul "into the third heaven and there I heard words which it is not lawful for a man to utter."

ON CHANGING PLACES

What a world of increased happiness would be created were it possible for us always to place ourselves in the other fellow's place, to see things from his standpoint, to understand his point of view, to sympathize with his problems and his difficulties. Between 1953 and 1956 Canada's imports of industrial materials from the United States increased by 22.2 per cent; imports of investment goods increased by 25.3 per cent; imports of consumer good increased by 36.8 per cent.

But Mr. Kearns went farther into the realms of fantasy. These Canadian industrial products, he claimed, "in some cases have actually created such competition for American products in other continents, the answer is that in most cases U.S. parent companies controlling Canadian subsidiaries refuse to let their Canadian plants compete in export markets. So Kearns is just talking more nonsense.

Shooting Home Movies . . . with Bob Knight

Article 7

Shortly after the announcement of full-color movie film for amateur movie cameras, photographic pundits, with an eye to more lucrative sales, began to sing the praises of this film. Any pictures. With any film. For be best described as two burnt holes in a blanket.

The recorded colors were par- too warm, they warned. Things tended to appear a bit on the red side . . . not at all the way they regiered when shot at or near mid-day.

They were right — in a way. Things did indeed look a little "warm." Complexions were sud-dler. Shadows were deeper. All colors were richer. Scenics acquired depth and perspective. Color film, in fact, realistically captured the added beauty lent by the slanting rays of a sun on its way up or down — the most attractive time of day to the human eye. And the most attractive time of day to color film.

And these experts were also right — in a way — when they said that objects filmed early or late in the day did not look like those shot around noon. Praise be, for mid-day is the poorest of all times to make pictures. this is the period of the day when, in scenics, shadows are all buttoned up beneath trees and buildings. Everything looked flat. And this is the time when humans acquire eye shadows which give them an appearance

Exposure? No change from the "average-colored" subject reaches the horizon. Far, of course, is the old dependable f-8 for ect sunlight. For while the sun, filtering through the ground haze that gives it its ruddiness, may not be as strong as at mid-day, it is considering more directly off your targets and back into your lens. When still lower, the sun becomes obviously dimmer, as your eye can see, captured the added beauty lent by the slanting rays of a sun on its way up or down — the most attractive time of day to the human eye. And the most attractive time of day to color film.

And these experts were also right — in a way — when they said that objects filmed early or late in the day did not look like those shot around noon. Praise be, for mid-day is the poorest of all times to make pictures. this is the period of the day when, in scenics, shadows are all buttoned up beneath trees and buildings. Everything looked flat. And this is the time when humans acquire eye shadows which give them an appearance best described as two burnt holes in a blanket.

Exposure? No change from the "average-colored" subject reaches the horizon. Far, of course, is the old dependable f-8 for ect sunlight. For while the sun, filtering through the ground haze that gives it its ruddiness, may not be as strong as at mid-day, it is considering more directly off your targets and back into your lens. When still lower, the sun becomes obviously dimmer, as your eye can see. Normal exposure estimates, for these subjects, go out the window. The range becomes f-5.6 to wide open — which later, depending upon your movie camera, means anything from f-2.7 to f-1.4. If the sun's uphright, yet partly hidden by clouds so that you can look at it without eyestrain — chances are you should shoot at about f-4. If it's almost at the horizon, still partly shielded by clouds, f-2.8 or f-2.7 should be about right. If it has just set, and the clouds above it are brilliant with its afterglow, f-1.9 is usually the ticket. And if you've got an even faster f-1.4 lens you can film a sunrise minutes earlier, and a sunset minutes later There are no hard and fast rules. Atmospheric conditions, and sun brilliance, vary. But if you miss exact exposure by a hair or two, what matter? Things will simply appear a few minutes earlier or later. Results, almost invariably, will be beautiful.

But don't overlook the customary rules of good composition just because you have a prize subject! As ever, seek the best vantage point from which to train your camera. Your camera finder will identify it for you. Attractive sunrises or sunsets are attractive anywhere. You can frame them against in a city by silhouetting a building, a bridge, or even a smokestack before the flaming backdrop. Over water you can include a boat, a fisherman, a bit of dock or jetty to strike the note of color contrast. In the country there's surely a tree, a barn, or, from a low camera angle, even a shaft or two of wheat to touch up the spectacle. Wherever your shooting, keep your camera trained steadily on your target. Make your shots rather long. Adjust your lens for your subject's changing brilliance — —then shoot again and again. On your living room screen you can raise a rising sun from below the horizon . . . put a setting sun to bed!

Engine Noise May Help You Detect Trouble

By EUGENE MILMOE

Many engine troubles that announce themselves via strange, loud noises offer clues which help lead to their detection. A heavy knocking or thudding sound, loudest with the engine on a slow hard pull, indicates a loose or worn main bearing.

Similar noises occur when a loose flywheel is at fault. However, unlike a main bearing knock, this is usually irregular.

Mechanics often test by listening for the telltale sound as the engine is switched off, then quickly turned on again.

The clamor from a connecting rod bearing can be identified by a metallic rap or tap, loudest when the gas pedal is released at 20 or 25 m.p.h.

Excessive piston-cylinder clearance causes a hollow slapping noise (known as piston slap), best heard when the engine is cold. When a loud, sharp double rap occurs and is most noticeable at idle, piston pin looseness is suspected.

L.U. writes: "If the fuel mixture is too rich, will the engine miss at idle and low speeds or just at high speed?"

(A) Actually, an overrich fuel mixture can cause missing at all engine speeds. The same holds true for a weak or very lean mixture.

N.S. asks: "In what direction does the cooling system water circulate? Is it the same for all cars?"

(A) The water is drawn from the bottom of the radiator, pumped through the engine passages (where it is heated) and back into the top of the radiator. As it flows down through the core to the bottom, the water is cooled by air from the fan. This same water route is followed on all cars.

From H.Q.: "Two months ago when my 1956 sedan was in for the 1,000-mile inspection, the dealer discovered a bad head gasket. I was informed this was unusual but that it happened once in a while. A relative now tells me he had the same trouble last year on a different car make, so I am curious enough to wonder why these gaskets aren't inspected more closely at the factory."

(A) A weak or defective gasket may slip through occasionally, but the usual cause of such gasket failure is improper tightening of the cylinder head bolts during engine assembly.

B.P. writes: "Does the sulphur which is present in gasoline have any pitting or corrosive effects on engine parts? I have gotten both pro and con answers to this question."

(A) Upon burning, the small amount of sulphur in gasoline changes to a gas. The gas itself does not really harm the engine, but if it mixes with water (due to condensation or leakage), a corrosive acid can result which, of course, endangers engine parts.

National Ballet To Again Visit City on Tour

Returning to Belleville's Collegiate auditorium for the third year in succession, the National Ballet Company of Canada is presenting two colorful performances on Saturday, November 9th, under the auspices of the Belleville branch of the National Ballet Guild. The visit comes near the beginning of the company's seventh annual tour, which is to take it on a wide sweep of the United States and Canada, reaching as far afield as Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver.

In keeping with her declared policy of continued progress, artistic director Celia Franca has added several new ballets to the company's repertoire, and Belleville is indeed fortunate that all of these are to be included in the programs planned for presentation here. "Carnaval" by Michel Fokine danced to Schumann's beautiful music and first presented in St. Petersburg Russia, in 1910, starring the fabulous Nijinsky will open the evening performance, to be followed by "Winter Night" created by noted British choreographer Walter Gore. This ballet is set to the music by Rachmaninoff's Second "Piano Concerto, which will feature Canadian concert pianist Reginald Godden. The concluding Item on the evening program is the riotous "Offenbach in the Underworld" which created such a sensation here two years ago that it is being brought back "by special request."

The matinee performance will open with Act III of "Swan Lake," the ballet which the company presented so successfully on CBC television last winter. This will be followed by a pleasant little French dance "Pas de Chance," and by the other two additions to this season's repertoire. These are "The Willow," an original creation by Canadian choreographer, Grant Strate, set to music by Robert Foote, and dances from "The Sleeping Princess," one of the most famous classics in the world of ballet set to Tchaikowsky's glorious and haunting music.

High-Pay City Job Is Not Really Prize Package So Many Think It Is

By THOMAS COLLINS

The life you are living, the one you'll give up when you retire, is not the prize package you think it is.

Any number of people would not have it.

The sharecropper growing cotton, on a red-clay Georgia hillside, the couple running a filling station in Wyoming, the lumberman in Arkansas — they think you're smart and rich. But most of them wouldn't swap places with you for pay.

Think back over the people you've run across in out-of-the-way places on your vacations. Then recall how content they were with their lots. It will give you better perspective for retirement. It may lead you to believe that your particular city package is not the only life there is.

This week I had a long talk with a city man, Walter R. Whitfield, who retired in 1954. He had had a better job than most, had belonged to a luncheon club and played golf, and owned a home in the outskirts. He was against compulsory retirement, and took his pension at 65 with considerably more bitterness than joy.

LIFE LIKE PACKAGE

"And yet I began to wonder about things," he said. "My life was like a cardboard box — a package. My job was the treetrunk in the centre of it, and everything else was excelsior packed around it. My way of life, my friends, where I lived, what I did.

"Once the job was gone, the particular kind of excelsior I had gathered was pretty useless. And that's why city people grow miserable in retirement — they don't analyze this thing."

He gave the city, got $14,000 fall, out of his house, and with a retirement income of $211 a month went to Missouri. He picked a town of 2,800 population where he had lived once as a boy. He and his wife rented an upstairs apartment in a house, and he set out to buy an interest in some local business.

"I wanted a 50 per cent partnership in something. I didn't particularly care what. I didn't want 49 per cent and I didn't want 51. I wanted a partnership with a man who was already running the business, knew it, and knew the town. He could keep on running it. My 50 per cent would let me know what was happening . . ."

FOUND GENERAL STORE

It was about five months before he connected. He bought into a general store that carried dry goods, some canned goods, farm feeds and a few farm implements and hardware items. It had been a partnership of two old friends, and one of them had died. The two partners and a trusted old employee were the staff.

"I had an auditor fly down from the city to look over the books. Everything was all right. The net for each partner when the crops were good was running about $3,200 a year, plus buying everything you needed wholesale. I paid $12,500 for the partnership, and was committed of course to do my share behind the counters six days a week.

But what a revelation! I stroll up to the barbershop about 10 every morning for my shave. In the afternoon I go over to the drugstore for a cola and conversation. When things are quiet, say on a Monday, I sit in a cane-bottom chair in front of the furniture store next door and talk to Jim Bishop about hunting this fall.

"Every merchant on the street is a friend of mine now. I hunt and fish with them. I work in the

PINE — IRELAND

Standards of white and gold chrysanthemums, in t e rspersed with ferns and autumn foliage with tall white candles, formed the setting of a lovely autumn wedding October 2 at Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, when the Reverend Stanley M. Davis, pastor of Bridge Street United Church, united in marriage at a double-ring ceremony Joan Helen Ireland, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ireland, Belleville, and William James Pine, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Pine, Belleville. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

The charming bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march, rendered by the church organist, Mr. Alec Gordon. She was radiant in her ballerina-length bridal gown of white Alencon lace and tulle over taffeta with full-tiered skirt enhanced by hoops. The lace jacket, with a Peter Pan collar buttoned down the back with tiny buttons and long sheath-like sleeves, formed a lily point over the hands. Her lace-edged French tulle illusion shoulder-length veil was held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and seed pearls. White and silver dipped pearl necklace and earrings completed her ensemble. She carried a white Bible, gift of the bridegroom, crested with Sweetheart roseBuds knotted with white satin streamers with tiny rosebuds, clephanotis and a spray of white heather, given to her by the great aunt.

Miss Barbara Ireland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in powder blue taffeta over taffeta, having a tiered ruffled full skirt, bolero jacket and wide taffeta bow at the waist. She carried a nosegay of pink roses, white Mums, edged with pink feathered carnations and pink knotted streamers.

Miss Patricia Ireland was her sister's bridesmaid, dressed in a gown of pink crystal and net over taffeta with matching bolero and wide taffeta sash with a bow at the back. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and white 'mums, edged with blue feathered carnations and blue knotted streamers. Both attendants wore matching nylon and net headbands, matching mitts, glass slippers and pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Little Miss Brenda Runnalls, of Harold, Ontario, and Miss Sandra Hoyes, Belleville, acted as flower girls, identically gowned in ankle-length mauve taffeta dresses, fashioned with Peter Pan collars and pleated full hooped skirts, trimmed with yellow velvet sashes. Dainty bows held tiny bunches of pink, blue and yellow forget-me-nots. They wore matching headbands encircled with forget-me-nots and ribbons and matching mitts. They carrying tiny basquettes of yellow and white baby 'mums tied with white ribbons.

Master Johnny Way, Carrying Place, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. He carried a white satin cushion fashioned in the form of a Bible, A white satin book-mark, tipped with a tiny bunch of forget-me-nots, held the two wedding bands for the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. William Burgoyne, soloist of the church, was accompanied by Mr. Alec Gordon at the organ in the rendition of "The World" before the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

David Craig, Belleville, was groomsman. Ushers were Fairhead, Larry Hedger and Jack Ireland, Jr., all of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Belleville Rifle Club where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing an azure blue nylon chiffon gown with shoes to match, a French feathered blue hat, and yellow gloves and a corsage of pink feathered carnations.

She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a bridal rose Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, navy and white feathered hat and navy accessories and a corsage of yellow feathered carnations.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask linen and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature silver bell and lilies-of-the-valley, a traditional topping used on the bride groom's mother's and father's wedding cake on their wedding day. The cake was misted with white tulle at the base and pink and white rosebuds flanked by silver candle holders and lighted pink tapers and wedding bouquets completed the nuptial table.

Master of ceremonies at the reception was Frank Murray. The Rev. Herv. M. Davis proposed a toast to the bride. The bridegroom responded. He also voiced thanks to their parents, bridesmaids, flower girls, ushers, best man, ring-bearer and all others who contributed to make a success of their happy event and invited everyone to their future home.

Lee Grills expressed warm congratulations and best wishes to the bride and bridegroom. Congratulations and best wishes were received during the reception in the form of a telegram from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaids were pearl necklaces and to the flower girls white gold lockets. The bridegroom's gifts to the groomsmen were tie bar and cuff links and a tie; to the ushers and ring-bearer, cuff links and tie clasps were worn by the attendants.

Travel Taught These Children Initiative and Independence

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

An era in our travelling career ended a few weeks ago when the elder of our two youngsters, Claudia, started school. From now on all the children are grown our trips as a family group will have to be limited to school holiday periods.

We were mulling over what our first five years of travelling together had done for us and the kids when we had occasion to visit Claudia's kindergarten class and talk with her teacher. We returned glowing with parental pride at Miss Brown's report that our offspring was—one of the most grown-up and self-reliant 5-year-olds in the class of 40, showing a remarkable initiative and independence.

Putting aside any feeling of self-satisfaction we were tempted to entertain, we thought we would look into that and see what it may mean to you who have small children with whom you may want to travel.

Reluctantly, we find we must give most of the credit for Claudia's 5-year-old worldiness to have her having around. Having been pitched with her brother Grant, 3½, in front of the situations one encounters travelling, she seems to have developed a way of coping with the nature of things that homebound children rarely have the opportunity to develop.

We read not long ago of how a kindergarten teacher had to teach a child to climb steps. The youngster had been raised in a ranch-style home and had never seen stairs.

Not one of our kids climb steps, but if we let them they'd know how to run self-service elevators. They have uncanny instincts for finding the rest rooms and vending machines in filling stations, hotel lobbies and restaurants. They recognize signs reading "Ladies" and "Coca Cola" to "motel", "AAA", "Howard Johnson's" and even, of all things, "pizza."

Those may not be very important except as they show alertness. But in addition, the children are not the least bit fazed by strange surroundings, changing companions, or crowded public places, the things some psychologists seem to feel give children a sense of insecurity. In no way does their emotional or physical growth, mental development, or energy seem to have been held back.

They have developed unusual and interesting tastes for sitbred youngsters. Jonny has a passion for horses, kindled by television and fulfilled by visits to Arizona, where his confidence in the saddle for a 3-year-old started even the dude ranch cowboy who taught him. Claudia developed an interest in foreign sports cars in California.

She also learned how to crack lobster claws on Cape Cod and worked up a taste for the spiced crab apples often served on the Irish trays in Southern restaurants. Both kids will eat shrimp, chili con carne, olives, corned beef hash and a number of other more or less regional delicacies most children would balk at, and both cause us some embarrassment by picking up with orders for their favorite dishes in restaurants without reference to the latest, and the friendly atmosphere of the Irish Rose in Dublin, Ireland, where Claudia, Jonny and Grant are shown with Mrs. Kelly, the proprietress, and Mrs. Kelly's granddaughter, Mary Kelly, is a case in point.

In the age where much has been said about fathers who are not fathers but boarders who come home from work, doze, eat, read the paper, then go to bed to sleep and never meet their kids, Claudia and Jonathan's father has gotten to know them mutually profitable and enjoyable way to the latest, and the friendship seems to have been

LET THE LOWER LIGHTS BE BURNING

Brightly beams our Father's mercy
From His lighthouse ever-more;
But to us He gives the keeping
Of the lights along the shore.
Let the lower lights be burning!
Send a gleam across the wave!
Some poor fainting, struggling seaman
You may rescue, you may save.

Dark the night of sin has settled,
Loud the angry billows roar;
Eager eyes are watching, longing
For the lights along the shore.
Let the lower lights be burning!
Send a gleam across the wave!
Some poor fainting, struggling seaman
You may rescue, you may save.

Trim your feeble lamp, my brother!
Some poor seaman, tempest tossed,
Trying now to make the harbor,
In the darkness may be lost.
Let the lower lights be burning!
Send a gleam across the wave!
Some poor fainting, struggling seaman
You may rescue, you may save.

Philip Bliss, popular nineteenth century singing evangelist, heard a sermon one night by Dr. Dwight L. Moody in which the great preacher told of a tragic Lake Erie shipwreck. A steamer sailed after dark in a wild storm off the Cleveland shore, according to the story, had run on the rocks for want of guiding lights in the harbor.

Dr. Moody sketched a vivid word picture of the wild, vain battle waged by the vessel's pilot to bring her ship to port.

"Are you sure this is Cleveland?" asked the captain, seeing but a single light in the lighthouse.

"Quite sure, sir!' replied the pilot.

"Where are your lower lights?

"Gone out, sir.'

"Can you make the harbor?'

"We must, or perish, sir.'

"With a strong hand, the old pilot turned the wheel of his tossing, plunging ship, but alas, in the darkness he missed the mouth and with a crash the ship shivered upon the rocks.

"Brethren," said Dr. Moody in closing, "The Master will take care of the great lighthouse; let us keep the lower lights burning."

The sermon-story of the shipwreck and the picture it suggested of human being storm-tossed and lost on the sea of life for want of the saving message of Christianity made a deep impression upon Philip Bliss. Long before Dr. Moody had finished preaching, the hymn verses were were beginning to take form in the young singer's mind. The evangelist's closing admonition to "keep the lower lights burning" was echoed in the chorus of the song:

"Let the lower lights be burning!
Send a gleam across the wave!
Some poor fainting, struggling seaman
You may rescue, you may save."

GOOD MANNERS

SENDING FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENTS OF HER HUSBAND'S DEATH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a very special question to ask you, and I need your help very much. Last week my husband, only 43 years old and always healthy in perfect health, died suddenly. I loved him with all my heart, and I believe everyone who knew him, professionally or socially, was deeply devoted to him. He had many and long-time connections with many organizations, several clubs, many professional contacts. He had many friends here in this large city where we live, in many places in this country, and many professional and social friends in Europe and other foreign places. I remember that so many times, when he was away long after word of the death of a friend, he would express regret that he had not known at the time of the friend's passing on. It would be impossible for me to write to all his friends. So do you think it would be at all appropriate to send some kind of notice to the entire list of friends (and even acquaintances) of my husband's devotion? He has these listed in his address-book, which he kept carefully up-to-date.

I had thought of having mailing cards, with a black border engraved in wording somewhat like this:

With profound sorrow I announce the death of my beloved husband
Arthur Robinson
on Sunday, September . . . 1957 at . . . (hour) . . . (address)

Margaret Robinson

Would you approve of this procedure? — Widow

Although this of course would be another way of announcing, you do set forth most convincingly the reasons why sending this formal announcement of your beloved husband's death would be practical and sensible.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

A NEW SEASON — A NEW.. YOU!

Before having locks shorn, be sure that the new hairdo's becoming.

Fall may be the time of autumn leaves, football games and Hallowe'en, but it's also the season where new trends in fashion and beauty are proudly unveiled. Hair styles probably undergo the most drastic changes but there is always a "look" that, for the current year at least, is the last word in chic. This fall the look we're invited to look vibrant. You can interpret this to mean new green eyelids and blue hair, but a signal to look alive, look bright and, more than anything, look yourself.

The woman who learns how to ride with a trend without becoming a slave to it is both fortunate and wise. She'll infinitely better off than the dreamer who finds herself bleakly sporting a bowl-shaped hair cut just because the hairdresser exultantly informed her it was the very height of chic. On some people, yes — on her, no.

Before you live dangerously with a new haldo, plow around with your hair at home — pin it up, pull it back or plaster it down. That way you're able to get an idea how your features and face fall under its dips and waves. If you discover that you're really much prettier with the style you have been wearing for years, stay with it and let fashion go to some body else's head.

To get back to the vibrant look you should've have any difficulty adapting it to suit yourself. Point up your eyes by grooming your eyebrows until they lie flat and can be brushed into a natural line. Simply touch them with cold cream and train them into submission with a mascara brush. Tip the ends of your lashes with mascara and, if you want to be model-in the-window, apply a shadow very lightly across your lids and sweep it up into the hollow just under your eyebrows. Blend the color into your skin with a fingertip until it's barely evident and, never, never obvious.

You can give your complexion a rosy glow or a tawny touch by using a tinted make-up base or compressed powder. A very faint blush of cake rouge high up on your cheek bones and barely touched to the tip of your chin and (don't laugh, it works!) in the end your nose will bring out the sparkle in your eyes. Just make sure the rouge, like the eyeshadow, is so rubtle that it's never apparent.

When the same it goes by — natural, fair, vibrant or vivid — the look you'll wear this fall will never go out of style as long as it's appealing — as long as it's yours!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. H.P. — My daughter-in-law beats the children.

Eileen P. — I'm grateful for the spankings I got.

Mrs. H.P. — I never thought I'd be an interfered mother-in-law, but it seems to have happened to me in spite of myself.

I have brought up five fine children without ever laying a hand to one of them, so I know it can be done. My daughter-in-law, however, thinks it can't be done. She has twin boys aged 4 and a baby a year old, so I realize things are hard for her and I try to give her a hand by coming every day and watching the boys for a few hours.

But I just can't take it when I see Eileen beat those boys. They are devilish, but so were those other children of their age. She whips the daylights out of them when they misbehave, and I just can't stand back and watch. Recently I just told her off good and proper and she told me if I feel that way I can just keep my nose out of her business. "I was never so hurt in my life.

Eileen P. — I apologized for speaking as I did to my mother-in-law, but I still think that I'm right and she has no right to interfere between me and my children — no matter what I do.

My mother-in-law thinks she's so superior. She did things her way and that way and everything came out just too, too perfect. Well, my family is not perfect and I'm proud of it. I don't do all the housework and I'm downright grateful to my mother for letting me know right from wrong in a way I could remember.

My boys aren't suffering as a result of their spankings. They go right back and do the same things ten minutes later and they come to me saying, "Ma love ya, Mommy." I can't be such a terrible mother if my sons say they love me.

My mother-in-law has gotten my husband all worked up about this thing, too. Now, when he comes home at night, he asks the boys if I hit them.

The Council: Taking one problem at a time — Mrs. H.P. was wrong to interfere. Such interference would only be justified if Eileen were seriously abusing the children or showed she was not quite in command of herself when she punished them.

If Mrs. H.P. FELT THIS WAS If Mrs. H. P. was the case, she should have suggested to either Eileen or her own son that they talk the whole thing over with a doctor. If the spankings are moderate and Mrs. H.P. can't be sure, she should stay out of the picture.

On the matter of spankings in general, most authorities agree today that there is little harm to them if the parents are responsible and affectionate and the home is loving. Psychiatrists are afraid of thought came as a result of the abuse of this practice in hands of perverted individuals and there are more of those around than most of us realize.

Eileen shows, however, that her spankings are not working out too well as a disciplinary measure. With three children at that hard-to-handle stage, it is probably the spankings more as an outlet for her own nerves than anything else.

If her husband also objects to the spankings, he should enlist cooperation in getting a little more help in the home. She should try to get a baby sitter a week for rest and relaxation. She completely away from the child-ren. It's hard, but it can be worked out if it is agreed she is necessary for the welfare of the family.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Parsons' Day to Take It Eas

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Oct. 20 — The clergy will have a day off today in more than 100,000 churches in the United States and Canada, for this is Laymen's Sunday, the day when the laymen takes over. They will run the services, preach the sermons, read the Scriptures, and say the prayers — leaving the Parson with nothing to do.

Laymen's Sunday is no stunt. It is a vigorous symbol of the Christian laymen's increasing awareness that he, too, is a minister, a responsible representative of his faith in all areas of his life.

This year's theme is "My Father's Business," taken from the scene reported in Luke, chapter 2, verse 49, where the young Lord, discovered in the temple by His parents, said to them, "Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business."

Services today will be built around this theme, developing the idea that every Christian is called to be about the Lord's business at all times — in his family life, his business life, and in his participation in community affairs.

Christianity is not a one-day-a-week activity, and it is confined to the church building. Every situation is to the Christian an opportunity to minister in the Lord's Name.

Laymen's Sunday started in 1923, with only 30 churches participating in its observance. Its phenomenal growth is one of the impressive evidences of men's new role in the life of the church. The day will also be observed in the Armed Services around the world.

It is sponsored jointly by United Church Men (National Council of Churches) and the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, an independent, nondenominational organization.

WORLD ORDER

Also Sunday — Today is also designated, by the National Council's Department of International Affairs, as World Order Sunday. No special form of service is recommended by the department, and the day is in no way in conflict with Laymen's Sunday.

A brief message for use in the churches calls attention to world changes being brought about by the newly developing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America and pleads for a Christian attitude toward the people of these countries as persons of equal dignity with all other persons of the earth.

World Order Sunday is always the first day of United Nations Week, which is the week in which UN Day, Oct. 24, occurs.

A LEGEND ABOUT SHOEMAKERS

Friday, Oct. 25 — The twin saints, Crispin and Crispinian, who were martyred and buried at Soissons, in France, were cobblers during their short life in the French city, and naturally they immediately became the patron saints of all shoemakers everywhere.

In France, and to an extent elsewhere, they brought several new expressions about shoes and shoemaking into the language. A cobbler's tool kit came to be called simply a St. Crispin; a boot-jack was a St. Crispin's aisle; and an awl a St. Crispin's lance. Anyone seen hobbling along in shoes obviously too tight for him was said to be "in St. Crispin's prison."

In medieval times the local shoemakers' guild made a procession on this day every year to the Chapel of Saints Crispin and Crispinian at Soissons.

A legend says the first procession so greatly pleased the saints they asked the heavenly authorities to allow their cobbler friends to see paradise, which request was granted.

A ladder was lowered from heaven, with St. Paul in charge of the rope that held the ladder at the top. The cobblers swarmed up the ladder, and then an unfortunate thing happened.

A Mass was going on in Heaven at the time, and when the service reached the "surrum corda." St. Paul, who was always a little hard of hearing after his violent experience on the Damascus Road, thought someone had said "cut the cord" — so he did.

Nobody was killed in the ensuing tumble, but the story does explain why there are so many hunchbacks and cripples among cobblers.

Terry Sawchuk Not Popular With Detroit Fans After Three Setbacks

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Porky" liked his food and he didn't care who knew it. In fact he literally ate himself out of a goalkeeping job with the Pembroke Lumber Kings.

Claude LaBossiere, a youngster from down Quebec way, liked his steaks and chops so well no self-respecting cow would look him in the face. He apparently was happiest when he was knee-deep in gravy, with spuds snarling at his ankles.

The only thing wrong, Claude was his own best publicity agent. Off the ice he boasted about his ability and capacity for food. He said he could eat fourteen steaks at one sitting and not worry a wrinkle in his abdomen.

As it developed, unfortunately for Claude, his boss-man, one Wally Lesner, whose hobby is keeping gold nuggets, heard about his potential goalie's boasting. So did Wally's brother, Wilfred.

So with one eye on Claude and the other closed, Wally bet his brother twenty bucks that the gastronomical goalie could not absorb 18 eggs at one sitting. Wilfred gleefully took him up. Claude smacked his lips. This was a cinch. He even told the roosters to take the day off. He wanted his eggs fresh. They were.

The gang gathered. The Kings met at a local hashery and Claude put on the bib and tucker. The waitress approached. The Kings shook their heads. Nothing, thanks. All primed at Claude.

Claude ordered an eighteen-egg omelette. Someone caught the waitress before she hit the floor. She rubbed her eyes. A player told her she had heard right. That was it, eighteen eggs. At that moment two roosters rushed in for Claude's autograph.

Minutes later the waitress armed with a huge turkey platter on which reposed a mountain of yellow omelette. Claude again smacked his lips.

Wally riffled the lettuce in his pocket. Brother Wilfred also smacked his lips and scratched an itchy palm.

Less than eighteen minutes later Claude had polished off the omelette. He also took time out to gussle five drafts of milk.

On the way downtown Claude casually mentioned he would like to go to the arena to skate. Wally lifted his eyebrows. Here was his chance to get some of his lettuce back. So much gets you so much you can't skate for an hour after that meal, he suggested. Claude smoothed out a few wrinkles in his tummy, and took the bet. An hour later he collected.

He also collected something else. A railroad ticket back to his home town. Claude may have been a nifty at tucking in the groceries, but apparently Lesner felt he was not so hot at kicking out hockey pucks. So Claude wrapped up his appetite and hockey gear, and sadly wended his way homeward.

At last we got a rise from the Pembroke sports scribe. Referring to the statement in this column that nothing had been mentioned in the Pembroke sheet of its senior club's potential, Ron Craig who sports edits up thataway, says in rebuttal, "We wish to inform Mr. Carver that the Kings possess a rock-and-roll defence that will see to it that the Belleville club will get a lot of practice pulling itself up off the ice after being dumped by the likes of Danny O'Connor and Jack Douglas (whoever they are). After Mr. Carver's look at this pair he will change his word potential to 'murder'."

Craig suggests this department should take a trip to Pembroke and meet the Man with the Golden Arm. "If he cannot talk you into believing Pembroke will win the Allan Cup," says Craig, "you will probably go down in history as the only man Lesner could not convince."

Mr. Lesner may not be the greatest hockey expert in the world but he makes good copy and comes up with the laughs occasionally. The man has a sense of humor, too, not to mention "busting out" with optimism

When told that Cornwall's manager Hay Miron had suggested a stop worrying about other clubs and show a little co-operation, Lesner is reported to have let out a big belly laugh. "I'm not worrying about any other club," he is reported as saying, "especially Whitby. That's the kind of opposition we like to see."

"On second thought," he added, "I have a worry. I get airsick when riding in aircraft and when the Lumber Kings travel west next spring for the Allan Cup, I'm afraid I'm going to have a bad time up yonder."

Catcalls, Jeers Greet Goalie Amid Cries 'We Want Hall'; Jack Adams Blames Defence

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings' Terry Sawchuk, at 27 a young man but an old goaltender may have reached his year of decision in the National Hockey League.

Sawchuk received a strong vote of confidence from Detroit general manager Jack Adams last summer when Adams dealt regular goalie Glenn Hall to Chicago Black Hawks and hauled Sawchuk out of retirement from Boston Bruins to fill the job.

But thus far Sawchuk has fallen far short of expectations, at least in the eyes of Detroit fans. And their cheers or boos might make or break the crew-cut veteran.

The Winnipeg native might just be reaching his peak were he a forward or defenceman but the NHL measures a goalie's age not in years, but in the number of seasons he has played his skills against a flying puck.

LEFT IN MID-SEASON

Terry showed the full effect of his 6½ NHL schedules last year when he suddenly left the Boston midway through the season. First he went out for a rest; then he was stricken with a case of infectious mononeucrosis; then he disappeared completely for a few days and finally announced he was quitting.

Though the disease has its physical causes and leaves its victims in a generally depressed condition, few doubted that a large part of Sawchuk's trouble stemmed from "goaltender's nerves."

This year, replacing the brilliant Hall, he has had to listen to Detroit fans' cheers and cries of "We want Hall" while Wings lost three consecutive games on home ice.

They won their other game over Toronto Maple Leafs while getting away to one of their poorest starts in years, but Sawchuk's goals - against average stands at a whopping 4.25 after four games.

Adams insists the Detroit defence, not Sawchuk, is at fault, but the fans see only the record.

OUTSTANDING CAREER

If their derision and his nerves do drive him out of hockey it would be a sad finale to an outstanding career.

Beginning in the 1950-51 season with the Wings, the stocky 160-pounder won the Calder rookie award and followed it up with three Vezina trophies (for fewest goals-against) in four more years with Detroit.

Traded to Boston he had one creditable season with a weak team and last year was a prime factor in their climb to the top of the league in the final days of the season. Then came his collapse.

With the season hardly begun, Sawchuk has lots of opportunity to redeem himself in the eyes of Detroit fans and could start it off Sunday night with another win over Leafs in Detroit in Wings' only weekend game.

CHEVREFILS OUT

Toronto, still seeking its first win, plays host to Boston Saturday night. Leafs are leaving Bruins with four wins in as many starts, will be without left winger Real Chevrefils, out for the season, injury suffered in Thursday night's game against Detroit.

In Saturday's other game Chicago visits Montreal Canadiens, who are tied at the top of the league with Boston. Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion will play his first game of the season after being out with a bad case of the flu and will add strength where right wing for the already powerful Canadiens.

On Sunday, Hawks travel to New York to meet Rangers.

Dutchmen Win Second in Row As Trappers Defeat Whitby

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have started off the season in the new Ontario Hockey Association - Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior loop in fine fashion and must have their new coach, Bill Durnan, sporting a big smile.

After opening the season with a 3-1 win over Chatham Marconis Wednesday, they followed up Friday night with a 5-2 win over Bulls 4-3 in their home debut.

Other action in the six-team loop saw Sudbury Trappers down Whitby Dunlops 4-3 while Sudbury Wolves opened their season opener at home 5-2 at the expense of Soo Greyhounds.

HAD AT LEAST

Dutchies took a 4-1 lead into the final period and held the rallying Bulldogs at bay.

Jerry Theberge, who led the OHA Western Division last year in scoring, got two goals and two for Dutchies. Ken Laufman and Bob Paul got the others.

Frank Badigan, Rep Guidolin and Lou Bendo were the Windsor scorers.

Dunlops, Allan Cup champions and Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships next year, trailed from late in the first period. They cut Trappers' lead to 3-2 in the third period but failed in a bid to tie the score when they pulled goalie John Henderson only to have Bob Barlow score into the empty net.

OTHER SCORERS

Dunlops are not members of the league but their games count in the standings for the other teams.

Greyhounds grabbed a 2-0 lead on a pair of goals by Johnny Gilliland in the first period. Bob Forhan got one back before the period ended and Frank O'Grady tied the score in the second.

In the final frame, it was all Wolves as Joe Mady, Norm Guimond and Joe Zorica tallied.

Tonight, Whitby is at North Bay while Sudbury tangles with Greyhounds at Sault Ste. Marie. In Sunday's only game, Windsor is host to Kitchener-Waterloo.

Yank Golfers Whip Canucks

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—The United States defeated Canada 3834-3014 Friday in the international senior golf competition over the Garden City Golf Club's 6,306-yard course.

With six of the 16 U.S. players sweeping their matches, the host team won handily. Canada, which also lost last year at Toronto, held the lead after the foursome play Thursday 1314-714.

But in the singles, the defending champions rolled up 21 points to only 17 for Canada. Scoring was a point for each nine and another for the match.

Here's What the Governor Said To the Queen

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Governor Theodore McKeldin has a store of football anecdotes, some about royalty, to relate to Queen Elizabeth during today's Maryland-North Carolina football game.

It was the Queen's first view of American football and the Maryland governor planned to fill her in on the history of it as well as explaining today's intricate fundamentals.

The sport, as a kicking game, dates back to the Greeks and Romans and was introduced to North America in the early 1800's by the British rugger game of rugger is somewhat similar.

FORBIDDEN TO PLAY

McKeldin said that James I, who succeeded Elizabeth I on the throne, was the first royal parent to forbid his son to play the game. After seeing the bruised shins and broken noses of young princes engaged in the sport, he issued orders to the prince of Wales not to "kicke ye ball."

The prince later became Charles I who granted the charter under which Maryland became a British colony in 1632.

Henry VIII, the other head, went for the game in a big way. While he was trying to recruit players to fight in his army, Mr. McKeldin said, he was advised that lusty yeomen he was seeking were not playing kicky ball.

HENRY JOINED IN

He watched them for awhile, liked the looks of the game, and joined them, emerging from the sidelines with "his pants torn and a torn royal raiment."

"Then he fought them for his army," McKeldin said.

The governor also had a fistful of other facts on the game such as: U.S. college football was first played between Rutgers and Princeton Universities in 1869; Canadians introduced running with the ball in addition to kicking it toward an opponent's goal; a football player's uniform and equipment may weigh 14 pounds or up to 30 pounds after he has soaked in the rain or perspired heavily.

Three-Way First-Place Tie No Threat to Big Four Teams

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four Football Union has decided the threat of a three-way first-place tie at season's end is no threat at all.

The answer lies in the rule book. And it says the teams are ranked according to their standings after points scored against each are subtracted from points scored for.

The deadlock question was the main topic at a meeting Friday of Big Four officials in the office of league president Bob Moran. Ted Workman and Gorman Kennedy represented Montreal Alouettes; Jim McKelvey and Sam Berger Ottawa Rough Riders; Jake Gaudaur Jr. and Frank Gibson Hamilton Tiger-Cats; and Joe Wright and Lew Hayman Toronto Argonauts. Only Four commissioner Judge A. J. Fraser and secretary Wes Brown of Ottawa were also on hand.

Here are other topics and decisions:

1958 schedule — a committee will investigate the possibility of a 15-game schedule with each team meeting its rivals five times.

Post-season game — It is not feasible to stage a game between the Ontario Rugby Four Intercollegiate League champion and the OHFU champion. Each will meet Sunday for further discussions on the question.

Disciplinary action — Any player deliberately throwing a game or attempting to will face an automatic $50 fine.

Crowd control — Each member club will continue to be responsible for crowd control at its own games but will be asked to increase control.

Ticket prices—Montreal Alouettes will adjust its prices for playoff games if Montreal to Hamilton scalps in other interleague cities.

Playoff timekeeping — Joe Wright of Toronto will act as official timer for all league playoff games.

Economics—The general managers were named to a committee to investigate league operations to determine whether expenses can be cut.

Junior player draft—The draft meeting will be held the Thursday night (Oct. 31) before the Grey Cup game and each club will select six to eight players. Ottawa, which paid $2,000 to sponsor Windsor AKO in the OHFU intermediate series, will retain full selection privileges over the club for this year only.

Rough play—Team managers have been told to talk to coaches and players in an effort to cut down rough play.

College draft—The Big Four will tell the Canadian Football Council that it considers all college players subject to draft and that it questions the right of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union to hold a CRU card for Joe Poirier of McGill Redmen.

Slammin' Sam's Booming Drives Amaze Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Sam Snead awed Japanese golf fans with his booming drives Friday as he fired a six-under-par 65 in his first tour over the Kasumigaseki Country Club, where the Canada Cup matches will be played next week.

Playing with his American partner, Jimmy Demaret, the slammer from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., cut three shots from the course record of the rolling 7,000-yard layout on the outskirts of Tokyo. Par is 36-36—72.

"I'll never play golf again," one Japanese pro commented as he watched Snead nail seven birdies during his whirlwind tour.

Fire Destroys Stable, 8 Horses

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Fire Friday destroyed the Ward Schoen harness racing stable, including eight valuable horses, with a loss estimated by the owner at $40,000.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, razed the 40-by-100 frame and cement block and frame barn located near Schoen's home in the northeast outskirts of the city.

Lost in the blaze were Schoen's trotting stallion, Rose Mary Scott, two yearling colts, two 2-year-olds, a 3-year-old filly and a stallion.

Calhoun Wins Over Castellani

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Frank Bachman, fearful he is running out of opponents for his mighty muscle man, Rory Calhoun, said today he was going to stake a claim for a title fight with middleweight champion Carmen Basilio.

"Chuck Pullmer, Joey Giardello and Charley Humez all have refused to fight Rory," said Bachman after his boxer outclassed veteran Rocky Castellani in a 10-rounder Friday night.

The 23-year-old Calhoun, a pro only three years, is ranked third by Ring magazine, just behind Sugar Ray Robinson and Pullmer, two of the Nine Immortals of the National Boxing Association has Calhoun fifth behind Robinson, Pullmer, Giardello and Humez. The European champ from France.

20TH VICTORY

Calhoun's victory over the bicycling Castellani was his 20th against two losses and a draw. He has dropped close decisions to Giardello and Spider Webb of Chicago.

Castellani, once a high-ranking middleweight contender, appears all through at 30. Once a clever counter-puncher, he offered nothing against his aggressive opponent from White Plains, N.Y. He just couldn't hold, except for one brief flareup in the third round, and an occasional punch or two in other rounds. Referee Harry Kessler urged him to fight all through the bout.

Kessler and judge Harold Barnes each voted for Calhoun by 9-1 scores. Judge Tony Castellano scored it 8-1-1.

Hollywood Stunt Driver One Of Few Persons Who Visited North, South Polar Regions

CALGARY (CP) — Bill O'Sullivan, a one-time Hollywood stunt driver now with the RCAP in Calgary, is one of the few persons who has visited both the North and South polar regions.

Brought up in temperate New England, his first encounter with snow was on an Antarctic expedition in 1933. He was sent to make a food camp for the New Zealand government - sponsored expedition.

The party landed on the Ross Barrier, reached by boat through the Ross Sea. After three days travel by dog team they arrived in "Little America," site of one of Commander Byrd's camps.

CAMP WELL-PRESERVED

"My job was to dig up his camp. The buildings were intact and everything well preserved by the extreme cold. We used these buildings for our headquarters."

Nineteen years later, he says pure luck gave him the chance to see Canada's Arctic.

Behind him this time was war service in the Royal New Zealand Air Force as a pilot in the Egyptian campaign, and, a two-year stint as a stunt driver with a Hollywood road show.

In 1950 he joined the RCAF. This summer he was sent on a project to Alert, on the northern tip of Ellesmere Island.

"In the Canadian Arctic you can have one foot on land, and the other on ice. The ice is at the same level. At the South Pole, it's all ice. Our camp was on the living ice cap. It's called living ice, because it's continually on the move with chunks breaking off into the sea to form icebergs.

At the South Pole, Mr. O'Sullivan says, mountains rise in the distance through the ice cap. The Ross Barrier towers into cliff formations of ice up to 200 feet high.

MOUNTAIN OF IRON

In contrast, Canada's Arctic on Ellesmere Island has a mountain of solid iron nine miles from Alert, and another of crystal 1,900 feet high.

Near Alert is the lake from which Mr. O'Sullivan and some friends managed to catch the first fish ever taken from its waters.

The lake chain is called Upper and Lower Dumbell because it is shaped like a dumbell.

"I can't figure out how we ever caught the fish," he said. "Men have been fishing there since 1953 without any luck."

Mr. O'Sullivan visited cairns erected by the Sir George Nares expedition of 1875.

"People think Alert is so far north there is nothing to do," said Mr. O'Sullivan. "You can always find something to do, more so than in the city.

"Everyone is camera crazy. They rush out when anything comes in sight. You can walk, climb mountains, or travel by snowmobile. The men have radios and their own call signs and are in touch with harn operators as far away as Australia."

ELECTRONIC MONSTER ON LOOSE IN TERRIFYING DRAMA, "KRONOS"

In recent years the number of people who have expressed an interest in interplanetary travel and related subjects has been steadily increasing. Questions like, "Are there or aren't there people on other planets," have become more than a passing interest. "Kronos," a new science-fiction drama released by Twentieth Century-Fox, opening Monday at the Park Theatre, Regal Films develops an interesting theory on the subject.

Produced and directed in Regalscope by Kurt Neumann, "Kronos" stars Jeff Morrow, a winner of last year's Photoplay Magazine "Most Promising Player" award; Barbara Lawrence, beautiful, statuesque blonde whose gift for sophisticated humor has been compared to that of the late Carole Lombard; John Emery, veteran character actor, and George O'Hanlon, one-time sidekick of William Bendix on the popular TV series, "The Life of Riley."

The suspense adventure deals with Morrow, a scientist, who watches an asteroid plunge toward earth and fall into the Pacific Ocean. Nobody thinks too much of it except Morrow, who suspects something seriously wrong. His fears prove correct when a great steel cube emerges from the sea. Unknown to anyone, the electronic monster is being directed by John Emery, whose body has been taken from another planet. Military leaders use every available weapon against it, but to no effect. How the dilemma is finally solved provides an exciting finale to this science-fiction thriller which once again proves Hollywood's magic with special effects. Those in "Kronos" are provided by three masters of the field, Jack Rabin, Irving Block and Louis De Witt. Block also wrote the original story which Lawrence Louis Goldman adapted for the screen.

On the same program the added feature "She Devil." The woman they could not kill, starring Marl Blanchard, Jack Kelly and Albert Dekker.

AT THE PARK — As Timely As Today's Headlines — "Kronos" and "She Devil", two science-fiction suspense dramas, will be the new double bill at the Park Theatre, starting Monday. "Kronos" is a chilling film that follows the destructive path of a huge electronic monster which invades the earth. "She Devil", played by Mari Blanchard, is the hair-raising story of a woman turned into a horrifying, monstrous scream. Both are Regalscope Pictures, released by Twentieth Century-Fox, are first showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Belinda Lee co-stars with John Gregson in "Miracle in Soho", starting Monday at the Capitol. Also starring are "The Man in The Road" featuring Cyril Cusack, and "Flesh and Spur" is the added attraction.

Joan Caulfield's Sally One Of Bright Spots of Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does Joan Caulfield have in common with Robert Cummings, Eve Arden, Richard Boone, Wally Cox and Gale Storm?

If you were up on your TV history, you'd know that all six have starred in two television series. Joan is the latest member of the two - time winners' club. Once the delight of My Favorite Husband, she now is starring on NBC Sunday nights in Sally.

Provided her show isn't shot down by the sharp-shooting Mayes Corp., Joan should find success with Sally. Judging from last week's program, it appears to be one of the brighter spots in an otherwise dismal season. It has good writing, bright direction and sharp acting by Joan, Marion Lorne (the wonderful Mrs. Gurney of the late Mister Peepers show) and other accomplished actors.

"If people don't like our show, they just don't have taste," Joan says. "I'm a tough audience. I've done some shows that make me sick, but the success of the Sally shows have made me real proud."

FAMILY AFFAIR

Sally is a family affair. Producing the show is Frank Ross, Joan's husband. She explained how it came about:

"I've been wanting to do another series, and Frank said he would help me dream one up. We wanted to get away from the usual living room set of most situation comedies, and we thought of having me tour around the world.

"At first we thought I might be a global safeguard of cosmetics or something. But then we got the idea of my being a travelling companion for Hollywood's unloved.

"The idea has worked out wonderfully. There is an endless number of situations and locales we can use. I'm sure the first we will ever run out of gas, as My Favorite Husband did."

She said at first her husband said he would merely get the series started and then bow out—"but now you can't pry him away from it." The producer of The Robe, he now is making a movie with Frank Sinatra, Tony Curtis and Natalie Wood, as well as supervising Sally.

Hamilton Cuts Hal Waggoner, Riders Drop Ledyard, Lewis

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Four Football Union clubs have decided which 12 imports they will keep for the rest of the season and though their announcements contained no surprises several familiar faces will be missing.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats met the midnight deadline on imports Friday night by dropping veteran halfback Hal Waggoner, a four-year man, from the active list, while Montreal Alouettes withdrew Billy Shipp, their 275-pound tackle.

Ottawa Rough Riders cut quarterback Hal Ledyard and halfback Tom Lewis. Both were with the club last year but were used little this year due to suffering early season injuries.

USED UP CHANGES

Toronto Argonauts had their decisions made for them Monday when they used up the last of the 14 import changes the league allows a team each season.

Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton and Doug (Peahead) Walker of Montreal both used the same manoeuvre to get their dropped players from being picked up by other squads on waivers. Waggoner and Shipp were placed on the inactive list and will presumably be protected for possible use next season.

Trimble said Waggoner had been offered a post as pass-offence coach. Dropping the veteran was a "hard, but necessary step."

Shipp moved to Alouettes from Toronto midway through last season, after starring the previous year with Argos. He has been bothered by back and knee injuries this year and has played in only two of 10 games.

After a good season last year, Ledyard has been replaced in the Rough Rider quarterback slot by veteran Lewis.

The final rosters:

Hamilton: ends: Paul Dekker, Ray Bawel; tackles: Dave Suminski, John Barrow; guards: Jack Lewis, Mr. Underwood; centre: Bob Kelly; quarterback: Bernie Faloney, Tony Curcillo; halfbacks: Eddie Macon, Ralph Goldston fullback: Cookie Gilchrist.

Ottawa: Ends: Al Pfeifer; tackles: Kaye Vaughan, Tom Jones, Milt Graham; guards: Larry Hayes, Hardiman Curleton; centre: Ron Pawlowski; quarterback: Tom Dimitroff; halfbacks: Bobby Judd, Ron Quilan, George Brancato, Don St. John.

Ottawa Habs Nip Abitibi 7-5

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) Ottawa Junior Canadiens came from behind to gain a hard-fighting Abitibi Eskimo team 7-5 in an exhibition game Friday night.

The Forcupine Mines Senior Hockey League squad jumped into a two-goal lead early in the first period but Canadiens tied the game 2-2 before the period ended and took command the rest of the way.

Arthur Griffin First Canadian To Photograph Soviet 'Moon'

By CHARLES MORROW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEWBROOK, Alta. (CP) — Arthur Griffin's farm neighbors are glanced curiously at the soft-spoken city man and his wife as they set up house-keeping six years ago in this crossroads village in north-central Alberta.

But on Oct. 9 Arthur Griffin's name was flashed across the continent when he became the first Canadian to photograph the Russian earth satellite.

Now he, his wife and their two young children are the most talked - about members of the community. Newsreels look at him differently of the loads of odd equipment that went behind the high wire fence into the white clapboard house when Mr. Griffin arrived.

CAME FROM TORONTO

Astrophysicist Griffin was sent here by the Dominion Observatory fresh from the University of Toronto to set up a meteor observatory. Twenty miles to Alberta, 70 miles northeast of Edmonton, is one of the best spots in the country for observing such phenomena.

Four days after the launching of the satellite on Oct. 5, Mr. Griffin spotted it flying across the sky in the pre-dawn darkness and hastily recorded its flight with a small meteor camera. With its position firmly established, he took other photos on subsequent days and enabled colleagues at another station at Meanook, 25 miles northwest, to track the satellite on a Super-Schmidt camera.

Mr. Griffin couldn't get his Super-Schmidt into the proper position to snap the satellite. The camera, a huge machine weighing 3½ tons, takes in the entire sky on its giant globe-shaped lends.

His preparations for the photographic feat left him little time for sleep in the days after Sputnik was launched. But he snatched time it was due and he rigged up a loudspeaker on his lawn to give him the monotonous "beep, beep" of the dominion time signal, radioed from Ottawa.

"I've always thought they could hear the satellite as well as see it," laughs Mr. Griffin.

The satellite appeared in a different part of the sky than expected, but the astronomer glimpsed it passing and quickly took his photos.

INFORMATIVE PHOTOS

Over the years thousands of photographs taken by Mr. Griffin at the observatory and sent to Ottawa give scientists vital information about the outer space. The components of the atmosphere, for instance, can be determined from the colors left by a disintegrating meteor as it burns its way through space.

His work has included several "first." The largest meteor trail ever photographed was taken on his Super-Schmidt camera.

Photographs of the meteor show long streaks behind the speeding ball where materials breaking away from the meteor were consumed by atmosphere friction.

Mr. Griffin expects to be sent to the observatory's headquarters at Ottawa soon. His wife will be happy about that. She says she's getting tired of her husband "getting up with the satellite."

Timely Tips on Tulip Planting

by Flora M. Saville

"My knees are sore. I have just finished planting 12 hundred tulip bulbs." The woman behind me was talking to a friend. "What ever do you do with so many, when they bloom?" her friend asked. "We send a lot to the home for the blind, and to shut-ins, to hospitals and churches. Everyone loves tulips."

It was one of those snatches of conversation one hears on a bus or on the street. It intrigues the listener and sparks the desire to hear more. I did not see the speaker, but I have often thought of her and always the old quotation comes to my mind —"For all you can hold in your cold dead hands is what you have given away." What beautiful burden she will carry when she passes on.

Almost everyone seems to want to plant tulips in the fall. If you decline to plant a dozen or 12 hundred here are a few tips to help you. Tulips are usually the last of the early spring bulbs to bloom and they should not be planted in the fall until the soil has been chilled. Usually mid-October on until the ground is too frozen to dig, is O.K. I have planted tulips in mid-December. It was a cold job, the tulips were fine. Narcissus on the other hand, should be planted as early as possible. If tulips are planted too early and the ground is too warm they are apt to start premature growth, and may show growth above ground before cold weather arrives.

Plant your tulip bulbs deeper than most charts advise. Ten inches is not too deep if your soil is sandy. If it is clay eight inches is good, but lighten the soil with sand and humus. Planted deep the tulips will not have to be replanted for years if you give them a supply of food under the bulbs, bone meal or vigoro can be mixed into the soil below the bed. Be sure that chemical fertilizers do not come in direct contact with the bulbs. Plant the bulb with a slight twisting motion of make sure there are no air pockets around it.

Tulips must have good drainage. Raise the bed a little so that water and ice do not collect over the bulbs during the winter. They should not be planted closer than six inches apart. Plant in groups, or beds, rather than single file like wooden soldiers along a walk.

Narcissus and daffodils should not be planted deep if you wish them to multiply. They will flower undisturbed for years in the same places, especially the short cup varieties.

If you have tried forcing tulips or daffodils keep the bulbs over and plant them in the garden when the ground warms up. They will recover enough to produce fair blooms. Do not try to force the same plubs the second year. Paperwhite, and Soleil d'or are special forcing narcissus and will not stand frost. Placard them after they have bloomed indoors.

If you have had any trouble with "tulip fire" botrytis blight, or spotting of leaves in the past, begin to spray or dust soil around tulips as soon as weather warms up and before the leaves have made more than a few inches of growth. Captan has been found the best for dusting, or use on all purpose dust which contains this ingredient. Continue dusting, or spraying every two weeks until leaves die down after ripening. If the bulbs are to be moved in the spring sure to take all the leaves with the bulb. Plant in back gardne and allow leaves to mature mature before cutting off. They manufacture the food for next year's blooms.

GENERAL MOTORS CELEBRATES ITS GOLDEN MILESTONE ANNIVERSARY with a brilliant new line of 1958 automobiles

It would have taken bold imagination to predict, fifty years ago, what would happen to life in Canada —or to the newborn company which took the name General Motors.

The automobile industry in those days was small. Its horizon was limited by the fact that the total number of motor vehicles owned in Canada was scarcely more than two thousand.

What has happened since needs little comment here.

The nation has grown, the people have prospered, the ownership of automotive vehicles has climbed beyond four million. The impact of this growth has brought far-reaching social, cultural and economic benefits which are evident on every hand. General Motors is proud to have had a part in this progress.

1958 IS THE fiftieth anniversary year of General Motors.

In observance of this Golden Milestone, we are bringing to market an array of new automobiles whose distinction and integrity, we firmly believe, will win the enthusiastic approval of the Canadian car buyer. For in designing and engineering these 1958 cars, we set up these objectives:

To give sound expression to the public's taste for graceful exterior styling and rich interior appointments;

To satisfy the public's natural desire for roominess and comfort, for convenience and safety, for dependability and performance;

To deliver sound value and maintain uncompromising standards of quality.

Each of the five General Motors car lines has its own identity, its own traditions, its own pride of accomplishment.

But all of the five cars — Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and Cadillac — benefit, and the public benefits, from the leadership that General Motors provides in research, engineering and testing. From the GM Technical Centre comes a steady flow of advanced engineering and design developments—basic improvements and continued refinements in transmissions and engines, new comfort and safety features, new styling concepts — which year by year make General Motors cars such outstanding values.

Let us cite just one example: Air Suspension — time-tested on GM buses and trucks — has now been adapted by our engineers for passenger car use. Without question, Air Suspension represents the greatest advance in riding comfort since knee-action was introduced in our Silver Anniversary Year. Whether the passenger load is 100 pounds or 1,000 pounds, your car will now level itself to glide over bumps with exactly the same incredible smoothness.

Air Suspension is, as we say, but one example of our 1958 advances. Throughout General Motors our sights have been set on 1958 — with the aim of bringing to market the finest and most satisfying line of automobiles in our history.

How well we have succeeded is evidenced by the brilliant new cars soon to be on display in the showrooms of our dealers all across Canada.

FROM THE PROGRESS OF THE PAST... GM ...THE PROMISE OF THE FUTURE

Saud's Mediation Effort Obscured By Varied Reports

Syrian-Turkish Crisis To Be Debated in UN

Hamilton Boy's Skull Fractured By Little Girls

HAMILTON (CP) — Donald Thomas, 12, was partially paralyzed and suffered a fractured skull Sunday when hit by a stone thrown by one of two little girls from the top of a ravine.

Police strapped him to a stretcher and helped firemen pull him up the 100-foot-cliff by ropes.

Donald was building a raft at the bottom of Chedoke Falls with a friend, Ed Nagonoda. Ed said the girls were probably just wondering how close they could come to hitting the boys.

Donald underwent emergency brain surgery early today. His mother, Mrs. Ernest Thomas, said the operation was a success, but it was too early to tell whether the paralysis that crippled his right side would be permanent.

Mrs. Thomas said her son had come home before with scrapes from falling in the gorge and said children had thrown rocks at him.

Status of Labor Unions Should Be Reviewed

MONTREAL (CP)—A Toronto builder said today "it is high time that the status of labor unions in our present day society should be reviewed."

T. N. Carter, president of the Canadian Construction Association, was addressing the association's management committee and the Montreal Builders' Exchange.

His remarks were released to the press before delivery.

"Generally speaking," Mr. Carter said, "labor legislation in Canada assumes that unions are mere collective bargaining agencies. In actual fact they are well-established business institutes and, in the case of closed or union shop agreements, are contractors for the supply of labor. In a number of instances, they also have very substantial financial resources."

URGES LEGAL STATUS

Unions should have complete legal status, Mr. Carter said.

"They should be required to sue in the courts and they should be liable to be sued in their own name as operating businesses," he said. "They should be as responsible for any breach of contract we, their civil wrong which they may commit, as are other private employers in the industry with whom they deal.

"Incorporation or some form of licensing system would appear to be possible methods for a determination of economic power in unions of normal business responsibilities in society."

Today's Chuckle

The "Hers" door is two feet wider.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Clear skies are expected from most of Ontario this morning as a large mass of cool air dominates the eastern part of the continent. Southern Ontario will remain sunny today but the northern sections of the province will see increasing cloudiness followed by showers in advance of colder air moving southward.

At this cold Arctic air reached Northern Ontario tonight and early Tuesday the showers will turn to snowflurries accompanied by an abrupt drop in temperatures. Southern regions will experience increasing cloud Tuesday, followed by showers later in the day.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Saudi Arabia's King Saud has kept up his efforts to mediate the Syrian-Turkish crisis, but any progress he has made remains largely obscured by conflicting reports.

The Saudi Arabian radio in Mecca announced that the two disputing neighbors had accepted Saud's offer to bring them together. The broadcast said official delegations from Syria and Turkey will arrive in Saudi Arabia today or tomorrow.

Syrian officials said without elaborating that Maj.-Gen. Afif Bizri, the Syrian army chief of staff, will fly to Saudi Arabia today. But Damascus radio denied that the Syrian government had accepted Saud's mediation offer.

There was no confirmation in the Turkish capital, Ankara, today or Monday.

The king returned home Sunday after a 10-day visit to Beirut.

MOSCOW BUSY

Moscow continued repeating its charges that the United States is pushing Turkey to attack its Mediterranean neighbor. It has been under increasing Soviet influence for two months.

An editorial in Izvestia, the official Soviet government newspaper, charged that Turkey and Russia might use nuclear rocket weapons if Syria is attacked.

Pravda charged that British Prime Minister Macmillan will try to work out a plan of aggression against the Arabs in his conferences in Washington this week. In Syria and Turkey there still were no signs of general alarm.

UN DEBATE NEXT

The UN assembly prepared to begin debate Tuesday on the Turkish-Syrian crisis.

Syria, backed by Russia, has charged Turkey with threatening to attack her. The Arabs asked a UN commission to be sent to investigate the border situation.

The United States was reported anxious to have such a commission instructed also to investigate its own earlier charge that Soviet influence in Syria is what is threatening war in the Middle East.

HOME BLASTED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — For the third time dynamite has wrecked plans of Negro families to move into a formerly all-white neighborhood. Police are seeking dynamiters who caused heavy damage Saturday to a frame bungalow into which Mrs. Cleo Wallis Cestari, 35, had moved. Two other houses which Negroes had bought in the Fountain Heights section were bombed last April.

Frogman Swims in Vat of Wine In Order to Fix Clogged Valve

RIVA DEL GARDA, Italy (AP) — The residents of this Alpine resort today toasted a frogman who saved diving in a vat of wine.

Thanks to his prowess the juice of the local grape won't be bitter this year.

Riva del Garda boasts a cooperative wine cellar housing 20 huge vats of 52,800-gallon capacity each. The farmers now bring their grapes to the cellar which is piped into the underground vats.

Sunday, a worker found the corridor adjoining the vats three feet deep in new wine. He started looking around to see where it came from. They he collapsed, overcome by the fumes from the still fermenting liquid.

Minutes later a second workman entered the corridor to find the first man. The fumes got him too.

Other workmen sized up the situation and rescued their befuddled comrades. They later concluded to rise in the corridor.

Somebody thought of the frogman. He is located on Lake Garda, in the Italian Alps, and has several experienced divers. Guilio Cestari, 32, put on his breathing apparatus and waded through the heavy flood. He located the overflowing vat but couldn't see what was wrong. So he dived into the 12-foot-deep tank.

He found dirt had clogged the valve which channelled excess wine into another vat. He cleared the valve and stopped the flood. The overflow was drained away and fans brought in to blow the gases out.

Riva del Garda's 1957 vintage will be 60,000 gallons less than anticipated.

BRITISH CABINET SHAPES PLAN FOR SCIENTIFIC POOL

Would Unite With U.S. In Atom, Rocket Work

LONDON (AP) — The government is reported shaping up a proposal for pooling all British-American scientific research including nuclear and rocket research.

Prime Minister Macmillan, who will begin conferences in Washington with President Eisenhower Wednesday, is expected to lay the plan before his cabinet today.

Under the plan, the two allies would coordinate their scientific effort through a joint planning directorate with headquarters in Washington.

There is speculation that other members of the Commonwealth and of the North Atlantic alliance may be invited to join if the United States agrees.

For the U.S. to take part, Congress may have to repeal or revise the McMahon Act, which sharply curtails the sharing of scientific information, even with friendly nations.

Macmillan's Conservative government evidently feels the recent forward strides by the Soviet Union in rocketry and Congress the act should be changed.

U.K. WILLING

British enthusiasm for a pooling of effort has been evident for some time.

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) expresses the opinion that the Soviet progress has "changed the climate of opinion in America favorable for a relaxation of the ultra-stringent security policy embodied in the McMahon Act.

The Daily Herald (Labor) says British-American practice of "hiding scientific information from each other in case the Russians should steal it is the most idiotic spectacle in the world."

The Independent Times concedes that the difficulties in the way of a full exchange of knowledge are real and substantial but "they should count for little against the real advantages which co-operation can bring."

"cold winter," it said, "may well see the worst unemployment since the war, perhaps as high as 400,000 or 500,000 workless and seeking work, and 700,000 unplaced when the National Employment Service offices."

The congress suggested that judicious relief in the so-called tight money policy should be adopted.

May Try Again to Test-Fire Part of Satellite's Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technicians may try again today to test fire the first stage engine of the Vanguard rocket which they hope ultimately will put the United States satellite into space.

Such a first-stage firing was put off twice last Friday. Official sources at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., said test activities would be resumed today.

The testing plan is to send aloft the rocket, using only the first-stage engine. The Vanguard second-stage, the fuel for which would carry the satellite into an orbit about 300 miles above the earth.

The Russian satellite, man's first venture into outer space, now is in its 18th day of circling around the globe.

Dr. H. G. Stever, associate dean of engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said in Cambridge that Russian scientific achievement must not be underrated.

Stever said successful launching of the earth satellite shows the Russians are capable of firing an intercontinental missile.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star dropped a hint that the intercontinental missile is in production and ready for use. Red Star said "creation of powerful intercontinental rockets . . . has increased considerably the defence capacity of our motherland," adding:

"Soviet armed forces have progress various atomic and thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapons as well as long-range and supersonic aircraft."

A leading Russian scientist, Prof. V. A. Fabrikantov, said it was Russia's intercontinental missile that launched Sputnik into space. Writing in the magazine New York Times, he declared the rocket was wingless and shaped like a cigar.

CLC Urges Royal Commission On Ways to Settle Disputes

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission on methods of settling industrial disputes was proposed to the new government today by the Canadian Labor Congress in its annual legislative brief to the Diefenbaker administration.

The 1,000,000-member congress, which includes a fairly substantial membership in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act—and that a royal commission be set up to study handling the matter.

The relations between employer-employee relations for some 450,000 workers under federal jurisdiction in such industries as railways, communications and shipping.

Labor Minister Michael Starr already had asked major labor organizations, including

Final Meeting Of Series at Debating Club

Recent meetings of the Belleville Citizens' Association have provoked much interest about the city. With membership growing, the acting executives feel that the organization will be of inestimable value to both the citizens and the elected officials of Belleville. It is not the intention of the organization to buckle, harass, or hinder the work of the council or other civic bodies, but rather to assist them in arriving at their decisions by presenting opinions and recommendations mainly with the majority of public opinion.

Meetings are held monthly throughout the city with the final meeting of this series to be held at Wharf Street Debating Club.

Numerous Certificates, Prizes Awarded at St. Michael's Commencement

On Friday evening commencement exercises were held in St. Michael's Academy auditorium with The chairman, Lawrence Lynch, in his introductory address referred to the value of the school in education.

Very Reverend Dean Garvin presented Intermediate Certificates to the pupils who had successfully completed their course. He complimented them on having attained the goal and stressed the desirability and necessity of discipline and courtesy as proper character development.

The guest speaker, Reverend Raymond Shannon, of St. Peter's Church in Trenton, was introduced by Frank Kennedy. Father Shannon stated that the development of an aptitude for earning a livelihood was only one result of education. More and intellectual development are also necessary. Not only must there be a knowledge of precepts and principles, but these must be put into practice. Education should also train the student to the proper use of leisure time. Competitive sports have a place in that they tend to foster character, a spirit of fair play, and patience in defeat.

A well rounded education should result in a man of character — one who does the right thing at all times and in all places; a man true to himself, to his fellow men and to God.

Father Shannon thanked the guest speaker.

Vocal selections by the grade 10 students included "Queen of the Holy Rosary" and "Contentment Song." "God Save the Queen" concluded the first part of the program. The awards of grades 9 and 10, as well as the graduates, enjoyed a pause for the remainder of the evening.

For a dear mother and a true parent,
Who shall say the grief is over.
Memories keep the wound still open,
Dear Mother and Dad.
—Always in our thoughts, Clare, Mack and Family.

RUSHLOW. — In loving memory of our dear father, Joseph Rushlow, who passed away October 20th, 1948.

Sweet be her sleep, dear God.
By the valley of rest, so fair.
Dear Mother, we know not where,
But when
We will meet our dear mother there.

Kingston Leads As Chess Loop Opens Season

Kingston jumped into the lead as the three entries in the recently-organized South-Eastern Ontario Chess League staged the initial matches of the league schedule at the Canadian Legion Hall here on Monday.

In the morning, Peterborough clobbered Belleville, 8-2. When, in the afternoon match, Kingston swamped Peterborough 9-1, it appeared as if the stage was set for a massacre in the evening, as Kingston played Belleville. The local club, though, staged a surprising comeback and edged Kingston 6-4. The clubs therefore broke even on the day's play, but since the schedule calls for Kingston and Peterborough to meet only twice, while Belleville plays each club four times, the Kingston — Peterborough match was a four-point affair, the standing.

Armed Robbery Charge Laid After Long Probe

TRENTON (Special) — Persistence and patience paid off for provincial police officers investigating the armed robbery at Steve Lukashal's service station at Brighton on November 23, 1956. The case was closed last Friday when Kenneth Kerr, 20, of Brighton, on trial for theft of a quantity of money from Spencer's Dairy at Brighton, also pleaded guilty to the more serious charge. Magistrate R. B. Baxter remanded Kerr in custody for sentence on the two counts.

Police at Brighton reported they had recovered the sawed-off shotgun Kerr is alleged to have used in the service station hold-up. Kerr, police said, entered the office of the Lukashal garage and demanded the contents of the cash register, while holding the owner at gunpoint. He then disappeared into the night believing he left no clues behind.

GIVEN 12 MONTHS

Last Thursday night he reported the theft of his 1941 model car from behind the Century Theatre at Trenton.

Earlier the police had been called to investigate a hit-and-run accident in Cramahe township near Brighton.

While the investigation of the car theft was underway police received information that the car had been reported a car had been wrecked on a sideroad near Castleton. The driver had failed to make a turn in the road and the car turned upside down in the ditch. In the course of this investigation police found that Hartford was the driver of the car.

Subsequently police arrested Hartford and charged him with being a public mischief. The Magistrate, taking into consideration his previous record sentenced him to 12 months definite and six months indeterminate in Guelph reformatory.

MADE RESTITUTION

Maynard Revoy, 32, of Cold Springs, north of Cobourg should think twice before he becomes involved in theft again. Magistrate Baxter presiding at Brighton court fined him $25 and $3 costs for stealing a $50 bill from Clancy Woods of Trenton. Revoy had made restitution befpre his court appearance.

Boy Jumps From Truck Going 40 MPH on Highway

A ten-year-old Trenton district boy escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when he jumped from the dump box of one of his father's trucks as it was speeding 40 miles per hour on No. 2 highway near Bayside.

The lad, Eric Cooney, R. R. 3, Trenton, was picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital by a passing RCAF ambulance, where it was stated he escaped with bruises and skin burns. There were no bone fractures.

Mrs. Hilliard Cooney told the Ontario Intelligencer this morning that the condition of her son was satisfactory.

"It's a miracle that he was not more seriously injured," she said.

The boy had apparently been playing unnoticed in the dump box of his father's truck as it was in the yard, and was still in the truck when it was driven away by Roland Myles.

Just as the truck turned east into the highway the family noticed the lad in the dump box and a car headed out in pursuit to warn the driver. Before the car could catch the truck, however, the lad got scared and jumped from the truck onto the highway.

The driver of the truck was still unaware of the boy being in the dump box and did not learn of the incident until he was stopped near Jones Creek.

TEN YEARS OF INDEPENDENCE

Burma is observing the tenth anniversary of its independence.

The United Kingdom Information Service marks this event with the distribution of an article by Rt. Hon. Earl Attlee, who, as much as any Englishman, can be said to be responsible for the existence of modern Burma.

As Major Clement Attlee, M.P., he was a member of the Simons Commission which twenty years ago recommended that Burma's status be changed from that of a province of British India to a separate unit within the British Empire. Ten years later, as Prime Minister Clement Attlee, he saw Burma gain its complete independence and sever its ties with the Commonwealth.

His comment on this latter event is perhaps as revealing a one-sentence summation of his own character and political beliefs as one could find.

"I should have liked Burma to be a free, equal member in the British Commonwealth," he writes in the U.K. Information Service release, "but the Burmese leaders had committed themselves to republicanism and independence and we thought it right to respect their wishes."

Nobody would contend that this change in Burma's status has resulted in the Burmese living in a little paradise of their own. Earl Attlee himself lists some of the country's difficulties. "Burma was under British rule only a short time and its administrative cadre was mainly made up of British and Indian officials. It has not been easy to build up a new service, while preservation of law and order has always been difficult. There are still Communist bands operating, while contiguity with Communist China has caused trouble, particularly in the Shan States where units of Chiang Kai-Shek's forces came over the border."

But, says Earl Attlee, Burma has made steady progress. "She has several advantages over other countries of South-East Asia. Her economy is more self-contained, her unity stronger, there is an absence of communal strife, although there are different races. Illiteracy at various cultural levels."

One other advantage may well have been largely the result of the readiness of the British Government which Earl Attlee headed to let the Burmese go their own way. "I was particularly struck when I was in Burma a few years ago," he writes, "by the good relations between the Burmese and the British. -- There is a smarked contrast with Indonesia where, despite much good work done in the past by the Dutch, the anti-colonial feeling runs very strongly and every endeaver is made to sweep away all relics of the former regime."

More and more, as the years pass, the readiness with which Britain granted independence to former colonies in Asia assumes the stature of real statesmanship. One has only to contemplate the troubles of the French in Indo-China and now in North Africa to wonder whether the history of the past decade might not have been woefully different if Britain endeavored to retain the reins of power in Burma, in India and in Ceylon. Even Burma, which left the Commonwealth is, in the view of Earl Attlee, not just a foreign state but "more like a member of the family who has gone to live abroad but is still bound by the old ties of friendship."

NOT THE SAME BRINK

Every so often John Foster Dulles, U.S. Secretary of State, says something which curls our hair.

The other day he declared that if Russia attacked Turkey the United States would not be content with purely defensive operations, nor would it permit Soviet territory to remain a privileged sanctuary, as Communist China was during the Korean War.

One can have no quarrel with such a stand. But when Dulles was, in the words of Wallace Carroll of the New York Times, "invited by an accompanying reporter to step back from the brink," he made the following statement:

"Anybody studies history, they will find that the world has always been on the brink of war."

This is an observation which reveals either a shocking disregard for the truth or an even more frightening failure to realize the enormous differences between war in the days of the battle axe and mace and war in the days of the H-bomb.

It is only in comparatively recent times that any war has involved the whole world, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say most of the world.

No war before the First Great War was really a world war and if we admit that history shows that the world has always been on the brink of war we must, if we are to present a true picture, add that it was on the brink of a number of little local wars, not of one all-consuming holocaust.

Surely Mr. Dulles recognizes the difference. Surely he does not believe that walking the brink is no more dangerous today than it was in the days of the Crusades.

Few Students Study Sciences

Christian Science Monitor

The population of the United States in 1900 was around 76,000,000; in 1934 around 160,000,000. In 1900, 4 per cent of the 18-21 age group went to college; in 1933-34 it was around 20 per cent. It takes no further statistical analysis to deduce that many more people in the country today who have been at least exposed to all sorts of high school studies than there were in 1900 or any other year in history including courses in mathematics and the physical sciences. So far so good.

But, says the Council for Technological Advancement, percentagewise only one-fifth as many students took science in 1934-35 as did as far back as 1869-90; only two-thirds as many took chemistry half as many took physics, and only half as many graduated. If only because of "quotas" and its kindred, this looks bad.

Bad because this drop in technical interest is coming just in the face of a rise in popular interest — the kind that every public relations man knows the physicist, the chemist, the mathematician, the engineer, the biologist, we'd feel better about it. But we have an uncomfortable feeling that many of these students, who started or to take one's way through a course in "engineering" than one in current events. And if that is a sign of these "easy" times it is not a cheering one.

TV Station In the Sky?

Montreal Gazette

In the past few years as space flight became nearer and nearer to reality, the world has read of the marvels that could be accomplished when we are able to place permanent platforms high in the outer air.

A world police force could become a reality; supervision of the whole earth would become simple. But little Sputnik I, dashing around the world every 96 minutes, hardly seems able to accomplish any of these things. Scientists assure us that the block is a matter of greater altitude. A satellite placed in orbit at a height of 22,300 miles, moving in the same direction as the earth turns, would complete its circuit only once in 24 hours. As the earth moves at the same speed in the same direction, that the satellite would remain in same position in the sky in relation to the earth. Such a satellite would be moving in the same direction at the same speed.

It is calculated that a 5,000-watt transmitter placed above the earth's atmosphere, would act as a relay station for television programs, which could be refined, in range, to the line of sight. A satellite at 22,300 miles would cover one-tenth of the earth's atmosphere, the transmitter might be charged by the earth's solar heat is already usable on earth; its power would be much more available high above the earth's masking atmosphere.

Sputnik I, at 560 miles up, cannot do these things, offer these advantages. But those future satellites will enormously change earth living.

INFLUENCE

Every one of us, to a lesser or greater degree, radiates influence. And that influence is what transforms each one of us into an agency of usefulness. People with no apparent influence are often ignored but this is a mistake.

The most influential human beings have always been those who exercised their influence quietly and without boast. People of character are the most influential and useful. The one who is most useful in his town has the greatest influence. There is no one who does not have some sort of influence, but whether good or bad there it is and it is forever at work.

Our influence does not end with death. Take a fine and inspiring author of books. His influence may live forever! Other people influence us more than we realize. And that is probably true of us as regards our influence upon others.

The influence of a great book lives down the ages. And often a book becomes more influential years after its author's death than before.

Influence counts for so much that we should never forget we are being watched by those easily influenced by us. None of us can measure the influence we have because it takes as many different real roads to reach us. It is true, it may well be said that our influence increases at a tremendous road.

People in public life have a wonderful opportunity to be influential and useful, and it should fill them with pride that this is true. Many a book in my library has had a lasting influence upon my life. In a sense a good book may be said to be immortal.

Horse Sense Better

Trip Mileage Device Gone

Watertown Daily Times

We wonder how many motorists pause these days to consider how many times — to wish their automobiles were equipped with the trip mileage recording devices which were once an integral part of a motor vehicle speedometer.

Those little gadgets were a great thing. A driver could set the mechanism tumblers at zero, and upon reaching a destination would know exactly how far he had traveled. And they were of unquestionable assistance in computing miles-per-gallon on a tankful of gasoline.

With one of those trip recorders as a part of the standard speedometer, it was comparatively easy a pad and pencil on the seat to jot down the mileage shown before starting out, the reading at the end of the journey and then subtract to get the total trip distance. No mathematics were involved. The reading was right there on the dash.

The first ones coming out on the automobiles of the 1910's provided only two digits. In other words, they would record a total of 100 miles. Back in those days it was quite uncommon for a motorist to take a journey of hundreds miles, so they were adequate.

Automobiles of the 1930's were equipped with three digit recording devices for by that time more people owned cars and were trip-conscious and were willing to spend longer distances. These mechanisms would record up to 1,000 miles.

But then came World War II, and the trip mileage recorder on automobiles went to war." They were removed from the speedometers, melted down and hard to realize where a thimbleful of metals arts would go. But they apparently some efficiency expert in the government or manufacturing field decided that if $1 could be saved by leaving the recorders off one car and 500 were a million dollars on 1,000,000 cars. Regardless, they became a thing of the past.

And they failed to reappear on vehicles manufactured after the war. Motorists, and manufacturers figured the public had forgotten about them.

But we haven't. We still miss that trip recorder. To us, it was as much a part of the speedometer as the steering wheel, or the speedometer itself.

True, the recorders are now available on expensive automobiles. But the average motorist doesn't mean those at $3,000-$4,000, but rather those selling at $5,000 and up.

Of course, it is too late to have them on the 1938 models. We couldn't manufacturers include them on their 1938 version of standard equipment — or, if they must — as optional.

Explanation Needed Here

Ottawa Journal

An official of a large Toronto firm laments that two 10-minute calls cost him $80 a year, and a large bank puts its total loss at $100,000 for the period. Confidentially, we don't believe a word of it.

What would be interesting would be to hear how the statisticians arrived at those figures of hours lost, by the wage-rate per hour, the result obtained in dollars and cents but meaningless as well. It is true that when it comes to certain parts of the work done by office-machine operators the time lost at the Controllers Pay Office of the Department of Finance, a calculation such as one mentioned could be some semblance of accuracy. But here again things are complicated by the fact that Miss Stakhanoff works 50 percent faster than her colleagues.

Out side the circle of these routine jobs where the same operation is repeated over and over again, any calculation of time lost through interruption is on the fringe of the impossible. In Ottawa, for instance, the tellers' strike lasted for four times as much work on Civil Service pay-days as in a period between pays. The same thing goes for salesmen and clerks in other stores, or waitresses in restaurants. There is no "constant factor" to enter in. In the course of an eight-hour day, in many types of work, the necessity for a piece of time wasted merely in standing around.

It is hardly possible too that the relaxation, stimulation and companionship of the coffee-break may equip all comers to greater efforts for the balance of the half day? Any not last of the coffee-breaks can be excessive and usually are, and let it go at that?

Personal Health Talks

Now, Hear This!

From time to time, attorneys pause to consider how to conduct a trial thank me in advance for cooperation and assistance which, for that reason, I do not give.

Many times I have said that every tooth is worth $1,000.

It is possible that in dire need I might sell one of mine for $1,000, but if you came along and knocked one of my teeth out and offered to compensate for it by paying me $1,000, I'd want to knock one of yours out instead.

In this column not long ago — a year or two, maybe — I cited the report of a case in which the court granted damages at the rate of $1,000 per tooth. Whether my reference to this was printed or omitted, of course I don't know. But to my uncertain recollection that it was a New Jersey case — or perhaps New England. I wish I had filed the report — maybe I did, but the question is, under what heading? Look at the stack of files. Can you conceive of a more vast task than searching them for an item which may or may not be there?

This attorney who thanks me in advance says he has been unable to find in the statute under which the court valued a tooth at $1,000, so if I'll call his office collect . . .

The attorney has a damage case about to come to trial. So I must help.

Perhaps I'm naive about such matters; but it seems to me that, if there is a precedent which would be of use in such a case, the attorney or his clerk could most readily find it in regularly published abstracts, or by querying the Legal Department of the Journal of the American Dental Association or asking his dentist to do so.

Like many small calibre big bore dental service, this attorney writes via air-mail, special delivery — but he is not in such a hurry to receive a reply, for he does not inclose a self-addressed, air-mail, special delivery, stamped envelope. Plenty of time for my reply to arrive by freight. That is, if I'll be good enough to pay the freight — for the man does not inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Probably in a week or two I'll hear from him again. He or she is little annoyed by my failure to reply before but it

Traffic Crashes Account for Most Of Accident Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weekend in Canada closed with an accidental death toll of 39. As usual, highway crack-ups accounted for most of the deaths.

At least 32 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Ontario and Quebec had 10 each.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed 14 died of accidents in Ontario and 11 in Quebec.

The survey included two Ontario youths presumed drowned in a boating accident on Lake Ontario. One person was shot in a hunting accident and another asphyxiated by car exhaust fumes.

One Quebec death was also a hunting accident.

THREE KILLED AT OTTAWA

A highway smash-up near Ottawa Sunday claimed the lives of three Ottawa teen-agers, Marlene Roberts, 16, Kenneth Robertson 18, and John McLaughlin, 18, died when their car went out of control and crashed into a tree. Two others were critically injured.

David Wright, 17, and Valdmars Pipcans, 15, both of Toronto, were presumed drowned Sunday after their empty dinghy was found 12 miles out in Lake Ontario. An all-day search for the two was called off Sunday night.

Their plywood boat, towed ashore by harbor police, had three holes near the bow. The mast and a torn sail were floating near the wreckage. Police said they believe the boat may have struck a rock.

MONDAY TO SATURDAY

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Marjorie McCaw was in Ottawa over the weekend where she attended the annual conference of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario. Mrs. McCaw was the delegate for the Belleville club.

Mrs. Frank Watson, Tupperville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edgar Shorey, Yeomans St.

Mrs. F. Fuller, 25 Grier Street, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

H-S Association Hears History Of Schools

Queen Mary - Prince Charles Home and School Association held the October meeting on Thursday evening in Prince Charles school.

The president, Mrs. W. Ironside, presided. Mrs. J. Harwood was at the piano for the singing of "Oh Canada."

The new executive was introduced by Mrs. Ironsides. Following the committee reports Mrs. Ironsides reported on the regional conference held in Peterborough. Four members from this association attended it.

Banner attendance winners for the evening were: Queen Mary — Miss Malcolm's room; St. Mary Carswell: Prince Charles — Miss Hillis' morning class; — Mr. Moore.

The guest speaker, Mr. L. A. Kells, superintendent of public schools for Belleville, was introduced by Mr. J. M. Cousins. Mr. Kells spoke on "Change, Growth and Development in Education in the Belleville Public Schools".

He said the first record book of the school systems were started in 1861. At the time there were five schools with nine teachers available. There was a registration of 769 pupils but the attendance was poor.

SCHOOLS BUILT

The four public schools, Queen Mary, Queen Alexandra, Queen Victoria and King George, were build during the years 1912-14. They had an average attendance of 98 per cent compared to the present time when it has risen to 95 per cent. In 1918, 11 students wrote the entrance examinations with only 31 passing.

An amazing incident noted was that in 1913 a complaint was sent in that there were cows pasturing on the grounds of Queen Alexandra School.

Belleville was the first city to purchase the necessary books to be used by students. These were rented by the year for a small fee. This system lastsd-used but there is no charge for the books. They were also the first schools to divide into the kindergarten, primary, junior and intermediate departments.

Mr. Kells compared education to climbing a set of stairs. Those at the foot are not ready to start to climb, and those near the top can see beyond, but must not lose contact with those behind.

Mr. R. B. McCulloch, on behalf of those present, thanked Mr. Kells.

Tea and cookies were served by Mrs. C. R. Whaites and her committee.

Coffee Party Honors BGH Students

An evening coffee party was held recently at the home of Mrs. Clark James, McDonald Ave., to honor the pre-clinical students of Belleville General Hospital.

Miss C. Jaines and Miss M. Peart, director of nursing of Belleville General Hospital, graciously received the guests upon their arrival.

Each student was accompanied by a member of the Belleville General alumnae. The alumnae member introduced the student to the group, then helped to entertain her throughout the evening.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Doris Howie. The decorations included various hues of chrysanthemums and marigolds.

Mrs. Isobelle McGee was responsible for the floral arrangement of the serving plates. Each plate was colorful in its decoration of autumn leaves.

Mrs. Grace Rutherford and Mrs. Emma Dowsett poured coffee, while Mrs Marion Robinson, Miss Vih Kanaka, Miss Kannon Casey, Mrs. Carol Colden and Mrs. Dorothy Taylor served.

The pre-clinical students honored were: Misses M. Bradworth, N. Chumbley, M. Cliff, G. Cummins, D. Donnan, S. Eves, D. Grieve, R. Hanbourn, J. Holgate, S. Howse, A. Ivan, M. Ketcheson, D. Macklin, M. McVey, D. Palmer, D. Petrie, D. Pipe, M. Potter, G. Scriven, E. Stovell was in charge and opened the meetifg. Dorothy Reilly led in the singing of a number of hymns with Doris Price at the piano. Joyce Stovell read a selection, "Who Gavest All," and then led in prayer. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary Ruth Campbell, and approved.

The Circle was asked to decorate the church for Christmas. Members were asked to save all Betty Crocker box tops for the raising of extra money.

Recently the Circle was privileged to hear a missionary from Bolivia, Miss Alice Clarke. In her work she could use old underwear and birthday cards.

Joyce Stovell, who recently attended the Trent Valley Conference convention in Lindsay, gave a few items of interest.

Nominating committee was appointed and Violet Demorest, Helen Harvey and Helen Hales are to bring in the new slate of officers for the coming year at the November meeting.

Members are again collecting used clothing to be sent to New Canadians in Toronto. The Christmas project was discussed but nothing definite was decided.

The Circle received a report on its reading course and it is interesting as well. Helen Hales' group then took over the meeting with Pauline Demeyer in the chair. She read a poem, "Thanksgiving Day" and then all sang a Thanksgiving hymn.

Dorothy Reilly sang a lovely solo. An interesting film on mission work in India was shown. It showed how a blind boy was operated on and was made to see again. There was much rejoicing when the bandages were removed and the operation had been a success.

Call to Worship was given by Pauline Dempsey in the absence of Nellie Bunn. She read a poem "Let All the World in Every Corner Sing My God and King." A fine season of prayer was held. Eunice King prayed for India, Jean MacPherson for Bolivia and Pauline Dempsey for home missions. The hymn "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult," was sung. Mildred Fox read the "Lighthouse Flashes," which cover all phases of interest of mission work at home and overseas. The meeting closed with prayer.

Helen Hales' group served refreshments, which brought the evening to a close.

Whyte Haven Fast Running Out of Money

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Whyte Haven, the controversial children's home organized by Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, is in serious financial difficulties, she says.

The donations on which she depends have almost stopped coming in, said Mrs. Whyte, who blamed the present financial position on "damaging publicity in the newspapers" leading people to think that the farm near here has ceased operations.

Since most of the parents who leave children at the home could not afford to pay, Whyte Haven, which now has 120 children, was almost completely dependent on donations.

Mrs. Whyte said she is still hopeful. "The money will come from somewhere," she said.

In addition to money problems, the Haven was acutely short staffed and overcrowded, but Mrs. Whyte said she finds it "very hard to turn children away when their parents bring them."

The Haven acts as an emergency refuge for children when families run into serious financial difficulties. Since she started, Mrs. Whyte has taken in more than 500 children of all ages.

Wedding

GIDDINGS — BARLOW

St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill was decorated with white 'mums at the altar and white satin bows, centred with lily rosebuds, marked the guest pews for the recent marriage of Margaret Anne Barlow, Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Clinton Barlow, Belleville, and the late Mr. Barlow, to F/O Glenn Bradford Giddings, Toronto, son of Oliver Vernon Giddings, Granby, Quebec.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. L. A. Page. Mrs. J. R. Herdman, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, while six choir boys sang.

Given in marriage by her brother, Maurice Barlow, the bride wore a white walk-length gown of crystalette over taffeta with bodice of white French appliqued lace fashioned with a rounded neckline. Folded crystalette made up the empire waistline, forming a large flat bow with a streamer in back. The skirt followed princess lines with inverted folds. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara-type headdress decorated with seed pearls. She carried a semi-cascade of Shasta 'mums.

Mrs. Roger Moulton, Seeley's Bay, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, while Mrs. Michael Valiquet, Toronto, was the bridesmaid. They were dressed alike in gowns of waltz-length frosted taffeta in shades of iced green. The bodices were fashioned with low v-shaped necklines offset with wide folded collars over the shoulders, forming flat collars and cap sleeves, enhanced by streamer bow knots. Their bouffant skirts featured back centre panels shirred with bow knots. Their headdresses were iced green feather bandeaux. The attendants carried semi-cascades of bronze and gold baby 'mums.

For the reception at Hotel Quinte, the bride's mother was attired in a gown of Queen's blue faille with a pale pink hat and matching gloves. Her corsage was of feathered carnations.

For the wedding trip to the United States the bride chose a navy blue suit with navy and white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Fort Erie, Oshawa, Gananoque, Ottawa, Brantford, Napanee, Inverary, Seeley's Bay and Gall.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Toronto.

Local Red Cross Workers Figure In Ont. Services

Workers from the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society have recently figured prominently in provincial capacities in that organization.

At a meeting of the chairman of the Ontario Homemaker Services, Mrs. Howard Graham and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson were among the speakers dealing with various aspects of that service.

Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, supervisor of the Belleville Homemaker Service, has been asked to sit on a committee of the Ontario Welfare Council, as a representative from the Red Cross Homemakers.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GRACIOUS GESTURE FOR SHOWER HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am planning to give a shower for a dear friend of mine, soon to be married. She has no relatives except three cousins whom she dearly loves. These charming ladies, unmarried, are quite a few years older than the bride-to-be, they live together in this city, and I have had the pleasure of meeting them quite a few times. This is to be a surprise shower, a general shower, and I'm inviting the groom's mother and his two sisters. So I think I should invite these three cousins of the bride, don't you?

2. Would it be the proper thing for the guest of honor to introduce her cousins to the guests who haven't met them, or is that my duty as hostess? If you say I'm to make these introductions, what form of introduction should I use?

— S.G.

1. What a thoughtful friend you are . . . yes, please do invite these three charming cousins of the guest of honor, graciously saying that you (and you are sure the guest of honor also) would like to have them be the "representatives" of her family. This will make them happy and proud, I'm very sure. Also I suggest that you give them the compliment of talking over with them the plans for the shower.

2. You, as hostess, should introduce the guests to the three cousins. For example, on arriving guest, you may say, "Miss Evans, I would like to introduce to you these cousins . . . Miss Grace Brown . . . Miss Elizabeth Brown . . . and Miss Margaret Brown." (Say "Anne's cousins" very clearly, and look at each cousin as you clearly pronounce her name.)

WHEN WIDOW'S DAUGHTER-IN-LAW HAS SAME NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For quite a few years before my husband passed on, we lived in a large city quite some distance from the medium-size city where my son and his wife live. After my husband's death I of course continued to use his name as I had always used it: Mrs. Thomas Hall (for example). My son, named er his father, dropped the "Jr." after his father's death, became Thomas Hall. Recently have returned to live in the city where my son and his wife live, and naturally here they are, and I am sure increasingly will be complications about our names, my daughter-in-law and mine. I am unsure as to what to do about this, as I've always understood that it is not the proper thing to ad "sr." to a name. Will you advise me, please . . . Widow

It is not correct to add "Sr." to a man's name. And it is not really desirable to add "Sr." to a woman's name, unless it is actually necessary to make a name situation clear, as in your case now. Therfore for this very practical reason you would now use Mrs. Thomas Hall, Sr.

Boys Expected Cakes

By Mary Moore

The flurry of cake baking will be subside considerably after this week. Herbie leaves for Germany this weekend and here's big news: my second grandson arrived nine days ago. At least they got to shanks hands. Up and to the last hour Marianne was in the kitchen preparing the fruit for the Christmas fruit cakes. They are to be dark this year, but more of all of that later. Suffice to say the excitement in this house is at high pressure.

Every time Marianne knew that Pete or Pete and Danny were due for the weekend she whomped up a cake and each one seemed to outshine the last.

We had a birthday party for Danny this past weekend and gonville.

Mrs. J. Craig and Mrs. O. Stratton were named as council nurse to bring in the slate of officers for the business meeting in November. Refreshments were served by the hostesses and Mesdames D. Leeming, Bill Leeming, H. Grills and C. Brown.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The Fellowship Club of Holloway Street United Church met on October 16 at 8 p.m. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Sinfield, Mrs. MacFarlane took over the chair.

The theme for the night was thanksgiving, a devotional period and hymn were used on that topic.

One or two members were away with the 'flu. Plans were made for the coming bazaar.

Mr. Townsend took over the Bible study, the subject being the good life. It led to an interesting discussion.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. R.M. — Our daughter wants to keep her illegitimate baby.

Barbara M. — I want this baby — I'm not ashamed!

Mrs. R.M. — My 21-year-old daughter got into a lot of trouble and now she is just making things worse for herself.

Barbara was going with a man and was planning marriage. She learned, too late, that he had a wife. When he discovered she was pregnant, he ran out on her. That is bad enough — but here's the worst. Barbara refuses to give the baby out for adoption! She says she wants to keep her child and that she plans to bring the baby up as her own.

My husband and I have cried and begged and pleaded, but it doesn't help. She is such a stubborn girl. She is not going to understand what she is doing to her life. Her married sister is willing to take the baby and bring him up as her own, but Barbara refuses to give in even this much.

Barbara M. — I refuse to be shamed or bullied into anything. My parents say I'll never be able to get married with an illegitimate baby, but I don't want any man I'd have to lie to. He takes me as I am, or not at all.

I want this baby. I was very much in love and I'm not ashamed of anything. I'm willing to tell the world this is my baby.

My parents cry, "Shame!" but plenty of people think I have courage.

It is very generous of my sister to be willing to take the baby, but I want to be able to call him my own. I couldn't stand to hear my child call my sister "Mother" and to look at me almost like a stranger.

The whole family is ashamed of me, but they don't have to worry. I'll go away where I won't disgrace them. And I won't lie and say my baby's father is dead either.

The Council: The R.M.'s are putting the emphasis in the wrong place when they stress the shame of Barbara's position and their worry that she won't be able to marry. Barbara has someone other than herself to consider at this time.

If Barbara talks her problems over with a clergyman or with a social worker or attends a family agency, she will come to see that she must consider the future of her baby, above all else. "Plenty of people" may think she has courage, but by bearing this child she is not putting on a performance for the benefit of the public.

This admiring crowd will not be able to help her when she faces the inevitable problems — how to care for her child and at the same time support both him and herself, what to tell her child when he asks about his father, what to tell him when other children say things that might shame him, how to make up to him emotionally for the lack of a father.

Barbara is right that giving the baby to her sister would not work. It would be the worst possible arrangement. But Barbara must be aware that keeping her child will take more than courage. It will take work and great patience and intelligence.

She should realize that she cannot change her mind after the first few months without risking emotional damage to her child — and the chances of arranging a satisfactory adoption for such an older child are slim.

Barbara must recognize that this is not an occasion for making grand gestures, but for deep, serious consideration and firm, mature judgment.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

IT'S THE WELL-SCRUBBED LOOK THAT RATES THE WHISTLES

The pretty picture he admires is "painted" with soap and water.

A recent poll of college men throughout the country reveals that the secret of feminine attractiveness isn't in exotic perfumes, expensive cosmetics or intricate coiffures. For be he campus sweetheart or schoolgirl-next-door-head, the poll reveals, it's the girl with the "fresh, just-stepped-out-of-a-shower" look that catches a young man's fancy.

There's no doubt about it, skillfully applied make-up, an attractive hair style, and a pleasing fragrance play an important part in good grooming. But these are just the finishing touches to a pretty picture. The most flattering cosmetics in the world must rest on a clean, well-scrubbed complexion. No hairdo can compensate for lackluster hair, and the days are (thankfully!) long gone when fair ladies used liberal amounts of perfume in place of daily baths!

The basic elements of beauty depend upon a lovely complexion, physical cleanliness, and healthy, well-groomed hair. An important part of this is that all of these potentials exist for every woman — and are only as far away as her bathtub and wash basin!

Thorough cleansing with thick soapsuds and plenty of hot water will help whisk away complexion-clouding blackheads, soil, and oiliness. A vigorous shampoo with billows of suds will flatter any hairstyle from pony-tail to the latest "siren" cut. And, of course, there's nothing like a luxurious bubbly bath to ease away those unflattering frown lines, and leave you feeling fresh and tingling all over!

Soap magic in personal appearance goes even further, if you're smart enough to choose a wardrobe that takes to water like the proverbial duck! Today, the prettiest fashions are often the ones you can wash yourself and those which need little or no ironing. There's something about a girl in a freshly laundered dress, carrying sparkling white gloves, that appeals to all men. It's no accident that girls who use soap and water generously are likely to get their date books bubbling over!

SPOONS FOR SWIMMING

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne have won silver spoons for their progress in swimming. The spoons were to have been presented six months ago, but Prince Philip did not think the children were then good enough, an official of the British Amateur Swimming Association said Thursday.

Mother's Helper

GOOD COMIC books have a way of quieting the most active youngsters. Assemble all your children have, add a few new ones, and make them available to bridge runs between games at a party. And if your child's celebration includes a meal in a restaurant, hand books out while the guests are waiting to be served.

This Sputnik tracker, examined by F. J. Osborne and Jo Haynes, is the most timely of the many electronic devices on display at the Institute of Radio Engineers convention. It is based on the simple fact that the earth revolves once every 24 hours and the Russian satellite circles the globe once every 96 minutes. Research physicists of Canadian Marconi Co. constructed the tracker by using a scaled globe of the earth, precision gearings, electric motors, a small arm with flashlight bulb on the end of it to represent Sputnik and some exact radio bearings made last week on the satellite's position. On Oct. 16, the device calculated the position of Sputnik over Toronto.

Mustangs Hogtie Blues 15-0 As Redmen Trim Gaels 33-6

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Western Ontario Mustangs and McGill University Redmen, rated underdog teams at the opening of the Intercollegiate Football Union season, have taken grips on first and second place respectively as a result of weekend games.

Mustangs racked up their third straight win Saturday before a home-town crowd of 10,000 in London, Ont., walloping University of Toronto Blues 15-0.

Redmen, on the strong running performance of fullback Jan Sandzelius and the passing arm of quarterback Dick Carr, rolled over Queen's Golden Gaels 33-6 Saturday in Montreal for their second win against one loss.

The games marked the half-way point in the Intercollegiate season.

Mustangs controlled the ball most of the game, piling up yardage on line plunges and end runs. Bill Britton led the attack with two touchdowns, crossing over in the first and third quarters. Bob Turner kicked a single and Willie Casanova added a convert.

Sandzelius counted nine points with a touchdown, two converts and a rouge single as McGill handed Gaels, defending champions, their third loss.

He carried the ball 20 times for 101 of McGill's 285 yards. Carr completed 11 of 15 passes for 156 yards, throwing strikes to ends Joe Poirier twice in the third quarter and Johnny Bennett in the fourth. Halfback Carl Hansen scored the other McGill touchdown on a 12-yard run up centre.

Queen's collected its six points on a 23-yard pass by quarterback Bob Campbell to end Paul Fedor.

Alouettes File Protest Over Tiger Incident

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes have filed an official protest against a referee's ruling in the Big Four Football Union game at Hamilton Saturday which Tiger-Cats won 18-15.

In the final minute of the game, Hamilton's Ralph Toohy pranced onto the field yelling in an apparent effort to frustrate a pass attempt from Montreal quarterback Sam Etcheverry to Art Powell who caught a pass on the Montreal 35-yard line.

Referee Harry Bowden ruled that Hamilton had too many men on the field and penalized Tiats 10 yards, giving Montreal a first down on their own 41-yard line.

Alouettes claim they should have been awarded a touchdown under the rule which grants a touchdown if the referee thinks the blocked player might have scored and if the intruder appears while play is in progress. After the game, Bowden said Tooby didn't contact Powell. "Powell made the catch and ran into touch. I had to consider that when Toohy ran onto the field yelling. He could have been yelling at one of his team to get off, that he was a replacement."

Bowden also said Toohy ran onto the field while the ball was out of play. Montreal put the ball back in play, lineman Tommy Daley threw up a flag to indicate Hamilton had 13 men on the field, he said.

Purdue, Illini Victories Cause Big Ten Tizzy

NEW YORK (AP)—Purdue and Illinois exploded a couple of bombs under Michigan State and Minnesota Saturday and in the process threw U.S. college football's Big Ten race into a tizzy.

Dutchies Whip Golden Bears; Celeri Stars

KITCHENER (CP) — It took them three games to do it, but Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen finally beat Sarnia Golden Bears this year in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Dutchmen, senior league champions since 1954, hit the jackpot Saturday night with a 28-6 victory on the brilliant play of quarter Bob Celeri, an all-star since he came to Canada from the now-defunct Dallas Texans of the old American Football League.

The verdict put Dutchmen one point behind the leading London Lords with a game in hand. These two clubs meet at London Wednesday night.

Celeri, who completed 12 of 17 passes for 179 yards, threw touchdown passes to Dick Trafis in the first quarter and Al Romine in the final session.

Mike Norcia and Dave King picked up touchdowns for Dutch on the ground route. King got his on a 60-yard sprint in the final minutes of the game. Norcia also kicked three converts and Celeri, who averaged 42.5 yards a punt for six kicks, booted a single early in the last quarter.

Sarnia's only score came on a 67-yard first - quarter ground drive. Bob Hill finished it off with a five-yard plunge in the opening quarter.

Fall Bass Fishing Pays Dividends

The weather was cold, bitter cold. At luncheon that day the managing editor of a certain mid-western newspaper had been bragging about the sapling prowess of his outdoor editor. His listener was an unbeliever from the Eastern States.

"That's right," said the M.E. "Any kind of weather. To that boy weather means no difference."

"Not today," replied the Easterner. "Temperature below freezing. Bass beginning to hibernate. Can't be done."

"All right — he's out at his camp. I'll call him and tell him you're coming out for a bass dinner this evening."

A suitable wager was made, business was completed, and the two disputants made their way over 30 miles of frozen roads, braving the icy blasts in the confines of a heated sedan.

Fortunately for all of us, it is standard procedure to travel in heated cars. But no way has yet been discovered to air-condition an open skiff on a wind-swept lake. Despite the cast, when they arrived at camp there was their host, bundled to the ears in heavy clothing, tossing six husky smallmouth onto the dock after making the boat fast against wind and weather. The Easterner paid up with a smile.

Most of us tend to associate bass fishing with warm weather and summer months. Admittedly, that is the nice time to bass fishing. Conversely, it is not the best time to catch bass, particularly smallmouth. You get better fishing in the fall, but you can get colder, much colder, fishing for bass in the fall and winter months than you can in a duck blind.

When the summer sun warms the water of lakes and streams, the bass tend to go on a hunger strike. In the early season, right after spawning is done and the bass are still in the shallows, shore-line fishing is right at its peak. But when water temperatures become uncomfortably warm, then the bass move into the deeper water where temperatures are more to their liking.

Then, if you would find fish in satisfactory quantity, you must know your water or hire a guide who does. In almost every body of bass water there are spring holes, ledges which have a constant flow of spring-water seepage, mouths of spring runs and feeder streams, and the like. Where these cold spots are, there also you will usually find your fish.

FATTENING FOR WINTER

But when the frosty nights of fall arrive, water temperatures become more agreeable. Moreover, nature tells the bass that they must lay on a supply of fat to help them through the winter months. Even in the southern states this is true. Thus, the bass stage a regular feeding orgy and that is the time when the weatherproof angler comes into his own.

In testimony of this, consider the smallmouth of the North Branch of the Susquehanna River in Pennsylvania. Generally, not very many large bass are taken from this river during August and early September, although there are plenty of them there.

However, Walker this season has been playing with the Sault Sto. Marie Greyhounds before being signed by Hanley. The writ is effective until Oct. 25.

Walker, a native of Stratford, played with Greyhounds Friday night in an OHA-NOHA Senior A league contest.

Soo Greyhounds Issue Writ To Get Walker

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Hanley, business manager of the Ontario Hockey Association, says he has been notified by telegram that the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds have taken out a writ of restraint in the Ontario Supreme Court seeking to have Tom Walker declared their property.

During heavy rainfalls, water flow is increased, and the bass then move into the feeder streams in search of the tiny organisms which are washed down by the rain. Then, if you have the right lures and know how to use them, you can have a field day.

During most of the season the little stone catfish is the productive bait in that river. With the coming of cold weather, however, this preference changes. Then the little "riffle darters" or "riffle pike" — little minnows which make their homes in the fast water — come into their own. These little fellows have a high fat content and the bass know it. And with this change of preference come the big bass, the tackle busters.

By the same token, the use of artificial lures on some changes in the fall. Small, dark-colored plugs, fished down near the bottom, seem to produce better than the surface lures. And the fishing spots change also. There is not much feed for a bass in the deep water and, being in search of food and lots of it, he goes to the cafeteria. Then you will find most of your fish in the heavy feeding runs, right below deep water, or around the rocky bars and across the "fans" at the tails of the pools, just above the riffles.

During the solunar periods, when the fish are really feeding in earnest, the bass plug and small top-water plugs will produce very well along the shore lines but mostly fall bass fishing is an underwater job.

And last, but by no means least, wear plenty of warm clothing. Fall produces cold air and water make for damp air. This combination sets up conditions that will chill you to the very marrow of your bones unless you dress wisely.

But, cold or not, the fishing you can find during the chill days of fall will more than repay you for a certain amount of physical discomfort.

'Rocket' Marks Brilliant Milestone In Illustrious Hockey Career

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Louisville Rebels, newest addition to the International Hockey League, are red-hot favorites to walk away with the title this year, according to Maxie Silverman, who promoted the club. The Rebels, who meet the McFarlands tonight in Memorial Arena in the last exhibition game of the season are said to be a tough, hard-hitting, fast-skating collection of puck-chasers who have met the best of the senior clubs of the province.

The Cincinnatti Mohawks, who have won the International League championship for the past five years in a row grudgingly admit the Rebels have what it takes and agree that Silverman has rounded up a fine aggregation. The Rebels who were hit with the flu a while back will be at full strength tonight.

Louisville was granted an IHL franchise when Huntingdon, W. Va., dropped out last summer. The Rebels will play in a brand new arena which seats more than 17,000. The arena is part of a huge sports centre which includes a football field, a baseball diamond, gymnasium, swimming pool and other recreational facilities. It was built at a total cost of $13,000,000 and is far and away the largest community centre on the continent.

Leo Gasparini, a former professional hockey player and later a businessman in Sudbury, was first to go after the Louisville franchise. He headed a Sudbury group which raised sufficient money to post a substantial bond with the International League, plus a fixed guaranteed rental for the Louisville arena.

For a while it looked as though Leo would tie up with Pete Palangio, when the latter decided to move the NOHA southern group league Trappers out of North Bay.

When that deal fell through Leo was faced with the prospect of getting together a brand new club. It took him less than two minutes to decided that the best man for that job was Sudbury's Max Silverman. Max has few peers when it comes to getting hockey players.

Time will tell how well Maxie has done his job but "on paper" the Rebels appear to be a pretty formidable outfit.

Max picked Lou Crowdis, of the defunct Huntingdon team as his goaltender. Last season Crowdis helped to keep a rather mediocre team in third place and the IHL's powerpuncher and sportscasters selected him as the most valuable player in the league.

On defence the Rebels have two veterans and two rookies. The vets are Fiori Goegan, who finished fourth in the NOHA southern group league's individual scoring race while playing for North Bay last season, and Moose Lalio, a much-travelled, 31-year-old former pro who was with Huntingdon last winter. Moose still can outskate most forwards and he hits hard. The rookies are Vizer Gendron and Grant Morton, who played together for St. Catharines Teepees last season. Both are big, rugged kids who should do well in IHL company.

The other defence candidates include Red Barrett, who played for Soo Greyhounds last year, and Dave Sanderson, a 21-year-old youngster who has shown lots of promise. The Rebels also hope to land Kent Douglas, former Owen Sound Mercury rearguard who is attending training camp at Three Rivers, Quebec.

Up front they have a high-scoring line made up of centreman Laurie Peterson and wingers Garry Sharp and Ed. Dudych. Peterson and Sharp were team-mates with Soo Indians of the NOHA southern group league. The Indians finished last but Peterson won the league's individual scoring championship. Dudych, a youngster, scored 50 goals for the junior Montreal Canadiens two years ago.

Veteran Johnny Ubriaco centres another line, with Roger Maisonville and Billy Snake on the wings. Maisonville, an Ottawa Valley product, was with Harringay Racers in the British Ice Hockey Association last season. Snake is a Northern Ontario boy trying hard to make a place. The Rebels also have Red Barrett available for this line, since Red plays both defence and right wing.

The "Kid Line" of Ron Spong, Sonny LaRose and Don Davidson rounds out the roster. Spong and Davidson were with Huntingdon last season while LaRose played for Owen Sound. The line is small but very fast and the three have worked well together so far in practice.

Tommy Wilson, a 218-pound centreman with Owen Sound last winter has been pivoting a fourth line but Silverman likely will pair him up with Ubriaco if the extra line doesn't develop. "He's a big fellow and he can handle himself in the corners," said Max. "I think he and Ubriaco might go well together."

Eskimos' Powerhouse Cinch For Bye in Western Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos are leaving no doubts of their power as they bid for a fourth straight Grey Cup.

They've outscored their opposition three to one so far. They've ret yardage, scoring and finishers records. Johnny Bright has added the individual rushing mark Four Eskimos are among the top five contenders for the league scoring title.

With two games remaining in the regular season schedule in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, Eskimos seem a cinch for a bye into the western finals for the fourth consecutive year.

That goal came a step closer Saturday night when they beat B.C. Lions 29-13 at Vancouver, while at Calgary Winnipeg Blue Bombers were swamping Stampeders 31-7.

Eskimos need only one more victory—they play Lions again at Edmonton next week, then close the schedule against the tail-end Saskatchewan Roughriders to wrap up first place.

Even if they lose both, the best the second-place Bombers could hope for would be a tie. To do that, Winnipeg would need victories in all their last three games, and Eskimos could get the nod because of a better points for-and-against average.

Bombers now have a game in hand. They'll play it tonight at Regina against Riders in the only WIFU game of the night.

SETS RUSHING MARK

Saturday night, fullback Bright carried the ball 19 times for 67 yards That gave him the WIFU rushing record with 1,491 yards. 51 yards better than the record last year by teammate Norm Kwong.

Eskimos ran their point total to 423 to surpass the 1953 record

Receives Tumultuous Cheers As He Scores Goal No. 500; Leafs Nip Boston Win String

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maurice (Rocket) Richard in rewriting the National Hockey League record book has found Chicago Black Hawks his unwilling assistants.

The Rocket, now 36 and the oldest player in the league, scored goal No. 500 of his illustrious NHL career Saturday night as Montreal Canadiens defeated Black Hawks 3-1. The veteran right winger found Chicago netminders the target of other noteworthy goals—Nos. 100, 200 and 400. And No. 325, which broke the league record set by the late Nels Stewart, also went into a Black Hawks' net.

While Richard was setting the lamp will at Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs burst out for their first victory of the season—a 7-0 crushing of the previously unbeaten Boston Bruins.

Montreal and Boston were idle Sunday night and retained their one-two positions in the league standings.

Toronto apparently used up most of its steam against Boston and lost 3-1 to Detroit in the Michigan city Sunday. That put Leafs back in last place, one point behind Chicago which lost to the third-place Rangers 6-1 in New York. Detroit is fourth, trailing New York by one point.

Once again Richard saved his record - breaking performances for the home fans. All the milestones in his goal-scoring career with the exception of goal 400, were scored on Montreal ice.

ART UP BASKET

Defenceman Doug Harvey and centre Jean Beliveau, who fed the Rocket the puck for No. 500, were the other Montreal marksmen. Hec Lalande got the Chicago score.

Leafs, held to only six goals in their previous three starts, ran roughshod over Bruins on three-goal performances by centres Brian Cullen and Billy Harris and a single by winger Ron Stewart, who counted while killing off a penalty in the second period.

At Detroit Sunday night Barry Cullen, Brian's brother, was the only Leaf to beat Red Wing goalie Terry Sacchuk, who returned to his old-time best in turning aside 28 shots.

Netminder Ed Chadwick of Leafs, who was amazing in his shutout of the Bruins, stopped 30 Detroit driver but was beaten by Red Kelly, Billy Dea and Norm Ullman. It was Detroit's first victory on home ice.

NESTERENKO EJECTED

Tempers were short on Madison Square Garden ice as Rangers swamped Chicago. Eric Nesterenko was the lone Hawk to score and he also led the penalty parade with two majors and a misconduct. The two majors resulted in his automatic ejection from the game in the third period.

Dean Prentice and Camille Henry scored two each for New York and Andy Bathgate and Larry Popein scored singles.

Nesterenko was involved in a second-period scuffle with Bathgate and both drew majors. In the third period he tangled with ragged Ranger defenceman Lou Fontinato.

Ivan Cushenan of Chicago and Jack Evans of Rangers received majors for a first-period mix-up.

ADCOCK HUNTS DUCKS

KERROBERT, Sask. (CP)—Joe Adcock, first baseman for the world champion Milwaukee Braves baseball club, left for home Saturday after a few days of duck-hunting in the marsh country near this community 110 miles west of Saskatoon. Adcock has bagged ducks in this area for the last three years.

of 394 set by Winnipeg. Scoring 26 first downs to Lions' 16, they pushed their season total to 355 to break the mark established by Bombers last year.

Bright, Jackie Parker, and Hormie Kwong scored Edmonton touchdowns, and centre Bill Briggs got another when he jumped on a loose ball in the B.C. end zone. Joe Mobra kicked three converts, and he and Bill Walker booted singles.

Quarterback Kenny Duncan threw two touchdown passes for the Lions' 12 points—one to Bill Roberts, the other to end Vic Chapman.

At Calgary, Jerry James got one touchdown and kicked a field goal. Leo Lewis, Charley Shepard and Elsie Pitts added other Winnipeg touchdowns. Quarter Ken Ploen kicked three converts, and threw to Pitts for another after a fumble.

Nobby Wirkowski passed to Dean Renfro for the 27-yard Calgary touchdown which Bud Korchak converted.

Wolves Nudge Chelsea 2-1; England Wins

LONDON (CP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers squeezed out a 2-1 victory over Chelsea Saturday and pulled into a three-point lead in the English Soccer League first division.

Meanwhile, England crushed a badly-outclassed Welsh team 4-0 in an international game before 60,000 fans at Cardiff.

And at Glasgow, a crowd of more than 82,000 saw another one-sided game as Celtic crushed Rangers 7-1 to retain the Scottish League Cup.

At Chelsea, Wanderers went farther ahead in the national championship race as all their rivals faltered, with teams weakened by flu and Sat.-Sun. star players were away from their teams to take part in the English-Welsh game.

West Bromwich Albion, without four of its starters, scrambled to a 1-1 draw at Leeds; Everton tied 1-1 with Burnley; Manchester United, with a host players in the international match, lost to Portsmouth 3-0; and Nottingham Forest went under 3-1 at Leicester.

West Bromwich row is record with 19 points, Everton has 18 and Manchester United and Nottingham Forest both have 17.

Arsenal was defeated by Birmingham 2-1 in a hard, robust match. Inside right Roy Swallow scored for Arsenal in the first minute but Birmingham turned out too strong.

Dutchies Top Western Loop Dunlops Edge Trappers 6-5

— By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen are rushed off to an early lead in the new Ontario senior hockey loop with three successive wins but it hasn't been as easy as it sounds for Bill Durnan's crew.

Dutchies took their opening game from Chatham Maroons 9-1 then just edged Windsor Bulldogs 4-3. Sunday they took on Bulldogs at Windsor and had to overcome a shaky start which saw them trail 2-0 early in the second period to get a 5-2 verdict.

On Saturday, in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop, Whitby Dunlops shaded North Bay Trappers, 6-5 and Soo Greyhounds edged Sudbury Wolves 7-6.

TWO-POINT EDGE

Dutchies now have a two-point lead over Greyhounds with Bulldogs and North Bay another two points back. Chatham have lost their only start while Windsor has played only the two losses to Dutchies.

Whitby, Allan Cup champions and Canada's representative in next year's world hockey championships, are not financial members of the league but games with them count for their opponents.

Buddy Horne and Jack Taylor each fired two for Dutchies with Joe Hogan getting the other. Frank Bathgate and Chester Warcop scored for Windsor.

A disputed overtime goal by defenceman Alf Treen gave Dunlops victory. Trappers had launched a two-goal rally in the final session to knot the count. Trappers protested that Treen's goal at 1:50 in overtime was scored after the whistle had blown but it was in vain.

WITH GETS TWO

Mickey Roth with two, Ron Casey, Ted O'Connor and Fred Etcher got the other Whitby goals. Bob Barlow scored twice and Ken Gribbon, Johnny Robitaille and Ches Konecmy got one each for Trappers.

Greyhounds had to win their game in overtime too as they saw Wolves score a pair of goals in the third period and tie it 4-4. It was Mike Ratchford who got the winner at 8:24 in overtime.

Other Soo marksmen were John Ottoland and Ivan Tennant. Joe Malo led Sudbury with two and John Logan and Howie Horsley got the others.

In Tuesday's games, Sudbury take on Trappers at North Bay and Windsor is host to Chatham.

Big Four Will Arrange Game With ORFU

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four Football Union will be asked to arrange a post-season game between its runner-up and the Ontario Rugby Football Union winner, it was decided Sunday.

A meeting of a Canadian Rugby Union sub-committee with ORFU officials resolved that the Big Four arrange such a game according to conditions suggested by the ORFU. The Big Four did not have any representatives at the meeting despite notification.

The resolution read in part: "The sub-committee having investigated the desirability of playing a post-season game between the winner of the ORFU and the runner-up of the IRFU (Big Four), moves that the CRU request the IRFU to arrange with the ORFU a game to be played according to the conditions suggested by the ORFU at the meeting of Oct. 20, 1957."

SUGGEST CONDITIONS

An ORFU committee, headed by president Maurice Chilton of Sarnia, suggested five conditions for such a game.

"That a post-season game be played between the winner of the ORFU and the runner-up of the IRFU.

"That the runner-up be the winner of the semi-final in the IRFU and that the IRFU is willing to play the loser of that game.

"That the game be played anytime after Nov. 16, at which time the ORFU will be declared.

"That the ORFU is willing to play on grounds designated by the IRFU.

"And that, if the game is played in London, Sarnia or Kitchener the ORFU is willing to negotiate with regards to guaranteeing all expenses of the IRFU team, chosen to play the game, the ORFU is also willing to divide equally any net profits from the gate if played in these centres."

At a Big Four meeting last week the league reaffirmed its stand against such a post-season game.

Tigers Collar 4-Point Lead Ottawa, Larks Share Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Public reprimands could be the answer to the problem of blockbusting Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist as the hottest football player in the Big Four is appears to hit his full line-crashing potential after verbal lashings.

The 31-year-old Negro import with Hamilton Tiger - Cats has been in and out of hot water for his off-the-field shenanigans the last two years. The word gets out that coach Jim Trimble has subjected him to some stern warnings and Cookie goes on a rampage—against the other league clubs.

A couple of weeks ago Trimble lit into Cookie because, of all things, he turned up late for a game. The Thanksgiving weekend doubleheader against Toronto Argonauts was coming up and Gilchrist powered over for three touchdowns in a two-game sweep and followed it up last Saturday when he led Ticats to an 18-15 win over Montreal Alouettes with two more touchdowns.

HOLD FOUR-POINT LEAD

Those three victories sent Tiger Cats into a clear four-point lead over Ati and Ottawa Rough Riders, bracketed in second place with only three remaining games of the 14-game schedule. Riders, who split with Montreal a week ago in their Thanksgiving doubleheader, lost 31-23 to last-place Argonauts on Saturday.

This could happen at the weekend if Tiger-Cats beat Als at Montreal and Argonauts upset have won only two of their 11 games on the road. Otherwise, the following these games, Ottawa meets Hamilton and Toronto tangles with Montreal in the remaining two Saturday dates.

FIELD GOAL WINS IT

Hamilton's scoring on the weekend was looked after by Gilchrist and Steve Oneschuk. Oneschuk's 25-yard field goal in the last five minutes broke a 15-15 tie.

Montreal coach-manager Gordon Kennedy was riled by a referee's ruling in the final minute of the game and filed an immediate protest.

Als built up a 15-0 lead before Ticats started their hammering. Cookie broke through centre and galloped for a 67-yard touchdown midway through the second quarter.

The third quarter was scoreless and Gilchrist went over again at about the half-way mark of the final session to climax an 81-yard Ticat drive. Oneschuk kicked the convert on both, added a fourth-quarter single when his first field goal attempt went wide and then booted the game-winning three-pointer after intercepting a pass thrown by Montreal quarter Sam Etcheverry.

HAL GETS ONE

Hal Patterson and Joe Wells were Montreal's touchdown scorers for the Canadian league's leading scorer, got the first late in the first quarter when he took a nine-yard pass from Wells.

Before the half Patterson and Wells pulled the same play in reverse Patterson tossed a 30-yard pass to Wells who outran Hamilton defenders for an 80-yard touchdown play. Bill Bewley kicked the convert and Avatus Stone booted a single.

The Ottawa-Toronto game was practically an all-Canadian show for Argos.

Using only seven imports because of illness and injuries, Argos allowed their Canadian backfielders to carry the ball and they produced one of the best jobs of the season.

CALLS FIELD GAME

Quarter Gerry Doucette, a Canadian who hasn't had too many opportunities to shine in four years with Argonauts, called the entire game. Argos' four touchdowns were all by Canadians—two by halfback Davey West and one each by halfback Bobby Kuntz and Doucette.

Vic Kristopaitis kicked four converts and, with a strong wind behind him, a 45-yard field goal in the final quarter.

Roughrider Riders, probably overconfident, gave up an early touchdown to Argonauts, came back to lead 16-7 in the second quarter and 23-14 in the third but Argonauts struck back for two touchdowns before the third quarter ended for a 29-23 margin. They held Ottawa scoreless in the final 15 minutes while adding their field goal.

=Bobby Judd plunged four of Ottawa's three touchdowns, and hometrew Bobby Simpson went 44 yards for the other on a pass from Russ Jackson.

Hershey Bears Take Over Top In American

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hershey Bears appear to be the surprise team of the young American Hockey League season.

Bears, who finished fourth in 1956-57, have taken over first place. Hershey turned back Providence Reds 5-1 Sunday night to take a tie for the lead with Providence.

Hershey has won five of its six starts and has 10 points. Providence runner-up Reds, who won the regular league race last season, have eight points.

In other games, Rochester Americans took over third place with a 3-1 victory over Cleveland Barons, who dropped into the cellar. Springfield Indians also moved out of last place with a 2-1 triumph over Buffalo Bisons.

Willie Marshall for Hershey and Paul Larivee of Providence scored in the first period and Hershey stayed that way until 12:47 of the second when Bob Solinger and Ace Duff tallied an insurance marker less than three minutes later and Lorne Davis and Obie O'Brien put it away with third-period goals.

Rochester got a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Earl Balfour and Guy Collins. Gary Aldcorn got the third goal in the final period. Gord Velprava scored for Cleveland.

Buddy Boone's goal with less than three minutes to go gave Springfield victory. Ken Schinkel scored the other goal for Indians. Ron Murphy scored for Bisons.

On Saturday, Hershey downed Rochester 6-3, Springfield beat Providence 5-2 and Cleveland and Buffalo tied 4-4.

Argentine Is Threat to Slammin' Sam

TOKYO (AP) — A long-hitting Argentine player emerged today as a serious threat to Sam Snead, Jimmy Demaret and Peter Thomson for individual honors in the International Trophy and Canada Cup golf matches here this weekend.

He is Leopoldo Ruiz, 24-year-old professional who recently beat out the veteran Antonio Cerla for the Argentine Open championship.

"This man can hit the ball farther than Roberto Devicenzo" said Cerda, who "will serve as Ruiz' partner in the team competition Oct. 24-27.

Cerda won the individual title in the inaugural event in 1953 and teamed with Devicenzo, one of the big hitters of golf, to take the Canada Cup team prize. Devicenzo is not competing.

Snead and Demaret, representing the United States, and Thomson, the three-time British Open winner from Australia, are the favorites.

Canada is represented by Toronto's Al Balding and Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Lachute, Que.

The tournament will be played over 72 holes—18 holes a day Thursday through Sunday, with both individual and team championships determined on a medal score basis.

Haney Given Year's Contract At $40,000

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fred Haney, manager of the world champion Milwaukee Braves Saturday signed a new one-year contract that will pay him an estimated $40,000.

Haney said the contract is "by far the best I've ever received." The price for his services during 1958 is the highest salary he's received in 34 years in baseball.

The agreement was reached in a short conference with general manager John Quinn and club president Joseph Calmes.

The 59-year-old Haney may still have one more prize to collect this season, for he is given the inside track on being named the National League manager of the year.

Haney, onetime major league infielder, guided Braves to world series victory in his first full year as their manager. He replaced Charlie Grimm as field boss in June of 1956.

Besides his 13 years in baseball as a manager Haney's diamond career included 21 years as a player.

Mike Todd's Shindig Thurs. Night a Lot of Ballyhoo

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's try to put a little perspective on an interesting night on television. The night was last Thursday when entertainment was pitted against ballyhoo.

Entertainment was represented by 90 minutes of the finest show of the TV season thus far, a superb production of The Green Pastures on NBC-TV. Ballyhoo was represented at the same time on CBS-TV when a gentleman named Mike Todd offered a 90-minute commercial for a movie and himself.

Seldom has there been so much talk about a TV show—both before and after—as encompassed Todd's Madison Square Garden shindig for 18,000 to celebrate the first anniversary of his film Around the World in 80 Days.

BAD LARGE AUDIENCES

It's a fine movie and it was nice of Todd to throw that party for a few dozen friends. But why was it televised? The answer is simple: Everybody knew that a large audience would watch it—and a large audience did.

In the light of Monday after the people I've heard still talk about Thursday night on television fall into these categories:

1. Those who watched and enjoyed The Green Pastures.

2. Those who started watching the Todd party and switched to The Green Pastures.

3. Those who stayed with the Todd party with a mixture of grim determination and a slightly mortified fascination at the spectacle of ballyhoo.

I didn't watch the Todd party; I went to it.

WIFE WAS DUBIOUS

Because I dislike large crowds, the way I explained the action to myself and my wife, who dubiously accompanied me, was this: "Let's see Todd's TV show in person and write a piece about it." Too late, trapped in the mob, I realized I'd fallen a victim to ballyhoo.

Agents who viewed the party on TV and gave me a complete rundown of it are the only people I have of knowing what happened. There was a big crowd, a lot of noise and razzle-dazzle at the garden. That's all.

The trouble was that Todd deserted his guests at the garden (including George Jessel, who of course was at a loss for words) to play to his guests on television. At least that's my story.

The story of my agents who were viewing the chaotic scene on the home screen is that Todd deserted his TV guests to play to his garden guests. At least that's their story

The point is that I let myself be outdistanced by ballyhoo. So, from all I've heard, did many television viewers.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Stole the Ring racked up the fifth victory of her brief career as she won the $27,750 Coronation Futurity Stakes at New Woodbine Saturday afternoon.

The unbeaten filly, owned by Miss Blanche Armstrong of Toronto, earned the first prize money of $22,950 and raised her total earnings to $25,695.

Stole the Ring ran brilliantly as she beat Happy Harry in a long head run to the wire. Tornarind closed a tremendous gap to finish third.

The afternoon's secondary feature, the $7,500 Bunty Lawless Handicap, went to Dornes Lad which ran the distance of one mile and one eighth in 1:51 3-5, by less than a second behind the track record to beat Stinson's Boy by half a length. Canadian Champ finished third.

TONIGHT—FIRST SHOWING
"Kronos" Stirs Curiosity

"Kronos," the unusual title of the film now playing at the Park Theatre, has caused a good deal of comment; many inquiring as to its origin and what it stands for.

The name is derived from a mythical giant and in the case of the science-fiction drama, is a huge cube-shaped figure, made of steel, a hundred feet high, with a satellite revolving about its head, which invades the earth from another planet. It has been placed on earth by people from out of space who have run out of energy. "Kronos" becomes their accumulator who sucks up power from various electric plants around the country for the use of these outer-space inhabitants.

While on earth it causes a great deal of havoc among the "earth-people" until a scientist comes up with what he believes to be the solution to the dilemma.

"Kronos," a Regal Films production, released by Twentieth Century-Fox, stars Jeff Morrow, Barbara Lawrence and John Emery. It was produced and directed by Kroger Babb. Screen-play by Herb Meadow and Lou Neumann.

On the same program, "She Devil," the woman they could not kill, stars Mari Blanchard, Jack Kelly, Albert Dekker.

Room two went to slam with these bids:

This pair had no accurate trick count. Nor did they have a way of telling each other how many tricks they had. So, with inadequate values they reached a slam but managed to stay in the right suit.

An opening spade lead from south would have made sure the slam must fail. But when the south lead was the heart five, declarer got a break that let three right tricks in the opponents.

Dummy eightspot and north jack fell to east's heart ace. After pulling trumps, a heart to dummy's queen, then south would let east get rid of his losing club on the third dummy heart.

Then a small club from dummy toward the ace and the queen would lose only one club trick and the slam was a success.

But this one muffled it. He played a club through the dummy twice and both lost. Dummy's eighth in 1:51 3-5, by less than a second behind the track record to beat Stinson's Boy by half a length. Canadian Champ finished third.

Mary Martin Gives Thrilling Stunt in 'Annie Get Your Gun'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One thrilling leader and as a result Mary Martin is treating audiences nightly to one of the most exciting moments in the theatre.

The moment comes in the first act of Annie Get Your Gun when Annie Oakley makes her big debut with Buffalo Bill's wild west show. The curtains part and there is Mary riding at full gallop on a white charger while shooting targets out of the air.

Television audiences will get to see the stirring feat Nov. 27, when Mary will star in Annie in a two-hour spectacular over NBC.

Probably no other top star would undertake such a stunt except Mary, whose devotion to the theatre knows no bounds. And she wouldn't be doing it, except for a string of events.

BRAZILIAN RANCH

Event No. 2: The Gilbert Adrians (Janet Gaynor) told the Hallidays about the joys of owning a ranch in the Brazilian interior. So Dick and Mary bought their own ranch nearby.

"The only way to get around down there was by horse," Mary said backstage before the evening performance at the Philharmonic Auditorium. "So we bought nine horses and we practically lived in the saddle from morning until night.

"It was the only riding I had done since I was a girl and had my own Shetland pony."

Halliday, who was producing Annie with Edwin Lester, went to work on the mechanics. He inspected the treadmills at the movie studios and found them lacking. The only treadmill that was available was one which was actually used in the old Ben Hur production. It was shipped here from the east at a tidy figure.

Later we found out that nobody ever mounts the treadmill on the horse. The horse has to be led on."

CRAZY OR EXPERT

They also heard a comment by one of the cowboys who had been in who Mary was: "She's either an expert horsewoman or she's just plain crazy."

An elaborate mechanism was devised to carry off the stunt. The treadmill, which had been freerunning, had to be equipped with a motor to get it up to speed. Wires were attached to the horse in four places to prevent its getting out of control.

But still, the device wasn't foolproof. When Mary and co-star John Raitt were posing for photos in San Francisco, the horse reared and sent the expensive talent tumbling on their—onto the stage.

Three horses and two cowboys are required for the stunt. Prince is used for Mary's gallop, and White Cloud carries Mary and Raitt for a walk at the finale. Another nag is required as a stand-in.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking to herself, and she said to pop, Yes, that's what I'll do. It's certainly a relief to come to a decision. I meen there is nothing worse than a state of vccillation, is there, William? she said.

No my dear, pop said. Even a wrong decision gives one a certain satisfaction till you find out your mistake, he said, and ma said, Well I'm sure I've made the right decision, because I know I can depend on you for that. In other werds, I've decided to let you decide for me. I've been tossing and tcrning whether to give Maud Hews something practical or something ornamental for her birthday. So which is it to be, William? I meen bearing in mind that it must be appropriate to her personality, ma said.

Well, Maud has a rather ornamental personality when she's dressed up, but then on the other hand she has a very practical way of leading poor old Yewtace around by the nose, pop said.

Meening Mr. Hews, and ma said, Why William, you've hit the very nale on the head. I'll give her exactly what you suggest, a silver plaid can opener studed with semmy precious stones. I saw them in the Green Gift Shop, she said, and pop said, Oh, did I suggest that?

But of course, ma said. You decided I should give her a practical ornament, to reflect both sides of her personality. Well, thank you, William, she said.

The pleasure is all mine, pop said.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You.")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel!

What you make of your life is largely up to you.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Getting in touch early with whom you consider to be associates in whatever goals you seek, will produce fine results for all. The idea is to believe in them and give them your support, will establish.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Intelligent co-operation with partners, fellow workers, today make your own tasks lighter, easier. Be sure to make your surroundings more delightful, also, and your person more fragrant. Work and live.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — If in tune with your particular star, you arise feeling very happy and full of ideas for greater success. Bring your fine, constructive plans to those who can assist you with them, also financially. Tonight, be joyful.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — It will be comparatively easy now to put your house or environment in the condition you wish it. If it is necessary to go out, continue to think of home and needs for best results. Bring home some candy.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 21) — Good day to confer with any and all who can assist you in advance with greater strides and ease. Great for business of all sorts, especially selling. Show appreciation to all, and in P.M. get some fine studying done.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Your ability with little details will prove very beneficial today in helping to increase your abundance. A good time to make an accounting of your possessions, stocking up where necessary, knowing what your true position is.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — An ideal day for taking those treatments, doing those things that will bring the glow of health to your cheeks, the opposite sex to worship at your shrine. Be very sociable, ask for what you want. You shall get it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Loving research work as you do, this should be a banner day for you to delve into what you do not understand and come up with the right answers. This will help your progress immensely. Rank your good pals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are lucky today in getting a good pal to give you the data you need badly that will bring your goals as much closer than you dreamed possible. See that you comprehend every detail and then put in motion quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A splendid day for increasing prestige with general public, getting support you have coveted for so long. Impress all with your humanitarian spirit. Get your credit up to snuff, guard your good name.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Step out of monotonous existence you have made for yourself. This month looks very much brighter for you and if you but make the effort, much can be yours. Look into the daily paper for clever ideas, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Intuitively, today you know exactly how to obtain monetary support from your banker, other financier and expert in advisory capacity. See that you get value's insight into personal matters from those in authority.

If your child is born today he will be blessed with a certain indefinable something that will draw others to him or her like a magnet. However, don't fail to point out to your progeny that the most valuable things are those which are earned by the honest sweat of the brow. A good chart for the theatre, entertainment, detective work, etc. The public will react favorably to your charmer's powers.

RADIO ENGINEERS SEE TIMELY ELECTRONIC DEVICES

The U.S. answer to Russia's "Sputnik" — the "Vanguard"-man-made moon—is examined at the Institute of Radio Engineers convention-exposition in Toronto. Left to right, Dr. J. T. Henderson of Ottawa, international president of the IRE; R. M. Brophy of the defence research board, Ottawa; General Charles Foulkes, chairman, Canadian chiefs of staff, and Clare Norris, Toronto, convention general chairman. The Vanguard is expected to be launched sometime this year. It is said to house more scientific equipment than the Russian Sputnik and will be launched into outer space by an 11-ton, liquid-fuelled rocket, 70 feet long. It will travel around the earth at 10,000 miles an hour, ope.

Inside the 20-inch metal moon complex scientific instruments will be at work recarding data on temperature, radiation and other phenomena for transmission back to earth. The three-day IRE convention is the country's largest scientific assembly with hundreds of scientists and engineers attending from the U.S., Britain, Canada and Eur-

Little Benny's Notebook

I saw pop getting off the buss and I walked home with him for company, and I said, Hey pop did you notice that kid that just went passed? That was Lefty Lippert, I said.

The name seems unfamiliar, is he anyone of importance? pop said, and I said, I should say he is. He can throw 3 different kinds of curves. Any teem that has Fatty Lippert on their side is lucky, I said.

How is his school work? pop said, and I said, Kind of bum, but any kid that can pitch like that, what's the diffrence?

All the diffrence in the werld, pop said. If he continues to rest on his lorrels he'll end, by having a very unsure time of it when his lorrels start to sag. People who are satisfied with themselves usually find they are alone in their opinion. So if that Lefty boy wants to get where in life, he'd better start broadening his capabilities, he said.

Well G, pop, Lefty realizes that, so that's just what he's trying to do, I said, and pop said, I'm glad to hear it, for his sake. Do you mean he's improving his school work? he said.

No sir, he's practising throwing a baskit ball, I said, He can ever throw it in the baskit with his back terned to it. Oh boy, how do you like that for improving his capabilities? I said, and pop said, green flowers.

"A SMILE IS HER UMBRELLA"

Mrs. Pearce thanked her for the interesting and educational talk and display.

God Save the Queen was sung.

Grade 8 mothers served lunch.

Dry Weather Making Fall Plowing Difficult

TORONTO (CP) — Continued dry weather has helped farmers with their harvesting but is making fall plowing difficult, the weekly farm report of the Ontario department of agriculture said today.

Perth County pastures are getting short and dairy farmers are stepping up supplementary feedings. Corn harvesting is well advanced in Wellington County and Huron County is moving more turnips than at any previous year.

Farmers in Kent County are making excellent progress in the soybean and sugar beet harvest. Fall wheat is showing a good growth in Middlesex.

Fall plowing is nearly completed in Dundas County in Eastern Ontario but rain is needed badly and many farmers are short of water. The ground is extremely dry in Lanark.

Good quality potato crops with yields varying from good in Algoma District to below average in Kenora are reported in Northern Ontario. In Cochrane North, there is a production of about 50 per cent in marketable potatoes.

Most northern farmers have completed grain harvesting.

Open UN Debate On Syrian Crisis Before Mediation

Turks Accept King Saud's Offer But Syrians Balk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly prepared to open debate today on the Turkish - Syrian crisis without waiting for the outcome of Saudi Arabian mediation efforts.

Turkey, who has denied Syrian charges that she is about to launch a war, accepted King Saud's offer to mediate the dispute. But the Syrian government made clear it does not intend to enter such negotiations at present.

Informants said Syria pressed for an immediate UN debate on her charges Russia, who has backed the Syrian charge with claims the United States is trying to engineer a Middle East war, was said to have added her voice to the demand.

Observers concluded that the Syrians and Russians wanted to get all the propaganda capital they can from their charges before getting down to bargaining.

This belief was strengthened by the announcement from Syrian delegate Farid Zeineddine that his forces were not submitting a resolution to the assembly "as things now stand." Zeineddine said he did not think appropriate to deal with the Middle East crisis was premature.

Considerable confusion surrounded the progress of Saudi mediation moves.

The Saudi Arabian embassy in Washington announced that both Turkey and Syria had accepted the mediation offer and that a Syrian delegation would meet the king during the next two days.

Officials in Damascus meanwhile denied Syria had agreed to Saud's mediation. And a statement from the Syrian delegation to the UN said only: "Damascus government had agreed to mediation were "not in conformity with fact."

NEW YORK (AP) — The decisive Cold War battle over the Middle East seems about to be joined. For Western civilization, this is a moment for prayerful resolve.

The democratic world faces a too-to-toe struggle with communism — and a vast subdued section of the globe which President Eisenhower calls the most strategic area on earth. The winner will be the side with the strongest nerves and greatest resoluteness of purpose.

Within S. Khrushchev and his Communist cohorts are toying with world peace. One serious miscalculation — one misjudgment in the Middle East now could bring the world to the edge of disaster. This would be no Korea. Much more is at stake, including the economic health of all western Europe.

HAS THE ELEMENTS

All the elements for a little war are in evidence in the Arab world. A big war remains a possibility—though not a probable one.

But Soviet communism permeates the cabinet has authorized Men who can harness the atom and plan outer space travel are not stupid. They can control much less manageable forces: The human emotions of a highly excitable people.

There is no mystery about what Moscow is trying to accomplish in the Arab world.

The Russians do not want to start a world war. But they have gained great propaganda victories through their championship of the Arab against Israel and through recent scientific advancements. Their determination not to surrender this initiative. Soviet policy is to keep the pressures short of war, approaching as close to the brink as Moscow dares.

IMMEDIATE GOAL

It is becoming clear that one of Khrushchev's immediate goals is to force a big power meeting of heads of state giving him a psychological and diplomatic positive voice in the Arab world's destinies.

The Russians hope to force such a meeting by beating a constant tattoo on the world's nerves — and building up pressures on London and Washington by offering hope of a way out of a highly explosive situation.

From a big power meeting, the Soviets hope to push forward as the leading champions of Arab aspirations. Behind scenes they hope to push forward relentlessly with economic, military and political penetration.

Two Armed Men Get $3,000 From Norwood Bank

NORWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Two armed men held up the Royal Bank of Canada branch in this town 13 miles east of Peterborough just after 10 a.m. opening today and escaped with between $2,000 and $4,000.

Chief reports said there was no shooting.

The men drove off in a late-model car and were believed headed in the direction of Campbellford, 20 miles east of here, Ontario provincial police in Peterborough today have given descriptions of the two men and have no reason to believe this holdup has any connection with the slaying of bank manager J. J. Walter Bridges in the all-night holdup of two weeks ago of the Royal Bank branch in Bird River, 65 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

Earlier this week police in the Norwood holdup was stolen from a Peterborough hotel parking lot Monday night.

The men apparently escaped along Highway 7 but turned off just before they reached Havelock, six miles east of it.

One report was that the car had been found abandoned at Havelock.

DULLES CONFERS WITH EISENHOWER IN POLICY SURVEY

Seek Ways to Counter Russian Successes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower meets today with State Secretary Dulles to discuss moves for countering Russia's scientific advances and her diplomatic steps in the Middle East.

The meeting at the White House was part of an administration campaign already in motion of Eisenhower's conference Wednesday with British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Dulles headed to follow up the White House talk by meeting this afternoon with visiting British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd to arrange an agenda for the high-level conference.

Eisenhower is reported thinking in terms of a North Atlantic scientific pact as a step to mobilize the free world's scientific knowledge and resources.

SWEEPING PARTNERSHIP

Macmillan is understood to be seeking a far more sweeping partnership under which British and American scientists would provide up scientific tasks in the modern weapons and missiles fields.

In London, British informants said Macmillan has authorized Macmillan to swap nuclear and space secrets if the United States will agree. And to discuss a possible new approach to an East - West disarmament agreement among other things.

Both Eisenhower and Macmillan, as well as their top advisers, are reported agreed that fear over swapping of scientific secrets is imperative in order to maintain the West's overall industrial-military advantage over the Communist world.

Dulles already has given notice that the administration favors revising the 1946 Atomic Energy Act which now forbids such scientific exchanges, especially those dealing with design and construction of atomic-hydrogen weapons.

$35,000,000 Will Be Contributed To Colombo Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will contribute $35,000,000 to the Colombo Plan in 1958, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today in the Commons.

This amount is about $600,000 more than the Canadian contribution this year to the plan for economic development in south and southeast Asia.

It is subject to the approval of parliament. The move is not expected to be any objection by the opposition to the expenditure.

Of the $35,000,000 contribution, $2,000,000 will be spent on Canadian wheat for West Pakistan.

University of Toronto Will Build Nuclear Reactor to Train Students

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto announced plans today to construct a sub-critical nuclear reactor on its midtown campus to simulate for study "problems that might arise in working with a full-scale reactor."

The reactor "will not contain enough uranium to cause a chain reaction," the university said; thus it is called "a subcritical reactor."

The project will cost $439,000. The program will be in effect early in 1958, the university said in a statement.

Construction for the building of the reactor was announced today in Ottawa by the atomic energy control board. The board's announcement said "permission to construct, operate and maintain will not be granted until it has been completed to the satisfaction of the board and until detailed operating procedures have been submitted by the university and approved by the board."

The university said the reactor "is basically a first sub-critical reactor for educational purposes" and is planned to "educate increasing numbers of Canadians in nuclear science."

"Special electronic equipment will be provided so that students may study safe operating conditions simulated and faced problems that might arise in working with a full-scale reactor," the university said.

The reactor will be installed for use in the faculty of applied science and engineering's new chemical engineering laboratory in the Wallberg building at College and Spadina Avenue streets in midtown Toronto.

COST NEAR $500,000

The whole equipment will cost $439,000 with heavy water acquisitions over $200,000 of this, the university said.

In addition Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, wholly-owned by the federal government, will supply on loan three tons of uranium worth $100,000. A radium-beryllium neutron source will be obtained from the commercial products division of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

The reactor will be built by Canadian Limited, the Canadian subsidiary of General Dynamics Corp.

Govt. Officially Announces Plan to Boost Pensions $9

OTTAWA (CP)—A $9 monthly increase in old age pensions to $55, with matching boosts in shared federal-provincial aid for the needy aged, blind and disabled is planned by the federal government.

The government disclosed details of its plans, forecast some time ago, when it gave notice today of resolutions preliminary to bills to be introduced this session.

Later, under Commons questioning, Health Minister Green, government house leader, said the legislation will be proceeded with after the November 12 election. Health Minister Monteith declined to state when the increases would take effect; he said the date will be shown in the legislation when introduced.

The increases by the Progressive Conservative administration would be second this year, following a boost to $46 from $40 in the social security programs made by the former Liberal government effective January 1.

The hike to $55 from $46 would apply to these programs:

1. The universal age pension paid to all 70 and over.

2. Old age assistance to the needy between 65 and 69.

3. Allowances to the needy blind between 21 and 69.

4. Allowances to needy persons totally and permanently disabled between 18 and 65.

The resolutions also disclosed the government's intention to boost the means test ceiling for the last three programs by $120 for single pensioners and $240 for married persons.

Cost of these programs is shared with the provincial governments, split 50-50 for old age assistance and disability payments. In the case of blind allowances, the federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost.

Presumably the provincial governments will also agree to pay their share of the increase before it goes into effect in May legislation provides.

Proposed changes in residence qualifications for the universal old age pensions were also announced. To qualify, recipients will need only 10 years' residence in Canada, instead of 20 as at present. The length of permitted temporary absences from Canada, which a pensioner may make without a cut in pension, will be cut to three months from six.

A similar reduction from 20 to 10 years in the basic residence requirement for old age security and for old age assistance payments to those 65-69.

The proposed boost in the means test ceiling is greater than in the planned increases in pensions in three programs of aid to the needy. The ceilings operate to cut off payments to those with income exceeding the ceiling, the payments are reduced accordingly.

Mission Accomplished British Press Verdict on Royal Visit

LONDON (Reuters) — Mission accomplished.

That is Britain's verdict on the royal tour as reflected in the press today while Queen Elizabeth winged home across the Atlantic and the whirlwind 10-day visit to Canada and the United States.

British newspapers say the Queen success fully cemented Britain's friendship.

The Queen Mother and Prime Minister Macmillan hedged the list of official handshakers at Edmonton at London airport where the Queen and Prince Philip were to arrive. But the royal children—Prince Charles, 8, and Princess Anne, 7—were expected at the airport.

Charles has been given time off from Cheam boarding school in Hampshire. The little princess was to be "at the week home home" list.

Named for the airport delegation was Commissioner for Canada George Drew and the Earl of Home, secretary of state for Commonwealth relations.

A big crowd was expected to greet the Queen and her husband when they arrive by car at Buckingham Palace.

Meanwhile, the British press commented fully on the queen's tour.

The Daily Telegraph says editorially, "She is received with a warmth of respect and admiration that must have gone far to heal the wounds of the perilous disagreements of last year."

The Liberal Daily Post says: Macmillan "is a fortunate man to get away to leave this evening" by plane for Washington and crucial talks with President Eisenhower.

The Post explains that Macmillan is going to Washington and Ottawa will take him to "lands where so strong a mood of affection for the Queen has been established for him by the visit of his sovereign."

Newspapers blossom out with big headlines over stories of the Queen's visits by Prince Philip and Prince Philip.

"Razzmatazz on Broadway," says The Daily Express. "Belle of New York," says The Daily Mirror.

Britain, U.S. Move to Restore Grand Alliance's Old Power

By GOERGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United Kingdom and the United States moved this week to restore to its full power the grand alliance between the two great English-speaking allies.

That is the real significance behind the visit Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan will pay this week to President Eisenhower to discuss what is officially described as world problems "of active concern to both of us."

This meeting is of great importance to Canada and the rest of the Commonwealth. It will mean, if it proceeds as planned, the full restoration of the Anglo-American relationship so tragically strained when Winston Churchill went to war against Egypt a year ago—and consulting or advising her U.S. ally.

Significantly, too, the meeting will be held in the same month months ago, comes on the heels of the royal visit to the United States, a tour which has done much to revive, in the public mind, the great bonds of friendship and a common heritage which the American people have with their English cousins.

Although the agenda for the Macmillan-Eisenhower talks has not yet been announced officially, it is known that they will cover a broad front in the east - west cold war strategy—psychological warfare, diplomatic activity, economic relations and military cooperation.

It has been suggested in some segments of the U.S. press that Macmillan will press for a wider exchange of scientific information between the two countries. However, it is quite the reverse.

This is no hat-in-hand visit by the British prime minister. He comes as an equal and it can be said that he is fully aware that Eisenhower administration, particularly in the light of Russian achievements, is very anxious for successful launching of a space satellite, does not need to be sold on the need for a greater pooling of British and American scientific resources.

This is clearly indicated in the toasts which Eisenhower proposed to Queen Elizabeth during the state dinner on last week.

Eisenhower told the Queen his faith in the future of the two great countries and the whole English-speaking world "is unshakable unimpeachable." He then went on to say that the two countries "are separated" by local concerns, had the power and resources to "challenge" scientists, he said, "must work together."

Dulles, speaking with a deep sincerity that impressed those who heard him, went even further. He said there existed between the two countries "a solid foundation to model many cooperative efforts, which we shall indeed be forced to undertake jointly with the new problems of the future." He expressed his belief that the two countries would in the future "more fully the great potentials which we jointly possess."

Pledges such as those are not given lightly, even at state dinners where expressions of friendship are traditionally exaggerated. Dulles' toasts must have been studied and weighed carefully in the state department beforehand.

Queen And Philip Home After Triumphant Tour Of Canada And U.S.

Princess Anne First on Plane to Greet Parents

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived back in England today from their triumphant tour of Canada and the United States.

The giant DC-7C touched down exactly on schedule at 4.01 (11.01 p.m. EDT).

Princess Anne was at the airport to welcome them as was Prime Minister Macmillan, who leaves in a few hours for Washington talks with President Eisenhower.

Prince Charles was not given time off from his boarding school at Cheam.

CAME FROM RACES

The Queen Mother went to the airport from Ascot racecourse track where she had spent the afternoon.

The Queen Mother and excited Princess Anne walked up the steps to greet the royal couple at the plane. The little princess tried to run ahead of her grandmother but was restrained by a nurse.

After three minutes in the plane the grandmother and daughter came out to be greeted by a group of ministers lined up at the foot of the gangway.

The Queen gave the seven-year-old girl a kiss and a warm motherly hug. Anne, all but jumping up and down in excitement, then led the first member of the Royal Family to board the plane.

Through the windows speckled with rain the little blonde princess wrapped in her mother's arms.

BANNER PRESS PLAY

Tremendous cheers broke out as the royal plane taxied in with the royal standard flying.

After greeting her mother, the Queen had not been for 4 days, the princess kissed Philip. Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip put a story-book finish to their 10-day visit to Canada and the United States by riding in a few hectic hours in Manhattan, which ended with the royal couple, still in their glittering evening finery, climbing aboard the royal yacht Britannia at 2.30 a.m. EDT.

They reached New York's International airport almost an hour behind schedule after a 15-mile drive through a cheering motorcycle escort. The drive took them from a full-dress Commonwealth ball at the Waldorf-Astoria dinner described by one

NEW YORK (CP)—Queen Elizabeth, nearing "the end of a wonderful journey," was guest Monday night at a glittering formal dinner in which Anglo-American ties were more strongly expressed than in many a year of the British-United States alliance.

The Waldorf - Astoria dinner, with the Pilgrim Society and the English-Speaking Union as hosts, was a spectacular climax to the visit to Canada and the U.S. of the Queen and Prince Philip.

More than 1,400 attended the $5-a-plate affair.

The two organizations, with branches on both sides of the Atlantic, are dedicated to furthering Anglo-American relationships, and the welcome their members and guests gave the royal couple spoke volumes for the success of these efforts.

BURST OF APPLAUSE

The Queen brought the jam-packed ballroom to its feet in a burst of applause and cries of admiration when she entered followed in a diamond tiara with sapphire and diamond necklace and earrings and a pink, pale green, pale blue pailettes and tinted jewels.

The tiara and dress itself, as well as the accompanying jewelry sparkled in the glare of television and movie camera arc lights and contrasted with the black and white formal attire of the male guests.

The Queen wore the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter and the aids of her high station was huge in the same color and set off by a crown outlined in diamond lights against the black backdrops.

Adding to the color were seven of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment), from the 2nd Battalion stationed at Cornwallis, N.S. They wore towering black feathered headdresses and the kilts.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Canada's fastest assigning Army, 18 strong, visited Buffalo Monday in a side trip to the first vacation of all Mrs. Ruth Trembley have had in 11 years of marriage. Highlight of the day was an appearance on the Helen Nevile TV show over WGR-TV. The Trembleys have had 12 sets of twins and five other children 10 years. One child died.

PRECEDE PARTY

The seven pipers preceded the royal party through the six other guests present for the dinner guests before filing into the grand ballroom to pipe the party to the high tables.

At the end of the dinner the pipers played a farewell lament as the royal party left the ballroom.

During the dinner the guest sat at a high-backed chair. At her right was Dr. Henry M. Wriston, former U.S. ambassador to London and president of the English-Speaking Union, and on her right was Hugh Bullock, president of the Pilgrims.

WONDERFUL TRIP

NEW YORK (CP) — Queen Elizabeth Monday night attended a ball just before leaving for England, and kept her for smiles for veteran soldiers.

The Queen and Prince Philip arrived late at the ball because of a reception earlier and a long full day and a formal dinner, but lost no time in getting down to business after the ballroom floor they arrived.

More than 4,000 guests waited with goodnatured impatience for the royal couple to arrive at the ball, but any displeasure was quickly disappeared when the Queen and prince appeared. They walked on red carpet between twin guards of honor of the Royal Canadian Navy and the U.S. 7th Regiment, in whose armory the ball was held.

The couple arrived at the armory at 11:23 p.m.—55 minutes late—and left the ball room at 11:59 p.m. In that time she spent 25 minutes chatting with veterans of the wars.

There was no dancing for the royal couple, although Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians played special renditions for the Queen, including her favorite Fascination.

While the Queen appeared to talk seriously with the men, the prince joked with the veterans' yarns with happy chuckles on both sides.

It was a ball where ladies in humble dress mixed with those in glittering gowns. Ambassadors and their ladies mixed with those who just had to be content to see the Queen and her husband.

The atmosphere was formal until the final burst of music when the Queen and Prince Philip began their walk from the ballroom. Then there was an explosive burst of excitement, as people rushed to get close to the saying goodbye. Actually, the royal couple stopped in an anteroom for some more minutes before leaving at 12:30 a.m. for the airport and their transatlantic plane.

"I'll bet she gets on that airplane," said one lady, recalling the fantastic security precautions

LIBERAL CLAIMS END OF CLOSURE MEANS ANARCHY

Would Let Minority Stalemate Majority

OTTAWA (CP) — Newcomers have had their day in the Commons.

Of 17 speakers in Monday's throne speech debate, nine were new members.

But it was a seasoned member, Lucien Cardin (L — Richelieu-Verchieres), who said that the way to anarchy will be opened if Prime Minister Diefenbaker, as he promised last week he'll do at the first opportunity, abolishes debate - limiting closure from Commons rules.

It was the Liberals' application of closure in last year's pipeline debate that created one of the bitterest and noisiest scenes in parliament history. The debate-limiting rule was applied against Progressive Conservative and CCF members opposing the Liberal government's pipeline bill.

HAS RIGHTS

"The minority in this House has rights," Mr. Cardin, former parliamentary assistant for external affairs, said Monday. "But then so has the majority."

The purpose of the opposition in the pipeline debate "was not to stop the pipeline bill but to stop it and to block it." He added his remarks:

"And if it should come to pass in this House that legislation considered by the majority to be in the interests of the country can be effectively blocked by the minority, then there will no longer be democracy in this country."

Ten Members Finkle Family Overcome by Gas Fumes, Two Admitted to Hospital

Ten members of the W. E. Finkle family, 231 William St., narrowly escaped asphyxiation by coal gas this morning when fumes from the furnace seeped up through the house effecting the parents and their eight children.

Two of the Finkle children, Francis Raymond, 13, and Paul Martin, 8, were admitted to the Belleville General Hospital suffering from the effects of the gas.

Mrs. Finkle told The Intelligencer this morning that all family members were okay with the exception of headaches.

The gas fumes were discovered about six o'clock this morning when one of the children got out of bed and fell to the floor from dizziness as result of the coal gas.

The noise awakened other members of the family and firemen and Dr. F. R. Ross were called. City police also went to the Finkle residence.

Mrs. Finkle said that apparently bricks in the chimney had dropped inside cutting off the draft and blocking the escape of the gas which seeped up into the house.

Smiths Falls Confers Degree On Foresters

Court Bellevville No. 736 of the Canadian Order of Foresters in Smiths Falls was crowded at one of the largest initiatory degrees ever held in the Belleville area. The degree was beautifully exemplified by Canadian Order of Foresters Smiths Falls degree team, captained by Bro. Wood, Court Hope No. 115.

They were ably assisted by Court Belleville and Court Friendly City officers.

The evening was rounded out by a sumptuous supper enjoyed by visitors to Bro. Don Hall, chairman of the committee, and his aides.

Chief Ranger Doug Moxam expressed his appreciation and called on the various speakers.

Guest speaker was Bro. Gord Thorne, 3rd member of the executive committee of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Brantford, who delivered an inspiring message to the brethren.

Bro. Thorne, a resident of Smiths Falls, spoke of the wonderful work of the order in its drive to increase the size of the Canadian Cancer Society, and then, speaking directly to the newly initiated members, he left no doubt in their minds as to the benefits that they would be if they followed the broad principles of this great order.

Bro. Ross Farrell, Court Stanley No. 199, Kingston, Ont., an erstwhile Forester, who has occupied every chair as an officer, gave a short but very interesting talk on the growth of good derived from the order all across Canada.

Chief Ranger Bro. Walls of Court Hope No. 115, Smiths Falls, expressed his appreciation at having been invited to come to Belleville and congratulated the new members.

Courts Belleville and Friendly City were assisted in organizing the evening by Prov. Mngr. Lloyd Walters and Dist. Mngr. Ross Rutan.

Hastings-Frontenac Election Assured With Nomination of Labor Editor From Toronto

MADOC — Dr. Sidney Smith, recently appointed Minister of External Affairs, will not receive an acclamation to the House of Commons as anticipated, in the riding of Hastings - Frontenac as had been generally expected.

Yesterday at the official nomination meeting held at Madoc Armouries a last-minute nomination saw Rene J. Jutras, 40-year-old Toronto editor of The Workers Vanguard, enter the field on a Labor ticket.

The nomination was filed only a few minutes before closing time and ruled out the expected acclamation for Dr. Smith who was chosen last week as the Progressive Conservative candidate.

Only a few persons were present at returning officer N. L. B. Coburn of Enterprise accepted Mr. Dowson's nomination and a few minutes later declared nominations closed.

One of the spectators was Senator George S. White, who gave up his seat as Hastings - Frontenac member to make way for Dr. Smith in the House of Commons.

Although stating he had no direct party affiliation, Mr. Dowson, following the nomination meeting, said that if elected he would align himself with the CCF at Ottawa if that was agreeable to that party.

Mr. Jutras had decided to contest the Hastings - Frontenac by-election, Mr. Dowson said he had received a telegram which he learned that Dr. Smith would otherwise receive an acclamation.

"It should be the policy of Labor never to give a Tory candidate an acclamation," he said.

He said that within a few days he expected to set up a campaign headquarters, probably at Madoc and would conduct an all-out campaign. He admitted he had no organization within the riding but said he expected to recruit such workers from within the riding to assist his own organization.

The foreign policy of the Conservatives and the Liberals, which saw Canada's economic policy dictated by the cold war, would be one of the issues of his campaign. Drastic curtailment of military expenditures, with the money saved to be used for more progressive movements, would also be urged, he said.

Mr. Smith, 60, has never before sought elected office, but Mr. Dowson is a familiar figure in Toronto, where he contested the mayor's office four times and finished well behind Mayor Nathan Phillips in the last municipal election.

He favors a cut in defence spending, since there is "no defence from the intercontinental missiles," recognition of Communist China and an end to H-bomb tests.

He would call for Canada's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the basis that it is a war alli-

Local C.A.R.S. Branch Expands To Comprise All Quinte District

The work of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, under the sponsorship of the Rotary Clubs of Belleville Club for the past two years, has reached such proportions here that a meeting representing the entire Quinte district has been announced. It will be known as the "Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Quinte Unit."

This branch will serve the district which will include Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Tweed and Stirling.

Pending the building up of membership the following board has been appointed to carry on: President, Ross Reid, 224 Foster Ave., Belleville; vice-president, Clifford Bush, 159 Victoria Ave., Trenton and secretary-treasurer, E. G. Gurnett, 205 Dufferin Ave., Belleville.

Medical Advisory Board — Dr. J. S. Lorance, and Dr. L. Bruce Cronk of Belleville; Dr. W. A. McDonald and Dr. D. E. Cockell, of Trenton.

Directors—John C. Garrett, Glen Miller, Geo. Simpson, Mrs. Hall and J. C. Demers, Mrs. J. A. Jarvis, Mrs. J. A. Layton, Mrs. Enos David, all of Belleville.

SMALL FEE

Any resident may become a member of the society and the branch upon payment of an annual membership fee of $1.

An invitation is extended to all who are interested in this community service, to lend their support by becoming a member of the organization. Membership may be arranged through any of the directors of the branch.

The Rotary Club undertook in February, 1955, to inaugurate this area's community service with the aim of alleviating some of the distress, and to do what could be done to give relief to the sufferers from rheumatism and arthritis in this district. Prompt treatment in the early stages of these diseases is the main hope of preventing the crippling disabilities which invariably follow neglect.

With this end in view the Rotary Club arranged with the Ontario Division of C.A.R.S. to be responsible for the employment of a physiotherapist with equipment and transportation for a two-year period while the service was proving itself, after which it would be turned over as a community project to the areas being benefitted.

COBY BORNE BY CLUB

During 1955-56 the Rotary Club, assisted by some governmental grants in the first year, bore the full cost of providing this service to the community. During these two years a total of over 2,400 treatments were given to patients, mostly from Belleville, but also from Trenton, Stirling, Frankford, Foxboro and the surrounding community.

Patients receiving treatment are referred to the unit by their attending physician. These treatments are continued as long as necessary, and from time to time patients are able to perform the services for themselves. While a minimum charge is made for treatment, no one is refused by reason of inability to pay.

While under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club the CARS rendered outstanding service in the city and the surrounding district in bringing comfort and relief to arthritic and rheumatic patients.

The Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is one of the community services which will be supported by the community Chest Campaign. It will be requiring support for that portion of its expenditures which will be made within the city.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market although at a lower level, today showed some signs of steadying in fairly active morning trading.

Most sections were slightly lower but the list of declines was nearly narrower than in Monday's sharp plunge.Industrials lost 1¾ points on their index.

Base metals were a point lower on index, touching a three-year low. This section had a greater list of losses than industrials. Western oils managed to gain one-half point on their index, largely mainly because of the action of senior issues.

The 11 a.m. volume of 967,000 shares was the second-heaviest in two months. Monday's was 676,000 at the same time.

Aluminium gained a point at 28 among industrials while several other issues added fractions. Page-Hersey, Noranda Mines and International Paper, however, each lost four points for a single share.

Steep Rock and Hoyle, each with 40-cent losses, were the leading base metal issues. Canada Cobalt, Chibougamau, Sherritt and Cassiar were each off 20 cents while Consolidated Mining was off at $1.90 among the lower uranium.

Drury S. Denyes, Treasurer, Named City Manager by 8-4 Vote of Council Mon. Night

Having acted in the position since last June, council councillor-elect Dennis H. Herring, City Treasurer Drury S. Denyes was named to the combined post of City Manager - Treasurer by council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

The appointment was approved by by-law, introduced by Alderman Chas. L. Hyde who two weeks ago gave notice of motion that he would bring in the by-law.

The appointment was approved 8-4 on a recorded vote after a motion to defer the by-law until after the municipal elections was defeated by a similar majority. The dual position of City Manager-Treasurer will carry a salary of $6,500.

Alderman Gerald Hyde sought to have the by-law tabled until after the municipal election at this time; a referendum on whether a city manager form of government will be placed before the people.

Otherwise Ald. Hyde said council could be in the peculiar and obvious position of having the ratepayers vote on having the manager form of government.

Alderman Les. Digby took the same view and referred to the "gross discourtesy" if Mr. Denyes was appointed and then the people started voting for a form of government down.

Ald. Chas. Hyde, however, felt Ald. Hyde was asking appointment of Mr. Denyes was the proper thing.

EXAMINED ALL APPLICANTS

He said that during the past four months council had received 24 applications for the position of city manager. Council had met in camera three times to discuss the matter and had carefully examined all applications.

It had been decided there were only three applicants who could be considered and these were at the last minute had withdrawn, leaving the choice to two men only, Mr. Denyes and Edward Island, and the other Drury Denyes. At a caucus meeting Mr. Denyes was unanimously by a large majority of the 12 votes cast.

As acting city manager for the past four months Ald. Hyde said Mr. Denyes had demonstrated he was well qualified to render the city effective and satisfactory service.

Mr. Denyes had re-organized all city clerical staff, city hall and public works and Ald. Hyde said there appeared to be complete harmony now and all among all city employees. He was confident these conditions would continue.

He claimed the result of the referendum to be placed before the electors would have no bearing whatever on the appointment as it was merely to get the opinion of the result a senior official was required to carry out.

"And Mr. Denyes appears to be the choice of the majority of council," he said.

REVIEWED BACKGROUND

Ald. Dr. John Stock was critical of the by-law appointment saying he felt that Mr. Denyes was doing a full time job as city treasurer, "and doing it well." He said he could do the two jobs adequately "but I should go along" with the appointment.

Alderman Wm. Argue reviewed the background of the new city manager form of government in Belleville and thought council should not turn out as well as was hoped, said however that it had been experimental.

With 80 per cent of the city tax dollar being spent by bodies outside city council, Ald. Argue said that there was a limit to what could be expected from a city manager.

He said council was saving money by making the dual appointment. Mr. Denyes had ability and would make a good administrator.

Alderman Frank Grandame said that when council first considered city manager form of government it felt the position demanded certain qualifications.

"And now we are asking a man to do two jobs because it is saving the city money. If that's the way you are going to save money, it is the wrong way to do it," he said.

Mayor Jane Forrester corrected what she termed certain inaccurate statements of previous speakers. She said the city had received 18 applications for the position of city manager not 24 as had been stated.

MAYOR CORRECTS STATEMENT

And referring to Ald. Argue's statement that 80 per cent of the city tax dollar was spent outside of council, she noted that hospital and public health expenditures did not come out of the city tax dollar.

She said the combined position of city manager-treasurer was not what was looked for in Belleville.

In view of the fact that the people were to be asked whether a city manager form of government was favored, she declared that the by-law was premature.

On a recorded vote the motion to table the by-law was lost.

Favoring the motion were Mayor Jane Forrester and Ald. Digby Grandame and G. Hyde.

Ald. G. Hyde says he hoped his vote on the matter was not considered as being one against Mr. Denyes but that he was opposed to the by-law appointing him. Had the by-law contained one reason was that he felt it was not the proper time, and the second was that the position of city manager was being devaluated from $10,000 to $935 per year.

Ald. Digby said he was opposed to combining the two jobs. He said the city auditors had advised against it and also he felt that the job of city manager was more than a part time job.

Speaking in favor of the by-law, Ald. Moxam asked what would be the next action if council had decided on hiring the man from Prince Edward Island. Ald. Moxam said he would tell him that the matter of city manager form of government was to be voted on?"

Ald. C. D. Tice declared that with his business interests he had always been nearest home. He said there were two main jobs here. Mr. Denyes could not carry out both positions, and said his successor must be found to head municipally . operated hockey team was a demonstration of his ability.

Ald. R. Collins termed the referendum a farce and declared the people was the red herring being drawn across the by-law appointing Mr. Denyes.

He declared there was no practical reason for separating the two. He said no one would dream of reducing council below 12 aldermen and a mayor, while there was nothing to prevent hiring of a city manager at any time.

The by-law carried 8-4 with Ald. Chas. Hyde, Collins, C. L. Hyde, Moxam, Stock, Temple, Tice and Whalen voting in favor. Opposing were Mayor Forrester, and Ald. Digby, Grandame and Gerald Hyde.

Can Operate Parking Lot On Fee Basis

City Council Monday night passed the way to legalize operation of its own municipal parking lot on a fee basis."

Hitherto the zoning by-law prohibited the operation of a parking lot in the downtown area where customers are charged for parking.

Council apparently has not yet decided whether its Pinnacle Street municipal parking lot be rented to operators or be operated by a paid attendant. Only two weeks ago council approved a by-law for the hiring of a paid attendant was tabled for action at this meeting.

At the moment the city public works department is regrading and gravelling the city Public Utilities Commission is constructing a retaining wall on the north and the parking lot in return for a narrow strip of property along Pinnacle where their driveway. Also a low concrete wall will be built around the lot along Pinnacle Street, this to be done by the public works department.

No Parking Areas Named

Acting in the interests of safety and for the free flow of traffic, the Belleville police commission Monday night added two more no parking areas in semi-business area.

Council passed recommendations calling for no parking on the west side of West Moira street for a distance 100 feet south from North Front street and on the west side of Coleman street for distances of 40 feet north and south of Henry street.

John P. Chipman

Personnel Officer

The appointment of John P. Chipman as personnel officer for Ontario Hydro's East Central Region was announced by Dr. A. Connell, regional manager.

Chipman joined Ontario Hydro in 1947 upon graduation from the University of Toronto as a Bachelor of Arts. He has served in a number of responsible personnel positions with the Commission and, prior to his new appointment, had been personnel officer at the Sir John Beck-Niagara Generating Station No. 2 development. Mr. Chipman succeeds P. T. Selbert, who will be retiring shortly.

District Home, School Assocs. Attend Meeting

Belleville Home and School Associations, as well as Shannonville, Point Anne and North Trenton associations were represented by two or more members at the recent district conference held at the New Memorial Centre in Peterborough.

Theme of the conference was "Citizenship in School". After registration council president Mrs. Peterborough, assisted by Mrs. R. Jones, vice-president of Belleville council. There were also greetings from the mayor of Peterborough, and the chairman of the Board of Education.

A well-planned program followed on subjects of special interest to Home and School members.

The address was given by Mr. R. D. Brown, principal P.C.V.S. on "The Philosophy of Secondary School Education", saying that having all people educated for the same people by those in power so that there is a sort of thing called democracy, the broad idea of leaving all decisions to the child, a total impossibility and unfair to those producing good citizens. He suggested that the "middle road" be taken. Guidance should be given a choice between two alternatives and taught to take responsibility.

Mrs. C. G. Irvine, Niagara Falls, president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School, in her address, emphasized the advantages of having Home and School Associations in all schools for better understanding between teachers, parents and children. She stressed the importance of good programs at meetings with group participation.

Mrs. A. Cropper from St. Catharines, chairman of leadership training, took the study of the work of the councils, and urged the association presidents to encourage members to attend council meetings as that is where the work of education is interpreted and ideas exchanged, and council and associations alike are strengthened by so doing.

A well stocked publications display was in evidence on tables on the mezzanine floor, and many books and pamphlets were purchased by the local association meetings.

The conference ended with Mr. D. J. Hynes, superintendent of Peterborough public schools, summarizing the day's activities.

Lakeland Gas Will Be Asked For Co-operation

Lakeland Natural Gas now installing gas mains in various parts of the city, will be asked to delay installation in the downtown business section of the city until after the Christmas season.

It is understood that it would take approximately five weeks to install the mains in the downtown section.

Alderman Gerald Hyde brought the matter up for discussion at last night's council meeting, pointing out that digging up of the pavement would cause a traffic hazard which in turn would be detrimental to city merchants during the busy Christmas shopping period.

City Manager Drury S. Denyes said he would discuss the matter with the gas company. He pointed out that the gas company has a contract called for installation of the mains to be completed in the city within a certain date and construction of the main feed line outside the city.

City to Take Prompt Action On Sidewalk

The city will take prompt action in construction of a cinder sidewalk along the south side of Coleman Street as a safety measure for children and other pedestrians using the roadway.

Cost of the sidewalk from Front St. to the Quinte Secondary School is estimated at $2,000, this to include cost of tiling. A recommendation to proceed immediately with the work was passed at Monday night's council.

Earlier in council Albert Gazely, spokesman for a Frank Street group, urged council to take had urged early action on construction of the walk, stressing the danger from traffic to children and other pedestrians forced to use the busy artery.

"There has been much talk about the final width which College Street should be, but regardless of the width we must have a walk. Get the children off the road," he urged.

City Engineer Charles Mott said the contractor was ready to commence the work almost immediately.

Local Boy Scouts Assoc. Approves Slate of Officers, Chris F. Leggat President

The annual meeting of the Belleville Boy Scouts Association was held last night in the Kinsmen Centre and was highlighted when the report of a nominating committee for the proposal of a slate of new officers met unanimous approval.

All reports showed a very successful year for Scouting in Belleville.

Officers for the 1957-58 period: hon. pres., Lieut. Col. P. H. Wills; president, C. F. Leggat; vice-president, F. J. Lancaster; secretary, John Hodgson.

Members of the executive committee: A. R. Symons, G. McIntosh, J. A. Irwin, J. W. Watson, L. Monteith, Dr. H. Craig, A. C. Lewis, W. W. Hurst, R. D. Arnott, Stuart Reid, Owen D. Sloan, Stuart, J. W. Deacon, B. Thompson, R. Munro, B. R. Collins, E. Fairman, H. Fuke, A. Wolfenden, A. Mercier, W. Boyle, A. J. Clare Shiels and Mrs. Hall.

The 1956-57 president, Stuart Robb, thanked members of the Association for their support and added, "there is a continuing need for more and more leaders and workers in the Scouting movement. We have reached the saturation point with 1,200 boys enrolled, one in 20, of our people in Scouting. These are your children we are serving. Can we do more and help us?"

Archie S. Lewis, regional commissioner, announced that he had appointed the retiring president chairman of the upcoming committee of Quinte Region.

COMMISSIONER TO RESIGN

Members of the Association were saddened to hear District Commissioner O. C. Owen say, because of ill health, he was forced to resign from his post. A successor will be named by provincial council.

It was proposed that the assistant district commissioner F. Cubs, P. H. Hixon, be recommended for the post.

Mr. Owen said it would like to pay tribute to my assistant district commissioners, district commissioners, group committee chairmen, all leaders and assistants; the president, district and group committee members of the Local Association. Their co-operation and loyalty has been firm pillars of support to me during the past year.

"I wish to assure all my friends and associates that my interest in Scouting will not diminish and that I stand ready at all times to assist in any way possible the further growth of the Scout movement."

AWARD CERTIFICATES

The regional commissioner, Mr. Lewis, brought greetings from provincial headquarters and the Canadian council.

"Scouting efforts in some quarters have been the weakest links. Let's keep Scouting centred around the boys. Let's regain the 'Scouting Spirit' tacks' and earning a few more proficiency badges."

At the conclusion the area district Cubmaster, J. Townsend presented certificates for completing parts one and two of his Wood Badge. He must wait completion of his assistant district commissioner for Scouts T. L. Boyle hoped to see the number of proficiency badges earned by Belleville Scouts increase this year and also hinted there would be room for an increase in Scout enrolments.

The regional field commissioner, Mr. Lewis, told the Association leaders should pay more attention to inexpensive but effective training programs and activities than organizing games and parties. Scouting as a character building activity was placed on the ideals of Scouting as Canada's finest and most powerful weapon in this century.

The field commissioner stressed a need for directing Scouts to look farther afield than the city limits and start to believe that Scouting is purely an institution confined to this district.

"BIG BUSINESS"

P. H. Allcock, assistant district commissioner for Cubs said: "Scouting in Belleville is big business and with organizational requirements, is big business. Something like the training of our population have endorsed Scouting."

R. W. Boyle, the Association's representative to the Community Chest, told the meeting that this year's campaign will seek to meet its $35,000 objective.

The objective has never been reached in Belleville and we are very anxious to see it reached this year," he said. If it is successful, other organizations which are not in the campaign this year will come in next year," he said.

WILL PRESENT CHARTER

The charter for the 18th Parkdale group arrived and will be formally presented in a few weeks by Chris Leggat.

A. S. Lewis, regional commissioner, gave an interesting account of the World Jamboree in England this summer. Roman Catholic priests and two Protestant ministers, all leaders.

Canadian Scouts, he said, were easily distinguished from the thousands of others by their green shirts and tents. The Canadian boys made front page headlines in the camp newspaper when they served a pancake breakfast to 3,000 visitors in 90 minutes. Forty-eight fry pans were used over primus stoves and pancakes returned out at the rate of one every second. The final count was 7,000 pancakes served and 40 gallons of coffee.

Mr. Lewis described the immense size of the camp grounds and sprinkled "a few humorous incidents" in his address. He recalled sending through a sick Scout to the French-Canadian Scout who had fallen sound asleep under a tree only he was unconscious. The ambulance attendant thought the Scout was rushed to the first aid tent, where he was awakened by a dose of salts and then an injection of penicillin.

CHIVALRY IN REVERSE

On another occasion, a leader was trying to figure out how he could cross a stream without getting his feet wet when an Australian girl named Bertha Wilby came along, picked him up and slung him across her back and waded to the other side of the stream, where she planted him safely on terra firma.

Mr. Lewis proudly recalled that Scout John Churchill of the 1st Foxboro Troop was chosen as a "typical Canadian Scout" to meet the Queen.

A group of Quinte district Scouts appeared on "live" BBC television in a winter scene, complete with parkas, artificial snow, snow shoes and camping equipment.

Bike By-Law Repealed by City Council

The city bicycle by-law requiring owners to purchase a licence each year will be repealed, it was decided by members of city council. Members voted Monday night to repeal the by-law.

The bicycle by-law first came up for discussion in council several weeks ago when members voted to increase the annual license fee to $1.50.

However, before the amended by-law was brought in for final approval a report from the police department caused a change of mind on the part of council resulting on the decision to repeal.

Last night when the matter was again discussed Alderman Gerald Hyde claimed council was passing up its responsibility which it owed to children for protection against possible theft. The money realized from sale of licences could be used partly for an educational program teaching children safety.

"Alderman Gerald Hyde also thought repeal of the by-law is a backward step. "There ought to be some check which police can make," he said.

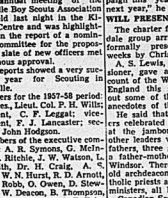
Police Blotter

Keys left in cars made things easier for thieves in Belleville and Trenton last night with vehicles being stolen in each centre.

The Belleville car was later found abandoned on a different part of the city after the theft. No vehicle is still missing.

Together with Alderman J. G. Fowler, 8 Tracey street reported a company car stolen from in front of 7 Tracey street, Belleville.

Early today the vehicle was found abandoned on Bleecker street.



During the night a 1955 model auto was stolen in Trenton.

Five Belleville dog owners within the past week have paid fines for "agreeing to acquire a 1957 tag for their pets.

City dog catcher Charles Thompson has spent a number of days being picked up for running at large. Complaints are being registered of the loose nature upsetting garbage pails during the night.

Film on Ecuador Will Open Series

Eric Pavel will open the Kiwanis Club World Travel and Adventure series on Thursday evening, October 24th, at the Collegiate Auditorium, with his latest film, "Ecuador—Gem of the Andes." Mr. Pavel replaces Robert Friars who is unable to present his film "Macoona Holiday" due to illness.

While still a young man, Eric Pavel has a world of experience in the film-lecture field. He speaks several languages having in perfect English, was born in Bulgaria in 1919 and was educated in England until the University of Birmingham was bombed during World War II. From there he moved to Switzerland, where he earned his degree in engineering from the University of Zurich, and one in economics from the University of Geneva. For years he worked in the Scientific Institute of Photography of the University of Zurich, where he got his start in the field of photography.

In Ecuador, Mr. Pavel has photographed the largest banana plantation in the world. He visits the Andes mountains and the typical Spanish towns with their churches and monasteries. Crossing the Equator is a new experience for him and he climbs from sea level to 11,500 feet.

The complete Kiwanis series consists of six travelogues in'all —starting on October 24th and ending March 13th. A limited number of tickets will be available for sale on Thursday evening.

Big Interclub Rally Planned By Stamp Club

With an attendance of 125 expected at their first annual interclub rally to be held this Saturday, October 26, at the Kinsmen Centre, Belleville, members of the Quinte Stamp Club feel that the "King of Hobbies" and the "Hobby of Kings" has continued to make real progress in the district, attracting a very keen following.

Commencing the fall season with some 50 members from Deseronto, Stirling, Trenton, Picton, Bloomfield, Belleville and points in between, the local club will be host to philatelists from as far west as Oshawa, including Mr. Louis Lamoureux, Toronto, president of the Canadian Philatelic Society.

Visitors are cordially invited to drop in to the Kinsmen Centre this Saturday evening. They may be pleasantly surprised at the fine stamp displays and auctions can be for everyone. Regular meeting nights are the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

Training Course For Underwriters

On Thursday at the local YMCA twenty Life Underwriters in this district will begin voluntary two-year training course. This is sponsored by the Life Underwriters Association of Canada and promoted by the Quinte Life Underwriters Association.

Developed by industry leaders, LVA course was established in 1946 to provide a standard training program for the career life insurance salesman. Each year this course brings together progressive Life Underwriters of the district.

Under the leadership of a capable moderator, they study basic principles of life insurance, mutual experience, searching for the best methods of selling life insurance and "other financial problems. Upon successful completion of the course the student is better equipped to serve the persons and business heirs his clients need for life insurance.

The Life Underwriters' Association of Canada has studied over two hundred other training courses and have taken the best out of these courses in developing the Life Underwriters' Association training course.

Mr. Donald G. Williams, CLU, is the local chairman of the course, and Mr. Charles Lundy, CLU, is the instructor.

PEACEFUL H-BOMB

Canadian atomic energy authorities have expressed doubt that Britain has made "any real breakthrough" in an attempt to harness the hydrogen bomb for peaceful purposes.

They were commenting on a report in the London Daily Express that three scientists had produced a controlled thermonuclear reaction in a test tube.

Despite the scepticism of the Canadian experts, the report provides some interesting ground for speculation.

In the first place, the comment did not include any suggestion that a test-tube thermonuclear reaction was an absurd impossibility.

Rather the scepticism was based on the contention that discoveries so far have indicated that "it would take a big more energy to produce hydrogen fusion than the amount of energy which would result from the fusion."

From what we have read, we gather that fusion can only result from the application of great heat and that to date the only adequate source of heat which scientists have discovered is an atomic explosion of fission.

It is obviously impractical to use an atomic explosion as the "trigger" for a thermonuclear reaction designed to serve peaceful purposes.

If, however, some other adequate source of heat could be discovered, fission could be eliminated.

In that event, would it be possible to produce fusion in such a minute quantity of hydrogen that the energy released could be sustained and put to work?

That is the question which comes to the layman's mind. Perhaps to the scientist it is an absurd query, but the whole question of fission and fusion has been so cloaked in secrecy the layman must be forgiven his absurdities. It is not his fault if he is wooly headed.

And so, to conclude this speculation, let us wonder whether, if it should ever become possible to produce fusion without fission and to produce it in such small quantities of hydrogen that the energy released can be controlled, this might not be a source of energy with tremendous advantages over fission-produced power. For, as we understand it, to split atoms to produce a chain reaction and sustain uranium to produce a chain reaction and then to slow this reaction so that it does not produce an explosion, a process which would appear necessarily to demand bulky equipment. But if a way could be found to use hydrogen as a fuel in a thermonuclear reaction, without fission, perhaps it could be designed into a light power plant which could be built into a rocket which could tour space.

Crazy? So was Sputnik, a few years ago.

GHOSTS TO INVADE CITY

Shades of goblins, ghosts and pumpkin faces, Hallowe'en is almost here again! At least so we have been led to believe after noticing a number of youngsters scrambling through piles of leaves with their faces all made-up as if they were going to a masquerade.

Actually there are several days to go yet before that exciting evening hits town again. October 31 is the date when car, house and store windows get, in some cases, their first soaping since spring and hence, the following morning, their first washing. That is also the night when armies of children will be on the prowl all decked out in frightening costumes and playing a "trick or treat."

Hallowe'en, like other occasions, has its disadvantages. Older people will be on the prowl as well as the real young ones. Last year several teenagers got in trouble with the Belleville constabulary. We hope we do not see a repeat performance this year, for the police and magistrate likely will not look with favor on peace disturbances after last year's ruckus.

As in other years, the police and fire departments will be standing by. Usually police departments reinforce their strength on Hallowe'en night by calling in every available constable. We doubt if this picture will be changed this year, so watch out pranksters.

Since we have mentioned a bit about the fire and police departments, we should add that it is against the law to play tricks on these departments. Both are emergency outfits and calling them on a wild goose chase could end in disaster for someone who really needed their services but could not get them because they were rushing to a bogus address.

Why are we mentioning the arrival of Hallowe'en days before it really comes? The answer to that question is one which every law-abiding citizen of Belleville and other places could answer himself: Remind yourself and everyone you know that Hallowe'en is a time for fun, not rowdyism.

RUNNING FOR OFFICE

Have your picture in plain sight,
Leave your cards where'er you go,
Stop by our friends and let them know.
Tell us what you hope to do
So we'll be sure they will vote for you.
Hurry home at eve for tea,
Worry wife and family.

Worry friends to work for you,
Worry those you never knew;
Rush around from place to place,
Ask them to display your face.

Make a speech or two each night,
Telling voters what is right;
Go to bed, perhaps, at three,
Dreaming of your enemy.

All the harsh things he has said
Keep on running through your head—
How you beat your wife and child,
Rob the poor, the meek and mild.

Wake up suddenly in fright,
Wonder if you heard aright.
Such are office-seeking joys,
Five-parts worry; five-parts noise.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 22nd., 1937

It is not likely that the city council will supply open skating rinks this coming season owing to the fact that some lots formerly used for that purpose are now occupied.

The problems of youth was the subject of Mr. Joseph McCulley, the headmaster of the Pickering School for boys, at the meeting of the Rotary Club on Monday at Hotel Quinte. The address was highly illuminating and informative and the appreciation of the members was expressed to Mr. McCulley by the Rev. Dr. Semple and the president of the club, Mr. Fred Douglas. The speaker was introduced by past president Joseph Shortt.

From our file copy at this time in 1887: A sturgeon which weighed 115 pounds and was six feet and five inches in length was caught in the bay and it is now on exhibit in James A. David's fish market here.

10 YEARS AGO

October 22nd., 1927

At a meeting of the Board of Education last evening it was decided to purchase from the Midland Loan Company, the rear lots of the former St. Andrew Sehool property. Chairman John Elliott introduced the subject and finally a motion was made by H. W. Ackerman and seconded by D. Bleecker that the property be purchased for the sum of $1,500.00. There was some opposition but the motion carried. The property has a frontage of 120 feet on Bain Street and 132 feet on William Street. It is 268 feet across the back and it is worth approximately $8.00 per foot frontage. The offer to purchase the property at $1,500.00 will be made and it is expected that the deal will go through.

Sees Cheaper Flying Trend

BBC London Letter

"Faster or cheaper flying — which would you prefer as an air traveller? Would you not think the future holds?" asked Sir Frederick Handley Page — speaking about the development of the airliner in the BBC's general overseas service programme "This Is Air and Age". The aviation picture, he said, had changed in many respects during the past year, there would in future be much less emphasis on faster aircraft and furthermore their supersonic role would pass to guided missiles.

Lord Brabazon, on the other hand, goes from strength to strength," said Sir Frederick. "He has just reached a ceiling as some forms of transport have; seventy million people were carried by the world's airline flights in 1955. Yet, in spite of this tremendous increase in passengers; it is expected that next year one hundred million passengers would be carried. This is a tribution of the growing reliance placed on air transport; but I don't think it will last there. Traffic, in all probability will double between now and 1960 and then by 1970 it may well have re-doubled. Fancy carrying, by air, over two hundred million people in a year!"

Sir Frederick thought that cheaper, rather than faster, flying would be the trend of the future. "I believe myself, that the whole outlook of manking could change if November fogs, or when it is particularly cold and wet in March and April, but if by cheap air transport one could travel to and enjoy the sunshine of Italy, or the sun of South of France, how many more people would go there during the cold part of the year, to their great advantage and the economical running of the hotels and other facilities that are available in holiday resorts."

There would always be a minority, serving industrial enterprises, for whom time really meant money, and for their benefit aircraft designers and constructors would continue to develop supersonic airliners. They were neither cheap nor easy to design and construct and for this reason several British companies, including his own, had pooled resources to undertake preliminary investigation. But no designer could foresee that supersonic airliners would be cheaper to run than those of today.

Air travel speeds between 500 and 600 miles an hour were fast enough for most people, Sir Frederick thought, and a vast expansion of air travel would undoubtedly lead to the lowering of fares to the lowest. Technical effort should be devoted to bringing down the cost, and the most promising development was lamination flow. "With all aircraft today," he explained, "air flows roughly over their surfaces; engine-power is exerted to overcome the skin resistance caused. If this air-flow can be kept smooth instead of turbulent, air resistance is greatly reduced, and so is the power needed to fly the aircraft. This smooth air-flow, or laminar-flow, as it's called, can be maintained if a small quantity of the air flowing over the aircraft surface is sucked from the outside air through its wing and tail surfaces. Applied to an airliner, this system enables the air resistance to be reduced by no less than forty per cent. and operating costs can be cut by twenty per cent." The method has been studied thoroughly for seven years, and research aircraft had proved the effectiveness of the technique which would enable a long-range laminar-flow aeroplane to fly non-stop from Britain to Australia with 120 passengers at a cruising speed of 600 miles per hour, at a cost per passenger mile no higher than that now charged for a transatlantic flight. To keep construction costs down, continued development of a good basic design was needed.

Supersonic airliners would only become beneficial on long-range routes, Sir Frederick pointed out, and supersonic travel would, for a time, be reserved for the military for at least the next decade. "It will come, but there is important if cheaper air travel."

Something For Everyone

Kingston Whig-Standard

If the people who have been talking and writing for the past few years about the need for an "economical, sensible, not-too-large, not-too-fast" automobile ever wake up and start looking around them they will not only make some dealers rich, but they will surprise practically everybody who is interested in the matter.

Because, of course, such cars exist in considerable variety and have, on this continent, been around for a long time. But the people who do the agitating for something "more sensible" don't seem to want what is being offered — they just don't know that such cars are for sale. What they seem to want is new models made in America which they would likely to get since the American industry doesn't believe the demand exists.

Oddly enough, the refutation of the theory that nothing but what is being offered for sale will sell, comes emphatically from below the border. For example, in the Mechanics Building in Toronto new New England dealers in imported cars are showing cars which will include no less than 200 imported cars—an example of economy that is not in the country. Imagine 11 hundred different brands to choose from, ranging in price from $1,000 to $25,000 — so, of course, they are not all "modest."

Some of these are built by American subsidiaries abroad but very few. Most of them are authentic imports and, in many cases, the craze for this type of car, especially of the sports variety, has not reached as in the United States. It is far greater in proportion than it is here, probably because Americans have proportionately more money to spend.

In any case, there is something for every purse and taste and the reason is that people are still worrying about not being able to try something else.

End Fumes Of Diesels

Buffalo Courier-Express

Diesel engines are powerful and economical in operation. They also emit fumes which many people find objectionable. It is to combat this situation that engineers at Pennsylvania State University have engaged in extensive research. They claim success.

The Penn State scientists have developed a Diesel engine model which uses the injection of 42 per cent of the fuel directly into the combustion chamber, and 58 per cent in a fine mist into the air intake valve. The result, according to Dr. Paul J. Schweitzer, head of the project, is the virtual elimination of all visible exhaust.

Motorists who have experienced close proximity to Diesel exhaust in heavy traffic will appreciate the effort to render such propulsion systems socially acceptable.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TRY PLEASANTNESS!

I wonder if we are not neglecting one of the most potent practices in the building of character—that of always trying to be pleasant! What a world of broken and bruised nerves could be eased, to bless our posterity, by just being pleasant.

Pleasant people are the salt of life. They are not many, to excite, they are numerous, but not too numerous. They are useful and they take care of ten times its present number. What a thrill it would send through the body of our every time we contact a pleasant person.

We can well afford to try pleasantness with people who always seem to be carrying a chip on their shoulder. How many a person we have known that a little pleasantness might have improved. What a joy to be with a pleasant person when travelling, or in trouble, or confused! And how worthwhile is pleasantness when thrown into the midst of an unhappy situation! I feel sure it would pay us if we would only be tried.

Remember this — pleasantness always pays and its influence stays around for a long time. Pleasantness is to the soul what a boat tosses into the sea when in trouble. Pleasantness is medicinal, for people start feeling better whenever it is contacted. And when the Doctor inscribes to it, and suggests it to his patients, results are amazing! could have been transformed had they only tried pleasantness instead of its opposite. What a welcome pleasantness is! Pleasantness is good and workable!

Epilepsy in Every Family

It is not so long ago that persons with mental derangement or deterioration were incarcerated in "asylums" and subjected to cruel neglect if not actual cruelty.

Some intelligent people still try to conceal the fact that some member of the family is alcoholic, addicted to some other narcotic, subject to petit mal (lapse of consciousness) or grand mal (convulsions), dementia (mental deterioration), mania (exaltation), paranoia (monomania), sexual delusions, especially delusions of persecution) or paresis (paralytic dementia, progressive general paralysis, "softening of the brain."

Since "asylums" became hospitals and more and more people have learned that proper care and treatment relieves cures mental derangements as well as physical ailments, the old stigma has been largely replaced by sympathetic understanding and the realization that it happens in every family — today, perhaps, to your family or a neighbor's family; but tomorrow in mine, or vice versa. So no one has to conceal anything for very long. Show me a family history for three generations without any such neurosis or psychosis and I'll show you a false or inaccurate record.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HAVE FAITH!

We have all upon occasion heard a friend complaining bitterly about a particular event, and then later discovering how glad he was, after all, that it had happened. With all our knowledge, we humans are still, very unsuccessful in foreseeing our future and deciding what is best for ourselves. Our tomorrows have a direct bearing way of producing new experiences and new situations which leave us either glad or sad with changed desires.

Life is sometimes like an interjection or a super-highway. We know that we must go north to reach our destination, but the roadsigns tells us to turn south. If we have not driven much on such highways, we may be very reluctant to do it. But gradually we find that we can trust the highway engineers, that somehow the turn to the south will put us on the highway to the north.

That kind of faith, on a larger scale, is what we need throughout life. So often our intentions seem thwarted. We are forced by circumstances to leave a job or to move to a new town. The money we saved for one thing has to be used for something else. The man or woman we hope to marry chooses someone else.

Have faith! Have courage! Even though you cannot see beyond the bend, the road leads on, by ways you do not know, to your destination.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the dining car the other day the man who sat opposite me poked and toyed with his food in obvious disappointment at what he had ordered. It was so much less attractive than what I had ordered. As a matter of fact, I was sitting there wishing we could trade plates. Why the dickens hadn't I ordered fish, too ?

So there we sat, envying each other. This choosing of food is a great problem. It doubtless accounts for the popularity of the cafeteria and the buffet luncheon, in which you wander along and choose by sight.

Even so, no sooner is your tray heaped up than you come upon something else that is not in line that you would have much preferred.

The most familiar type of table companion is the one who invariably, after a long and troubled study of the menu, and always at last to order, wishes she had taken something else. But the most entertaining of my companions is a man who says he has divers. He is always the first to order, when we sit at a table. He reads the menu and gives it a quick perfunctory glance and then throws it aside and rattles off his order to the waitress. When his food comes, he stares at it balefully, and picks at it with the true misgivings of the ulcerite. He is the sort of man who, if he enters pie, always lits the lid with his fork and pecks up under.

When the meal is over, he commands the waitress to bring him back the menu; and there he sits, looking into each and every item, while he studies every detail of it, every line, emitting occasional groans of frustrated pleasure.

"Why," I have often demanded, "don't you read the menu first"

"Ah," he says, "one of the subtlest pleasures of life is dwelling upon what might have been. What is the entertaining of life to one of her meanest moods. I revel in the thought of all the girls I might have married, how my life might gets me down. I dream of the jobs I might have had. If I had only taken a different course at this point of my life, or that point, I might have been so much more pleasant than he is."

Of course, as I say, he has divers.

Quintena Lodge Introduces Slate Of New Officers

Tuesday night the Odd Fellows' hall was bright and very colorful with multicolored gowns and baskets of lovely autumn flowers. At one end of the hall were two ferns in white stands at each side of the open gates and between the gates was a hooked rug with the three links and F.L.T. worked into it. At the other end was a pure white illuminated cross. Above the Noble Grand's chair were three large links. The occasion was the installation of Quintena Rebekah officers for the 1956-58 term. After opening the lodge meeting, Sister Oress Adams, N.G., welcomed visitors from Madoc, Stirling, Trenton, Parham, Queensboro and Thomasburg.

The District Deputy Grand President, Sister Marion Heath, was introduced and presented with a corsage and escorted to the seat of honor on the right of the N.G. through the guard-of-honor by Sister June Carruthers, J.P.N.G., and Sister Isobel Good, deputy marshal. She was introduced and presented with a corsage and also escorted through the guard-of-honor by Sister Mary Plumpton, P.N.G. The installing staff was introduced and seated in seats reserved for them, which were led with green and pink crepe paper. After regular business the lodge was formally closed and the hall was thrown open to the families and friends of the members for an open installation.

By this time the hall was bursting at the seams. Seats were reserved for the families of the noble grand, vice-grand and Past N.G.'s. They were escorted to their seats by ushers gowned in colored floor-length dresses and carrying nosegay bouquets, the gift of the incoming noble grand.

The ushers were as follows: Sisters Edith Rushworth, Dorothy Ann Bowen Way, Lena Belnap, Margaret Novinski and Helen Brenton. When all the guests were seated the past noble grands were introduced individually and escorted to the open gates by the ushers and seated on the noble grand's platform. Quintena's retiring officers then marched in in form and after this the D.D.P., Sister Marion Heath, deputy marshal Sister Isobel Good and the installing staff took over and installation was on its way. The installing guard-of-honor were lovely in white floor length gowns with green wide sashes and large green bows on back of three of them and pink on the other three. The guard-of-honor at the installing staff were as follows: Sisters Neva Vandervoort, Marion Wells, Elsie Davidson, Martha Wells, Joyce Richardson and Helen Bailey.

The officers-elect were then marched around the hall following the deputy marshal, while all members sang the installation ode.

The officers received their obligation at the centre of the floor. As the noble grand was installed she was presented with a bouquet of red roses from her family, by her sister, Ethel Neil, and as the vice-grand was installed she was presented with a bouquet of red roses from her family by her husband, Elmer Adams. As each officer was installed she was escorted through the guard-of-honor, which made an arch of sprays of calla lilies, which were very effective, as the soloist sang "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again."

TICKER TAPE RECEPTION FOR ROYALTY

The chaplain was being installed, the soloist sang "Dear Lord, Kind Lord."

Each new officer received a corsage from the noble grand, Sister Eva Judge, a pink carnation with a green bow, emblematic of Friendship, Love and Truth, while Sister Mary Plumpton, P.N.G., sang "She," Sister Eva Judge then welcomed visitors from Philadelphia and Montreal. She thanked all those who helped make her night successful and at this time her daughter, Wilma Alexander, presented her with a corsage from her four grandsons. The D.D.P., Sister Marion, spoke a few words, her theme being the three of the three links of Odd Fellowship.

Sincerity, she said, was the hidden link. Sister Oress Adams, P.N.G., and Sister Alice Adams, V.G., then presented the D.D.P. with a gift from Quintena, while the soloist, Sister Dorothy Weber sang "Our Best to You." Sister Marion Heath thanked the Quintena sisters for her gift, solo and corsage. Sister Oress Adams, J.P.N.G., received several gifts for which she thanked the givers. Sister Dorothy Weber also received a gift.

The deputy marshal Sister Isobel Good, then spoke a few words of thanks for her corsage after which the noble grand Sister Eva Judge received several gifts from her family and many friends, for all of which she thanked the givers. Darrel Wilson was busy with her Pearl Wilso nwas busy with her camera.

The noble grand also presented her convener of installation, Sister Mary Plumpton, P.G., with a corsage and thanked her for the good job she did. The N.G. then invited all present to go upstairs to the upper hall, where tea and refreshments were being served by Sisters Mayberry Large and Verna Summers, conveners of refreshments, who did a very lovely job. The centre table was very prettily decorated and the table was covered with white. Sister Eva Judge, presented each convener with a corsage. After tea and a short chat all left for home very tired and pleased with the success of their "open installation." So ended another evening of Odd Fellowship.

CALGARY (CP) — More than five inches of snow was dumped across Southern Alberta Monday, the first major snowfall in the last two weeks. Traffic snarled on all highway traffic. Winds gusting to 30 miles an hour whipped the snow into piles as high as 10 feet. Temperatures Monday night dipped to 10 degrees and a high of 20 was predicted for today.

Muggeridge Will Not Attack Monarchy Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Malcolm Muggeridge promised Monday to "never write another article on the British monarchy as long as I live."

Muggeridge talked to reporters as he boarded a plane for London.

It was his article in the current Saturday Evening Post, entitled Does England Really Need a Queen? that started a controversy.

In his article Muggeridge called Queen Elizabeth family activities "a royal soap opera." He also said some of the elite classes in England regard the Queen as "dowdy, frumpish and banal."

There were roars of protest in England. Muggeridge was fired as a columnist by a London newspaper. He flew here to appear on Mike Wallace's interview television program and discovered that the program was blacked out in Washington. The Queen was in Washington at the time.

Muggeridge again denied that he wanted to "abolish the monarchy."

"I am terribly disturbed that what I wrote about the monarchy should be misinterpreted," he said. "I am appalled by the great deal of puce hysteria that surrounds the subject."

Prince Philip Finds Solution To Traffic Jam

NEW YORK (CP) — Prince Philip found a solution Monday for a traffic jam—he walked.

He was returning by car to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel from the American Institute of Physics when his car was stopped by a traffic snarl at Lexington Avenue and 45th Street.

The prince got out of the plain-topped car, walked through a building to reach Park Avenue, and then walked four blocks north to the hotel. He entered it through its street-level garage.

Apparently no one recognized him on his jaunt.

RESCUES PILOT AND PLANE, TOO

An U.S. army "Mule" helicopter lifts a light two-seater plane which crash-landed while on a search flight for another downed plane. The huge helicopter is shown here as it lifted the small plane from inaccessible terrain near Williamstown, Mass., and carried it and its pilot to a nearby airport.

Discover Link Between Asian And North American Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Richard MacNeish, National Museum archaeologist, has discovered a "more definite link" between the tribes of Asia and the ancient inhabitants of the interior of North America.

The northern affairs department, in a report or excavations, last summer over about 42,000 square miles between Dawson and Whitehorse in the Yukon, said Dr. MacNeish found traces of six cultures in 97 ancient camp sites. The sites are in the Yukon flood areas where future power developments are planned.

Objects found on 28 of the sites resembled those found by expeditions in Outer Mongolia. This suggested their owners were recent arrivals from Eastern Asia. The Mongolian-type discoveries, believed to be between 6,000 and 8,000 years old, may be the relics of the first or second of the six cultures.

SUPPORTS THEORY

Dr. MacNeish said his summer findings provide the strongest factual support so far unearthed for the theory that there were successive waves of migration from Asia to North America.

The six cultures found this year do not appear related to traces of nine cultures Dr. MacNeish found two years ago on the banks of the Firth River in the northern Yukon. However, further research is needed before a time relationship can be established between the new discoveries and the Firth River findings, cited as possibly the remnants of the oldest known civilization in the Canadian North.

Dr. MacNeish, working with university students Mark Molot and Reginald Hamel of Ottawa, found stone tools, scrapers, knives and crude burins or slotting tools on the sites. Most of these were large lakes. The trio collected more than 1,000 artifacts.

Minute Men Put on Show

NEW YORK (CP)—The Irish Minute Men, their ranks swollen to about 100, demonstrated Monday night outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where Queen Elizabeth was attending a banquet. They were heckled briefly by passers-by.

The group marched up and down Lexington Avenue, between 49th and 50th Streets. One person shouted at them:

"It's only this kind of country which would permit this sort of thing."

Another called out: "The Irish were for Hitler."

The Minute Men are Americans of Irish descent who favor union of the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland.

Women Pass Resolutions at Final Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — Resolutions dealing with succession duty, air pollution control and hospital insurance were supported on Monday as the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario held final sessions of a three-day conference.

More than 300 delegates observed that the province's clubs unanimously supported a resolution calling for wide revisions of the Ontario Succession Duty Act.

The conference recommended that one-half a deceased husband's estate be exempt from tax purposes as earned by his widow and not subject to succession duty until the death of or upon his death.

The conference also called for a "true estimate" of $50,000 deductible from the value of all estates before calculating succession duty. In all provinces except Ontario and Quebec estates under $50,000 may not be subject to tax.

AIR POLLUTION

The convention supported a resolution seeking that the establishment of an Ontario air pollution control commission to deal with pollution originating from railways and ships passing within provincial borders, and the disposal of garbage and industrial wastes.

It also was recommended that Ontario legislation dealing with air pollution be amended.

The conference urged the Ontario government to appoint women commissioners and a qualified woman as vice-chairman of the Ontario hospital services commission, which will administer the national hospital insurance plan in Ontario.

Other resolutions called for provincial implementation of federal-provincial vocational training programs to provide older persons with occupational training or refresher courses in their own occupations.

Nazia Dane of Toronto was elected Ontario president to succeed Elsie Gregory MacGill of Toronto.

Mrs. Grace McFarland, Leamington Madeline Rooney, Cobourg; Mrs. Helene Gibson, Banff, Ste. Marie, were elected vice-presidents.

WEDDINGS

BOYLE — CROSS

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Roslin, was a beautiful scene on Saturday, September 28, when Isabelle Audentia Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, Roslin, became the bride of Carl Douglas Boyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boyle, Belleville.

Gladioli, chrysanthemums, pastel fall flowers and ferns decorated the church as the Rev. M. W. Heslip, Madoc, assisted by the Rev. E. Wannamaker, West Huntingdon, performed the ceremony. Dainty white bows designated the guest pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white floor-length gown with layers of tulle over a satin underskirt. The top layer was diamond-shaped ruffled net. She also wore a chantilly lace headdress with Peter Pan collar, seed pearls and lily-point sleeve over the hand. Her crescent headdress was of tulle illusion with a finger-tip veil. She carried red roses centred with white mums.

Maxine Cross, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid and wore a matching a pink nylon taffeta gown with matching gloves and headdress. The groom's sister, bridesmaids, Mrs. J. Skelly, a sister, and Mrs. S. Cross, a sister-in-law, and Mrs. R. Watson, a sister, were dressed in turquoise nylon taffeta in the same lines as the gown worn by the maid-of-honor. ARNOTT — MAGUIRE

A beautiful autumn wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, October 5, when Martha Jane Maguire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maguire, Brown St., Brownsville, was united in marriage with Murry Richard Arnott, son of Mrs. Annie Arnott, 149 Charles St., Belleville, and the late Clarence Arnott.

Standards of pink gladioli and white 'mums graced each side of the communion table in Trinity United Church, Bownsanville, as the Rev. T. A. Morgan performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her street-length gown of white brocaded taffeta with empire-style waistline. She wore a beaded and sequin tiara headdress and a white tulle veil. The bride carried a corsage of two gardenias with white rose buds on a white Bible. She made her own dress.

The bride was attended by her elder sister, Mrs. James Scott, 53 Dunmouth Ave., Oshawa, as matron-of-honor, who wore a street-length dress of pale mauve brocaded taffeta with empire style waist-line.

Best man was James Arnott, 271 Celina St., Oshawa.

While the happy couple signed the register, an organ solo, "O Perfect Love", was played.

After the ceremony a reception, in the form of an afternoon tea, was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Arnott, the bride's mother, radiant in a grey shantung sheath dress with dusky pink jewelled accessories and corsage of pale pink rose buds, welcomed the guests. Also in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who was resplendent in a two-piece rayon crepe dress of navy blue and matching accessories with a corsage of white carnations.

Woman Doctor Carries on Big Practice

VANCOUVER (CP) — The careers of housewife and general practitioner are combined by a Vancouver doctor who attended the annual meeting here of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association.

Dr. Evelyn Woodman-Fox carries on a general practice in Kitimat, B.C., 250 miles upcoast, and at the same time looks after an engineer husband and two children.

Her office is in their house so she is able to direct household affairs and at the same time care for patients who come to call.

Bulk of her practice is in obstetrics, and, she says, life in the northland is thoroughly enjoyable.

W.C.T.U. Hears Talk on Problem Of Alcoholism

The Oct. meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, presiding.

The clipsheet, taken by Miss Clarie was on alcoholism, entitling" Moderate drinking is hard to define what may be moderate for one person may be dangerous to another. The weight and temperament of the drinker make a noticeable difference, even when the same amount of the same alcoholic beverage is taken. Also whether the liquor is taken with or without food.

Dr. Samuel Johnson said, "I know how to abstain, but I do not know how to be moderate."

Lavish liquor advertising has helped create a sort of cocktail psychology. Attractive pictures in magazines showing "Men of Distinction" and "Women of Good Taste" have helped to strengthen social approval of the serving of liquor and created a choice of non-alcoholic beverage; liquor creates a taste for more liquor and "good fellowship calls for another round."

Archdeacon Cecil Swanson, Rector of St. Paul's in Toronto said, "The Province of Ontario is fast becoming a drinking community and society." In Ontario, 1954, there were 57,000 arrests for drunk, and by 1956 the figure jumped to 76,000. At the Regent street police station Toronto there are on the average of drunks fifty-one men were processed, on one occasion within twenty-nine minutes.

HUGE INCREASE

The Ontario Alcoholism Research Foundation in 1956 was able to treat only 1,000 patients in the four-centres of Toronto, Ottawa and Kingston. The number of alcoholics in Ontario jumped 19% in the past year, and 25% in 1956.

Do scientists pronounce liquor as habit forming? Dr. Amory Gray says "Alcohol is definitely habit forming. Dr. Andrey Ivy of the University of Illinois has worked with a staff of 33 research scientists says, "Almost all of the world's moderate social drinkers becomes an alcoholic. One out of four-social drinkers becomes a problem drinker."

Dr. Bell of Shadow Brook Health Foundation, Toronto, said at the International Conference on Psychiatry at the Sorbonne in Paris, in 1950, "Anyone can become an alcoholic, all he has to do is to keep on drinking" and when he has reached that stage, there is no cure for it, and possibly never will be. The only way is to stop drinking."

Controller Jean Newman of Toronto, said speaking at the convention in St. Catharines, "As a member of the W. C. T. U., I would like to feel that the stand this organization has taken for many year, is not just because it is prejudiced against liquor, but because the facts have thought the whole matter through, have assessed the problem, and have decided by word and example to oppose this monster evil."

"We will never ever come when distilleries, brewers, and vendors will be required to pay the cost per day the whole cost of hospitalization or relief arising from the sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages? Possibly the dividends would not be so large nor the liquor empire so powerful and influencial if all the accidents caused by drink were charged against those who produced the product.

NO COMPLAINTS

The temperance gets a lot for his money in protection and service, but often complains. Strange that last year 72 per cent of the people of the province paid over $258,000,000 on liquor, beer, and wine, with a complaint. What did they get for their investment? Possibly very few dollars. Instead, smashed cars, broken homes, broken lives and an increase in the number of alcoholics until Ontario now can boast of 57,000 alcoholics with only 7 per cent receiving treatment."

31st Annual Convention Of Women's Institutes In Session at B.C.I.V.S.

Members and friends of the Women's Institutes of the Belleville district gathered in the auditorium of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Monday morning for the 31st annual Institute convention.

Members of this area have, with pride, named this convention the "Friendly Convention", since Belleville is so widely known as the "Friendly City."

The convention theme this year is "Your actions today will determine your place tomorrow." Mrs. Clifford Barber and Mrs. Spruce of Mountain View are in charge of registrations.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the meeting came to order with the area chairman, Miss Audra Brickenden, presiding. With her on the platform were Mrs. James Haggerty, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, and the secretary, Mrs. R. Brickman.

According to the regulation opening exercises, the minutes of the previous convention were read and approved. The financial report was given followed by the auditor's report. These were adopted. Correspondence was read and considered.

RESOLUTIONS PRESENTED

The resolutions coming before the convention were presented by Mrs. W. J. Honey. They testified to the broad outlook of Institute members and were capably presented. These were of interest.

Roll call of the districts was taken. A one minute address on a highlight of the officers' convention held in May was given. It was concise and gave listeners an idea of the interlacing of institutional activities and entertainment that make the organization worthwhile. Each district reported.

Introduction of guest speakers was followed by the chairman's address. The chairman, Miss Brickman, spoke of the pleasures she had derived from her years of office with the Women's Institutes and assured her listeners that the more they put into their membership the more they would get from it. She made fitting references to this the first convener. Greetings from the "Indian Homemakers" were brought by Mrs. Lovelace.

Mrs. George Burkitt, representing the provincial board of health, brought the following items from district annual meetings that she attended. She too, spoke of the pleasures and benefits she had received in her term of office and gave many timely suggestions gleaned from annual meetings. Mrs. Burkitt thanked members for the courtesies and kindnesses extended to her and assured them that these would be treasured among her memories.

Shortly after 1.30 p.m. the convention returned from lunch and enjoyed a musical song fest. Mrs. McCubbin, with Mrs. Parrott at the piano. This session was chaired by Mrs. M. Rutherford.

Mrs. Rutherford introduced Mayor Jane Forrester who brought official greetings from the city and recalled some of the achievements of the institute and wished members well in the future.

Mrs. C. Gillespie thanked the mayor for her kind words.

Mrs. George Stevens gave a humorous reading titled "A Ball Game" which was so well received that she did an encore. Mrs. Frank Harris displayed a collection of many kinds of buttons mounted on cards. A "get-acquainted" sing-song followed.

The president of F.W.I.O., Mrs. James Haggerty, was presented the federated board and thanked the area for its support in the past. She remarked that the Guelph conference was a happy anniversary time. She told of being at Stoney Creek, Ont., for the diamond jubilee, also.

Mrs. Haggerty pointed out that new branches of the Institute are always welcome and urged the second provincial Tweedsmuir history is in the making."

"We have the full support of the Department of Agriculture," she said," Stated Mrs. McEachen".

Mrs. Haggerty explained the need for more money so that Institute may carry on the work at provincial level.

NATIONAL CONVENTION

The secretary announced the annual convention would be held in Ottawa October 28-31, and the had the details. Mrs. Haggerty mentioned the A.C.W.W. conference in Ceylon and reported on the findings of a committee to purchase the Adelaide Hoodless birthplace. It has been decided not to purchase the place as the costs were too high.

The district directors will attend the conference at Guelph next year. Thanks were extended to Mrs. Burkitt for her assistance as a board member. It was announced that the Mary Dyer House, Ottawa, on behalf of the W. I. She received a reply which she is having framed.

It was reported that the hand book revision committee is still hard at work and with classes of retarded and over stimulated children. Certificates, Institute silver spoons with the Institute crest will soon be available.

Mrs. Haggerty delivered a message of welcome to Queen Elizabeth Public School House, Ottawa, on behalf of the W. I. She received a reply which she is having framed.

Miss Kay Homan reported for the junior institute and Belleville and district people should be urged to attend the junior institute and Junior Farmers' rallies. For the junior institutes, there are a total of 63 members.

Many interesting activities were engaged in at the Kemptville conference such as public speaking, competitions and electing delegates to the Geneva conference as well as many local activities.

Owing to the lack of committee activities and public relations reports, time was spent by Mrs. Haggerty discussing reports already given.

Report Million And Half Raised By CWL Groups

SASKATOON (CP)—More than $1,496,000 was raised by subdivisions of the Catholic Women's League during the last year, Mrs. A. V. Svoboda of Saskatoon, national treasurer, said Monday.

Mrs Svoboda said $1,067,807 was spent in parishes, $40,258 in diocesan projects and $12,269 in provincial work.

Kathleen Sheridan of Oshawa, executive secretary, said all departments of the league showed gains in membership, which now totals more than 100,000.

Mrs. H. T. Donihee of Cornwall convener of social action, said $23,083 had been spent by the league on welfare work, double the amount spent the previous year. A total of 58,502 visits had been made on sick and shut-ins.

Cooking for Two

By Mary Moore

Is there any such thing as just two lonely little people sitting coolly at a dining table together any more? Our place is so overflowing with people, big boys, baby boys, helpers, guests (and I love it) that all seem to need feeding all the time that I can't quite believe a household can be quiet and serene and the perfect order with just two neat adults to move about in it.

However such households do exist I am told, and I know how to cook for them, given a chance. One of our readers asked me to remember the old folks occasionally since they do not have the robust appetites of young people. I feel that there are some ideas here for some of our senior cooks who are living alone or in pairs . . .

I have a delicious dessert that is frozen that I gave to a young married couple who are friends of ours and he said of it "Mabel can even make ice cream now!"

AFRICANA ICE CREAM

(Makes 4 servings, 2 of which can be left in freezing tray for future meal.) Mix together in bowl ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup*apricot puree (or strained apricot baby food), ½ cup sieved ripe banana mixed at once with 1 teaspoon lemon juice. When blended and smooth, fold into them ½ cup heavy cream which has been whipped until stiff. Turn into freezing tray and freeze until firm.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

(for 2)

Saute 1 large Spanish onion thinly sliced in 4 to 6 tablespoons butter until golden but not brown. Add 1 teaspoon French mustard, and 1 can consomme diluted with a can of water and simmer 10 minutes. While it is heating sprinkle 2 slices of French bread with grated Parmesan or old cheddar cheese and toast until bubbling and golden under broiler. Serve soup in deep bowls and place cheesed toast on top.

Note: If desired to reduce strong flavor of onion, pour boiling water over the sliced, sauted onion 1 minute, then drain, then saute.

(2) If desired soup may be poured into individual baking dishes, cheese-sprinkled toast fibated on top and all placed under boiler to melt and brown cheese. This way it can be served piping hot, which is as it should be. Meat in itself,

TUESDAY

(Guests: Neighbors)

Diced Fresh Pears in Orange Juice; Savory Ham Custard Pie (using last Sunday's leftover ham); Chili Sauce (heated) or Catsup; Large Bowl of Coleslaw with Green Pepper and Parsley; Boys; Expected Cake (lemon layer) (see Monday); Coffee.

VEAL CONTINENTAL

Note: Double this for two meals, wrapping half in foil and freezing after B1, prepared for cooking. Sprinkle ¾ lb. very thinly sliced veal cutlets with 1½ tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Pound cheese into veal with saucer edge or meat mallet. Turn over and pound 1½ tablespoons cheese into other side. Heat 2 tablespoons butter in frying pan and brown veal in it quickly. Add 1 clove garlic peeled and sliced, ¼ teaspoon each thyme and marjoram, ½ can condensed bouillon or consommé, ½ cup water, ½ teaspoon salt and shake of pepper. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. The gravy from this is out of this world on mashed potatoes or mixed washed potatoes and turnip.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHE'S INVITED TO TEA AT HER EMPLOYER'S HOME

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My employer's wife has invited me to come to tea in their new house on a Saturday afternoon soon at four o'clock. I don't know Mrs. . . . very well, but I admire them both very much, and am very proud to be invited.

(1) How long should my visit last?

(2) Just how should I "take my leave," and how should I thank my hostess when leaving?

(3) I will, of course, wear a hat. Should I take it off when I leave my coat, or should I wear it during the tea-time?

(4) After thanking my hostess when I leave, is it necessary to write her a note of thanks? — N.

(1) If you are the only guest at tea, you would probably stay about an hour; somewhat longer if you wish, and if you feel that your hostess and host really would like to have you.

(2) When you go to your hostess to say good-by, she extends her hand to shake hands with you (as I she will do when she greets you), and you say, for example, "Good-by, Mrs. Clark. Thank you, so much, for asking me to come this afternoon. I've had such a delightful time being with you and Mr. Clark. And I have such happy memories of you both in your beautiful new home . . . It was a joy to see it." Then you say good-by to your host, who also shakes hands with you, and thank him also for the hospitality.

(3) Wear your hat during the tea-time.

(4) A thank-you note isn't actually a "must" . . . but it is a charming gesture to make, and a hostess is always delighted to receive these gracious words of appreciation of her hospitality. Writing a note of thanks is a particularly graceful how to make when you have been invited to come to a new home . . . and there are so many pleasant things to be said!

MOTHER IS PLANNING A "SHOW-OFF" GESTURE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

A Kitchen Shower is being given for my sister. It is to be a large shower, to which members of the two families, relatives, and friends are to be invited. As her shower gift, my mother is giving my sister a check in quite a large amount. My sister would like to know if, when she opens the envelope and acknowledges the check, she should mention the check or just say, "Thank you, Mother, for your check"? — C.R.

Bad taste indeed for your mother to give her daughter a check as a present at this shower. I should think she might very well be criticized for her "show-off" gesture. She should give her check to your sister at some other time, and to the shower take a present suitable to the kind of shower being given. However, if she insists on giving the check, your sister should have the good taste not to mention the amount when she says her thanks to her mother.

GLOVES AND RINGS AND BRACELETS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Now that long gloves are being worn more, please tell me if it is proper to wear rings and bracelets outside long gloves? — Marie

Rings should never be worn outside a glove, but bracelets may be worn over long gloves.

Charlotte R. — I'll never be as happy with another boy.

Mrs. L. R. — I think we made a mistake.

Charlotte R. — I am 14 years old and I am miserably unhappy and it's all because of this propaganda against steadily dating that my parents read in the newspapers and magazines.

I'm not pretty and I'm not popular, but one boy liked me. In fact he loved me and I loved him. If I were 19 or 20, people would take it seriously when I say that. Now I just get laughed at. But I know that I was just as happy in my life as when I was with Frank. I hated to be away from him for a minute. I wanted him always by my side. If that's not love, I don't know what is.

Well, it was all broken up because my parents said it was not good to have a steady. Frank said he loved me so much, it was steady or nothing. I see him now going out with other girls and I could just die. I could never be as happy with another boy. We did nothing wrong. Why should it have to be this way?

Mrs. L. R. — My husband and I now are beginning to think we made a bad mistake in breaking up this friendship. Frank was a very nice boy and Charlotte just seemed to flower out in the months she knew him. He took her to lovely places and she had so much fun. Now she is terribly alone and seems to feel very left out of everything.

The trouble is that all the other girls do have steady boy friends. We made up our minds not to be influenced by that, but you can't ignore it. If Charlotte were more the type that attracts lots of boys, it would be okay. But she isn't.

We hate to see her so unhappy. She says she doesn't even want to go to school because she must see Frank with other girls. We did laugh at her at first, but now we see she is really suffering. I talked to Frank's mother about getting him to call Charlotte and she told me out some time, but she says she can't do a thing with him. Once he makes up his mind about something he won't be changed.

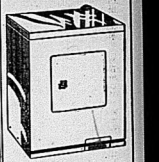
The Council: The L.R.'s only mistake was in taking a negative, rather than a positive approach to this problem. "Do" is always a better word with teenagers and everyone else than "don't." Instead of smashing this friendship, they should have helped Charlotte to use it as a steppingstone toward broadening her social relationships.

Granted, this, is a very difficult thing to do, but it can be done if the co-operation of other parents is enlisted. The youngsters will tend to pair off, but if they are guided into social activities that bring large groups of them together, there will be more room for flexibility and change.

Parents should take the initiative in arranging small parties that include boys and girls — not all of whom are invited as couples. They should encourage their teenagers to join clubs that throw them into contact with groups of boys and girls. It would be best to concentrate on these things and try to blur the whole question of "steady dating."



Unfortunately, poor Charlotte was heading for a broken heart in any case. It sounds as though Frank was getting out of his depth in this friendship and welcomed an issue to break it up. The L.R.'s will have to be gentle and somehow give Charlotte the feeling that she will very soon attract other boys and be at least equally happy with them.

START COLD WEATHER SKIN-CONDITIONING NOW

A washcloth dipped in hot water, and pressed against the face, warms and moistens before cream is applied.

With cold days right around the corner, it's none too soon to start thinking about what's going to happen to your complexion if you don't start a conditioning program immediately. Cold, biting winds and dry, steam-heated rooms are especially hard on dry skins, but even normal complexions can become dangerously parched when subjected to hot and cold running weather. And, if this condition isn't treated at the start, for, preferably, before it begins) it can result in networks of tiny lines marking the skin across the forehead, under the eyes and at the corners of the mouth. That's why regular use of a rich lubricating cream is essential in cold weather Used as part of a facial treatment, such a cream is doubly effective.

The best time for a facial, of course, is at night, just before you go to bed. Allow yourself the luxury of a pleasant half hour over your cream jars and try this treatment on for size.

Dip a washcloth in hot water and press it against your face, over your make-up This will open pores and help in the removal of stale make-up which has been absorbed by the skin. Now apply a good cold cream over your entire face and throat, and massage it gently into your warm, moist skin. Remove the cream with tissues and apply another coat. Work this into your skin a little longer than you did the first. Tissue off and—

Now dot your forehead, cheeks, chin and neck with a lanolin-rich dry skin cream and smooth it into your skin. Work it well into those delicate areas around your eyes which tend to dry at the puff of a breeze. Tissue off the excess cream but leave on a very light film that will sink into your pores while you sleep. By a light film we mean just a faint trace of cream — not great globs that will only end up on the bedclothes.

Even if you're in a hurry to keep an after-five date, you can give your skin this treatment in a matter of minutes — and feel like a new girl. But, in any event, try it for a week or two and you'll notice a delightful difference in your complexion.

UN Far From Achievement Of Ideals of Its Founders But Requested to Persevere

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth said Monday that United Nations is "still far from the achievement of the ideals" of its founders, but the peoples of the world expect it to persevere in its efforts.

Addressing the General Assembly called in special session for the occasion, she pledged the Commonwealth to "continue to add to the United Nations a tried element of strength and of accumulated experience."

The text of the Queen's remarks was made available to the press in advance.

She said the countries of the Commonwealth regard their "continuing association with one another and joint service to their high ideals as still an essential contribution to world peace and justice."

DIFFERENT NATIONS

The Queen noted that 10 Commonwealth countries are members of the United Nations. She said they form a free association of fully independent states which have widely different histories, cultures and traditions.

"Common ideals and hopes, not formal bonds, unite the members of the Commonwealth," she declared, "and promote that association between them which, in my belief, has contributed significantly to the cause of human freedom."

The Queen, first British monarch ever to address the assembly, said the UN's future will be determined not only by the degree to which its members observe strictly the provisions of the charter and co-operate in its practical activities, but also by the strength of its peoples' devotion to the pursuit of the ideals she had mentioned.

PEACE WORLD DESIRE

"When justice and respect for obligations are firmly established, the United Nations will the more confidently achieve the goal of a world at peace, law abiding and prosperous for which men and women have striven so long and which is the heart's desire of every nation here represented."

"I offer you my best wishes in your task and pray that you may be successful."

The Queen said the assembly was "born of the endeavors of countless men and women from different nations, who, over the centuries, have pursued the aim of the preservation of peace between nations, equality of justice for all before the law and the right of the peoples of the world to live their lives in freedom and security.

"The charter of the United Nations was framed with a view to giving expression to these great purposes and so forming a fitting memorial to the men and women whose toil and sacrifices turned those ideas into articles of faith for the nations of today.

"Time has in fact made the task of the United Nations more difficult than it seems when the terms of the charter were agreed at San Francisco 12 years ago. We are still far from the achievement of the ideals which I have mentioned but we must not be discouraged. The peoples of the world expect the United Nations to persevere in its efforts."

It is understood that all 10 Commonwealth governments approved the speech.

SEND EMERGENCY FOOD

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Emergency food supplies Friday were being sent to drought areas of Northern India where some near-starving families were reported to be living on leaves and snails. In Bihar State, late rains have brought disaster to the rice crop which, it is estimated, will be only a third of the normal 1,800,000 tons.

LIBERAL CLAIMS

The day's debate covered topics of interest from one side of the country to the other.

FARM PROBLEMS

Jake Schultz, former Prairie Farm Union Council leader, said the new Conservative administration must make a full-scale attempt to solve farm problems or go down in defeat.

The new CCF member for Springfield, Man., said time and again annual delegations led by himself returned empty-handed from Ottawa meetings with the Liberal government, praying the judgment day would come.

"It came. June 10 was a great day for democracy."

Alexis Caron (L—Hull) accused the government of ignoring Quebec.

He said Canadians in all parts of the country consider Mr. Diefenbaker "as a man who is working against national unity." With 10 French - speaking Canadians from various parts of the country now his Commons supporters the only two had been named to the cabinet.

One-tenth of the cabinet's strength represented French-speaking Canadians—one-third of Canada's population. Was this because the prime minister had no confidence in his French-Canadian Commons supporters?

"NEVER RECEIVED"

"With six in the (Liberal) cabinet," interjected Solicitor-General Balcer of Trois-Rivieres, Que., "Quebec never received anything from you."

Mr. Caron said Mr. Diefenbaker offered Mr. Balcer a relatively minor post as solicitor-general, which was usually offered a newcomer to the cabinet.

"You do not have to worry," Mr. Balcer shot back. "You will never have such a post."

Mr. Caron said he hoped Mr. Balcer would speak to "his friend" Premier Duplessis of Quebec to overcome delays in the building of a new bridge between Ottawa and Hull.

Mr. Balcer interjected: "Is that your way—to insult and then come and ask for favors?"

Mr. Caron said he had made no insults. He had merely stated the claim for French - Canadian rights.

Ovide Laflamme (L — Bellechasse) said he was "scandalized" by the view he attributed to Trade Minister Churchill and Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton that the government did not need Quebec support to govern the country.

This view, Mr. Laflamme said, "sabotages" the unity that is essential to development of the country.

Campbell to Die For Stabbing Wife to Death

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Gerald Thomas Campbell, 23, has been sentenced to die 11 months to the day after he fatally stabbed his 21 - year - old wife, Mary Ellen.

Chief Justice James C. McRuer his voice low and halting with a motion, Monday sentenced Campbell to be hanged Jan. 14 It was last Feb. 14 that Mrs. Campbell died in the restaurant where she worked, a few minutes after being stabbed in the stomach with a butcher knife.

The 11-man jury was out two hours and 45 minutes before foreman Richard Masoo of Echo Bay, 14 miles east of here, announced the verdict of guilty. A 12th juror, a woman, had been excused at the outset.

BLOWS A KISS

Campbell had nothing to say and showed no emotion. As he was led out of the courtroom he put his hand to his mouth and blew a kiss at his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Audry Campbell of Willowdale, Ont., sitting in the front row, from where they heard all of the five-day trial. It was the only time he looked straight at them.

Sitting with them was a 15-year-old sister. Campbell has five other half-brothers and sisters.

Defence counsel G. A. Vannini, who in his summation had asked for a verdict of manslaughter, did not say whether he would appeal.

Campbell's defence was based on drunkenness and provocation. His counsel said threats alleged to have been made by Campbell were true, they should be treated as mutterings of a drunk.

MADE STATEMENT

In a statement to detectives the night of the killing, Campbell recounted how he had married Mary Ellen in Muncie, Ind., in October, 1955. She returned home here to wait for papers before moving to the United States but then refused to return.

Campbell said he obtained a butcher knife and went to the restaurant where his wife worked. He remembered his wife laughing at him and nothing else until the police were putting handcuffs on him.

Police constable Robert Watson quoted Campbell as referring to the knifing as "premeditated murder so I might as well hang."

Crown attorney Ian Munro said in his address that during the three or four days prior to killing, Campbell was the presence of witnesses consistently carried out the idea of Campbell killing his wife. Mr. Munro said that if there was any provocation it was the wife who was entitled to be provoked because her husband would not go out and get a job.

FLU ON INCREASE

GENEVA (Reuters) — The influenza epidemic is expected to increase for "several more weeks" in Western Europe, the United Nations World Health Organization reported here Friday. In its latest epidemiological record, the organization said that according to preliminary reports, the epidemic seems to be increasing in Eastern Europe.

Sir Hugh Foot New Governor Of Cyprus

LONDON (Reuters) — Veteran colonial administrator Sir Hugh Foot was named today to replace soldier Sir John Harding as commander-in-chief and governor of Cyprus.

Harding, 60, whose appointment in September, 1955, was seen as a measure to counter a violent Greek-Cypriot campaign to end British rule and unite politically with Greece, accepted the post for two years.

A colonial office announcement said Harding will return to England on leave early in November.

Foot, now captain-general and governor of Jamaica, will take over in Cyprus about Dec. 1. The change is seen as a switch from military to "political" leadership on the troublesome island colony in the Mediterranean.

Reduce Height For OPP Recruits

OTTAWA (CP) — Minimum height for Ontario provincial police is being reduced by one-half inch to five-feet-six, Attorney-General Kelso Roberts said Monday night.

He told the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario the old minimum standard of five-foot-nine was being lowered in an attempt to attract recruits.

The new standard would go into effect "pretty promptly."

Minimum height for the RCMP is five-foot-eight.

Present Session of House Likely to Be Liveliest Ever

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A delicately balanced Commons has embarked, under a minority government, on what likely will be one of its liveliest sessions ever.

On the record to date, the Liberal party appears eager to thump hastily at the government while shying away for the time being from opportunities to defeat it.

The 25-member CCF group, larger than ever before, has depicted the Progressive Conservative government as no better than its Liberal predecessor. The change in administrations has not lessened CCF criticisms.

The position of the 19-member Social Credit group, so far, has not gone beyond support for the government's legislative program and reassertion of Social Credit monetary theories. But Leader Solon Low has said that although his party sits on the government side of the House, it still is an opposition group.

RIDICULE LIBERALS

So far, the government's reaction to this situation has been to fend off the CCF attacks while trying to ridicule the Liberals for not backing up their criticisms with their votes.

Although the Conservatives control only 111 of the 265 Commons seats, they consider they hold two trump cards for this session at least.

One is that the Liberals, 106 members strong, are in midstream in a change of leaders. Former prime minister St. Laurent plans to step down and plans are under way for a convention to choose his successor here Jan. 16-18.

The second, Conservatives feel, is that the Opposition is unlikely to combine to defeat the government before enactment of legislative plans for increases in old age pensions and other social security and for cash advances to prairie farmers for farm-stored grain. These and other measures proposed have received Opposition praise.

The current session is expected to be brief, ending before Christmas. And unless the Liberals find a prime issue on which they could appeal to the people, they are virtually certain to help maintain the Conservatives in office.

WELL-RANGE PICTURE

That situation will change radically once the new Liberal leader is chosen.

But within their present safe harbor, the Conservatives still face Opposition attacks.

In the session's first week, the most caustic criticisms came from former cabinet ministers James Sinclair, C. D. Pickersgill and Lionel Chevrier.

Mr. St. Laurent, opening the three-week debate, delivered a speech which though critical was calm and deliberate. Of the two considered most likely to succeed him, former external affairs minister Lester Pearson has offered no criticisms and former health minister Martin has found fault only with the lack of further progress on hospital insurance.

Mr. St. Laurent announced the Liberals would not propose non-confidence in the throne speech debate and would not support non-confidence motions by other parties. Two such motions by the CCF and Social Credit were later presented.

Mr. Sinclair mounted a vigorous attack on the way the government sought an interim money supply last week. But the Liberals—and everyone else—voted the funds when the government forced a showdown vote.

Conservative ministers replied with caustic comment.

"This weak-kneed course of action is a demonstration of irresponsibility," Finance Minister Fleming said.

The CCF, however, has matched the vigor of the Liberal attack and so far the Conservative have made no reply to the strongest criticism from that party.

That was made Friday by CCF Leader Coldwell who charged the new government is "clearly preparing to betray the Canadian people" on the trans-Canada gas pipeline issue. Mr. Coldwell said that the Conservatives, after joining the CCF last year in opposing the Liberal plan for federal aid of the giant project, now are busy carrying out the Liberal plan.

Pilgrims Give Pope a Car

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—A group of Italian pilgrims gave the Pope an automobile, and they delivered it right in the third-floor study where he received them Sunday.

The pilgrims, from the town of Desio, brought a three-seater Italian midget Bianchina to the Pope's summer residence here.

It was too cold and rainy for the 81-year-old pontiff to go outdoors, so one of the pilgrims picked up the car and carried it under his shoulders to the third-floor hall.

Young Mother Blinded in Eye By Firecracker

LONDON (Reuters)—That hilarious rotten-apples-and-flour-bag sendoff the Duke of Kent and his friends gave fellow army officers has ended in tragedy, a British newspaper reports.

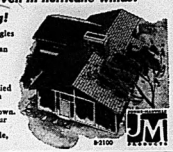
The Daily Mail says a young mother was blinded in one eye by a firecracker thrown from a train near Catterick, Northern England, last Thursday.

Aboard were friends of the 22-year-old duke, who were leaving for army duty in West Germany.

Mrs. Edna Mackie, 27-year-old civilian employee of Catterick army camp, was waving to a passenger when someone threw a firecracker out of a railroad coach, her husband, George Mackie told The Mail.

"An army eye specialist has performed an operation but as far as we can tell she has lost the sight of one eye completely," he is quoted as saying.

"I am sure my wife should be compensated in some way," he said.



A senior officer is quoted as saying the matter had been investigated and "will be further investigated if necessary."

Reach Settlement

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said Monday a basis of settlement has been reached in the strike of 2,300 Metropolitan Toronto plumbers. He did not give details of the settlement. It will go before the union membership Wednesday.

The plumbers struck Aug. 26. Last week union officials rejected an offer by the Master Plumbers Association calling for a 65 cent-an-hour increase spread over the next three years. The plumbers originally asked for a 56-cent increase and a one-year contract. They were paid $2.50 an hour when the dispute started.

Hal Patterson of Alouettes Ranks as All-Time Great

By WILF GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—It was four years ago that Hal Patterson first flashed on the Canadian football scene, an unknown import from the University of Kansas.

There was nothing to indicate that the rookie end, then 21, would turn out to be the type of player coaches dream of and seldom find.

The Montreal Alouettes' sensation gets better each season and in the opinion of Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve, who has seen many of Canada's all - time greats play, Patterson now ranks in that class. Reeve, an astute judge of football talent who once coached and played the game himself, wrote:

"There were giants in those days — Smiley Lawson, Lionel Conacher, Vip Foster, Dave Dixon.

"And now there is Patterson. He belongs; he is up there with the immortals of Canadian football. Now was better than Patterson this past weekend (Oct. 14)."

What this great player did is typical of what he has been doing all season. His individual brilliance once again saved another game for the Alouettes. They were trailing Ottawa Rough Riders 24-16 at the end of the third quarter when Patterson went to town and scored two touchdowns on ground plays to give the Als a 32-24 victory.

He can do practically anything on a football field. He's considered the best pass receiver in the east and is an outstanding blocker and tackler and the best defensive halfback in the Big Four. He has no peer in running back kickoffs and, in unusual fashion, an offensive end, is also on running plays and is a pass thrower.

"Mr. Wonderful" set eight Big Four records last season and was considered the country's outstanding player. This year he appears a cinch to win the Big Four scoring championship.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of British Columbia Lions, probably will be happy to learn Teddy Morris, another of the all-time Canadian football greats, thinks pretty highly of Joe Poirier, speedy, pass catching end with McGill University Redmen.

Morris, who coached Toronto Argonauts to three straight Grey Cup titles in 1945-46-47, now has the job of recruiting Canadian players for the Big Four club. He was interested in lining up Poirier for Argos until he found out that Capozzi has him ticketed for future delivery to the Lions.

Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell says: "Coach was enraptured after seeing Poirier gallop for a couple of touchdowns, recover a fumble and intercept a pass against the University of Toronto Blues.

"A boy might do some of them things I've seen this boy do and it could be an accident," said Teddy. "But he does the right things and he's in the right places so often it's more than an accident. Looks like a pretty good prospect."

Poirier, who comes from Vernon, Que., played junior football last season with Notre Dame de Grace when Capozzi coached that team. Capozzi took Poirier out to the Lions' pre - season training camp for a trial after being appointed general manager of the WIFU club.

Poirier, who need Canadian players, would have kept him around this season if he could have enrolled at the University of British Columbia. They told him he would probably sit on the bench, but he had trouble getting into UBC and so decided to come back East.

Bombers Close in on Eskimos Rally to Whip Saskys 27-19

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With only five games remaining in the regular Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule it is unlikely that league standings will change any before the season ends Nov. 2.

Hard-charging Winnipeg Blue Bombers continued their winning ways in Winnipeg Monday night while Saskatchewan Roughriders, weakened by injuries, continued to be haunted by their losing ways.

Riders aren't dead yet, but put up a good fight against Winnipeg, forcing the Bombers to come from behind several times before they won 27-19.

The victory moved Bombers to within four points of first-place Edmonton Eskimos and sat points ahead of third-place Calgary Stampeders. Each of the five clubs in the league have two games left in the regular schedule.

The Grey Cup champion Eskimos have practically clinched first place and a bye into the WIFU finals. Two losses by Edmonton and two wins by Winnipeg would most likely still give Eskimos top playoff spot because of a better for-and-against points average.

British Columbia Lions still have a less-than-slim chance for third place playoff berth. Lions, three points behind Calgary, would have to win both their remaining games, one against Edmonton, and Calgary would have to lose both its games, one against Winnipeg.

Bombers scored 10 points in the last five minutes of play to defeat Roughriders, who have a record of two victories and one tie in 11 starts this season.

Riders held the lead at the end of each of the three quarters. They led 6-0 at the end of the first, 12-10 at the end of the second and 19-17 at the end of the third.

TAKES SCORING LEAD

Gerry James took over the individual league scoring lead. He chalked up 10 points on a touchdown, a field goal and a single, boosting his total to 100 points, nine better than Eskimos' Jackie Parker.

Fullback Charlie Shepard was the outstanding back on the field. He raced for two touchdowns and booted two singles. Quarterback Kenny Ploen converted all three touchdowns to complete the scoring.

Bobby Marlow, hindered by a broken hand, Harry Lunn and Frank Tripucka scored Saskatchewan's touchdowns. End George Tait got credit for a convert when he took a pass from Tripucka on a fake placement.

Mexicans Win Horse Show

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Mexico's army turned in a faultless performance Monday night to win the second International jumping event in the 12th Pennsylvania National Horse Show and close in on England's lead for the team trophy.

The win gave the Mexicans 15 points and the Maj.-Gen. Milton G. Baker Trophy. England has 18 points. Canada has yet to win a point.

TO PROBE COMPANIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators Saturday reported evidence that "some of the largest companies" used illegal means to block labor unions from their plants. The investigators also said there is evidence of deals to get "sweetheart" contracts with friendly unions. Chairman John McClellan announced the special Senate investigating committee will explore allegations against more than dozen companies in 11 states. The firms were not named.

Japanese Girls Start New Fad in Caddies

TOKYO (AP) — The international Canada Cup matches here this week may provoke a new worldwide style in golf—girl caddies.

Professionals from 36 nations are finding golf bags toted around the Kasumigaseki Country Club by petite little things ranging in age from 17 to 22 and the pros love it.

"They carry these big bags around as if they were purses," said Sam Snead. "They never seem to get tired and they're always fresh and pleasant. Why, back home I've got big husky guys who act like they're dying. They puff and pant and plop down on the ground every chance they get."

Toronto's Al Balding said the girls are the best caddies he's ever seen.

CAN GAUGE DISTANCE

"They don't try to tell you what club to use but they're great on gauging distance," the Bigwin Inn pro said. "Just ask them and they'll give you the size of a shot within five yards."

The girls are uniformly dressed in blue-jeans, jackets, white sneakers and long-billed white caps. For the tournament, opening Thursday and continuing through Sunday, they will wear bright red jackets with the name of their player on the front and the name of his country on the back for easy identification.

A Japanese golf official said girl caddies have been in use in this country for years.

"It's a matter of economy," he said. "It's hard to get men for the jobs we pay, which is 200 yen for an 18-hole round."

That amounts to about 60 cents. In the U.S., tournament caddies get a minimum of $5. The going rate is $10.

Hal Patterson Tops Big Four; Schrieder Second

TORONTO (CP)—Hal Patterson, one of the greatest players Eastern Canada has seen in years, is making a runaway of the Big Four Football Union scoring race.

The 25-year-old import from the University of Kansas scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday as his Montreal Alouettes lost 32-24 to Hamilton but he was able to increase his margin over Ottawa's Gary Schrieder, in second place.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press gave Patterson with 12 touchdowns in 11 games for a 72-point total. Schrieder, picked up five points—two converts and a field goal—to bring his total to 55. Riders lost 24-16 to Toronto Argonauts.

Cookie Gilchrist scored both of Hamilton's touchdowns to bring his total in the last two weeks to five and his points for the season to 54 and hopped into third place with 54 points.

Don Wright of London Lords held his No. 1 spot in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union although Lords were idle during the weekend. He has 51 points, four up on Mike Nordia of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and five ahead of Gene Lekenta of Sarnia Golden Bears.

Joe Poirier of McGill scored two touchdowns as the Redmen walloped Queen's Golden Gaels 33-6 to bring his point total to 34. Gene Creighton of the University of Western Ontario, leader in the Intercollegiate union a week ago with 24 points, was held off the score sheet although Mustangs beat University of Toronto 15-0.

Kingston Writer Paints Pessimistic Picture Of Eastern Senior League

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SMALL PACKAGES

If present plans materialize—and it is to be hoped they will—the McFarlands will have the lightest line in Eastern Ontario senior "A" Hockey League. If Barton Bradley, who reportedly is on his way to Belleville from Seattle, makes the club, and the occasion warrants him cearing Ike Hildebrand and "Wiener" Brown, the McFarlands will have exactly 465 pounds of hockey beef on the line. That, roughly, amounts to two ordinary defencemen as far as avoirdupois goes.

This department is not calling the plays regarding the disposition of the various lines. There is nothing wrong with Gerry Geyer flitting between Ike and the Wiener in fact he does so, like an old hat fits a fisherman's noggin. We're just supporting, that's all.

For Master Bradley, who is 27 years of age, played last year with Seattle in the Western League and has also played with Toronto of the same loop. He played one game with the Boston Bruins in Stanley Cup playoffs, and if memory is correct about the same time Wiener played with the Bruins. Bradley has also seen action with the Hershey Bears in the American League.

The question of weight came up in the Macs' dressing room a few nights ago and the boys were wagering or talking as to whom weighed the most soaking wet, Ike or the Wiener. We forgot who was tops. Anyway one tipped the scales at 150 and the other 154. Now Milister Bradley tips the scales at 150 and that makes 465 pounds of McFarland beef on skates should the three play together on one line. The opposition who reads this will rear up their hair—it stews featherweights. Their trouble is to catch 'em. None that we've seen thus far has gotten close enough to 'em to sift a little salt on their hockey tail-feathers.

HANDBALL

They say the game started when Fin McCool, then 87, was tossed big boulders over a building wid his ould man, in County Down, readyin' thimselves for the championship series to be played agin Fin's grandpappy and great-grandpappy who were practicin' down Cork way.

The story goes that Fin was tossin' big balls o' mud up again a tall wall, and the villagers became so excited over the dolt's of the omadhaum; they started to play the game themselves. And that, me heartie, is the origin of the game of handball.

All of which, so Abe Tobe tells us, leads up to the fact that there is a handball club in the city called the Belleville Handball Club, which is doing right well by itself but developing growing pains.

The club has some fifteen members to date. It's court is located in the YMCA. The boys are having themselves a whale of a time playing a game that is an excellent conditioner, so much so that more fellows about town are interested.

The idea is, Abe says, to form a city handball league. He feels there is or would be enough men interested, in the city, to play the game and lay the foundation of the proposed league. So any one desirous of playing handball is requested to get in touch with Abe or with the YMCA physical director.

BOOSTER CLUB

Booster Club president Dick Beare has called a general meeting of members and potential members for tomorrow (Wednesday) at the city hall council chamber starting eight o'clock. This, Dick says, is a very important meeting with much special business to be discussed and he would like to have as many Boosters on hand as possible. The Eastern League opens here on Friday night with the Whitby Dunlops as the guests of the McFarlands, and the Boosters should be out in full strength for this important tilt.

Another special important Booster announcement says Wayne and Maus chairman Jim Ward, is that the proposed "Grandstand" will take place at Earl Ashley's service station on Saturday, November 2. The Booster Club will profit by five cents from each gallon of gasoline sold, but more will likely be said about this at tomorrow's meeting.

And don't forget to pick up those package deals in raffway tickets and pastehoards for the game in Kingston, November 2nd. They cost you three bucks overall and are now on sale at Moe's Coffee Shop and Bill Cook's Tobacco Store. The guarantee has to be assured this week, so act quickly or the deal might be off.

Has 'Butterflies Under Belt' As Opening Dates Approach But Says Loop in Good Shape

Written For The Canadian Press
By DON SOUTTER

KINGSTON (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A eastern division finds some butterflies under its belt as it faces the opening of another season Wednesday night.

For although it boasts Canada's Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops among its six members, it still must prove itself to fans and rivals.

Whitby starts the season Wednesday against Kingston CKLC. Last year Dunlops ran away from the rest of the loop's clubs, outclassing them in unprecedented fashion. And there are many fans in Kitchener-Waterloo and North Bay, both with clubs in the newly combined OHA Senior A setup—a NOHA Senior southern circuit, unwilling to admit Wren Blair's Senior B champions of 1955-56 have developed into Canada's best Senior A team.

BOLSTER CLAIMS

These factors, however, bolster the group's claim to equal rights with the established western and northern senior series:

1. Whitby's emergence as the Allan Cup winner.

2. A pre-season exhibition record against other series clubs.

3. The good shape of almost all six clubs — Whitby, Kingston, Cornwall, Chevrolet, Belleville Mc-Farlands, Ottawa Junior Canadiens and Pembroke Lumber Kings.

It could be a goaltenders' league. For those teams will be using netminders with National Hockey League experience.

Heading the list is Lorg John Henderson, who kicked out enough pucks last spring to enable Whitby to climb to amateur hockey's top perch.

VETERAN PERFORMER

Close behind is Belleville's Gordie Bell, a veteran American Hockey League performer who joined McFarlands midway through the season. Latest comer is Ray Fredericks, who has supplanted Gerry Devanney as Cornwall's goalie. Fredericks was purchased a week ago from Trois Rivieres of the Quebec Hockey League.

Circuit interest runs highest in Belleville. The city has geared itself to fever pitch over the last four months and for a team in strong enough to topple Whitby.

Backing the efforts of manager Orsay Dennis is a newly-formed booster club, whose 1,000 members already have a worthy bank account pledged to be spent on the acquisition of players.

NEW COACH

Coaching the Macs is Ike Hildebrand, Peterborough lacrosse firebrand who joined the club in last season as a player.

Belleville still seeks a defence man to weld all-star Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford and Lionel Bobby but up front should help for 50-goal scorer Minnie Menard with the acquisition of Wayne Wiener Brown from the Western Hockey League.

Whitby is set for its 36-game schedule with manager - coach Blair having picked up his replacements for last year's title winner.

At the opposite end of the group, Cornwall which has been playing Senior A hockey since 1926, has added some strong replacements to bolster the team which closed fast last season.

SEVERAL NEW FACES

Defenceman Joe Lepine has replaced Gerry Plamondon as coach and manager Ray Miron has dipped into the Maritimes, the QHL and the International League for added talent. The newcomers include Reg Grigg, a centre who played five years for Cincinnati in the International; Doug McPhee and Frank Dorrington, high scorers from the Maritimes; George Aitken of the defunct Stratford Indians and Fredericks and Bob Leger, both from QHL teams.

Kingston pins its hopes on a veteran AHL coach and a former star with the Kingston Penitentiary. Bun Cook, a native of Kingston, has returned after a 31-year-wintering absence and has been joined by R. M. (Dick) Allan, retired chief executive officer of the penitentiary, who has become manager.

ONLY SEVEN SIGNED

Determined to embark on a "build slowly-build well" policy, Kingston had only signed seven players by Monday night. They include returnees Don Senior, Ted Toppazzini, Mike Bukacheski, Gerry Moore and Don Bellringer and newcomer Ken Linseman.

Ottawa, a junior team and top amateur farm club of the NHL Montreal Canadiens, lost only six of 20 games, against the five eastern teams last year and this season is participating on a 3 - game basis.

Canadiens have discarded last season's unsuccessful experiment of using over-age juniors for the Senior A contests, and this year will go in all games with their regular junior lineup.

STATUS QUESTIONABLE

Question mark in the league is Pembroke, who in the last three or four seasons of Senior A competition have won nothing but lost money. Backed this season by Wally Lenser, a Pembroke car and lumber dealer, the Lumber Kings have the unenviable task of beginning the season without the benefit of an exhibition game.

Back again are the Giesebrecht, Bird, Brown and Jack Gerry Plamondon has wound up at camp and Ralph Buchanan and Frank Chiarelli, who played last year with Kingston, now are with Kings.

Lenser has added Jim Farelli, a purchase from Buffalo, Vic Files, who played last year in Brstain, and Jack Douglas, returning after a year's absence.

Kid Gavilan Fights Ortega In LA Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gunning for position in the scramble for the vacant world welterweight title, ex-champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Gaspar Ortega of Mexico fight for 12 rounds or less tonight at Hollywood Park.

The outdoor battle, weather permitting, is slated to go on at 9:30 p.m. PST.

Bolo-punching Gavilan, 31, is a 10/7 favorite to outpoint the 22-year-old contender from Tijuana, Mex.

Gavilan is the sixth-rated welterweight in the world and Ortega No. 7.

Gavilan outpointed Ortega in Miami two months ago, given some help by a seven - pound weight advantage.

Since 1943, the kid has fought 138 times, winning 105 fights and earned a draw in six. He has never been stopped.

Ortega has won 42 fights, lost nine and has one draw. His claim to contention includes a pair of decisions each over another former champ, Johnny Bratton, and Isaac Logart. He too, has never been knocked out.

Giants Buy Phoenix Club

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants want their spring training home, Phoenix, Ariz., for their entry in the Pacific Coast League.

Shift of the Dodgers and Giants of the National League to Los Angeles and San Francisco means the PCL, highest minor league in baseball, must be realigned or go out of business.

President Horace Stoneham of the Giants Monday bought the Phoenix franchise and his office here said PCL permission will be sought to locate a team there.

It was the second major move by Stoneham. A week ago, the Giants and Boston Red Sox traded their minor league franchises. Giants are to get the San Francisco Seals in exchange for Minneapolis of the American Association.

NO PLAYERS INVOLVED

Since players are not involved in the shifts, the Phoenix club would be manned by many who played for Minneapolis last season. The Minnesota metropolis will have the former San Francisco Seals, PCL champs this year.

All this needs approval by six votes in the PCL meeting scheduled for Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 1. At this time compensation to the PCL will be discussed.

At least three new cities must be added to the PCL. One to replace San Francisco, a second for Los Angeles and a third for neighboring Hollywood which will be blanketed by the Los Angeles club.

The PCL seeks to stay in business as a Triple-A classification minor league, a notch below its present "open" status.

Canuck Boxer Edged in NY

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie (Pigeons) Lynch, outboxed, outpunched and outwrestled Yvon Turenne of Montreal Monday night in winning a split decision in 10 rounds at St. Nicholas Arena.

Turenne, who subbed for ailing Danny Russo of New York, weighed 153½; Lynch, 149.

Turenne, 23, a 5-to-3 underdog, was called in earlier Monday to replace the fis-stricken Russo.

Referee Harry Ebbets, who repeatedly warned Lynch for holding, voted for Lynch. 7-2-1. Judge Bill Forst also scored for Lynch, 8-2. Judge Lee Birnbaum cast the minority vote for Turenne, 5-4-1.

Turenne forced the fight all the way but the 22-year-old New Yorker piled up points with a stinging left jab, a fast left hook and short rights to the head. He landed the sharper and harder punches.

The young Montrealer concentrated mainly on body punches. A crowd of 1,117, mostly Lynch rooters, saw the bout.

Lynch's rooters, who usually let loose a flock of pigeons in the arena, whenever Eddie fights, didn't do it this time.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had six agents on hand, reinforced by five policemen. And the fans were warned before the main event not to release pigeons inside.

Abitibi Eskimos May Fold For Season

TIMMINS (CP)—The future of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A northern section is at stake following a recommendation from Abitibi Eskimos' manager Jim Munsie that the team suspend operations for this season.

Munsie said Monday he will recommend to the team's sponsor Timmins Community Club, at a meeting tonight in Iroquois Falls, that the club disband for the season.

If Eskimos dropped out only three clubs, Timmins Schumacher Flyers, South Porcupine Porkies and Kapuskasing Huskys would remain in the northern section.

Munsie said Eskimos have not been able to obtain releases of players wishing to play with them while they have released four of their last year's club.

Japanese Fans Like Americans For Canada Cup

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese fans have established the United States team of Sum Snead and Jimmy Demaret as outstanding favorites in the Canada Cup matches, which start Thursday, but most observers figure it will be a tossup among at least six of the international golf teams.

There was almost a riot today when Snead and Demaret played at a neighboring Tokyo club, disappointing hundreds who had gathered at the Kasumigaseki Country Club to see the two American idols.

Spectators, who had paid 200 yen (60 cents) to watch the practice, started demanding their money back until Snead and Demaret were persuaded to go to Kasumigaseki and play an extra nine holes.

DESERT OTHERS

When word went out that the two Americans were on the course, fans deserted other players and swarmed to the Yanks' gallery.

Despite attention being given Snead and Demaret, a U.S. victory in the 72-hole, four - man event may well result in far from a foregone conclusion Saner heads have hinted there are at least a half-dozen tandems among the 20 from throughout the world capable of seizing the top prize.

Outstanding among these is the Australian team of Peter Thomson and Bruce Crampton, both young yet experienced golfers who have a brilliant international reputation. Thomson, who won three British Opens in a row, is rated one of the great golfers of the world.

Also held in high esteem are these teams: Stan Leonard and Al Balding of Canada; Argentina's Antonio Cerda and Leopoldo Ruiz; Belgium's Flory van Donck and Arthur de Vulder and the four British teams, made up of Ryder Cup members who recently beat U.S. top professionals in England.

England's Ken Bousfield and Peter Alliss, Jr., are rated best of these, but there is no discounting the others: Harry Bradshaw and Christy O'Connor of Ireland, Eric Brown and John Panton of Scotland and Dai Rees and Dave Thomas of Wales.

FROM LAST TO VICTORY

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Turner's Honest Sun came from last spot Monday to win the featured Dutton Plate at New Woodbine race track.

Ridden by jockey George Gubbins, Honest Sun trailed the nine-horse field down the backside.

Nearing the home - eighths marker, Gubbins took him to the outside of the front-runners and by the time they hit the turn into the stretch he was in contending position. Salon, a fancy American bred, went right along with Honest Sun and was nipped in a close finish. Charm Song was third.

Kowalchuk, Payette, Menard Spark McFarlands to Fifth Straight Exhibition Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Rebels from Louisville, wearing the Confederate grey garnished with the blue of the North, failed to clip the unbroken exhibitional string of the McFarlands here last night, bowing to the Canadian "Ykes" by a 7-4 score. It was their fifth straight "ex" victory.

It was the last appearance of the McFarlands before the opening of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League which pries off the lid here on Friday with the Allan Cup champions from Whitby as the Macs' special guests.

Last night the Macs' first line of Kowalchuk, Payette and Menard came into its own. It was the best line the Macs had out there and accounted for seven scoring points. Kowalchuk scored twice and had an assist, Menard had a goal and two assists and Payette, two assists. Kowalchuk came through with his best all-round effort since joining the Macs.

Other Mac scorers were Ike Hildebrand, Eddie Martineau, Rheal Savard and "Weiner" Brown. Martineau turned in a good performance, his second goal set-up being a sparkling picture effort. Rheal Savard, formerly of Cornwall, at present trying out with the McFarlands, came through well and was a distinct asset to the Macs offensive. He scored a goal and an assist.

The game was clean and fast with the checking being close. There were nine penalties handed out altogether, five to the Macs. Only a small crowd was on hand, the greater majority of fans apparently waiting for the "big game" with the Whitby Dunlops Friday.

The Macs held a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, led 5-2 at the close of the second and split four goals with the Rebels in the final chapter. They had a clear edge in territorial play outshooting the Rebs 34-25.

Watching the game from the press box were Moe Benoit, cause of action resting a shoulder aggravation; Keith MacDonald, ditto a knee injury and Johnny Muretich nursing a broken bone in a hand.

PAUL PAYETTE

MINNIE MENARD

The Macs started off at a fast tempo with both Minnie Menard and Paul Payette racing in alone on Crowds but the blonde baling goslie outgussested both.

The Macs had the better of the play and Weiner Brown drew the first Confederate blood at 3.12 when he whipped Cowgirl ness behind Crowds. Crawford was in on the play.

Two minutes later Eddie Martineau put the Macs two up when he dashed in close to the nets after drifting a blazer at Crowds and banged in his own rebound. The goal was a nice passing play with Hildebrand and Jones.

Bobby lent Paul Payette away at the six minute mark and the centre flung a neat pass over to Kowalchuk who went in close before blasting a backhand shot into the net to give the Macs a 3-0 lead.

Ronnie Spong took Fiori Geogan's short forward pass over the blueline to roar in close to Bell and score the only Rebel goal of the period.

The game roughened a little in the second period with Referees Vern Goyer and Bill Hurst handing out six penalties, four to the Macs. Weiner Brown and Ronnie Spong started a pushing match in a mild flare-up, both drawing two minutes for roughing.

Eddie Marineau set up the prettiest goal of the night when he took the puck behind his own blueline, edged down the right wing through the Rebel defendmen and laid a perfect goalmouth pass on Hildebrand's stick. Ike made no mistake.

Bobby got the gate and the Rebs put on the pressure, Wilson scoring a screen shot past Geogan and Uhriaco.

Near the period end the Macs took over and swarmed around the Rebel net with Rheal Savard finally driving home Davy Jones' corner pass to make the score 5-2.

"Turk" Barclay replaced Gordie Bell in the McFarlands nets opening the third period. The Kowalchuk, Menard, Payette line broke away from the Rebels close-checking after four minutes with Kowalchuk scoring on a three-way click-click passing effort. Seven minutes later Menard made it 7-2, taking Montgomery's pass to beat the veteran Crowdis with Savard in on the play.

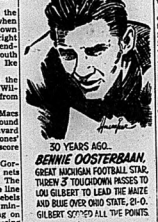
Then Louisville whipped into sudden scoring life, firing home two markers in 44 seconds to whittle the count to 7-4 which closed the counting for the evening. Dudych, prone on the ice, manoeuvered the puck past Barclay for the first tally and Uhriaco took Sharpe's pass to best the Macs goalie.

Seconds later on a power play Kowalchuk and Menard both missed on a wide-open net with Crowdis out of the picture.

Lallo and Wilson for the Rebels and Kowalchuk drew penalties in the dying minutes but no damage was done to either side.

Louisville: goal, Crowdis; defence, Geogan, Gendron, Lallo; forwards, Sharp, Dudych, Wilson, Maisonville, Spong, Laforce, Davidson, Uhriaco.

Belleville: goal, Bell; defence, Marineau, Botley, Crawford, Montgomery; forwards, Brown, Menard, Payette, Goyer, Kowalchuk, Savard, Jones, Hildebrand, Barclay (3rd period).



Referees: Goyer, Hurst.

Oklahoma Tops Football Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — After a one-week absence, Oklahoma was back in its accustomed spot today atop The Associated Press football poll.

As if to lend emphasis to the change, Michigan State Spartans, who had displaced the Sooners at the top of the heap a week ago, tumbled all the way to eighth.

Nor were the Spartans the only ones to go into a nosedive. Minnesota, Oregon State and Arkansas, all of whom were high on the list before each absorbed a beating Saturday, dropped.

The votes by sports writers and sportscasters were tabulated on the usual basis of 10 for first place, nine for second, etc.

The accounting gave Oklahoma which hung up its 44th consecutive victory Saturday — a 47-0 lacing of hapless Kansas—1,353 votes compared to 1,108 for second-place Texas A and M Aggies. Aggies advanced from third to second by virtue of a hard-earned 7-0 victory over Texas Christian.

Following them in the top 10, in order, were Iowa, Duke, Auburn, Mississippi, Notre Dame, Michigan State, Army and Louisiana State.

Michigan State was the only one of Saturday's losers that managed to stay in the top 10. Minnesota toppled from fourth to 14th, while Oregon State and Arkansas, seventh and eighth respectively a week ago, fell out of sight.

Army, Louisiana State and Mississippi are the newcomers to the select circle.

Thomas, Wertz Top Leagues in Sacrifice Flies

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh and Vic Wertz of Cleveland produced the most sacrifice flies among major league batsmen in the 1957 baseball season.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press disclosed Monday that Thomas hit 12 sacrifice flies to top the National League. Wertz was high in the American League with 11.

Thomas' batting average benefited six points from the regulation which does not charge an official time at bat for a run-scoring fly. The Pirates' slugger would have batted .254 instead of .260 if the sacrifice fly rule was not in effect.

The regulation was erased from the rule book in 1939 but was revived in 1954.

Wertz also was indebted to the rule change. Indians' first baseman finished with a .262 mark rather than .276 under the old rule.

Minnie Minoso of Chicago and Ed Pilarcik of Baltimore also showed their proficiency in the sacrifice fly department with nine each.

According to the rules committee, a batter is credited with a sacrifice fly when, with fewer than two outs, he hits a fair fly ball which is caught and the runner scores after the catch.

Live Minnows Still Best Bait Angler Survey Shows

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Even more anglers than last year's record number fished the rivers and lakes to fish this summer, game authorities of the provinces report.

Prime targets for resident as well as non-resident anglers were salmon and trout in the Atlantic provinces and British Columbia, with pickerel and pike the most frequently - caught specimens in the Central and Prairie provinces.

Anglers varied in their choice of bait, but live minnows — where these are still permissible — are still the big favorite, according to a survey by The Canadian Press.

PICKEREL POPULAR

Pickerel, not usually a fighting fish but one that rates highly on the dinner table, was the most popular catch in Ontario, along with pike, bass and trout.

The Ontario lands and forests department won't complete its statistics for some months yet, but departmental experts predicted 1957 would surpass the record of 377,220 non-resident licences sold in 1956. The number of resident anglers is not estimated, since they do not require licences.

Catches were good throughout the northern section of the province and down through the Parry Sound, Haliburton and Kawartha Lakes region.

One of the best pike catches was a 30-pounder at Sharpbolt Lake in the Chapleau area.

TROUT IN QUEBEC

A record number of angling licences was issued this year by the Quebec fish and game department. The total was about 250,300, an increase of 15 per cent over the 1956 record of 255,070 for both residents and non-residents.

Speckled trout is the principal sport fish in Quebec. But many anglers also go after Atlantic salmon, lake trout, bass, pike, pickerel—known as dore in Quebec—and ouananiche, a type of landlocked salmon.

Speckled trout are taken mainly on artificial flies, the only bait allowed in the provincial parks and fishing reserves. Artificial flies are also the only legal bait for salmon.

The department reports that in the Lake Waygamack, about 170 miles north of Trois - Rivieres, Philogene Mongrain of nearby La Tuque last year caught a speckled trout weighing 10 pounds 1 ounce.

BOOM IN WEST

Manitoba expected licence sales this year would exceed a record, with 41,634 sold up to July. This compared with 29,843 up to July last year.

A lot of fishing in the Winnipeg area is done in the Whiteshell forest reserve, east of the city. Pickerel and pike are prevalent in the southern part of the province, and trout is the favorite in the north. A 42-pound lake trout was landed near Flin Flon.

In northern Saskatchewan a commercial fisherman landed a 72-pound lake trout in Lake Athabaska. Most of the best fishing spots in Saskatchewan are in the north, although good catches were reported from Last Mountain Lake among southern Saskatchewan fishing areas.

Fishing licences are steadily increasing. Non-residents flying to lakes inaccessible by road are turning in an increasingly important part of the Saskatchewan total. Last year there were 1,500 of these.

The fish wouldn't bite for Prime Minister Diefenbaker when he visited Lac La Ronge, one of Saskatchewan's best fishing areas. On a short trip there after the June 10 election he was assured that lake trout (as large as 40 pounds, the guides said) and pickerel were abundant in the island-studded lake. But he caught only two little jack-fish, one so small that he threw it back.

RAINBOW TROUT

Alberta is fast becoming a rainbow trout paradise. A steady program of restocking by the province has made it the major fish catch in the past few years. One of the biggest catches this year was an 11¼ pound rainbow in Hasse Lake, 30 miles west of Edmonton. Many lakes yielded nine- and 10-pounders. Mountain streams seemed to be the best spots. Live minnows are banned as bait.

Salmon is the major catch for anglers in British Columbia, as in New Brunswick, with trout next in line. In British Columbia the popular bait in salt water is herring, with a preference for medium-sized wobbler. In fresh water, artificial flies are mostly used.

An 11-pound salmon was landed at Britannia Beach, 15 miles upcoast from Vancouver.

In New Brunswick, the Miramichi area reported the best salmon fishing in 30 years. Only artificial lures may be used. Many famous fishing anglers again were attracted to the Miramichi and other spots such as the Restigouche and Upsalquitch rivers in the north.

Nova Scotia alone reported a drop in the fishing boom this year. Low water conditions were blamed for reducing the number of resident and visiting anglers.

But good trout catches were reported from Cape Breton's Lake Ainslie and River Denys, as well as from spots in Guysboro, Halifax and Kings counties on the mainland The Medway was the most rewarding salmon spot.

Senators Will Stay at Home But Are Open to Suggestions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States capital is sure of keeping its American League baseball team for 1958. But the question bouncing around again today was whether the Senators will soon look for gold for future years in some other city chamber-ing for major league baseball.

Immediate hopes of Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., were dashed Monday when the Senators' board of governors voted to remain in Washington next year. The club said feelers also had been received from two other unidentified cities.

It was clear, however, that owners of the Senators will still listen to offers from Minneapolis-St. Paul and any additional interested parties.

Club president Calvin Griffith last year weighed carefully a proposition from Los Angeles, but he and the other board members finally voted it down. The former Brooklyn Dodgers have since moved into that territory.

While insisting he does not want to leave Washington—and has no plans to do so—Griffith has said he feels obliged to lay any sound offer before the directors.

Pastrano Rates 2-1 Favorite Over Britain's Heavy Hope

LONDON (AP)—Britain's latest heavyweight hope, Dick Richardson, goes Willie Pastrano to "slug it out" when he takes on the fourth-ranked American tonight in a 10-round match at Harringay Arena.

"I don't mess about trying to box him," said Richardson, a 23-year-old Welsh milkman with little box experience. "I shall go and try to slug it out with him."

British boxing fans conceded Richardson's best chance rests in landing a lucky punch on the flashy New Orleans boxer. Pastrano, veteran of 52 fights at the age of 21, is a 2-1 favorite.

Although Richardson was knocked out by Nino Valdes, the hulking Cuban, in the fourth round of a crowd of 11,000 will see this international match.

For a time it will be the American with the fancy style and dancing feet while the British lad has the heavy punch in his right hand.

Richardson has a 20-3 record for 23 fights with 17 knockouts. Most of his opponents were the journeyman variety and hardly up to the standard that Pastrano has met on his way toward the top of the division.

Pastrano has a 43-5-4 record for 52 scraps. However, he has knocked out only eight. He never has been stopped.

Richardson at six-foot-three is three inches taller than Pastrano and will outweigh him by more than 10 pounds. Dick's problem will be catching Willie.

"Richardson won't see him, the way he goes," said Ted (Kid) Lewis, the former welter champ, after watching Pastrano's fancy footwork. "He's got all the moves —a real workman."

Rocket Leads National League In Points Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens refuses to recognize that at 36 a National Hockey League player should find the going a bit rough.

Playing with all the color that marked him a rookie in the 1942-43 season, the fiery right winger garnered eight points last week—three goals and five assists—to take over the scoring lead, official statistics showed today.

Richard's third tally was a milestone. It was his 500th goal in regular-season play. Added to his six previous goals this season and his six assists, the point gave Richard a total of 13, one more than his younger brother and linemate, Henri.

KEEPS PACE

Henri kept pace with his brother by getting a goal and two assists on three others to increase his total to six goals and six assists. He got six assists on three goals and three assists—in one game.

Montreal's Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau, deadlocked for the scoring lead last week, remained bracketed in third spot with 10 points on identical records of four goals and six assists. Moore picked up a goal and three assists and Beliveau two goals and two assists.

Three players are grouped with seven points. They are Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers and Doug Harvey of Montreal, lone defenceman among the leaders.

Charlie Hodge, tending goal for Montreal while regular goalie Jacques Plante convalesces after a pre-season operation for a sinus condition, ranks second in goalies. Hodge has allowed 10 goals in six games for a goals-against average of 1.67.

In the league standings, Canadiens are a nine-point pace, defeated record and moved two points ahead of second - place Bruins. Montreal has four wins and two ties while Boston has won four and lost one, playing less game.

New York is in third place with five points and Detroit Red Wings in fourth with four. Chicago Black Hawks follow with three points and Toronto Maple Leafs are last with two.

Mitzi Gaynor Gets Prize Role After Being Let Out by Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three years ago, Mitzi Gaynor was told by both Century - Fox that her services were no longer needed.

Today she's back on the lot with one of the prize roles of this or any other year.

She's playing Nellie Forbush, the pert nurse in South Pacific. It's a role that many a movie queen would give anything to snag, but Mitzi won it in a walk. She was the only girl who tested for it.

"They let me go just before I started There's No Business Like Show Business," Mitzi recalled in her dressing room. "No explanation. No farewells. They just told me my contract would not be picked up.

"I think it worked out for the best. I've been pretty lucky on the outside. Now, when I come back to the studio, they accept me as I am.

"It's different when you stay at the studio where you started out, especially if you began when you were very young. Everybody at the studio thinks of you as 'our little Mitzi.' You don't understand that you have grown up."

Mitzi continued to grow in stature when she went out on her own. Picking roles carefully, she did pictures with Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor and George Gobel. Now she has two hits in the theatres—The Joker Is Wild and Les Girls.

How did she get to do Nellie?

"I wanted the role like mad," she said. "But I didn't think I had a chance of getting it."

Nevertheless, she made the pitch to Josh Logan, Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein III. She auditioned, she has to do flat-footed, maladroit routine in the Honeybun number, an amateur performance for the servicemen.

"I had to forget everything I learned," she said.

Snoopie Home, All Forgiven

WINDSOR (CP) — Snoopie is home and all is forgiven.

The car the little dog helped save being repaired and his master won't have to tell his wife that the dog is missing.

The purebred Daschund leaped into the lap of Dr. William Hodge, 35, of Detroit, while he was driving near here Saturday night and refused to get off the high-way. Neither dog nor driver was hurt.

Snoopie didn't wait for a scolding. He just took off.

Ted Wright, 26, of Windsor, a railway worker, found the dog being fed by railway hands and returned him to Dr. Hodge Monday night.

Dr. Fellows said he hadn't been able to tell his wife and 18-month-old daughter Susan that the dog was missing.

Prime Minister Makes No Pledges On CLC Brief

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, receiving the Canadian Labor Congress' annual legislative brief for the first time, Monday made no major specific pledges but promised full consideration to a wide series of representations made by the 1,000,000-member body.

Mr. Diefenbaker made no comment on two CLC demands for provincial regulations—one to investigate methods of settling industrial disputes and the other to draft a wholesale revision of immigration laws.

Labor Minister Starr told the union officials that he hopes current studies on a revision of the federal labor code — which governs industrial relations for some 450,000 persons — under federal jurisdiction—will bring improvements.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Of the CLC's renewal of perennial requests for improved social security measures on scales higher than those now proposed by the new government, Mr. Diefenbaker said "we can't do those things we have been asked for."

"But we can go forward," he said, "having in mind the demands of the Canadian people for lower taxes, particularly in the lower income groups . . . We will do what is reasonable and fair."

The prime minister said he agrees with the CLC that there should be a representative of labor on the culture-promoting Canada Council, and he added another major omission is that it has no representative of agriculture.

"They deserve representation on such a council," he said, though he went no further than this.

Great minds do not run in the same channel when it comes to bridge. This is always in evidence when you review the acts of masters. Here is world championship deal number 147:

WEST	EAST
♠ A J 8 6 4 2	♠ 9 7

♣ A K 10 8 7 6

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead from west was a diamond. Diamond king fell to the east ace and a return spade let west ace capture a small high.

A spade back went to south who cashed a top trump. Heart queen was led and declarer got the rest. Contract fulfilled.

Room two bidding got only to two spades, like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	1 ♣	Pass	1 NT
2 ♠	Pass	All pass

Declarer took nine tricks by giving a club, a heart, and two ruffing trumps. So, south got the worst of it by not going for three clubs. He was discouraged by north passes.

North might have made some encouraging bid. But he was not in favor of saying one no-trump in that spot. And he was not in the habit of going to the two over without more honor strength.

Expert views are not always the best to use.

The ceilings are the same for old age assistance and disability allowance.

For these two, the proposal is to increase the ceiling from $540 to $960 a year for single persons and from $1,380 to $1,620 for married persons. The resolution makes no mention of what the increase will be for a married person with a blind spouse, for whom the ceiling now is $1,740 a year.

BOOST FOR BLIND

For blindness allowances, the resolutions state the means test ceiling will also be raised to $1,140 a year for single recipients and $240 a year for married persons. Not specified is how these increases will apply to present categories, where the present ceilings are: $1,080 for a single person, $1,560 for a person with a dependent child; $1,740 for a married couple one of whom is blind, and $1,860 for a married couple both of whom are blind.

The government also announced that it plans to extend disability allowances to "certain persons who are patients in institutions and not now covered by that program.

Dixie Beehives, Junior Champs, Play at Centre

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton and district hockey fans will have an opportunity of seeing Junior "B" O.H.A. at its best this coming November 2 which falls on a Saturday.

Ontario champions the Dixie Beehives make a feature appearance in an exhibition game with the Ted Steadman inspired Trenton Juniors. The local club executive expects this billing to open the eyes of skeptics as well as the most ardent enthusiasts.

Meanwhile Steadman, Drake and Irwin company keep the training of Trenton Juniors hopping along at a torrid pace. Except for flu casualties the material showing for practice has so far surpassed the coaches fondest hopes. Steadman is keeping his fingers crossed but does not hesitate to praise the locals' progress to date. And a veteran with his record should know if anybody does.

26 New Members Initiated Into Canadian Legion

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion last night received a distinguished comrade in the person of Fred Brecht, provincial president, who made first official visit to the local organization.

The special attendance of 200 expecting to hear a full message from the Ontario President, expressed disappointment when he explained that he was a victim of the Asian flu and preferred not to keep his remarks as brief as possible. The visiting president, however, performed the constitution of the serviceman's order by the 26 new members joining the branch last night. He made special mention of Trenton's membership standing over the 650 mark and revealed that when the branch reaches its objective of 700 members it will be as strong as the combined Hamilton branches. He told the members that he was proud of Trenton's membership.

Two of the hardworking members of the local branch received the "Good Service" Medal. The distinguished visitor, F/L Donald Ellis was honored for his outstanding job in bringing new members into the branch. At a preceding meeting he had introduced 30 new members. The other award went to Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, chief staff officer at Training Command Headquarters, Trenton. He is assisting the Legion as initiating officer and helped the branch in many other ways in his official capacity.

Branch president John C. Farrell and members of the executive played host to the visiting presidents.

The deer hunting rifle with which Legionnaire Ellis was resident of the neighboring community of Belleville, J. Nicholson, 99 Coleman St., is the lucky party.

New members inducted last night included: J. M. Hemstock, C. W. Cassalman, W. A. Carey, D. G. Frechette, E. M. Irving, M. E. Shepherd, C. Firestone, J. H. Gibbie, B. Powell, W. G. Pender, H. A. Gahan, J. W. Vanbuskirk, R. J. Brown, R. O. Dashing, T. S. Hughes, H. Camp, W. K. Burrows, A. F. Doucette, A. D. Burns, L. Allerhirt, T. T. Townsend, G. W. L'Esperance, L. P. Rodrigue, M. 'WONDERFUL TRIP' the United Nations, Thomas Dewey, presidential candidate in 1944 and 1948, and two Canadian representatives from the UN delegation, Dr. R. A. Mackay, permanent delegation head, and Wallace Nesbitt, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Diefenbaker who is acting delegation chief at the 12th General Assembly.

DRAW APPLAUSE

In their introductory speeches before the Queen addressed the assembled guests, Douglas and Bullock drew prolonged applause with their tributes to the Commonwealth and the Crown.

"If we step beyond the frontiers of propriety," said Douglas, "it is because you, ma'am, have etched upon our memories an image of beauty that will be forever with us."

"No sentimental impulse" had moved the members of the two organizations to the conclusion that Anglo-American friendship was the "solid cornerstone of the edifice of the future."

"Separated, the world falls into ruins all about us. Together we may with confidence expect a peace at last that will take the place of our disjointed times."

Douglas read messages of greeting from Elizabeth the Grandmother and Sir Winston Churchill, then called on Bullock to introduce the Queen.

TRIBUTE TO QUEEN

The Pilgrims' leader again brought the crowd to its feet with a tribute to the queen as mistress of a beloved sailor King, granddaughter and wife of gallant sailors . . . monarch of a mighty island people . . . Queen of Canada and head of a far-flung Commonwealth beyond the seas, sovereign of peoples in the perilous nations in the tide of times."

The Queen, visibly moved, replied that at the end of her "wonderful journey" to Canada and the U.S., "if by luck" she finds tonight after a tour in which I have travelled many thousands of miles and have met with universal kindness."

"That in itself is proof of the success of your efforts, because I am not here solely for myself but as the representative of all my peoples."

Her trip had pointed up again "the maintenance of unity under standing between us the future of the free world depends."

QUEEN HOME

of the hosts this way: "No dinner quite so glittering as this has ever in the past been held within the walls of Buckingham Palace. The lengthy of exalted guests has ever graced one single board before."

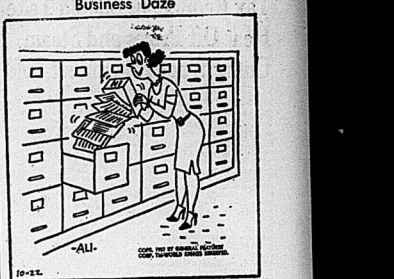
But aside from these exalted guests, the ordinary people of the Commonwealth are on a day-long display of welcome and affection for the royal couple which kept up even in the post-midnight chill at the remote airport.

A crowd of several hundred stood for more than an hour before Police Inspector Gordon Broad from the airport terminal to catch a last glimpse of the Monarchs and the party before their departure. At the end of the 16-hour New York visit crowd estimates were well over the 2,000,000 mark.

Even along the Long Island parkway route knots of people braved a cold October wind to get a fleeting look at the speeding motorcade.

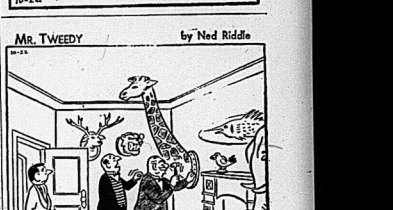
STILL SMILING

The royal couple were tired but still smiling as they boarded the British Overseas Airways Corporation plane which had brought them to Ottawa a week ago last Saturday. Separated, they stood at the head of the steps and waved to the small crowd of reporters, photographers, police and a military guard of honor as a United States Army band played Auld Land Syne.



Then the plane taxied away into the darkness and took off on the long flight to London.

The hectic day in New York was the climax of a visit which began in the Canadian capital where the Queen opened the new session of Parliament last Monday, took the royal couple on historic Williamsburg and Jamestown, founding site of the British Virginia colonies, then to Washington for a stay with President Eisenhower.



The last day of the tour was marked by perfect October weather and the biggest reception New York has given anyone in years.

The world's biggest harbor put on one of the biggest welcomes in its history when the Queen and her prince stood up to the Battery in the early morning, with the Queen commenting: "Isn't it exciting."

Tax Reductions Should Take Heat Off Prices and Steam Out of Wage Hikes Meet Told

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) — The way to cut taxes is to cut them, J. E. Vanderploeg of Toronto, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said Monday in an address to the association's annual meeting.

"I have no patience," said Mr. Vanderploeg, "with people who claim that taxes can't be reduced because it would be inflationary, or because the public expects a high level of government spending.

"Reduction of taxes should take the heat off prices and the steam out of wage demands, because business and individuals would have more of their own money left to spend as they see fit, instead of having the government spend it for them."

Mr. Vanderploeg also said any artificial tinkering with the value of the Canadian dollar would be a cure "worse than the disease" and that proposals for free trade between Canada and the United Kingdom would be largely meaningless by themselves.

Mr. Vanderploeg's comments were contained in a text issued to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Vanderploeg, president of Anaconda American Brass Ltd., said any reduction in prices made possible by tax cuts would increase the purchasing power of past savings as well as of current earnings—a double gain.

As for government revenue, "history shows examples of reduced tax rates' that resulted in increases in the volume of sales, from which was realized tax revenue which was the same at the former high rates."

Another way to ease costs, said Mr. Vanderploeg, would be to increase depreciation allowances under the tax section now. On the British suggestion to abolish tariffs between Canada and the United Kingdom, Mr. Vanderploeg said that over a period of years the suggestion has genuine merit in some directions and therefore deserved further mutual study.

But, "Canadians may be forgiven," he said, "if they speculate whether the offer would have been made had the U. K. and Canadian wage scales been reversed.

"The proposition would be extraordinarily attractive to exporters" caused by the premium on the Canadian dollar.

"A much cheaper dollar here would bring a rise in costs, thereby increasing not only our export prices but domestic prices as well—with further deplorable attrition of all forms of savings."

Talk of Divorce Is Nonsense Says Rossellini

GENEVA (AP)—Italian movie director Roberto Rossellini said Monday he'll talk of divorce from his wife, Ingrid Bergman, is "absolute nonsense."

Rossellini arrived from Bombay and changed planes in Geneva to join Ingrid in Paris for two days. He told reporters: "I am going to Paris in about an hour to spend two days with my wife."

A reporter asked: "What about your lady friend"—referring to Indian movie star Sonali Das Gupta with whom Rossellini has been romantically linked in widely current rumors.

Rossellini smiled and replied: "I have no lady friend."

"What about these divorce rumors" he was asked.

"That is absolute nonsense," he replied.

"Does that mean that you are going to live with your wife again?" a reporter asked.

The smile left Rossellini's face and he replied sharply: "My friend I have never parted and have no intention of parting."

Miss Bergman, who is playing on the Paris stage, has denied rumors of a rift with her husband over his reported romance with Mrs. Das Gupta.

The Indian woman arrived in Paris Oct. 6 and hasn't been heard of since. Rumors were current that she hoped to persuade Miss Bergman to let her have Rossellini, but the actress angrily said she hadn't seen Sonali and didn't plan to.

ASCAP and BMI Locked In Struggle for Survival

NEW YORK (AP)—The discordant notes coming these days from Tin Pan Alley, the 10-story collection of tiny offices and tinny pianos on upper Broadway draw out the old adage: "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

Instead, you hear the raucous snappings and snarlings of song writers and publishers belaboring each other.

Arrayed on opposite sides are the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, better known as ASCAP, and Broadcast Music Inc., better known as BMI.

Both are engaged in collecting performance fees under the U.S. Copyright Act of 1909, which guarantees to owners of musical copyrights the exclusive right of public performance for profit. The courts have held this to mean that whenever a song is played on radio or television in a movie sound track, in a restaurant or dance hall, someone must pay both the piper and the writer of the tune he pipes.

Lawyers and the federal courts have been busy looking into charges that BMI, set up by the broadcasters in competition to ASCAP, is engaged in a conspiracy to keep ASCAP music off the air and thereby curb the earning power of some of the leading song writers.

The public has been dragged into the act with claims that it is being rock and rolled to the cultural depths by some disk jockeys playing trashy, sometimes obscene songs behind a sinisterly controlled electronic curtain.

Is taste in popular music going to the dogs?

Several entertainers, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Gisele MacKenzie among them, seem to think so.

Before leaving the Hit Parade to do her own show, Canada's Gisele took a blast at the calibre of today's hits.

"They were horrible. Five out of ten hits on the Hit Parade right now are rock 'n' roll."

What the courts and the congress are interested in is not whether the songs are trashy but whether, as has been charged, the public is being forced to swallow them by being kept from hearing anything better.

In 1939 ASCAP stirred up a feud with its biggest customer, radio, by declining to discuss contract terms in advance. Broadcasters retaliated by setting up BMI as a rival organization.

From January to November, 1941, ASCAP's catalogue of more than 1,000,000 songs went off the air because of the contract deadlock. BMI went to about scraping up what music it could.

When ASCAP finally came to terms it had to settle for a good deal less than it asked.

BMI with hits like Tennessee Waltz, Memories are Made of This and most, though not all, of the rock 'n' roll ditties, developed into a strong competitor.

The ASCAP writers charge that BMI, completely owned by broadcasting interests, which in turn control several of the largest recording companies has conspired to favor BMI over ASCAP music to the detriment of public taste and the earning power of leading song writers.

Earth Wears Curious Green, Red and Yellow Halo at Night

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — At night our earth wears a curious green, red and yellow halo.

And it moves, as though swept by hurricane winds of 150 miles an hour.

Rarely can human eyes detect this faint and filmy halo.

But if our eyes were sensitive enough, one part of the halo would make even the darkest night like mid-twilight — like the time when you reed to turn on your car's headlights. Perhaps some animals can see it, and so make their way easily in the dark.

This halo is called airglow, a fascinating mystery now being explored during the International Geophysical Year.

Dr. Franklin E. Roach, astrophysicist and an authority on airglow, is one of the few persons who has seen the belt of colored light floating in the night side of the earth.

LIKE A CLOUD

"It is filmy bands like the Milky Way, but moving like a cloud," he said. "To see it, you need a very dark night and must let your eyes become accustomed to the dark. Then you may catch glimpses of it by looking out of the sides of your eyes."

Special instruments, photometers, that can measure the intensities of selected wave lengths of light, have brought some knowledge of airglow. Rockets have shot through it with telltale instruments. Presumably there is a dayglow, too, but it has not been detected even with instruments.

Now during IGY, scientists of 30 nations are co-operating in intensive worldwide studies of the mystery light. Dr. Roach, a consultant at the Boulder laboratories of the national bureau of standards, heads a centre collecting findings charted around the globe.

FLOW BANDS

It's already known that airglow consists of four distinct bands of color, Dr. Roach explains.

One is a band of green light, existing at about 60 miles up. At 96 miles up, there is a red glow. Yellow light comes from the air about 50 miles up. Below it is a layer of complex radiations, in the infra-red range which our human eyes cannot see.

"But were our eyes sensitive to this infra - red radiation, we would have twilight all through a dark clear night," Dr. Roach said. "We would never be able to see the Milky Way at all. The whole history of astronomy and our knowledge of the universe would be different."

Sidney Smith Voices Plea for Accord on Arms

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Canada, reminding the United Nations that its disarmament debate literally involves human survival, called today for an agreement "based on something more substantial than mere promises."

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, in a review of the problem already stressed at the UN by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, told the General Assembly's political committee that any disarmament settlement must "be based on the cold, hard terms of a binding agreement. . .

"We must be convinced that no nation is planning or preparing the destruction or crippling of another, and none of the nations has by its deeds and not by mere declarations, persuade the other nations of the world that its weapons will never be used except for defence."

INSPECTION VITAL

Smith, who flew here from Ottawa Monday night reiterated the prime minister's demand that inspection and controls be an integral part of any East-West disarmament agreement.

He reminded delegates Canada has offered to submit to aerial inspection of "all or part of our country"—which would include its Arctic strategic Arctic—under a fair and equitable system with Russia for warning against surprise attack.

But Soviet spokesmen had "rather sarcastically written off" inspection of our Arctic regions.

The Russian attitude throughout the long series of negotiations in various UN bodies on disarmament had been reluctance to come to grips with the question of inspection.

NO PROPAGANDA ISSUE

"Reminiscences and rehashing of old exercises from which we ever side put forward, are inappropriate. The issue is too grave to furnish material for propaganda points."

On the question of suspension of nuclear tests, which under the Western resolution would be for a trial period of two years, Canada felt that this proposal was "a real effort to reach the proper international concern about the testing of nuclear weapons."

"Whatever the correct view may be as to the possible harmful effects of radiation and fallout, I think none of us would want to contribute anxiety on this score felt by the peoples of all nations.

MURDERED MAN'S 'LOVE AFFAIR' TOLD BY WIDOW

Crown Says Slaying Climax to Triangle

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brian Granton, 21, broke down twice Tuesday as he listened to the widow of the man he is charged with murdering tell of an affair between her husband and Granton's wife.

Cathy Marchand, 19, a school chum of vivacious red - haired Marina Granton, Brian's wife, testified that her husband, Edward (Mike) Marchand, 20 had "confessed his love for Marina."

Marchand was stabbed to death Feb. 6 in Granton's apartment, which was shared by the two young couples.

The Crown contends the slaying was a climax to a triangular love affair involving the two men and Marina Granton.

Mrs. Marchand, testifying on the first day of Granton's trial, said she first found out of the affair between her husband and Mrs. Granton on Jan. 20. Then she told of Marina's confession of love for her ex - carnival worker.

TOLD BY WORKER

Mrs. Marchand said that shortly after that Granton was told of his wife's infatuationsee by another worker at the plant where he worked.

She told how Granton came home from his job on the night of Feb. 11 and found a party in progress.

"Mike confessed his love for Marina then and she said she loved him, too," Mrs. Marchand testified.

She said then the two couples decided on divorces and immediately wrote out a paper exacknowledging they would pay for any debts in their wives' names until Feb. 11.

"Brian asked for $20 to spend the night with me. His wife refused and commented 'You can spend the night here,'" Mrs. Marchand added.

TELLS OF EVENTS

Mrs. Marchand continued telling of the events of the day of the stabbing. She said she was sitting in the living room, her husband was asleep, when she heard a scream.

"Brian and Marina were in Brian's bedroom and I saw him jump back against the window-sill," she said, sobbing. He came to the door then turned around and said 'You won't get her now . . . or you won't get me now.'

She said she could not be sure whether he had used the words "love" or "like."

"When he turned I saw the knife . . . it was a butcher knife with a black handle. He came halfaway after dinner," Mrs. Marchand continued.

WITNESS WEEPS

Twice during the 83 minutes she was on the stand, Mrs. Marchand broke down and wept. She also testified that she and Brian Granton were friends of Kirkland Lake, and a former worker with Granton there, testified he had told Granton that "his wife was running around."

Even the Queen has troubles with the straps of her evening gown. Here she somewhat shyly adjusts the straps as she attends a dinner sponsored in her honor in New York, one of her last events before leaving on the return flight to London. (CP from AP).

Canadian Jobless Almost Double Number of Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's unemployment total, usually studied at this time of the year, jumped by 20,000 during September to 194,000, the government's employment survey showed today.

The jobless represent 3.2 per cent of the labor force, almost double the 1.7 per cent of a year ago.

At the same time there were 5,854,000 persons with jobs, a drop of 182,000 from the previous month's record total of 5,937,000. The total at work, estimated by the bureau of statistics, was 178,000 more than a year ago.

The employment analysis by the labor department said numerous layoffs were reported in industries producing automobiles and parts, wood, iron and steel products.

The report said increased housing construction was responsible for some of the total employment increase over last year.

Continued expansion of chemical, oil refining, aircraft and shipbuilding industries kept manufacturing employment higher than a year ago. A substantial number of new jobs were provided by the steady expansion of service industries.

The summary said that although employment was markedly higher than a year earlier, an even greater growth of the labor force resulted in the increase in unemployment. The federal government has ordered restrictions on the flow of immigration for the remainder of 1957.

Present Succession Duties Act Unfair Says Sen. White

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator George S. White has used his maiden senate speech to ask that the Succession Duties Act be revised to raise the amount exempted from such taxes.

Opening the throne speech debate Tuesday night, he said the present Succession Duties Act is "most unfair."

He suggested the maximum exemption be increased to $75,000 from the present $50,000 and that this basic amount not be taxed at all even when the estate is valued at more than that figure. The present exemption of $50,000 is more than the $50,000 maximum the whole of it becomes taxable.

Senator White was appointed to the upper chamber by Prime Minister Diefenbaker following his resignation last month as Progressive Conservative candidate in a by - election for Hastings-Frontenac, Ont. External Affairs Minister Smith has been since renominated as the party's candidate in a byelection there Nov. 4.

CNE Display Facilities Blasted By Provincial Tourist Delegates

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial delegates have closed off a two-day federal - provincial tourist conference with a scathing blast at Canada's National Exhibition display facilities.

Delegates appointed John Fisher, general manager of the Canadian Tourist Association, to begin discussions with provinces to get better display space for provincial promotion of the annual CNE in Toronto.

Mr. Fisher was told to tell the CNE officials either all provinces get good display space "centrally located" on the exhibition grounds or provinces will take part in the fair.

Today the Canadian Tourist Association opens its annual convention here.

Premier Hardy, Newfoundland's director of tourist development who sparked the attack Tuesday against the CNE, said display space allocated to the provinces was "most unsuitable."

"This year British Columbia was stuck in a corner; Quebec was way off Canada and we were behind Quebec," said Mr. Vardy.

He said the building allocated to the provinces, the CNE Administration Building, was "too far off the beaten track—"our people couldn't find it."

In previous years, facilities were "deplorable," he said. Some years ago the provincial display centre was "the same as a parking lot" with cars across the street, whether they were being used or not, he told Grant-Suttie.

The next year the building was so drafty "the girls had to wear coats."

Delegates from transportation companies, including Trans-Canada, Canadian government travel bureau, which now centres its advertising on travel to the United States, go after the European field.

Alan Field, bureau director, said with travel restrictions lifted in the United Kingdom the "pot was ripe" to go after this market.

W. Gordon Wood, president of the CTA and Mr. Fisher asked provincial and private delegates for additional funds for the CTA.

Mr. Wood, vice-president for traffic of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said the association needs an additional $22,000 this year to operate efficiently. Revenue was $41,000 in 1956.

Cold Arctic Air Moves East Still With Snow to Deliver

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The coldest of cold Arctic air that has cut through Western Canada into the United States still has more snow to deliver as it moves east.

The cold air is moving into Northern Ontario and Quebec and may even reach New Brunswick by today, the weatherman said.

Five hunters lost in Alberta's snowstorm reached safety Tuesday as the fall climbed to 10 inches at Calgary, eight inches at Medicine Hat. Plane flights and school bus services were halted.

Temperatures were 25 degrees colder than normal for this time of year—the low Tuesday at Edmonton was 12 degrees, at Calgary nine.

In Regina, where the temperature was 23 Tuesday overnight, forecasters said the snowstorm would push into Southern Saskatchewan today and temperatures would drop to zero.

In Ontario the cold air was piloted against a mass of warm air moving north from the Gulf of Mexico.

In the north, temperatures at Fort William, Kapuskasing and Timmins dipped to about 30 overnight. Weather men said the chill would move slowly down across Northern Ontario, reaching the Georgian Bay area today.

The south is blanket of rain spread by the Gulf airstream was expected to move eastward. A low of 50 was forecast today for Southern Ontario regions.

U.S. Suspends Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Herald Tribune says today the U. S. state department decided to suspend temporarily all economic and most military aid to Yugoslavia after Belgrade recognized Communist East Germany last week.

The newspaper says reliable diplomatic sources in London reported that state secretary Dulles approved the suspension last Saturday.

MEMBERS OFFER GOVT. ADVICE ON MANY QUESTIONS

Housing to Death Duties Covered

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition and government MPs alike have offered the government advice on everything from housing and death duties to what it should attempt at the current session.

Housing proposals were made in the Commons throne speech debate Tuesday by Bobby McDonald (PC-Hamilton South) and J. C. Van Horne (PC-Restigouche-Madawaska.)

Mr. McDonald suggested a lease-purchase program to help working families buy their homes by applying rent as a down payment.

Mr. Van Horne said the government should adopt the United States housing plan under which a $10,000 house can be purchased by a down payment as low as $100 with a mortgage at 5¼ per cent interest.

Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner (L-Melville), making his first opposition speech in 22 years as a Commons member, said the government this session should concentrate on "things that must be done now and should call us back to consider their implementation immediately early in the new year."

TANGLES WITH CCF

He said agriculture ministries later also tangled with the CCF and Social Credit groups. He said the government's decisions on non-confidence in the government at this early stage in the new Parliament was "placing party above the welfare of the country at the present time."

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said most of Mr. Gardiner's speech "seemed to be only an expression of the, rabbles Development, as dramatized by the Soviet launching three weeks ago of the first successful satellite.

A new Social Credit member, H. A. Olson, Medicine Hat, Alberta, advised the government members to kill the opposition with kindness rather than carry a chip on their shoulders, daring the opposition to defeat them.

He said some Progressive Conservatives have a right to feel they are because they apparently believe the tide of public opinion is flowing their way.

Mr. McDonald, football player with Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1950 until polio crippled him in 1953, said it was hard for many people to realize $4,000 a year to raise the necessary down payment. A program under which a home could be bought on a five-year option would remove this difficulty.

BEFORE MINISTER

Mr. McDonald said he put his proposal before Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who had promised to consider it.

Later Tuesday, however, Mr. Green, responsible for government housing policy, told a reporter position questions he plans no amendments to the National Housing Act this session.

Also on housing Mr. Van Horne said the $1500-$2,000 made available by the government a few weeks ago for low-cost housing loans "is not sufficient."

'Help All Lands To Wage Peace' Is Aim Of Talks

Macmillan in Washington To Restore Partnership

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan came here today to appeal in behalf of British unity for restoration of the British-American partnership in scientific research. He said his single purpose is to "improve friendship and extend co-operation" between the two countries.

Macmillan's plane was met by State Secretary Dulles, who said that while the Communist world is "held together by force" the free world is united by free understanding."

Dulles said the three-day Macmillan-Eisenhower talks, opening at the White House in the afternoon, were not just aimed at strengthening British - American ties. Their main purpose, he said, is to "help all nations which need to co-operate and work together to wage peace successfully."

EVENTFUL MONTHS

Macmillan recalled he met with Eisenhower at Bermuda in March but said that "a good deal has happened" since then and that another meeting was indicated. He said the events in the Middle East developments which clearly lay behind the decision to meet this time. There have been developments which clearly lay behind the decision to meet this time. There have been developments in the earth satellite.

Macmillan's first scheduled meeting with Eisenhower was set for 6 p.m. EDT but it was expected he actually would go to the White House for an opening session in midafternoon.

The conference is dominated by the problem the Western powers now have in overtaking Russia's apparent lead in long range missiles Development, as dramatized by the Soviet launching three weeks ago of the first successful satellite.

Diplomatic authorities said there was no doubt that Macmillan and the British government generally feel that the best way to recover lost ground is to pool the scientific resources, including the brain power of both Britain and the United States. British and American scientists along with Canadian scientific leaders, joined in developing the Canadian Avro Jetliner and many advances in other fields, notably jet engines.

SPOKE LAST WEEK

Eisenhower's reaction to the British initiative has not been disclosed beyond what the President himself said in progress at his Gettysburg farm after the White House last week. He said then that the assets of both countries far outstrip those of the Soviet Union but they need to be jointly used.

OPPOSE RATE BOOST

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress is to oppose a pending application by the Bell Telephone Company for permission from the board of transport commissioners to increase its telephone rates, it was announced Tuesday. The 1,100,000-member labor organization said in a press statement that it will argue that the telephone company, as a public utility, should be publicly owned.

Rokossovsky Takes Command On Turk Border

LONDON (Reuters) — A regional Soviet broadcast said today that Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, Russia's deputy defence minister, has taken over command of the trans-Caucasian military area, along the Russian-Turkish frontier.

Rokossovsky, 60, one of Russia's senior wartime commanders, was appointed deputy defence minister to Georgi Zhukov last November. He had previously served for seven years as Polish defence minister.

The Polish-born marshal was relieved of his post in Warsaw following the introduction of reforms by Poland under rehabilitated Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

'I Know Who Done It' Says Winnie Viewing Murder Mystery Drama

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill settled himself in the producer's chair, stuck out his jaw and said "I know who done it."

When he got no answer he slowly raised his eyes at Aileen Halpenny and added:

"It was . . . am I right"

"I wouldn't dream of telling," she replied. "Not even you."

This piece of dialogue took place Monday night in the British Ambassador Theatre where Agatha Christie's murder mystery "The Mousetrap" is now playing.

It was one of the 83-year-old Churchill's rare appearances at a theatre.

During intermission Miss Halpenny, theatre manager, invited the former prime minister and Lady Churchill back stage for a drink.

"The curtain was down," explained Miss Halpenny, "and the most logical place to have the drink seemed to be the stage."

Churchill, who seldom does the talking in a chair, stood with a big leather chair in which a detective had been "murdered" only a few minutes before.

"Yes," he said, "I know I'm right."

"Oh, no, dear," Lady Churchill said. "I'm sure you're wrong. It was . . ."

Miss Halpenny handed Sir Winston a glass of Scotch and soda.

Slowly, he sipped it and then he returned to the scene of the murder. A packed house cheered him.

And, as he eased back in his seat and watched the rest of the play unfold . . .

And, as the last curtain rang down—he was right. He had guessed whodunit, Miss Halpenny said.

Miss Halpenny paused . . . "You know," she said, "his detective didn't guess the murderer."

Women Urged to Increase Knowledge, Skills Offered By Dept. Training Schools

Delegates and visitors to the 65th annual district Women's Institute convention were urged to take advantage of opportunities to increase their knowledge and homemaking skills offered by training schools set up by the Toronto Department of Home Economics for the purpose.

"It is not old fashioned to continue the study of home economics," Miss Helen McKerchar, Director of the Toronto Home Economics and Extension branch, told the 275 women's club members who crowded the Belleville Collegiate auditorium for the two-day convention.

Changes throughout the years in family living, household methods of meal preparations, clothing, etc., make the study of home economics even more important today, she said.

"Our motto 'The Ontario Home is Here to Stay,' is just as sound in 1957 as it was in 1927," she said, "— and the home is the focus of our lives, the front yard is the community and the country reaches throughout the world."

HELPS TO TRAIN

Home economics training schools not only develop an individual's skills, but also discover, stimulate and train the woman to assume leadership in her local branch, Miss McKerchar said.

These local leaders are invaluable in extending the work of the Women's Institutes, she stated, and they should be well supported by their fellow club members.

"What they really want is recognition . . . and you can give them this by turning out for the teas, summary day, achievement day, etc., and by the re-organization of these activities," she said.

Miss McKercher also pointed out that training schools for senior Institute members, first introduced in 1938, are ideal in carrying out the aim of FWIO —to educate the women.

"Training schools help people to help themselves, spread knowledge, make use of home economic teachers, provide an outlet for women's energies and increase skills."

Seventeen such training schools were originally set up, which turned out 874 leaders and assistants, she said. This year over 1700 women will be attending these schools in Ontario, and since each leader teaches an average of 10 others, it is expected that over 9,000 women will receive benefit from these courses, Miss McKercher explained.

Plans are underway to broaden the home economic service to include more courses such as family life and child guidance, and to increase the staff of trained home economists, Miss McKercher informed. The aim of young, attractive women is rapidly being depleted by "the battle of the diamond ring," she said.

Union Agreement Announced at Deloro Stellite

In a joint statement, the manager of Deloro Stellite, J. C. Houston, and D. M. Storey, district representative of the United Steelworkers of America, today announced the signing of the first union agreement between the parties.

The agreement, effective September 30th, provides for a reduction in the work week from 42 to 40 hours for men, with maintenance of take-home pay. In addition, each male employee will receive a further wage increase of 6c per hour retroactive to September 30th. On June 30, 1958, each of these three will receive an additional increase of 6c per hour.

For women, the agreement calls for an immediate increase of 9c per hour retroactive to September 30th and on June 30th, 1958, a further 9c per hour.

Included in the agreement is plant-wide and departmental seniority for lay-offs and promotions, time and a half for overtime, and payment for seven statutory holidays.

Shift premiums will be 5c for the afternoon shift and 8c for the night shift.

Vacations will be one week after one year, two weeks after five years and three weeks after 20 years.

Union security provisions call for a voluntary irrevocable check-off for the life of the agreement.

Mr. Storey said the bargaining was carried out in a spirit of co-operation and understanding and that the agreement was reached after only two meetings with the company.

William Townson Named to Board To Fill Vacancy

William Townson, 53 Moira Street, superintendent with the Foley Foundry Company, was named to the Belleville Public School Board at the October meeting of the board held Monday evening.

Mr. Townson was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred J. Symons, who has moved to Florida. He will serve out the balance of Mr. Symons' term which expires December 1958.

Little more than routine matters came up for discussion at the meeting which was attended by Board Chairman James Ward and members Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, William Ironside, Bruce Bishop, Earl Langabeer, Morley Lovelace, Don McKinney, George Olsen, James Ritchie, Dr. J. Russell Scott, Mac Smith and G. H. Trill.

A request from Mr. F. P. Clarke for certain alterations and improvements to a basement room at Queen Mary School for use by Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs, was referred to the property committee to investigate the cost of the work.

A letter from Clerk of Mac Smith, G. H. Trill, James Ritchie and the board chairman, James Ward, brought in proposed amendments to the board by-laws and a notice of motion for approval at the next board meeting.

NO ACTION PROPOSED

James Ritchie, board representative at the safety meetings held recently, made a verbal report. No action was proposed by the board on the matter.

The board authorized a letter to be forwarded to city council drawing attention to the hazard which traffic presents for school children walking on College Street and urging action on the construction of a cinder walk. (City council has since three will receive an additional increase of 6c per hour. authorized this work to proceed.)

The final grant statement for the 1956 year-end pupil-of-the-day payments from the Department of Education was read to the board, the report showing the city had received a total of $150,215.97 in legislative grants this year.

The board treasurer and assistant treasurer will be bonded to the extent of $5,000 each instead of $1,000, the amount carried up to the past, it was decided by the board.

Defence Operations, Mining Changing Working Habits, Lives of Eskimos Club Told

How defence operations and mining development in the Canadian Arctic are changing the working habits and the lives of the Eskimos was told to members of the local Women's Canadian Club Tuesday evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Speaker was Douglas Wilkinson, writer-director of the National Film Board who in an interesting and enthusiastic lecture, told of the changing life of the Eskimo, who are undergoing a transition period as result of the new development in the north.

"No longer is the Eskimo merely a hunter and a trapper," Mr. Wilkinson said. "He is changing rapidly into a worker for wages."

Mr. Wilkinson has ten years experience in the Canadian North and during his work looking after the welfare of the Eskimo and their lives, has actually lived the life of the Eskimo to learn of his problems.

Much of his time in the North has been in the Mountainous Baffin Island region but more recently he has been in the Great Slave Lake in Keewatin district west of Hudson Bay.

The topic of his address last night was "The Land of the Long Day."

Scheduled speaker for the evening's meeting was Louis Rene Beaudoin, Director general of the House of Commons, who at the last minute was unable to come to Belleville. Mr. Wilkinson will leave from his work in the North to come as a substitute.

NO DISAPPOINTMENT

But club members had no reason to be disappointed as Mr. Wilkinson, who is a fine speaker, illustrated by colored slides, was interesting to the end.

Prefacing his talk with a general picture of the everyday life of the whole Eskimo tribe, Mr. Wilkinson dealt particularly with his work with the interior Eskimos who live in tundra regions.

Here, only, he said, did the Eskimo still live in the fashion of a hundred years ago, in a land covered 80 per cent on the roving bands of caribou, the animal beloved and his only source of income was from trapping the white fox which he received about $14 each for pelts.

On the coastal regions the Eskimo today works mostly for wages at defence establishments or radar stations, in the many mines which are developing in the area.

As result he had cash to pay for necessary commodities which he purchased at the trading store. There are about 10,000 Eskimos living in the Canadian north.

Life of the interior Eskimos was also changing but at a less rapid rate. He was still mainly dependent on the caribou for his livelihood and when the caribou were scarce he went hungry. He fished only as a last resort.

HOLIDAY IN WINTER

Mr. Wilkinson said the "holiday" time in the Arctic tundra regions was in the late winter and spring.

Then the early winter "drift" snow which piled drifts 20 feet high and completely covered other obstructions, was ended, and fine days allowed long trips into the interior by dog teams.

On such trips Mr. Wilkinson said he travelled along at his wife and five-year-old daughter. Their contacts with the Eskimo assisted greatly in learning of native problems.

Baker Lake is on the westerly extremity of Chesterfield Inlet. Supplies were brought in by summer freighters coming up the Inlet from Hudson Bay. The community consists of a Hudson's Bay trading post, weather stations, Anglican and Roman Catholic Missions and a school. As welfare official Mr. Wilkinson worked with the school teacher and the nurse, the three making up a team.

Situated as it is slightly below the Arctic Circle, the sun at Baker Lake each day gets above the horizon, even during December and January. But, nevertheless, winter lasts from October to late in May, the last of the big snow drifts disappearing only with the summer sun.

LOVING PEOPLE

The Eskimos are a party loving people and the school house is the focal point for meetings or dances two or three times a week.

Dances last from about 8.30 until midnight and there are only about three square dances a night.

"The dance just goes on and on and stops only when the musician is ready to drop from exhaustion," Mr. Wilkinson remarked.

The traditional snow houses are still used in the interior Eskimos during the winter months but after being built are soon differ in appearance from storybook pictures.

The almost continual drift soon covers them with drifts and entrance is possible only through a series of snow tunnels. Snow house communities on the open tundra are difficult to see even on bright days.

Dog teams are still used by the natives as their winter mode of transportation and clothing of caribou skins is the accepted protection against temperatures which frequently drop to 55 below. By contrast temperature of from 15 to 25 degrees below is "pleasant."

Dry clothing is a strict essential for comfort in the north. "If your clothes are damp you can't stay warm." Hence the clothes drying ritual is an all important chore.

Mrs. Everett Fairman, president of the Women's Canadian Club, introduced the speaker.

Russian Moon Seen in Sky By Mrs. Burkett

Visual sightings of the Russian satellite or more possibly the third stage rocket which shot it into its orbit 560 miles above the earth continue to be reported in the Belleville area.

The latest person to report sighting the satellite is Mrs. Kenneth Burkitt, 10 Wellington Crescent, who along with close neighbors had she sighted the starlike object as it speeded its way about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The satellite was moving in a northwesterly direction and was first sighted in the south.

The satellite appears as a fairly bright star but is distinguished by its comparatively rapid movement across the sky. It can be seen only after dark when the glow from earth and sky are in darkness but the satellite over 500 miles up is still lighted by the rays of the sun.

Boy Escapes Serious Injury In Collision

James Morgan, age 10, of 402 Bleecker Ave., escaped serious injury yesterday noon when the bicycle he was riding was in collision with a motor vehicle on Bleecker Ave.

The boy suffered hear abrasions and a shaking up when he was catapulted through the windshield of the car driven by Thomas E. Allison, 153 Bridge Street. He was taken to hospital for X-rays.

Police said the boy was riding north on the sidewalk when he swung his bicycle onto the roadway and collided with the southbound auto.

Both Lake and the driver of the car said they had failed to see the other because of their view being blocked by a parked transport.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market today staged one of its strongest morning rallies of the year as prices rebounded from the heavy selling which had pushed them down in the last days of the session.

The western oil index, which had taken the worst beating during the sharp decline, gained more than 4% points while the rest of the section ranged to more than two points.

Industrials, with refining oils and pipelines featuring, jumped nearly 1½ points on their index while the base metal index added 2¼ points. Golds were one-half point higher.

The heavy buying began right at the opening and coincided with a strong rise on Wall Street. Observers said the rally was more a technical readjustment than a result of any news.

The 11 a.m. volume of 890,000 shares was slightly lighter than Tuesday's 967,000 at the same time.

Pacific Pete had the best western oil gain, up 3¼ points to 18¾. Home Oil A gained 1¾ points at 14¾ and the B stock added 1¼ points at 14.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line led industrials with a 3¼-point climb to 39¾. Union Gas was up 2⅛ at 54 and Steloo added two points at 47½.

International Nickel featured mines with a 2⅛-point advance to 67.

Madoc Officers Arrest Bank Robbers North of Havelock

Close checking on a lonely country road 16 miles north of Havelock near Twin Lakes by two Ontario Provincial Police officers from Belleville in the apprehension yesterday of two men suspected of robbing the Royal Bank of Canada at Norwood.

The men were taken to Peterborough for questioning today and provincial police there reported they had been charged with the armed holdup of bank branch at Norwood. The men pleaded guilty to the charge.

Police identified the men as James Watson, 35 of Havelock, Ont., and Elmer Armstrong, 17 of Carp, Ont., near Ottawa.

The bank was held up by the two men about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and robbed of about $3,-700.

The two suspects were apprehended by Cpl. Douglas Sears and Corporal Thomas Lumsden, who were called in to assist in setting up road blocks following the bank robbery.

HUNCH PAYS OFF

Suspecting that the bank robbers may have swung north away from the main travelled highways, the two Madoc officers had their hunch pay off.

After making a routine check of cars seen on the road the officers been used to cache the money.

stopped an approaching 1951 Buick containing two men. The men roughly answered the description given of the hold-up men by bank employees but denied all dressed differently.

They were certainly a couple of cool customers," said Cpl. Sears. "They didn't show any surprise and did not seem the least alarmed when stopped."

The officer said the men offered no resistance and no arms were found in the car.

POLICE CALLED IN

Provincial police from the entire area were called in to assist in setting up road blocks in an attempt to prevent the escape of the two bank robbers from the Norwood area.

Police were stopping cars as far away as Trenton.

Today at Peterborough Inspector Don Nicol of the C.I.B. branch of the O.P.P. said that all the money had been recovered "as near as we can figure it."

Two guns were recovered, along with the money, in a wooded cache about six miles from Norwood.

When the two Madoc officers apprehended the two suspects they had a shovel in their car. It is believed this may have

FRICTION SPEEDS UP ROCKET?

"It ain't necessarily so."

The famous song from "Porgy and Bess" referred to "things that you're liable to read in your Bible," but recent events have proven conclusively that it is applicable in a much wider field.

For instance, what is the effect of friction on the speed of a moving object? Slows it down, did you say? That was the generally accepted answer, before Sputnik. Amongst the welter of conflicting reports on the man-made moon, however, is a hint, nay an outright statement, that this conception is as outmoded as the old belief in the indestructibility of matter, which was ripped from the science textbooks of our schools when the first atom bomb exploded over Hiroshima.

The new theory which propelled Sputnik into its orbit on October 4 had 13 days later established a 23-minute lead in the race around the world. The layman, accustomed to regard friction as a force which slows down a moving object, would conclude that the thin air through which the satellite and rocket are speeding was having a greater effect on the satellite than on the rocket. Not so, say the scientists. Rather the smooth surfaces of the spherical satellite are meeting less resistance than the irregular surfaces of the rocket and as a result the rocket is flying lower and lower, under the pull of gravity, and is speeding up. This apparent paradox, we are assured, is true not only of man-made satellites, but of all satellites - - the lower a moon's orbit the faster it travels. This is easy to understand - - the nearer a moon to the body it travels around, the greater the pull of gravity and the greater, therefore, the centrifugal force needed to offset this pull and keep it in its constant orbit.

But the rocket and the satellite are both eventually destined to fall victim to gravity. The centrifugal force generated by their rotation is not quite sufficient to offset gravity. The fact that the rocket is falling indicates that this difference between the pull of gravity and centrifugal force is greater, in its case, than it is in the case of the satellite. It does not necessarily follow, therefore, that the rocket is travelling faster than the satellite, just because it is closer to the earth.

The office space travel enthusiast has an explanation which we rather like. He believes that the press report that scientists say the rocket is travelling faster is in error. What has happened, he suggests, is that friction has slowed the rocket, that the rocket is therefore losing ground closer to the earth, that its orbit around the earth has thereby been shortened and that it is therefore ahead of the satellite and gaining on it, although it is travelling at a slower rate of speed. In other words, the rocket is just cutting corners.

Now that makes sense. We hope it, and not the scientists' explanation, is presented in press association reports, is the true picture. Reason needs some anchorages in this day and age.

AN EXCELLENT SUGGESTION

President Eisenhower is reported to be planning a proposal that North Atlantic Treaty nations pool their scientific brainpower, as they have pooled their military manpower.

That is an excellent suggestion. There are, however, two points which should be noted.

Firstly, it comes too late. The past cannot be altered, and nothing which is now done will bring back those lost years of opportunity when the U.S. law barring the disclosure of basic information on atomic weapons prevented free interchange of ideas between U.S. atomic scientists and those of other allied countries, particularly Britain.

It is desirable that this state of affairs be remedied. As President Eisenhower said, the total of the free world's assets is much greater than those of our potential enemy," Russia. But almost as dangerous as the present secrecy would be a belief that pooling of scientific brainpower by free nations can produce quite the same effect as would be obtained if the direction of this brainpower were concentrated under one leadership, as in Russia. Even if brainpower is pooled, the West faces a stern struggle. We ought not to again fall into the error of believing victory certain and easy to obtain, just by pooling information and effort.

CHILDREN

Give me the little tots for friends,
The little girls and boys;
The regular, curly-headed types
With all their fuss and noise.
Let little children round me play
And scamper through my home
Then you may prate of foreign lands,
I would not care to roam.

Let little ones from far and near
Be glad to see my face
And welcome me at eventide
With all their childish grace.
Let little tots to meet me run
And hid me share their game;
Then I'll be satisfied with life,
I will not ask for fame.

With costly treasures fill my home,
Spread rugs of value great,
Hang works of art upon my walls,
Give me a vast estate,
And yet I will not happy be
Nor even count it fair,
Unless to romp within those walls
The little ones are there.

But with their trumpets and their drums,
Let little children come,
And let them march into my heart
And make things fairly hum;
And let me see their faces glow
With all the bloom of health,
I'll count myself a richer man
Than those of untold wealth.

Dulles' Plan Backfires?

Christian Science Monitor

The "Arab world" is most solid when under pressure. The various Arab states have diverse and sometimes rival interests; some are Soviet republics; some have oil; some have none. But all have certain interests and traditions in common. All have been in some degree under Western control. All are experienced in resisting outside pressures. This fact is being underscored anew in the landing of Egyptian troops in Syria.

The announced purpose is to protect Syria from an attack by Turkey. There is no reason to believe that Ankara has any intention of attacking Syria.

But Turkish troop manoeuvres near the Syrian border apparently have offered even more tangible support.

The whole episode suggests that Egypt is being encouraged to learn about diplomacy in the Middle East. If the Dulles purpose was to isolate Syria it has plainly backfired. So far the Arab world has chosen to evade Arab support for Syria's right to choose the type of "positive neutrality." Also to isolate Jordan, where the United States is building up its military power, and where it advertises its military support far more than any economic aid.

Egypt and Syria are certainly succeeding so far in placing themselves under Moscow's thumb. But they are not likely to take from Washington either advice or threats designed to bring Egypt or Syria wrongly they—and their Arab brothers—see in Mr. Dulles' Arab-handed moves a greater threat to their independence and dignity. Washington should take a hard second look at its approach to the Arabs.

Good Sneeze Is Satisfying

Winnipeg Free Press

The sneeze is headed for extinction. Such, at least, is its impending fate if reports emanating from Washington's specialist scientific institutions in both the United States and Canada prove to be fulfilled. Test-tubes are now busily brewing at both Washington and Ottawa to blend the contents (a hayfever preventative in the former and cold deterrent in the latter) prove effective, the sneeze will soon become a relic.

This to some may appear an unmixed blessing. But as any sniff will tell you immediately vouch for, it is nothing of the sort.

A good sneeze — one that starts way down in the belt zone and then rises up to the nose, increasing in velocity the whole ticklish way, until finally it bursts explosively forth, like that of Alexander Pope's baron, who "snuff'd the air, which pierces to his nose" — such a sneeze is infinitely satisfying. It represents the perfect balance between fulsome sense of accomplishment and utter relief.

The learned gentlemen of science, however, clearly don't appreciate the finer satisfactions. To them a sneeze is a sneeze, and what's more, it's highly contagious.

So they have declared war on it — and the sniffs and the sniffle and on the whole gallery of related tickles that go under the general name of common cold. Even on the illusive nasal scratches of hayfever has the antibiotic axe fallen.

If this sort of thing is allowed to go on unchecked, easily enough it is to guess that we could all find ourselves going to work, day after day, with nary a sneeze or an excuse in sight.

Yet is there hope. As Leigh Hunt, no doubt foreseeing just such a dearth of viruses as we may be in for, once smugly said:

"Hang it, I shall sneeze till spring!
Snuff is a delicious thing."

Or if the worst really comes to the worst, one can always bring along the pepper.

Mr. Rorozni is interested in oil prospects in the county.

Why Britons Drive on Left

Manchester Guardian

There is an interesting explanation why we drive on the left hand side of the road in Britain.

Apparently this dates back to the time when highwaymen lurked on the right and travellers were often forced to fight for their money or their lives. As swords were drawn on the left hand side, it was a logical expedient to keep one's horse on that side of the track.

Then if attacked, the rider was immediately in the best fighting position, sword at the ready in his right hand and without undue manipulation of the horse, his unguarded flank was automatically protected.

Whether highwaymen became alive to this manoeuvre and began ambushing from gateways on the side of the left is not recorded but if they did, it was certainly not frequently enough to change the habits of the phlegmatic English traveller.

Thus, like the British constitution, the custom grew and grew until today Britain still remains one of the very few nations continuing the system. Indeed, outside the Commonwealth only Eire and Scandinavia also adopt the same practice are Sweden, Hungary and Japan.

A Giant Turtle

Ottawa Citizen

Some really big turtles have been found in the Ottawa River or in the lakes of the Gatineau. There are places where it swims to dangle a big toe in the water while sitting on the edge of a wharf. But the monster of nearly 1,000 pounds harpooned off Lanse can take anything. There will be no competition from this region and no regrets about being out of the picture. A turtle that size might not be satisfied with snapping at toes.

Every Farmer Needs Plane

BBC London Letter

Australia, with its vast distances, is an air-minded continent. But Donaldline Gertrude McKenzie of Melbourne is using her flying ability to train to run a flying school in Australia. During a recent visit to England she was studying training. Mrs. McKenzie broadcast in the BBC program "In Town Tonight" and described how she had started her school with two aircraft and one instructor. Now she has a well-known Chinese chief instructor, and a number of part-time instructors, many of whom are airline pilots.

"On all the farms now, a light aircraft is considered an essential part of farm equipment," Mrs. McKenzie said, "and many of the higher executives have one for the husband and one for the wife." A wife might think nothing of making a twenty-minute plane journey to fetch some fish for lunch; the planes are especially useful for finding lost cattle and sheep, rounding up cattle and sheep, and dropping supplies when there are floods or famine. This helps to keep down costs.

One of the most interesting jobs Mrs. McKenzie carried out, Mrs. McKenzie said, was helping a detective friend to solve a murder. The detective was missing, and the detective's wife rang Mrs. McKenzie's office to say that he had disappeared. Mrs. McKenzie flew him over the very inaccessible country to which his theory pointed, and eventually found the elusive detective would probably never have been located from the ground, because his car was hidden and a newly-dug grave beside it where the murdered man had been buried.

Mrs. McKenzie has flown 3,000 hours solo and feels that women have special qualities to offer in training flying pupils. A woman is patient and is a good psychologist, she can do the job just as well as "any men," she said. "You see, each pupil has to be treated as an individual and each one is different."

Lanolin Gift From Sheep

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Lanolin! The word pops out at the reader from the cosmetic ads, the soap ads, the whole gamut of ads, in a variety of typographical layout and design, richly illustrated, artfully written. In fact, it is described as "New — Made With Lanolin!" Lanolin is the latest wonder-working discovery (readers are given to understand) for "thirsty skin." "Our new lanolin formula" is extolled in those words or similar ones as the quintessence of daintiness, as the answer to woman's eternal quest for the miracle aesthetic ingredient.

Lanolin, lanolin, lanolin! The advertisements make it a mad, shine-gunning it at women readers as if it were some new "miracle" product of scientific science. But the ads never disclose what lanolin is.

Hold Holstein Breeders' Dinner

On Thursday evening, October 17, approximately 150 Holstein Breeders' and their friends gathered at Plainfield for the annual Hastings County Holstein banquet. A highlight of the evening was an address by Mr. Lindsay Anderson, a Holstein breeder from Campbellford. The theme of Mr. Anderson's address was the fact that not only is money to be considered in farming, but community life, the excellent surroundings for raising a family, working with nature and the many things that go with rural life. Mr. Anderson said that the farmer who used R.O.P. and selective grading and thereby bred only the best was making money whereas the man who just kept cattle and did not make a study of his job was, in many cases, just existing.

Musical numbers were provided by Donna Robinson and Judy Dafoe and the Fishers from Foxboro. Speakers on the program fieldman; Mr. Harold McCaul, fieldman; Mr. Harold McCaul, Holstein director; Mr. Harry Coulter, 2nd vice-president and Mr. Hudson Ketcheron, 1st vice-president.

W. Frank Jeffs and Son, Stirling, were honored when lifetime production certificates were presented for Alice Pontiac Rag Apple De Kol for producing 126,626 lbs. of milk containing 4,449 lbs. fat in 9 lactations, and Jennie Bud Matchless for producing 105,858 lbs. milk containing 4,631 lbs. fat in 8 lactations.

Arts and Crafts Club Enjoys Outing

People exploring the caves at the Seattle-Hole last weekend not only had to be careful not to step into a hole, but also to avoid tripping over an easel or paint box. The beautiful Fall colors had inspired the members of the art group of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club, and about 20 enthusiastic painters, in spite of the cool weather, spent the weekend painting the many interesting spots, under the supervision of James Gordaneer.

Mr. Gordaneer, who is a native of Toronto, received his art training at the Doon School of Fine Arts. He has spent the past two winters painting in Mexico and plans to spend the next year painting in Spain. During the summer months he instructs art classes at Doon. He has had two one-man shows at Doon, and has exhibited with O.S.A. and R.C.A.

On Saturday evening Mr. Gordaneer gave a short talk and a demonstration of abstract painting at the Corby Library. This was followed by a coffee party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. R. Punchard, where everyone had an opportunity to discuss the day's activities.

Mr. Gordaneer was impressed with the enthusiasm of the Belleville art group, and mentioned that he felt the quality of their work was on a par with that of the best painting groups in this part of the country.

Talk on Public Speaking Given

The first regular night of Soo Eat took place last week in the form of the "Turkey Trot," in keeping with the Thanksgiving season.

The speaker for the evening was Arthur Duncan of the public relations office of Bata Shoe Co. He has been a resident of this area for the past 40 years.

Mr. Duncan began his talk with the conviction that public speaking was meant to be a form of entertainment and if it was not, it became a lecture. One of the necessary traits of a good speaker is a good sense of humor. Mr. Duncan then went on to illustrate the various types of humor connected with the English, Scotch, Yorkshire and Lancashire, Central Europe, American and Canadian people.

Then, in a more serious vein, Mr. Duncan discussed our responsibility as a group toward new Canadians. "As they are looking for examples of good Canadians, we must set a high standard. Even after they take the oath of allegiance, they have many years ahead and we must continue to encourage them," he commented.

The picture of an ideal Canadian was presented by Mr. Duncan as a person who, when he comes home from a day's work, takes time out to look around at the things that are his. He has a real sense of appreciation for living in this country, a feeling of thanksgiving.

The interst activities had taken place earlier and progressed as follows: the dancing class was instructed in the Cha Cha and the Samba; the photography class was instructed on the "do's" and "don'ts" of elementary cameras and the games hour was composed of various card games, etc. Following the refreshments the dance programs were utilized.

Girl Guides' and Brownies' Local Association Names Officers for Coming Year

St. Andrew's Church Hall was the scene Monday evening of a well-attended meeting of the Belleville Local Association of Girl Guides and Brownies. The meeting opened with a social hour during which dessert was served and members had an opportunity of getting to know one another and of meeting the two visiting Commissioners, Mrs. K. B. Clysdale from the Province and Mrs. Thorne Spear from the Area.

The keynote of the meeting was the great progress which has been made in Guiding in the city during the last ten years. Mrs. D. Stewart, Association Chairman, enthusiastically described the work of the past years and thanked both officers and members for their efforts. Mrs. Watson recalled that in 1947 there were only two Brownie packs and two Girl Guide Companies, with a total membership of less than 80. Now there were 277 Brownies, 233 Guides and 32 Rangers. The Ranger Company, while comparatively new, was very enthusiastic and had recently undertaken an interesting project at the Belleville General Hospital, assisting with the small children in the pediatric ward.

Mrs. F. F. Clarke, the camp convener, reported that the local Association had given $200 to a Belleville Guide, Diane Wright, to help her attend the International Centenary camp in England. Another Guide, Joy Butler, who attended the International Camp at Doe Lake, was given $50. The report of the Badge Secretary, Mrs. A. Lewis, showed that a most commendable number of badges had been won by both Brownies and Guides, all of whom had obviously worked hard to pass their tests.

It was proposed that one mother from each pack and company would be invited to join the local association and it was planned to encourage other mothers to take an interest in their daughters' work in Guiding.

Provincial Commissioner Mrs. Clysdale was introduced to the meeting by Area Commissioner Mrs. Spear, and in a stimulating address stressed the importance of the local association in promoting and encouraging the work of the girls.

"We are here to serve", she told her audience, "and it is a privilege to do so."

The reports of the District Commissioners, Mrs. H. Floyd and Mrs. R. Settle, were received with great interest, and the slate of officers introduced by Mrs. Arnott, chairman of the nominating committee, was unanimously endorsed.

The officers for the new season are as follows: chairman, Mrs. D. Stewart; secretary, Mrs. J. E. MacArthur; treasurer, Mrs. A. Wynne; badge secretary, Mrs. A. Lewis; district badge secretaries, Mrs. Lusk, Mrs. W. McCormick, Mrs. A. Mathews; social convener, Mrs. W. G. Slade; leadership convener, Mrs. J. H. Lennox; camp convener, Mrs. F. F. Clark; publicity convener, Mrs. R. H. Tanner; nominating convener, Mrs. J. E. MacArthur; executive members, Mesdames J. F. Darlington, F. L. Benson, J. Dyble, B. Burley and R. H. Roylet.

Music Teachers Hear President Of Ont. Body

A special dinner meeting of the Belleville branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held on Monday at Christ Church parish hall. The speaker was Reginald Bedford, president of the O.R.M.T.A. Mr. Bedford is the principal of the Hamilton Conservatory of Music, and a well-known concert artist.

Mr. Bedford described the O.R.M.T.A. as an association dedicated to raising the standards of music teaching by registering the teachers. He predicted that the day would come when only those music teachers registered by the province would be permitted to teach. Much remains to be done before this can take place, but Mr. Bedford noted that examiners of the Royal Conservatory of Music find higher musical standards in those cities where an O.R.M.T.A. branch is active.

Mr. Bedford described the work of the council, mentioning in particular the summer courses which the O.R.M.T.A. has made available to teachers who wish to improve their work. More than 100 music teachers took advantage of these courses last summer.

The meeting ended with a lively discussion of the relationship between branches and council, the annual O.R.M.T.A. convention and the problem of fees in an inflated economy.

The speaker was introduced by Sister Bibiana and thanked by Mr. Egerton Boyce.

Mrs. Emily Veley, the chairman of the Belleville branch, welcomed newcomers to the Association.

Exemplar Chapter Of Beta Sigma Phi Holds October Meet

October has been a most interesting month for the members of the Xi Alpha Mu, Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. On October 7th through arrangements made by the president, Mrs. D. K. Black, members were taken on a tour through the Gibbard Furniture factory in Napanee. As they were shown the complete operation, from the rough lumber to the beautifully finished products, this proved to be the most instructive as well as enjoyable.

Arrangements were made to donate high chairs to the Children's Aid Society receiving home, and several nursery training projects for this purpose have been discussed.

The October 21st meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Joblin, and arrangements were made for the annual fall dinner to be held in November with Gamma Mu Chapter, final details to be completed after an executive meeting with Gamma Mu Chapter.

The remainder of the evening was spent in sorting used clothing, donated by the members, to be sold at the Opportunity Shop. Mrs. Grant Badgley, who has been residing in Western Canada, has returned to Belleville and was welcomed back and Mrs. J. E. Polerich has transferred to the local Chapter from Xi Iota Exemplar Chapter in Peterborough.

This - - - and That

I want to thank the many readers who have been so kind during my recent forced absence. It has been a rewarding experience; one for which I am grateful and one too from which T & T is greatly encouraged.

Probably the most talked of, the most publicized news about during the past few days has been the North American visit of Queen Elizabeth and her husband, the Prince Philip. We realize that being in the swim probably provides many chances for observation that being confined to one's home does not. However, in quietness, we received an impression which might have missed us out in the fast moving great world.

We got the feeling that within the minute mortal body of this predestined mother, a Queen by birth not choice, rested the universal symbolism of the great but simple spiritual force so desperately needed in any age. Within and beyond the frailty of human limitations, this young woman signifies by her example and strength of character great leadership. Within and beyond pomp and circumstance (from which she must not, nor does she attempt to escape) the daughter, the wife, the mother reveals the deep goodness of the finest in human aspirations.

How easy it is for some to declaim. How difficult it is to rise above responsibilities which are inherited, yet to accept them courageously. How easy it would be for the young woman to evade rather than accept those tasks for the accomplishment of which she turns to God and the prayers of her people. This generation has seen monarchies toppling like tenpins because in large part they have lost that which the Queen holds the highest — nobility of leadership and the eternal fitness of reaching for the worth while. The greatness lies not in a queen who is a mother, but in a mother who is queenly in the finest sense. When we remind ourselves that the woman who is Queen today, yet but a few short years ago was Lilibet to the world, is human like us, then we in small measure should appreciate the true strength of womanhood that makes her loveable and loved, admired and respected, human and sovereign.

If you feel that T & T loves the Queen you are correct. It is because the majesty of motherhood and womanhood is the foundation of the gracious majesty she lends to a throne that in this cynical age could so easily be injured. So real is her commonality that surrounds us all that she would be lacking without the warm, friendly and strong arm of a husband she openly loves and children she loves as yours or mine are loved. T & T says sincerely "God bless our Queen" and are thankful that she does not falter as an inspiration for those things we value so much. It could so easily have been otherwise.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TEENAGE BOY "HONOR-BOUND" TO MARRY TEENAGE GIRL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please, please help me with your always good advice, in a serious situation that has just come to our lives. It concerns our teenage son and a girl two years younger whom he is "honor bound" to marry. We met the girl for the first time a week ago, and her parents two days ago when they told us they must marry. The girl seems a very sweet girl, and indeed a very frightened girl.

The girl's mother wishes to have them have the wedding very soon in the parsonage of their church. I understand it is to be in the early afternoon, but so far I have only heard about any plan through the children. Please tell me IF you think I could properly telephone the girl's mother and ask particulars? I am sure she is as distressed as I, undoubtedly even more so, and may not have thought of these things. I don't even know how to act about anything but I do want to co-operate in any way I can. I'm only trying to be as kind as possible.

Since the girl is quite far along in her pregnancy — enough so it is noticeable — I would think the wedding should be very small, and as quiet as possible. But of course I'm not doing it. They are, I understand, inviting many relatives and some friends, but so far we have not been asked for a list. How can I properly find out how many people we are expected to list for invitations? Of course I don't want to intrude where I perhaps shouldn't, but naturally I would like to know more about the plans so I could co-operate more helpfully. I'm as heartsick over the whole thing that I'm afraid I am not thinking very straight. Thank you for any guidance, and, please, as soon as possible.

— A Mother

My heart bows to your mother-heart, and I can well understand how heartsick and deeply distressed you must be about this unhappy situation. But I salute you with high admiration for your brave acceptance of the circumstance. (I am omitting the fundamentally tragic fact that makes the situation even more problematic for the future), and for your sincere and understanding wish to co-operate with any and all plans.

I have a strong feeling that the girl's mother, torn between her love for her daughter and her unhappiness and bewilderment at the news, and trying her best to plan against time, a wedding that would be considered suitable, may be longing for the comfort of your out-stretched hand and of your warm-hearted offer to help and to co-operate . . . since you actually would be the nearest in relation to the situation.

As you say, she may be too distracted to think of calling you, or for some reason she may hesitate. So do please telephone her immediately, assuring her of your deep sorrow that such a situation has come to her daughter and your son, and that you are so anxious to be of help that will she please let you come to see her, to talk things over, mother to mother. In my judgment, it is really your duty to try to make this contact at once, and I am sure you will both be comforted by talking over together the plans for the wedding. As you say in your letter, the privilege of making the plans is theirs . . . and yours must be complete co-operation with their plans. God bless you all in these hours. (And please write me again if I can be of any service.)

Male Cook Needs Help

By Mary Moore

This gentleman, Donald S. S., has written before. This time he writes asking: "Would you possibly have any receipts for preserving barberries . . . I have a number of bushes . . . have a sweet tooth . . . most candy recipes complicated for my inexperienced hands . . . fond of fudge . . . at a dinner at a hotel a small puff that appealed especially to me seemed to be like a potato grated or batter . . . fried in deep fat . . . also the soup which was a wonderful thick rich home-made vegetable soup . . . I have found when mixing the ingredients for a cake that where the recipe called for beaten eggs, and the first few ingredients were something like creamed butter and sugar, that an extra dish can be saved by beating the eggs in one side of the same dish, holding the dish for this purpose on a tilt.—Donald S. S.

Answer: Now isn't that just like a man! Thanks Donald. I have a strong hunch those potato puffs you ate were Frozen Potato Puffs. Buy them at the frozen food counter. If you are only one, cut open one end of the package, knock out the number you will eat, cover end of box with foil and keep frozen for future. Obey directions on package explicitly. They are lovely.

BARBERRY JELLY

It is advisable to have some underripe barberries. To 6½ quarts of them add 1 cup water and heat mash a few on bottom of kettle to start the juice. Simmer gently until tender. Strain through jelly bag. Do not squeeze. Measure juice. Boil 5 minutes. Add an equal amount of sugar and boil 3 minutes. Test for jelly on cold saucer or dip juice up on spoon to see if it "sheets" or 2 drops form about ¾-inch apart on edge of spoon. If so, pour into sterile glasses and seal with paraffin adding second coating when first is set.

EMMA'S BEST FUDGE

Two tablespoons cocoa, two tablespoons butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whole milk, 1 tablespoon corn syrup. Mix together sugar, cocoa and salt. When well blended, add milk, butter and corn syrup. Bring to boiling point and let boil gently, while stirring slowly, until it will form a soft ball when tried in cold water (or until it reaches 236 deg. Fahr.) Remove from heat, add vanilla, then cool slightly for 3 minutes. Beat until mixture begins to show ridges when spoon is drawn through it, which hold their shape. Pour into buttered pan. . . Note: If adding chopped nuts, cocoanut or puffed cereals, or raisins or dates, they should be stirred in just before the final beating.

Kindly watch for the column on soups which will appear here on Wednesday, Oct. 23rd.

Let me know whenever I may help again. Good luck.

Martha S. — They promoted the other girls ahead of me.

Mrs. J.S. — Why should she worry about a job?

Martha S. — I am a young woman of 24 and I am very upset about my job and the way I get treated by my supervisors.

I have been working at this same place since I got out of high school. I do everything I am told and I am never late and rarely absent. Just the same, other girls who came after I did have been promoted and some of them now supervise my work. It certainly can't be because I'm any stupider than they are since I was always a good student at school.

When I spoke to one of the supervisors about this, she told me I ought to go to business school and take up some more skills, but I don't see why they should make me do this when those other girls got promoted without doing anything about it.

My mother says I should just leave this place if they can't appreciate me, but I've gotten used to it here and besides, it's very near my home and has nice hours.

Mrs. J.S. — I've never known a young girl to be so worried about jobs as Martha. I keep telling her she shouldn't be so interested in all of that. She's not going to be a career woman. She should be thinking about getting a husband.

My sister says I spoil Martha because I take care of her clothes and her room. She has no responsibilities at all. I think that's the way it should be. She's got plenty of time for work and worry. Now she should be free to just enjoy life. It's what I wanted to do when I was a young girl, but I couldn't. I had to work and help out at home. Martha doesn't have any such responsibility. She can afford to be independent, so why should she worry about her job?

I would like to see Martha leave that job because there are too many girls there anyway. It's time she went where she could meet some men.

The Council: Mrs. J.S. appears to have taken away all Martha's initiative and given the girl the feeling all that is required from her in life at this stage is to await the appearance of a husband. She does not seem to realize that work and an active interest in what she is doing won't use Martha up. On the contrary, it will give her something — enthusiasm, a sense of accomplishment, friends.

Martha should realize that she has too much played the role of mother's good little darling, whose only responsibilities are getting to school on time and performing the tasks set before her. A child who does this, and causes no trouble, gets promoted to the next grade, but a little more is required of an adult in the business world.

Instead of nursing her sense of abuse, Martha ought to open her eyes and see what the other girls really did to get promoted ahead of her. She ought to see what she can do to improve her own work. The acquisition of new skills at business school will undoubtedly help.

Martha would also do well to take things into her own hands at home. She should not let her foolishly doting mother deprive her of the privilege of being independent in such personal matters as caring for her own clothes and room.

An active interest in these things, as well as in her work, will help to wake her out of her sullen lethargy. "Sleeping Beauty" got the prince in the fairy tale, but it takes a wide-awake girl to find him in real life.

Bringing Up Baby

MINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Scales, DOCTOR OF ST

It's a well established fact that toddlers seem best upon indulging in all kinds of frenzied activity just before bedtime. Good way to unwind your little whirlwind is to establish a regular, pre-bed ritual that will demand his (or her) concentration. If it's a pleasant pastime, like story-telling or preparing dolly or doggy for bed, your little one will look forward to that regular calm-down task.

No joy for a toddler like the joy of owning a hug-'n'-cuddle toy. Good Christmas surprise for the light of your eyes: a GERBER BABY DOLL. It's a $3.75 value for only $2.00 and 6 Gerber labels or 3 cereal box tops. This adorable 12" image of the famous Gerber Baby drinks, eats, sits up and has movable arms and legs. For extra fun it comes with diaper, bib, bottle and Cereal play box. Just send money and labels to Gerber Baby Foods, Dept. "D", Box 4027, Terminal A, Toronto, Canada.

Bath Time. A box of facial tissues packed to the back of baby's high chair makes it easy to mop up delicacies dropped by self-feeders. Good step-saver for you too.

Do-it-yourself-dept. Signs of self-feeding starting to show? You can improve baby's hand-to-mouth co-ordination by giving him finger foods to practice with. Puffed, ready-to-eat cereal or tiny bits of bacon are fine.

News on the protein front. Both toddlers and babies need plenty of protein foods to aid growth and muscle development. The new Gerber Protein Cereal Food provides extra protein in easy-to-digest form. It has a 35% protein content derived from oats, wheat, soy beans and yeast. For further nutritional value, it's enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins. Best of all, Gerber-Protein Cereal Food has a delightful flavour, mix-like flavor both toddlers and babies love. Just mix with milk or formula and serve.

HOW TO LOOK YOUR PRETTIEST IN SNAPSHOTS

Campus days are snapshot days. They're the days when college guys and gals, eager to capture the happy hours on film, have visions, if only fleeting ones, of how much fun it's going to be to look at their prize pictures in the far-away future. Well it will be fun — if your snapshots do justice to you. If they're the kind of pictures you won't mind having anyone gawking at twenty years from now. To make sure, then, that you're at your best when you "look at the birdie", here are a few tips:

(1) Never slouch. Even a 36-28-36 figure will look dumpy if you slump before the camera.

(3) Don't let your arms and hands hang limply — or stiffly. They'll block out your curves completely. By doing something with your hands — idling with your sunglasses or waving at someone — you'll keep your arms away from your waist and not only better show off its shapeliness, but give animation, to your picture.

(4) If your legs aren't as long and lovely as you'd like, wear high heels.

(5) Just before the camera clicks, take a deep breath. It will raise your bustline several inches.

(6) And don't, if you can help it, be caught before the camera without your make-up. A skin with even a "healthy" shine will look oily on film. A generous application of bright red lipstick (no blue in it to go black, no orange to fade away) will give your mouth just the right accent to make your face look prettier, whether the picture is to be in color or black and white.

(7) If you want to flash a smile, wet your lips and say "cheese" just before the camera clicks — which is what all good photographers tell unprofessionals to do.

(8) Brush your hair up and way from your face, the better for it to be seen, and the better to prevent its shadows from spoiling your snapshot.

Woman's Place Still in Home Says Senator

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld. (CP) — Senator F. Elsie Inman of Prince Edward Island told graduates here "there is a place for women in government, especially in the departments of welfare, health and education."

However, she believes that a woman's place is still in the home. She thinks women should enter public life "only when circumstances permit."

Mrs. Inman sat, been interested in politics for years, and in 1932 became vice-president of the Charlottetown Women's Liberal Club, the first of its kind in Prince Edward Island and the second in Canada. She was appointed a senator in 1955.

Senator Inman arrived here to see the place where her grandfather years ago sold mainland-produced foodstuffs, shipped by schooner.

She was accompanied by her husband, Cmdr. W. R. Inman of St. John's. Mrs. Inman has three other sons—Dr. George S. A. Inman and Cmdr. Wilfrid Inman of Montague, P.E.I., and Major R. V. Inman, Montreal.

Women's Activities

ROSE HALL W. A.

HILLIER — The meeting of Rose Hall W. A. was held in the Sunday school hall with Mrs. N. Tice and Mrs. A. Wanamaker as co-hostesses.

The president, Mrs. O. Wanamaker, presided. Miss V. Istead was secretary and Mrs. L. McCartney, pianist.

The president welcomed the members and though several were absent due to illness, several ladies responded to the roll call. Scripture reading was from Isaiah 1:10-20. A short talk on these verses followed and closed with prayer by the president.

Correspondence included 'thank you' notes from Mrs. R. Carson and Mrs. J. Lancaster for treats while ill. Mrs. A. Wight thanked the association for being remembered during their bereavement. An earlier message in October was read from Mrs. Marsh, Belleville. The Monthly Missionary dues will be taken at November meeting.

A short business session followed. Mrs. L. Wight agreed to take over Mrs. B. Reid's duties during her illness. November meeting will be "Dollar Day."

Mrs. H. MacDonald was absent through illness, consequently Mrs. A. Wanamaker took charge of the devotional exercises. Hymn "O for a Faith" was sung and scripture lesson and title followed. Mrs. Grant offered prayer to conclude this part of meeting.

Miss Istead assisted in serving a lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

The November meeting will be held Nov. 13 when Mrs. K. G. Cunley entertains the group.

CENTENARY W.A.

Mrs. Robert Hart was hostess to Centenary W.A. on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. M. Nobes, president, opened the meeting with the theme and hymn "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord," followed by prayer. Letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. Harold Smith and Mrs. J. Kelly. During the business period plans were made for teas, banquets and the turkey supper to be held in the near future.

Mrs. Hancock spoke for a few minutes on the work of the W.M.S. Mrs. F. Edmondson asked the ladies to contribute to the children who will be collecting pennies for U.N.I.C.E.F. on Hallowe'en night. Mrs. Sutherland invited all to attend a fellowship night on Nov. 16th which is sponsored by the Adult Club for the community and will be held in the church hall, with the ladies being asked to bring lunch.

Mrs. Sutherland opened the Devotional period with the verses "God's promises are rich and sure". Mrs. F. Edmondson read the scripture reading from psalm 92. Mrs. Edgar Ray gave a reading "Believer's Hope". Mrs. Hancock read a short item beginning with the words "You're Strong and Well". Mrs. Sutherland gave the topic entitled "Things We've Heard Said", wherein the words "no what" were used in question Christian teachings. All joined in the singing of the hymn "Breathe On Me", Breath Of God". Mrs. Byam Roblin closed the meeting with prayer.

Tasty refreshments served by Mrs. P. Sutherland and her group brought this enjoyable afternoon to a close with all joining in thanking Mrs. Hart for her hospitality.

WESTINGHOUSE LAUNDROMAT AUTOMATIC WASHER

Washes Each Load in Fresh, Clean, Hot Water...Yet Uses Less!

Better washing . . . better rinsing . . . cleaner clothes, because Westinghouse Laundromat washes each load in fresh, clean hot water. You never re-use dirty wash or rinse water. Yet Westinghouse saves you up to 10 gallons per load over other "automatics" . . . even more over wringer-type washers with two extra rinse tubs to fill! And the hot water you save stays in your hot water tank, where it's always ready for other uses.

WASHES BETTER. All the clothes are lifted, turned, tumbled and flushed through hot, sudsy water . . . continuously! Every piece gets the same uniform washing action—50 times a minute—so everything comes out uniformly clean! Gentle but thorough, anything washable can be washed safely in the Laundromat—from dainty things to rugged work clothes.

RINSES BETTER. Washbasket tilts up, lifting clothes clear of wash water. Dirty water is then drained away from, not through your clean clothes as in other "automatics". That's why there are no lint traps or other gadgets in a Laundromat.

CLEANS ITSELF. After washing and rinsing, the Laundromat cleans itself . . . automatically! Porcelain washbasket is sparkling clean after each wash, ready for the next load. There are no agitators, filter pans, lint traps or other parts to clean . . . ever!

Save as much as 10 gallons of hot water per load over other "automatics" . . . even more over wringer-type washers!

 Exclusive Revolving Agitator Action

Only Westinghouse offers you Revolving Agitator Action—the only proven washing principle that saves you water every wash. You never use too much—never too little—always just the right amount for any size wash. Yes, Westinghouse gives you greater water economy—saves you up to 10 gallons per load over other "automatics" . . . even more over wringer-type washers.

Weigh-to-Save Door. No more "guessing" how many clothes to put in—no more overloading problems. Accurate scale weighs each load . . . assures that you use the proper amount of water for every load size.

Soap 'n Water Saver. Saves both soap and water because it automatically measures in the exact amount of water for the size of your wash. Gyrator washers, whether "automatic" or conventional, need a full tub of water for every load . . . even if it's small.

U.S. Sergeant Spied for Reds After Wild Party

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. Army master sergeant has testified he turned informer for the Russians after a wild Moscow hotel party with two Russian girls.

Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes, 40, said in Brooklyn federal court Monday that he was paid about $3,000 for information given to Soviet nationals in 1952. He was then in charge of the U.S. embassy garage in Moscow.

Rhodes was testifying as a witness for the government in the espionage trial of Col. Rudolf I. Abel, 55, alleged master spy for the Soviet Union in the United States.

SOME TRUE DATA

"The information you gave them—was it truthful or untruthful?" Rhodes was asked.

"Some of both sir," replied Rhodes.

The sergeant traced his spying activities to a Moscow drinking bout in December, 1951. He said he was celebrating news that his wife and daughter had received permission from Soviet authorities to join him.

After a night's revelry with his two Russian mechanics and two Russian girls, he said, he woke up the next morning in bed with one of the girls in a strange room.

MET WITH RUSSIAN

"Five or 10 weeks later," he said, the same girl called him and he arranged to meet her. He said they met two men, one an English-speaking Russian.

Rhodes testified that he never saw the girl again after that day but met the English speaking Russian several times. "Usually he was alone but not always. At one meeting a uniformed man was there."

Rhodes gave no indication that he knew Abel.

78 Canadians Receive Honors From Massey

OTTAWA (CP)—Seventy-eight Canadians Monday received honors in an order which dates back to the Crusades.

In an investiture at Government House, Governor - General Massey invested men and women from all walks of life with honors of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

Mr. Massey is prior of the Order of St. John in Canada.

Three Canadians received the highest Canadian rank in the order, that of knight of grace. The new knights include Donald Gordon, Montreal, Canadian National Railways president.

Other honors — the titles of commander brothers and sisters, officer brothers and sisters and serving brothers and sisters, went to men and women across Canada.

The Order of St. John dates back to the Crusaders' capture of Jerusalem in 1099 when injured members of the Crusade were nursed by an obscure group of men known as the "poor brethren of St. John." The order was formed as a mark of respect for the men who performed deeds of mercy.

PEI Fox-Farming Industry Being Counted Out After Staging Couple of Comebacks

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—The Prince Edward Island fox-farming industry has a record like a veteran boxer. It captured the world's championship in its youth, held it for years, then recovered from several heavy wallops before it finally slipped to where it is being counted out on its fur feet.

There seems to be little chance of another late recovery; a comeback now would almost have to be a fresh start, and there is no such thing in sight. Even just don't want long-hair coats any more.

About 15 ranchers are still holding their stocks, hopeful that prices will again rise, but the complete island fox population is less than 1,000 and one-third of these are on the federal experimental farm here. In 1939 the island's fox population was 200,000.

Dr. C. K. Gunn, superintendent of the experimental ranch, doesn't foresee any immediate revival, but "asking me that question is like asking if there will be another world war. We just can't tell." But it is unlikely the remaining fox farms will continue to operate at a loss.

In its heyday prize pelts from the island's silver and black foxes would net between $75 and $150. Today prices vary between $3 and $15.

The beginning of the end came after the Second World War when dollar and sterling values juggled and Asiatic countries saw a chance to cash in on the North American market. So, says Dr. Gunn, they immediately dumped $240,000,000 worth of furs in the continent. The Prince Edward Island industry had just begun to climb out from under this pile when women shrugged off fox furs and began the play for mink. Mink is still king.

In the early stages of this shrinking market the island farmers were not worried. They had been through it before and always fought back. From the 1890's when the industry was established, until 1920 Prince Edward Island was virtually alone in the fox field. In that year the Norwegians came over and bought a large number of foxes and went home to develop the platinum fox, whose fur had a bluish-white tint and women loved. The islanders came back with a better platinum and recaptured the world markets.

Then the Germans developed a dye which, when applied to the fur of a red fox, made it blacker than the fur of a black fox. Islanders teamed up with breeders in Wisconsin for an answer to this foxy trick and the result was the silver fox, a cross between an arctic and native fox.

With all these blows there were a few bright developments too. One of these was a decision by the Russian army to have its officers' overcoats lined with fox furs. This came shortly before the Second World War, and didn't last long. With the war came a shortage of cloth and there was a swing to all-fur. This would have been a bonanza to the island if fox furs were chosen. Instead the swing began to mink, and so far it hasn't let up.

Most of the high wire pens have been torn down from island farms. Some are still standing with grass growing through the floor boards, but few hold the sling for that used to bring several million dollars to the farmers annually.

Some farms have switched to mink, but Dr. Gunn, a native of Winnipeg, says the growth of mink farming here "is not really impressive" when compared with the decline in ranching.

If prices stay at rock - bottom and the 15 remaining farmers decide to give up the wail, Prince Edward Island will lose its most famous export, and will not likely again reach the point where it has more than one - third of the world's supply of silver fox.

Strijdom Says Republic Aim Of His Party

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (Reuters)—Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom says his government is aiming toward a republican form of government as a way of uniting the two white sections of South Africa's population.

Strijdom Tuesday told delegates to a congress of the National Party, which he heads, that South Africa will be a republic long before the opposition United Party has the slightest chance of returning to power.

He said it is his government's "deep conviction" that only under a republican form of government will there be real co-operation between the English and Afrikaans-speaking sections, "because only then shall we all be South Africans and nothing but South Africans."

Young Liberal Members Take Tongue Lashing

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative J. C. Van Horne, persistent critic of the former Liberal government, has criticized members of that party, especially young ones from Ontario, for their attacks on Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent after the June 10 election.

The MP for Restigouche-Madawaska, N.B., said Tuesday that while celebrating his own party's victory, he could not help feeling that "a great chieftain had fallen."

But then young Ontario Liberals, aided and abetted by some of Mr. St. Laurent's former cabinet colleagues, had decided to see how far they could go in criticizing their leader.

"This action," said Mr. Van Horne as the 75-year-old former prime minister listened across the chamber, "strikes me as the depth of ingratitude to a man who has given so much to his party and to his country."

At another point he said:

"The people of Canada will long remember how these young 'we-bit politics' hoodlums treated their chief after this last election."

Margaret Aitken Not Impressed With Russia

OTTAWA (CP) — Margaret Aitken, describing herself as a tourist who took a busman's holiday last summer, Tuesday told the Commons of her visit to Russia.

In a word, the Progressive Conservative MP for York-Humber and columnist for the Toronto Telegram found nothing good about Russia.

"I went, I saw and I came home thanking God for this beautiful land of freedom, for our parliamentary system where the people choose their government and we now are given the honor to serve in Parliament answer to the people, not to a power-hungry group of 15 people in an ivory tower called the Kremlin."

In Russia she found no freedom of speech, press or privacy. There was freedom to work, but no freedom to choose a job. There was no freedom of movement, even inside the country.

Member Wants Exemption From Seaway Tolls

OTTAWA (CP) — Welland Canal traffic should be exempted from St. Lawrence seaway tolls, W. H. McMillan, Liberal MP for Welland, says.

He also said Tuesday that seaway tolls must not be set so high as to lose prospective traffic, especially iron ore from new mines in Labrador and northeast Quebec.

If this traffic were lost, he said in the Commons throne speech debate, the burden of paying for the seaway would fall more heavily on Canadian shipping required to use the new route.

The Welland Canal is being deepened, along with other channels to the upper Great Lakes, to match the depth of seaway locks being built on the St. Lawrence River to provide for 27-foot navigation throughout. Legislation requires that tolls be charged to pay for the project in 50 years after its expected completion in 1959.

"SEVERE EFFECT"

Mr. McMillan said seaway tolls on the Welland Canal will have a severe effect on Canadian firms which must ship raw materials or finished goods through the canal.

He said the seaway will not be such a major factor for the United States economy as it will be for Canada. If the tools were too high, U.S. shippers had alternate and competitive routes, including the Mississippi River. Furthermore, much of the U.S. great Lakes shipping in the form of raw materials from the upper lakes would not go as far as the Welland Canal and thus would not have to pay tolls.

Mr. McMillan said the Canadian and U.S. governments should assume some of the costs of seaway canals.

Tolls also should be delayed until a large tonnage of seaway shipping had been built up.

810,000 Recipients to Benefit From Increase of Old-Age Pensions to $55 Monthly

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for the second major boost this year in federal old age pensions to Canadians 70 and over, raising payments by $9 to $55 a month, have been announced by the new Progressive Conservative government.

Some $10,000 recipients will benefit, at an added cost of some $90,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile, it appeared likely that all or nearly all of the provinces will go along with another federal proposal to raise to $55 a month the maximum payments under joint federal-provincial programs of aid to the needy aged, blind and disabled.

Plans for this social security expansion were outlined Tuesday as the government gave notice of resolutions preliminary to legislation which will put the increases into effect. A government spokesman promised prompt action on the measures.

THREE PROGRAMS

Involved are three welfare programs: Old age security pensions to all 70 and over, which are purely a federal matter old age; assistance to those 65-69; allowances to the totally and permanently disabled aged 18-70 shared 50-50 by federal and provincial governments; and blindness allowances to those 18-70, borne 75 per cent by the federal government.

The shared-cost programs go to those in financial need, and federal government proposes to boost the ceiling on maximum allowable income by $120 a year for single persons and $240 for married recipients. Payments are reduced if a recipient's total income exceeds the ceiling.

The $9 raise in payment levels in all programs follows the boost carried out by the previous Liberal administration, from $40 to $46 monthly, as of July 1.

NEED APPROVAL

To take effect, the new increases in the shared-cost programs and the raising of their means-test ceilings will require provincial approval.

Tuesday premiers or cabinet ministers of five provinces to recommend—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island—said their governments will pay their share of the increases. Sources in the Ontario and Quebec governments said approval there is also likely.

The federal government plans, on its own old age security pensions, to make the changes in the terms of eligibility. World-be recipients would require only 10 years of Canadian residence, instead of the present 20, to qualify for the universal pensions. And pensioners could make temporary trips out of Canada of up to six months, instead of the present three, without losing pension rights.

SHORTEN REQUIREMENT

A similar shortening of the residence requirement from 20 years to 10, is planned for those between the ages of 65 and 69 seeking old age assistance payments. The planned federal measures also would extend disability allowances to some patients in hospitals not now covered.

The proposed increases in means-test ceilings for old age assistance and disability allowances: To $960 a year from $840 for single persons, to $1,620 from $1,320 for married persons, and to $1,200 from $1,080 for married persons with a blind spouse.

The proposed increase in income ceilings for blindness allowances: to $1,200 from $1,080 for single persons, to $1,680 from $1,560 for a single person with a dependent child, to $1,920 from $1,800 for a married person and both of whom are blind, and to $2,160 from $1,800 for a married couple of whom is blind.

Czechs Stage Protest Rally Against Reds

VIENNA (AP) — About 800 Czechoslovaks took part in a noisy demonstration against the Communist government in the centre of Prague around midnight Sunday, Oct. 13, diplomatic reports received here Tues. from the Czech capital said.

The demonstration was admitted Monday at a Prague press conference by Czechoslovakia's police boss, Rudolf Barak. He frankly called it a "demonstration against the government," but described the demonstrators as "hooligans."

Diplomatic reports said the demonstration took place in Prague's main square. It was reported that youths started the protest but soon persuaded hundreds to join them.

Barak did not disclose how the demonstration ended, or whether police dispersed it. However, he added that his police were "preparing a decisive blow against the hooligans."

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Czech newspapers Tues. said a total of 142 arrests had been made in Prague, Ostrava, and other regional centres since security police began a national anti-hooligan drive last Thursday.

New Political Talks Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC has announced a new series of national political broadcasts by radio and television under the title in English of The Nation's Business and in French Les Affaires de l'Etat.

Fifteen broadcasts will be given on each of the French- and English-language radio and TV networks—five by Progressive Conservatives, five by Liberals, three by CCF party members and two by Social Crediters. All are to originate in Ottawa.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is to give the first English broadcasts on TV Oct. 28 and on radio Nov. 8.

DUPES BANKS

TORONTO (CP)—Police said Monday that a man posing as a service station employee exchanged rolls of worthless metal slugs at several banks in suburban New Toronto and Long Branch for $75. Police said they believe he is the same man who put coin wrappers around sections of pipe and passed them off recently as rolls of one-cent pieces.

Increase Flow Mortgage Money Is Predicted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gradual easing of tight money conditions and an increase in the flow of mortgage money next year has been predicted by Jack Stevenson of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

Mr. Stevenson, a leading authority on real estate economics, also foresaw a marked increase in home construction over this year's level.

He made the forecasts Monday in his report to the association at its annual meeting.

Chief reasons for the easier conditions, he said, would be a general lessening of inflationary pressures and an expected slowdown in capital construction for business, industry and the development of natural resources.

Tight money conditions "prevailed until about August but now the field seems to have been reversed."

MONEY AVAILABLE

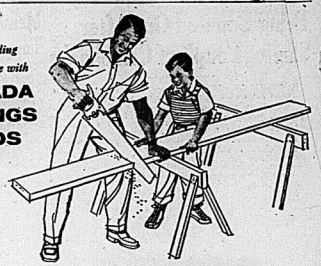
And if the trend continues, Mr. Stevenson said, "there will be a good deal more money available for housing next year. Not only has the federal government's $150,000,000 housing program created more units, but mortgage companies indicate there should be more money available for investment in 1958."

The forecast was backed up by Kenneth S. Kayes of Miami, Fla., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the United States, who said a general easing in the mortgage and housing picture is already taking place.

Mr. Stevenson spotted these trends: 1. Lower corporation profits this year dampening business enthusiasm to expand; 2. "Sharply falling prices" in the base metal mining industry; 3. A fading of the "bloom on the burgeoning oil industry" with market demand down in both Canada and U.S.; 4. Rising nation-wide unemployment that is "pre-seasonal in character."

With a levelling off in the nation's economic boom and personal savings maintaining a high level, the outlook now for real estate development is excellent, Mr. Stevenson said.

HURLS HOT BOULDERS



TOKYO (Reuters)—Mount Mihara on O-shima near here erupted with a blast that sent debris 2,000 feet into the air and hurled out hot boulders the size of a man's head. No casualties were reported. The O-shima meteorological observatory said the eruption took place at a new crater which was formed in a big explosion Oct. 13.

TAX OFFICE LOSES OUT

LONDON (Reuters) — Three high court judges ruled Monday that income tax need not be paid on royalties received after an author's death. The judge's ruling came on the estate of mystery writer Peter Cheyney, who died June 26, 1951. Income tax officials wanted to tax his earnings through 1953.

SHOWS NO SIGNS OF WORRY

Ordinary citizens may be concerned about the Russian satellite, the danger of war in the Middle East and the intercontinental missile, but British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, left, and U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles show no sign of worry as they discuss these developments in Washington. Mr. Dulles has expressed confidence that the West was still ahead of Russia in scientific achievement.

District WMS Learns About Christ in Japan

CANNIFTON — Mrs. H. Putman was hostess for the October meeting of Cannifton W. M. S.

The president, Mrs. R. Pound opened with a reading and prayer. Welcome was extended to all especially to the several visitors.

The literature secretary, Mrs. C. Bird gave the highlights of several new books pertaining to Japan. Mrs. W. Brenton, supply secretary read a letter stating the club's allocation and that children's clothes of all kinds were urgently needed.

Mrs. McCrae had charge of the rest of the program. The worship service, taken from the September "Missionary Monthly" had for its theme, "Unity, for honor of the Gospel." Mrs. W. Chamberlain read the Scripture from Phillipians 1: 27-30. Meditation and prayer by Mrs. McCrae.

March has been achieved, through the grace of God, in bringing together churches of different constitution and traditions. The work, however, is not yet complete. Protestants the world over are divided and it is their duty at all times to work for the coming together of the denominations. They should not allow rivalry between individuals or organizations to creep into congregational life. It is not Christian and it is devastating to the life of the church of Jesus Christ.

This part closed with the hymn "The church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord".

Mrs. McCrae then read a chapter from the new study book which deals with Japan.

Tokyo is situated on the largest of four islands that make up Japan and the largest Christian institutions are located there. Tokyo's Women's Christian College opened its doors in 1918 and over 4,000 women of Japan can be counted among the graduates serving in government posts, in the church, as teachers, home-makers and secretaryship secretary gave a reading on what are some of the "marks" of a good Christian—faith in God, knowledge of God, commitment of God's will, the belief in the supreme value of human personality, and the purpose to serve the common good.

A letter from the missionary for prayer, Miss M. Brown, was read by Mrs. R. Pound and Rev. Merrick closed with the Benediction.

A social half-hour followed.

Japanese Judge Accepts GI's Story of Shot

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—The presiding Japanese judge Tuesday accepted William S. Girard's story that he did not mean to hit anyone when he fired the shot that killed a Japanese woman collecting scrap brass on an army firing range.

"The court does not feel that you fired this shot with intent to hit anyone, but so far as you are concerned, you think it was negligence or an accident — is that right?" Judge Yuzo Kawachi asked the 21 - year - old soldier through an interpreter.

Girard, testifying in his own defence in the final stage of the two - month - old trial, said that was right.

Kawachi's statement opened a gain for the defence. But, the court could still convict Girard of the charge of inflicting bodily injury causing death if it decided he knew the power of his weapon and the danger of firing the way he did.

Catholic Labor Group Presents Brief to Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — The 90,000-member Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor Tuesday placed its annual memorandum before the federal cabinet.

Its suggestions, many of them reiterations of past ones, included easing of restrictions to boost home building, a permanent prices investigation board, more Canadian processing of natural resources and higher old age pensions and family allowances.

An immigration quota should be set, "based on the real needs of the country." Publicity of overseas immigration officers should be checked in view of evidence that some European immigrants in the past had been given "promises of employment equivalent to false representation."

The CCCL compromises workers in the Roman Catholic syndicates, mostly in Quebec province. The confederation memorandum followed one submitted Monday by the Canadian Labor Congress.

WANTS PRICES BOARD

Consumer protection against rising prices would be assisted by a permanent prices investigation board, perhaps established on a trial basis at first, said the CCCL memorandum.

The board would compel producers other than farmers and retailers "to explain and justify" increases in the prices of goods and services. Non-mandatory recommendations would follow such studies.

The CCCL again called for diplomatic relations to be established with the Vatican and a Canadian flag free of "foreign" emblems. A design of red and white triangles with a green maple leaf in the centre, as proposed by the League for a Canadian Flag, appeared suitable, the brief said.

WILLS CASH TO CATS

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—The will of Mrs. Blanche Bonner Barber, admitted to probate Monday, left most of her estate to provide food and care for her cats. There was no immediate estimate on the size of the estate, but probate court set bond at $26,000 for the executor, Mrs. Hattie Schaefer. The will made small bequests totalling $1,100 to nieces and nephews and set up the rest of the estate as a fund for the cats.

Mrs. Miller is with another daughter, Mrs. Mel Saunders, of South America, and they have an apartment in Toronto until Mrs. Saunders' mother is nursed back to good health. Mrs. Gehan expects to leave Toronto shortly for Bel Air, Maryland to visit another daughter, Mrs. Jack O'Neil, husband and two boys.

A bazaar, cooking sale and afternoon tea, were held under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star, on Saturday in the Tweed Township Hall, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. The ladies' in charge state that their efforts were profitable and that the reward was gratifying.

The high school was a popular place on Friday night when a students' dance was held in the auditorium. It was a record dance, but was much enjoyed by those present and the committee in charge stated that they were favored with a good crowd. During the evening a spot dance was featured and the winners of this were, Exton Varty and Barbara Moran. Vocal numbers also went to make the dance a success. Mr. Joseph Cournyea, who has had his home on Victoria Street, north, for sale for some time, has sold the house and lot to Mr. Wac-law Brona. It will be recalled that the "Brona's" lost all their possessions in a fire some four week ago, when the George Gordon house at Lodgeroom caught fire while Mrs. Brona was into town to pick her husband up from his employment. Mr. Cournyea is at present employed in Belleville. "The Bronas" are welcomed to the village.

Mr. J. W. Keenan, of the head office of the Department of Lands and Forests, Toronto, has been appointed timber management supervisor of Tweed district. He will be succeeding Mr. James Scott, who recently was transferred to Chapleau, with a promotion. Prentice sang a beautiful solo, "Great is Thy Faithfulness."

The 'get' Courneya, Tweed, is vice-president of the Kalada Iron Mines, and is interested in the diamond drilling, which is underway between the villages of Arden and Sharbot Lake at present. They, the president, Mr. Cecil Bedak, and Mr. Courneya, are confident that some of these properties will yield an ore body that will be valuable. Properties near Kaladar, which have been cleared of underbrush, will be their next planned project.

The draw on Saturday on presidously sold tickets by the Order of the Eastern Star on a beautiful chair of pillow cases, with crocheted set-in rose effect medallions, made by Mrs. Sam Dafoe, was won by Miss Ann Rashotte, a Bank of Montreal staff member. The draw was made by the youngest member of the Eastern Star present at the bazaar and tea, Miss Mary Lou Porritt. The proceeds of the sale were good and pleasing to the order.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This department fails to see eye-to-eye with the Kingston writer who said in a Canadian Press Eastern Ontario senior hockey league round-up story that the circuit has "butterflies under its belt" with the approach of the 1957-58 season.

A year ago, when the former senior "B" circuit, fresh from four straight Ontario championships, approached the charmed senior "A" threshold, it could have been truthfully said that the butterflies were conventioning in eastern clubs' tummies—but not this year.

And not because its champion, the Whitby Dunlops, emerged Cinderella-like from the playoffs and to the overall surprise of Canadian senior hockey went on to win the coveted Allan Cup and later the right to represent Canada in the world tournament in Europe next February.

Nor do we agree with the writer that the Eastern League must "prove itself to fans and rivals."

He goes on to say that last year the "Dunlops ran away from the rest of the loop's clubs in unprecedented fashion. And there are many fans in Kitchener-Waterloo and North Bay, both with clubs in the newly-combined OHA senior "A" western-northern senior southern circuit, unwilling to admit Wren Blair's senior "B" champions of 1955-56 have developed into Canada's best senior "A" team.

We will buy that one because it stems from nothing but sheer home-town loyalty. Whoever could think that a team of nonentes from a not-to-be considered freshly-spawned eastern group would defeat the doughty western Ontario Allan Cup holders, and go on to unprecedented heights to corral the coveted all-Canada senior bauble.

Blair's senior set-up may not be the present best senior club in Canada, according to various opinions, but on the whole, show us a better one. This club will be bolstered considerably before it leaves Canada for Europe. Meanwhile the Hawks have been scoring its share of victories over clubs that are considerably stronger than they were a year ago.

As far as the Eastern circuit "proving itself to fans and rival clubs" is concerned, that is water under the bridge. That was done a year ago. The success of Eastern Ontario's first venture into senior hockey proves that. At least the majority of its clubs finished in the black and that is a belura lot more than any of the teams in the western or northern circuits can boast. Senior hockey sold itself to this neck of the woods last season—and bids fair to take an even firmer hold on fan optnion and approval this year.

We would venture to say that every team in the eastern loop is thirty per cent stronger than a year ago, or will be by the time the player deadline rolls around. Fan interest, it is estimated, will be up the same percentage if pre-season attendance is any criterion.

As far as rival clubs are concerned, and we can take the Belleville McFarlands' record only, this club has won all five of its exhibition games, defeating—and get this—the highly touted Kitchener Dutchmen by a decisive 4-1 score; the Cornwall Chevies 8-4; the Peterborough TPT's 6-2; the Catharines Teepees 5-4 and the club that is touted to wrest the International League title from the Cincinnati Mohawks this season, the Cornwall-formed Louisville Rebels, by another decisive count, 7-4.

Again referring to the statement that the eastern league must prove itself, the loop doesn't have to "prove itself" any more than any other circuit, including the National Hockey League. That is an annual occurrence in any man's league. Especially so in the newly-formed western'northern Ontario alliance with its petty bickerings, feuds, financial fights and latest of all, legal entanglements with one another.

And this Eastern fledgeling, with its saucy upstart behavior in snatching the Allan Cup from the best senior clubs Canada could produce, has given the western-northern alliance something else. It will show them the facts and figures of how to operate a league post, which, if it had been adopted several seasons ago, would have resulted in healthy leagues instead of being in the sorry condition, financial and otherwise, they find themselves in today.

Bobby Hull, Eric Nesterenko Are Windy City Triggermen; Tied With Blues for Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, question mark team in this year's National Hockey League, are beginning to find some of the answers.

Tuesday night in Chicago, the Hawks, picked by some to finish third this year, by others last, came up with their second win in seven games — a convincing 3-1 victory over the slumping Boston Bruins.

The win jumped Chicago into a third-place tie with New York Rangers, two points back of Boston.

Though the score was close, Hawk supporters 8,162 of them, found lots to cheer about in two categories.

SHOW POWERFUL ATTACK

First was the Hawk power, strong at times last year last season and figured to be better this year with the addition of Ted Lindsay, Detroit Red Wings' great left winger.

It has been absent so far this season but Tuesday night Chicago marksmen poured 40 shots at Boston netminder Don Simmond, with Eric Nesterenko—a prize find last season—and rookie Bobby Hull triggering the goals.

Second was the Hawk defence, also figured to be weak with the acquisition of ex-Toronto Maple Leaf veteran Jimmy Thomson, but frightfully weak in earlier games.

The rearguards kept Boston shots to 22, and new netminder Glenn Hall, another boy from Detroit, responded by allowing only Bronco Horvath to score.

Though the win was well protected, Hall was called on to make some sparkling saves on close-in shots, especially in the second period after Hawks went ahead 2-0 in the first and Bruins pressing desperately to tie it, threw eight good shots at him, with only Horvath's finding a gap.

BOBBY HULL
Hits For Hawks

Bruin fans, who have watched their club lose two in a row, including a 7-0 loss to the lightly-rated Toronto Maple Leafs, after a four - victory beginning, could take heart from the work of Simmons and Horvath.

BUSY THIRD PERIOD

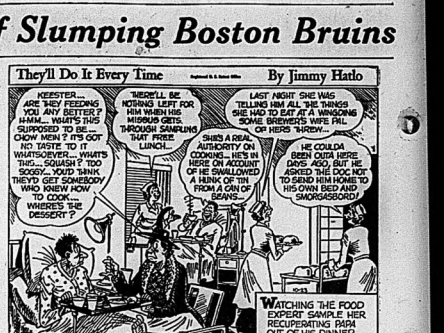
Th slim young goaltender was magnificent on many occasions and particularly brilliant in the last period when he kicked out 19 Black Hawk scoring attempts.

Horvath's goal was his fourth in six games and the 26-year-old centre, who like Simmons hails from Port Colborne, Ont., shows promise of living up to the minor league form he could not sustain in a previous NHL chance with New York Rangers in 1955-56.

Tonight New York is host to Toronto, looking for its second win of the year. Leafs will be missing Tim Horton but have called up rearguard Noel Price from the Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League to replace him.

Sudbury Cancels Contract With Maple Leafs

SUDBURY (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League will not train here for the 1958-59 season.



The Sudbury Arena Commission said Tuesday it had cancelled the renewal of its contract with the Leafs. Toronto had trained in Sudbury for the last two years.

Commission members gave no reason for the move but it is understood they felt the arena could benefit more financially from exhibition games with other NHL teams — Montreal Canadiens in particularly — than by having Leafs here for a training period. While Toronto worked out in Sudbury, no other NHL teams were permitted to come in for exhibition games.

This year Leafs played only one exhibition game in Sudbury.

Says Brooklyn 'Leave Us Stop Da Quibbling' Just Give Us a Ball Club'

NEW YORK (AP) — Surest thing about the baseball situation in orphaned Brooklyn is there still isn't one.

Frank Shaughnessy, President of the class AAA International League, sounded out baseball commissioner Ford Frick Tuesday on moving a minor league team into Brooklyn to replace the Los Angeles-bound Dodgers.

Frick said the matter of what teams can move where was tabled until the Dodgers completed their move to the west coast. The situation in the rest of New York stands suspended until the Dodgers complete their trek to San Francisco.

"After they move, there will be a 15-day waiting period and then New York will become American League territory under terms of the present rule," said Frick. "It would take the consent of the American League clubs to permit a team from another league to invade that territory."

Shaughnessy was asking in behalf of Bill McDonald of Miami Beach, McDonald owns the Class C Tampa club in the Florida State League. He would like to operate an International League team in Brooklyn.

The Yankees, who would control all of New York after the 15-day wait, have indicated they wouldn't oppose a National League team in Brooklyn. But they haven't been as friendly to the idea of a minor league team in the metropolitan area.

The International League has explored the idea of putting a team in nearby Jersey City, where the Dodgers played seven games last year. Meanwhile, a Jersey City official has invited Philadelphia, Pittsburgh or Cincinnati of the National League to use Roosevelt Field there part-time or full-time.

So far, no takers..

"All right, genius! We saved 96 worth of gas by taking the small car. What do we do now?"

Action Could Cause Chaos Says Dudley

MIDLAND (CP)—George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, threatened court action by Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds to retain a player could cause "complete chaos to all OHA clubs" in the CAHA.

Dudley referred to an interim writ obtained by the Sault team from District Court Judge J. H. McRuer restraining the CAHA, Ontario Hockey Association and Northern Ontario Hockey Association from preventing Tommy Walker from playing with Greyhounds in the OHA-dominated CAHA League.

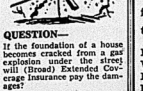
Walker played last season with Stratford Indians in the OHA western division, which played an interlocking schedule with the NOHA. The leagues affiliated this year and when Stratford folded Walker was drafted by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

A CAHA hearing last week refused Walker's request to play with Greyhounds. The team signed him anyway, claiming Walker was a free agent.

C. T. Murphy Sault attorney and team vice-president, said the case will be heard Oct. 30 in Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Dudley said in a telephone interview a court decision against the CAHA ruling could "cause chaos to all clubs. If that regulation is no good then which one is? Everybody and all clubs could do what they want."

Kitchener - Waterloo drafted Walker under a franchise agreement among OHA teams. Dudley said the agreement was approved by the CAHA and thus by all member teams.



Murphy said the franchise agreement applied only when teams folded during the season and the end-of-season when Stratford disbanded.

Stars Last Night

Eric Nesterenko of Chicago, whose first-period goal proved to be the winner as the Black Hawks edged Boston Bruins 2-1.

Quebec Leads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the first time in six starts this season Quebec Aces defeated Shawinigan Falls Cataracts Tuesday night failed to pick up a point in a Quebec Hockey League game.

Greig Hicks, with two goals and an assist, sparked a third-period rally that carried the second-place Chicoutimi Sagueneens to a 4-3 win over the leaders. His second tally was scored on a penalty shot with 24 seconds left in the game.

Meanwhile, at Quebec City, the Aces edged Trois-Rivieres Lions 3-2 on Bob Sabourin's second goal of the game late in the final period while a Lion was serving a minor penalty.

Shawinigan Falls remains in first place with 14 points, three more than Chicoutimi. The Aces moved into a third-place tie with the idle Montreal Royals, each with four points. Trois-Rivieres is last with a tie in five games.

Gary Blaine and Jean Marie Pichette were the other scorers for Sagueneens at Chicoutimi while Gerry Desaulniers counted two goals for Shawinigan's Falls and Bev Bell got one.

For Quebec, Kenny Hayden scored the other goal. Gilles Thibault and Ray Laplante tallied for Lions.

Britons Suspend Pro Golfer

LONDON (AP) — The British Professional Golfers Association Tuesday suspended Harry Weetman from competition for a year for sounding off about his treatment as a member of the 1957 British Ryder Cup team.

In an action described as the most drastic ever taken against a member since the PGA was organized, Weetman was barred from playing in tournaments in which about $84,000 in prize money will be at stake.

Weetman had protested bitterly at being dropped from the singles in the Ryder Cup match at Lindrick, Oct. 4-5, in which Britain's pros defeated the United States for the first time in 24 years.

He had taken part in the four-tomes, during which the U.S. took the lead. Without him, Britain won six of eight singles matches and the cup.

At the time Weetman told newspapermen: "I shall never play in any Ryder Cup match again if Dai Rees is captain."

Weetman will be able to compete in the British Open, which is conducted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Clubs of St. Andrews, but will be barred from the other big-money tournaments run by the PGA.

Kingston Team Slowly, Surely Building Into Strong Club

KINGSTON (Special)—Kingston CKLCs, fourth-place finishers in the Eastern Ontario section of the Ontario Hockey Association's senior A circuit last year, find themselves under the same gun that fired them to the sidelines last spring.

The gun is Tom Blair's Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions of Canada and Canada's representatives to the world tournament to be staged in Oslo next February.

Opposing the Whitby sharpshooters — last year's squad strengthened by five newcomers — Kingston will present an untried combination that, as yet, contains no big names when the season starts tonight.

As of Monday night the CKLCs had only signed seven players, but as new coach Bun Cook commented "as there is a league rule to this effect, we will have 12 decided on the ice by Wednesday."

So far Cook and Manager Dick Allan (former warden of Kingston Penitentiary) have not been able to pry any stars out of the professional clubs or to land any top overage junior stars, but unlike last season they are not going to be trapped and use up all their cards before the right players come along.

At the moment, only seven players have agreed to terms, but the club management does not feel the situation calls for too much concern. Definitely back from last season are forwards Don Bellringer, Don Senior, Ted Toppazzini, Gerry Moore and Mike Bukacheski. The only two newcomers to sign so far are centre Bill Calvin and right winger Ken Lineman.

Cook, who has returned to Kingston after a winter-time absence of 31 years typed with the idea of moving Toppazzini back to a defence post but when Colvin and Lineman reported to camp decided to work the three former St. Michael's Majors as a forward unit.

His decision paid off, at least in the exhibition game against the St. Catharine Teepees, for all three scored a goal to pave the way to a 3-2 win.

Landing Lineman was Kingston's best move of the training season, for the former University of Toronto star had wandered back and forth between Whitby and Kitchener camps up until 10 days ago. But the promise of a good job for the engineering graduate swung his allegiance to Kingston.

Colvin, now a student at Queen's, comes to the CKLCs after playing a year with the Toledo Mercuries and one with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen after graduating from junior ranks.

Up front it is likely that Roy Partridge will agree to terms. The sniping centre ace of Kingston mid-way through last season has been working out on a line with Don Bellringer and Gerry Moore, two hard-tying skaters who are dangerous around the net.

Cook is still looking for a centre to pivot what could be a third line with Bukacheski and Senior on the wings. Whether he will get a re-instated pro from the Montreal organization is something that only time will tell.

In goal, it appears that Kingston will have a choice between Gaelen Desnureault, former spare net-mind for Canadiens' Quebec League teams and local product Bob Senior.

Desnureault has looked good in practice and was particularly impressive against the Teepees last Saturday night. Senior's services are owned by the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen with whom he played last year, but it is understood that a deal between the two clubs is brewing and might come to a head today.

Like many of the teams in the Eastern League, defence problems beset Cook. Only one old newcomer to show ability is Lee Hubert, a strong skating French Canadian who came to the locals after a two-week workout at the Detroit Red Wings' pre-season camp.

Only two players from last year likely to be retained are Joe Levandoski and Don Thompson, but both will be below par if they play tomorrow. Levandoski is just shaking off a bout with the flu and missed last Saturday's game. Thompson played—and well—after only being on skates two days this year.

Looking over his squad, Cook exclaimed: "It looks like what we need is a full forward line and two defencemen. Two of these will likely be the re-instated pros we are allowed. The success we have in landing the other three should hold the key to our title hopes this year.

Yanks Favored In World Series; Golf, That Is

TOKYO (AP) — Golf's world series, the Canada Cup competition, begins here Thursday with two Americans whose total age is 92 years favored over top professionals from 29 other countries.

Sam Snead, 45, and Jimmy Demaret, 47, will defend the team and individual championships won in England last year by Snead and the now-ailing Ben Hogan.

Tee time is 9.30 a.m. Thursday (8.30 p.m. EDT tonight) with Japan's Torakichi Nakamura hitting the first ball down the fairway of the Kasumigaseki Country Club. This is a rolling 7,000-yard layout beautifully landscaped with towering pines and generously dotted with sand traps hungry for any wayward shot.

FROM 29 COUNTRIES

Each of the 29 countries is represented by two top pros who will compete over 72 holes—18 holes a day—through Sunday to decide the Canada Cup title based on aggregate scores. The International Trophy given the player with the best medal.

Canada is represented by Toronto's Al Balding and Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que.

Hogan won the individual prize a year ago at Wentworth and teamed with Snead to capture the Canada Cup.

After the Kasumigaseki's exacting par 36-36-72 the last three days, the golfing internationalists have virtually agreed to score of 280—an average of 70 a round—should be good enough to lead the field. Most figure 281 or 284 as the likely score.

"I don't care how many 66s and 67s there have been in practice," said Wales' Dai Rees, captain of Britain's Ryder Cup team. "There will be no scores like that when the chips are down. I would take 283 right now and rest on it."

Britons Think Mr. Pastrano Will Be Next Heavy Champ

LONDON (AP)—Willie Pastrano goes back to the United States today after convincing Britons his chances are good of becoming the first all-out boxing stylist to capture the world heavyweight title since Gene Tunney.

The 21-year-old boxer from New Orleans, La., earned British cheers with a 10-round decision over 23-year-old Welshman Dick Richardson Tuesday night in what may herald a new era in the heavyweight world where sluggers have reigned supreme.

A sellout crowd of 11,000 at London's Harringay Stadium hailed Pastrano's victory as one man.

They revelled in the way Pastrano left jabbed and hand his way to victory against slugger Richardson. Pastrano reduced Richardson to a blood-dripping wreck at the end.

LIGHTNING SPEED

And he did it with a poking left hand and lightning speed of foot that left British fans filled with admiration.

Richardson's left hand his payoff punch but Pastrano was never there. It was a boxing treat for the fans and a lesson for the inexperienced Richardson.

Pastrano's victory killed promoter Jack Solomons' hopes of plugging Richardson as world championship hope.

"Invite Pastrano over here against" asked Solomons. "Who would he fight? It's no use kidding ourselves. We haven't got a heavyweight who could go in the ring with him."

Tonight's Fight Sees Bobby Boyd Meet German

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Bobby Boyd, the comebacking Chicago middleweight, bids for his sixth straight victory tonight in a televised 10-round bout against Germany's Franz Szuzina.

Szuzina is among the victims Boyd has counted up since he recovered from a broken jaw suffered in a TKO loss to Joey Giardello about a year ago. Boyd won a split decision in their first meeting, March 26.

At the time of the Giardello bout, Boyd was the No. 1 middleweight contender, but the injury put him out of action until he started back up the ladder against Szuzina. Since then he has beaten Willie Vaughn, Sonny Boy Eddie Demars and Rocky Castellani.

Boyd has won 45 bouts, lost seven and drawn twice. Szuzina, in 72 bouts, shows 41 wins, 18 losses and 13 draws.

Diotte, 20, was sub-goalie with St. Catharines Teepees of the OHA Junior A group last season.

Welland Edges Teepees 8-7

WELLAND (CP) — Welland Crowland Centennials, down 6-2 in the second period, bounced back for an 8-7 victory over St. Catharines Teepees in an exhibition hockey game here Tuesday night.

Roy Kilpatrick, Jim Robertson and Bill Kodatsky scored two each for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B Centennials. John Gronlund and Trent Anderson adding singletons.

Wayne Hillman, Don Quenneville, Stan Mikita, Jim Haywood, Don Cosburn, Bob Ewer and Matt Ravlich tallied for Teepees.

The Towne Hall CHIEF Of the Bible and One Man! Have you heard?

√ Of the famous Breeches Bible, the Murderer's Bible, the Wicked Bible or the Vinegar Bible?

√ These Bibles are practically priceless, simply because of the error each contains.

√ The Breeches Bible was translated to read "Adam and Eve made themselves breeches." This breach made the Bible worthless, from a clerical standpoint, but the collectors made capital of the few available copies and the combined publicity and scarcity makes them highly priced.

√ The Vinegar Bible used the words "parable of the vinegar", instead of "Vineyard". Maybe the printer imbibed, made one trip too many to the wine cellar.

√ The Wicked Bible — the negative was omitted from the Seventh Commandment. The printers, we believe, was quite right in contending that this was not an attempt to justify a regrettable error in his past.

√ But the biggest "boners" about Bibles was made by Voltaire who said that in 100 years the Bible would be forgotten book found only in Museums. When the 100 years were up Voltaire's home was occupied by the Geneva Bible Society.

√ We do not want to preach but there are never any errors in Towne Hall Clothes. Here at Wilbur's Ltd., we have a nice selection of the season's most wanted styles.

Anthony Quinn's Ambition To Direct Picture Filled

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — News notes:

Happiest man in Hollywood today is Anthony Quinn, who has finally achieved his long ambition of directing a picture. He has the reins on the remake of The Buccaneer, in which he played a small role 20 years ago.

What's more, he's starting out first class—the picture will cost $4,000,000. I caught him in between sprints around the crowded set and asked if his boss, Cecil B. Demille, was worried about it.

"I guess not," Tony replied. "After I got the picture started he took off for Europe." Demille is his father-in-law.

"This won't be his last picture Tony will direct," said member of the cast, Charles Boyer. "I think he's going to be one of the really important directors in films."

But two - time Oscar winner Quinn isn't giving up acting. His next assignment will be on the other side of the camera. . . .

SINATRA-MACGALL

Frank Sinatra and Lauren Bacall had their first formal outing together in Hollywood society at Frank's party at the Villa Capri after the premiere of Pal Joey. Naturally this added more fuel to the romance rumors.

"Nobody's going to push me into anything," Betty said. But it's obvious from their attitude that she and Frank are mighty fond.

Isn't true, as a columnist reported, that she told friends she would never wed again. Her feeling is that she is not the kind to live alone and like it.

Pal Joey is further evidence that the production code is becoming more elastic. Some of the cracks were as racy as any heard in films of recent vintage. Biggest laugh came when Kim Novak asked Sinatra if he could cook. "Sure," he replied, "a fellow can't live on Wheaties alone."

CORRECTED ABUSE

The Motion Picture Academy, which always moves slowly, has finally corrected the abuse of the "supporting player" category.

In the past, studios have been able to determine whether actors will be entered in the star or supporting categories. Often a star will be dropped to support status because victory appears easier in that race.

It has been argued that such winners as Frank Sinatra, Donna Reed, Era Kazan Mann and Hunter have claimed their Oscars in the supporting race when they actually played lead roles. Such arguments may disappear, because now the academy itself will determine whether a player is starring or supporting.

Biologist Discovers Migration Route of Harp Seals in Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Wildlife biologist Lea Tuck is bubbling with new discoveries and stored following a summer-long research expedition to Lancaster Sound, a passage between Baffin Island and the Arctic Archipelago, to the Atlantic late in August.

Each year, sealing vessels brave cold weather, storms and ice to take the whitecoating mammals as they float on huge ice pans in the ocean currents.

HUGE NUMBERS

Mr. Tuck said he counted as many as 10 harp seals moving westward through the passage in a single day.

The biologist arrived at Pond Inlet, on the north shore of Baffin Island, late in May and set out immediately for a "breakin" trip to Cape Graham Moore, on the southeastern tip of Devon Island—a distance of 100 miles by dogsled.

The main expedition to Cap Hay, North Bylot, was made in three parties. An Eskimo family headed by Mucktar travelled with a dog team and carried a 22-foot canoe. Cpl. Corporal Ray Johnson of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, formerly stationed here, had another team and handled scientific equipment. A third team carried gasoline and supplies for the three-month stay.

MOVE BY FLOES

By ordinary standards Tuck's camp was not ideal. "Mucktar's wife was afraid of bears," he recalls, "so they decided to move to another site further inland."

There were days of the shaggy creatures near the camp and numbers could be seen on the ice. They did no damage except for killing one of Mucktar's dogs and forcing the shifting of gear after the bear alone.

Despite the hazard the dog 50 feet with one swipe of his paw. I measured the distance."

Despite the bears the biologist and RCMP officer settled down to their scientific duties.

"We camped under the mountains and the wind passed right over us. The temperature varied from freezing to a mid-summer 40 degrees. There was fog, especially early in the summer."

People landed at Cap Hay occasionally but none lingered to make observations. Mr. Tuck says he noticed that Arctic murres settled in large numbers there and he did a study of their prebreeding and courtship rate. Except for "tying up loose ends" his exhaustive study of murrs is finished.

The King Elder was the most common duck seen, and the Arctic nesting duck known as the oldsquaw was also plentiful. Other birds included a large number of kittiwakes, black guillemots, gulls (including a sabine), snow geese, snow buntings and Lapland longspurs.

Mr. Tuck says he was surprised to find 11 sandhill cranes, usually associated with warmer climes. Vegetation was "luxuriant" in the glacier valleys but land animals seemed few. Those confined to foxes, weasels and lemmings. Walrus were around "all the time" and ring and bearded seals were common.

'Y' Basketball

The three-team "Y" Youth house league basketball schedules opened last night with Ron McBride's club taking twin victories over the other two teams.

McBride's team defeated Dennis Clarke's crew 42-34 in the opener and followed up with a 37-33 victory over Dave Deacon's club. McBride, Deacon and Clarke are the team captains.

The league expects to operate until December 17 with three clubs. It is hoped that enough interest will be shown to form a fourth team by the beginning of the new year.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Col. K. R. Marshall's Senor Teddy exhibited a fast track record of 1.44 for the mile and a sixteenth in winning the featured Dumont Plate Tuesday at New Woodbine race track.

It wasn't until the three-eighths pole that Senor Teddy, ridden by Norman Leidl, moved up to challenge Lstl Ator, and Ali's Pride for the lead. Senor Teddy came on to have up a nose decision.

Lilly Pride was second and Biscayne third.

The former record of 1.44 1-5 was jointly held by Dorene's Lad and Mandingo.

Gerry James Tops Western Point Getters

WINNIPEG (CP) — Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers vaulted back into first place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union individual scoring race during the weekend, collecting 19 points in two games.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed James with 100 points on 16 touchdowns, three field goals and a single. With all clubs having two games left to play, James holds a nine-point margin over Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos, who was one point ahead of teammate Johnny Bright and four up on James a week ago.

Parker and Bright each scored a touchdown in Eaks' single game during the weekend. Parker, with 14 touchdowns and a single, remained one point ahead of Bright.

Two other Eskimos follow. Place-kicking end Joe Mobra is fourth with 84 points on two touchdowns, 46 converts, seven field goals and five singles. Norm Wyong has 13 touchdowns for 78 points.

Abitibi Will Finish Season

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) Abitibi Eskimos of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A northern section agreed at a meeting Tuesday night to play out the season.

Earlier this week manager Jim Mcinnis recommended the team suspend operations for a year as they could not obtain players for the league.

The future of the league had been threatened by Mussie's announcement Monday that Timmins - Schumacher Flyers, Kirkland Lake Porcupine Purkies and Kapuskasing Huskys, would remain.

Offers Stadium To Three National Teams

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Parks commissioner Lee Menard J. Berry said Tuesday he has offered three National League baseball teams the use of Roosevelt Stadium.

Berry said he has sent letters to the presidents of the Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh clubs asking if they would be interested in using the 25,000 - seat stadium either permanently or part time.

The commissioner said Jersey City is interested in bringing a major league team here permanently. But if that isn't possible, he said, the city will seek a part-time arrangement.

Roosevelt Stadium is the intention to return to Jersey City. The league had several ball clubs here, the last one in 1950.

Cuban Shatters Kid's Hopes, Senor Ortega Edges Gavilan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kid Gavilan's dream of recapturing the world welterweight championship received a jolt Tuesday night when the Cuban stylist lost a split decision to 22-year-old Caspar Ortega of Mexico in a 12-round bout.

The winner was promised a match with another contender for the tile, Vince Martinez, in an elimination series to fill the title vacated by Carmen Basilio, now middleweight champion.

Referee Frankie Van gave the decision to Ortega, 115-113, on California's 10-point-per round scoring system, and Judge Tom Hart carded it 115-112 for the lad from Tijuana. A third judge, Jackie Jackson saw it for the 21-year-old Gavilan, 117-113.

Most of the ringside writers figured Gavilan the winner.

NEITHER ONE MARKED

The battle bristled with action and neither fighter could claim a round by more than one point. There were no knockdowns and neither fighter bore a mark on the finish.

It was a jubilant Ortega who was hoisted to the shoulders of his admirers in the ring. The victory evened a score with the Kid, who beat him in Miami two months ago.

It was a crushed Gavilan who greeted visitors in his dressing room.

"My spirit, it is low," he said. "He no hurt me ever. I wait two years for this chance to get in title fight. Now chance, it is gone I think."

Gavilan said he thought he was well ahead after 10 rounds and merely played it safe in the closing rounds.

Most cards had the fight about even after 10 and it was Ortega's strong rally, notably when he finally went ahead in the 11th, that earned him the nod.

Veteran Quits Pro Hockey

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veteran of four years with Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, centre Cliff Wylie, 29, has decided to quit professional hockey.

He told a reporter Tuesday he will return to his home in Galt, where he works in the off-season. His wife and three children are there.

Wylie said he would like to play with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, a senior team, if he can get reinstated as an amateur.

Experimental restrictions by experts have hobbled some of the best bridge signals. The most important of these is the double for takeout; that great utility feature of defenders.

The takeout double orders partner to bid something. But many of the masters hamstring it with the condition that it should be used by a player only when he is prepared for a major suit reply.

Here is world championship deal number 148:

NORTH
♠ K Q J 5 4 3
♥ 7 3
♦ 10 3 2

WEST
♠ 10
♥ K 9
♦ A 9 8 7 6 5
♣ K Q 7 2

EAST
♠ A 9 7
♥ 8 5 2
♦ K
♣ J 10 9 8 6 5

SOUTH
♠ 8 6 2
♥ A J 10 6 4
♦ Q J 9 4
♣ A

Room one bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Room two bidding went like this:

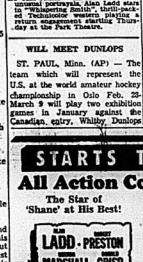
West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	3 ♠
5 ♣	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Declarer gave up a club and a heart, thus making his doubled five club contract. But what was the matter with west at the table? It looks as if he slide laid down on the job of bidding.

Without double orders partner to bid some suit not yet named by opponents. The only such suits were diamonds and clubs. If west had doubled two hearts, he was prepared for a club or diamond reply.

And he had tricks enough to order a bid from partner. So why did he refrain from a double for takeout after south bid two hearts? His side (evidently) had the major suit restrictions.

Defeating two hearts by one trick puts a premium. Making a club game would be a gob. They lost heavily by the restriction.



No sound signal belters by ill-advised fetters.

Revolution May Be in Store For Canada's Farm Families Say University Professors

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Something in the nature of a revolution may be in store for Canadian agriculture in the next 25 years.

Food needs in Canada may doubtly double; farmers' earnings may rise rapidly perhaps; all of the familiar fruit farms in Ontario's Niagara area may disappear, and Prairie producers may look more to beef and hog sales than to wheat for the mainstay of their incomes.

So predict two university professors in a special 424-page study on the Progress and Prospects of Canadian Agriculture prepared for the Gordon economics commission and made public today. The study, most extensive of its kind, was prepared by a team headed by Professors W. M. Drummond of the Ontario Agricultural College and Prof. Ian MacKenzie of the University of Alberta.

WITHOUT CLEARING

The professors suggested that all of the dramatic changes may be realized without the necessity of clearing any more land for farm expansion.

The trend, they predicted, would be to greater use of chemicals, fertilizers and weed and insect killers.

In similar vein, they intimated there would be a need to embark on such vast land-enriching projects as the prairie South-Saskatchewan River irrigation and power project.

It was doubtful that governments would need to become involved in substantial land settlement programs or to induce increased production by large-scale public investment in land improvement.

FUTURE ENCOURAGING

On the whole, the future for Canadian farmers appeared encouraging. In the quarter-century or so covered by the report, farmers generally may be concentrating on producing for Canadian consumers.

The Gordon commission, in its preliminary report earlier this year, predicted Canada's population may rise by some 70 per cent in the 25 years.

If this takes place, said the two professors, Canadian farmers will have to increase output and be less concentrated with export markets for most agricultural products."...

Average income of Canadians generally are expected to rise, providing more money for food expenditures.

However, eating habits likely would change, with the average Canadian consuming more red meats, poultry meat, eggs, fruits, vegetables and oils and fats and less cereals, potatoes, starches and some dairy products.

Consumption of bottled milk or drop with prospects of developing a perfect dried-milk substitute.

"By 1980, it is expected that fluid milk consumption will have risen by about eight per cent and that milk powder consumption will have risen by about 30 per cent."

The over - all population increase would produce bigger markets for virtually all foods.

To get the needed increases, farmers would have to build up their livestock herds.

All this is expected to be accomplished with a decline in farm labor, an increase in the size of the individual farm, a decline in the total number of farms and a greater use of machinery and chemicals. By 1980 the number of farms may drop to 560,000 from the current 680,000. Average acreage is estimated to increase to 392 acres from 276.

The professors predict that the farmer of 1980 will have a living standard closer to that of city folk, will depend more on store-bought food and supplies and will be a more business-like operation.

In Ontario the big concentration would be on cash crops. Perhaps all of the Niagara fruit belt will be shifted to industrial use; the province's improved farmland might drop by 700,000 acres to 12,000,000. More beef and soybeans likely would be produced, along with forage crops. Grain acreage likely would drop and settlement might be more dependent on the Prairies for feed grains.

On the Prairies the concentration might be on cattle.

But it will be expected, farmers will become increasingly less important as the acreage of coarse grains expands and livestock feeding becomes established."

By 1965, the study stated, more hogs may be produced on the Prairies than in Ontario region. Despite increases within her own borders, British Columbia is destined to become even more dependent than in the past on other parts of Canada for meats and processed dairy products."

If the U.S. could operate a system where only $400 was needed as a down payment "I don't know why this government cannot do the same."

Mr. Gardiner said both CCF Leader Coldwell and Social Credit Leader Low had stated they would give the new government a chance to put its legislative program before Parliament, despite its minority position in the Commons.

GOLD MEAN SECURITY

Yet, although it had not had time to do so, the CCF and Social Credit parties both had proposed motions that, given the chance, would mean the government's defeat.

The Liberals are not prepared to support either motion, said Mr. Gardiner, because they feel they owe it "to the Crown and to the people of Canada" to give the government a chance to place its views "squarely before the House."

Mr. Winch said after hearing Mr. Gardiner: "Never has it taken so long to say so little."

Liberals' speeches, he added, show that as a result of their election defeat they "have been caught with their political pants down."

Now they were "desperately trying to cover up the fact that they are exposed."

Warns That Flu Paves Way for For Pneumonia

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Complications arising from influenza had killed 52 Canadians by Monday as Ontario's chief medical officer warned that the possibility of complications make the outbreak dangerous.

Dr. W. G. Brown said the number of deaths could be reduced "if people would realize even a mild case of flu can leave a person wide open to pneumonia."

Dr. Eugene Foley, Quebec government epidemiologist, supplemented Dr. Brown's warning as the Roman Catholic school board in Quebec City closed schools for two weeks with 12,000 of the 28,000 students infected.

Dr. Foley said parents should remember that when children show signs of flu—fever and muscle pains—they should be kept in bed.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed Ontario has the highest number of flu victims this fall with 26 dead. Quebec has had 11 deaths, Alberta four, British Columbia three and Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Newfoundland two each.

NEW YORK (AP) — Asian flu and its relatives have claimed the lives of 150 persons—and possibly many more — since the respiratory disease began sweeping across the United States several months ago.

It is practically impossible to get exact figures on flu deaths. Reporting techniques differ among state health departments.

GRAIN TRAFFIC DOWN

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal harbor's slumping grain trade perked up during the weekend but shipping circles term the improvement "too little, too late." Tramp ships have begun arriving to carry off grain cargoes to the continent but traffic is still below average for this time of year, port officials say.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mrs. Percy Gray, Sr., has returned home after spending a week or so with her daughter, Mrs. Hector Gould and Mr. Gould in Niagara Falls, Ont. While there she visited Canon and Mrs. Brownlie, former rector of St. Paul's parish here, now of Chippewa, Ont.

Mr. John Finnegan of Peterborough, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Campion, and will remain for the annual bazaar at Sacred Heart Church, to be held Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Mr. Don Williams of Stirling, was layman speaker in St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday. Mr. Bob Sweet conducted the service.

Messrs. Frank and Wayne Grant and Mrs. Jack Grant who have been ill with the flu are convalescing.

Move To Mobilize Allied Scientific Skills Said Near

Macmillan and Eisenhower Reported Nearing Accord

Court Action Could Tie up Major Airports

MONTREAL (CP) — Someone who likes his sleep could tie up Canada's major airports, a Toronto lawyer says.

Alastair R. Paterson, who specializes in aviation law, said there is no Canadian law in existence "which could conceivably be a defence if a court were to hold that the noise of aircraft landing, taking off, running up or flying in a particular approach pattern was a nuisance. . . ."

He said if a property owner could satisfy a court that the right to quiet enjoyment of his property was being interfered with by the operation of an airport or airplanes, in all probability an injunction would be granted and the aviators could be sued for damages.

Mr. Paterson, spoke at a joint meeting here of the Canadian Aeronautical Institute and the U.S. Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

Judge Accepts Plea of Guilty To Manslaughter

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Brian Granton, 21, charged with murder in the Feb. 12 knife-slaying of Edward M c h a n d, 20, of Windsor, pleaded guilty to manslaughter today. Mr. Justice R. A. Danis accepted his plea. He was to be sentenced later today.

The Crown concluded its case Wednesday with testimony of Granton's mother-in-law, Mrs. Bernice MacLean. She was the 19th witness called by the Crown.

Earlier J. J. Robinette of Toronto, Granton's lawyer, was expected to ask the youth on the stand as the only defence witness.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower began today a second day of conferences amid predictions they will reach broad agreement on measures to meet Russia's growing scientific-military challenge.

Macmillan, accompanied by a number of aides, went into the White House at 10.30 a.m. EDT after Eisenhower had finished an hour-long session with his national security council, U.S. policy-making body for defence and foreign affairs.

Diplomats working with the two leaders said these two familiar lines of action are to be expected as a result of the Macmillan-Eisenhower get-together:

1. A recommendation to the U.S. Congress by Mr. Eisenhower next year for revision of the Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing of atomic weapons secrets with British.

2. Steps to mobilize scientific and other resources not only of Britain and the United States but of other free countries in Europe, the Middle East and Far East on a wider basis than ever before attempted. This could mean more high - level conferences involving officials of the NATO powers.

Macmillan and Eisenhower met for dinner at the White House Wednesday night and were together with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and State Secretary Dulles for 3½ hours.

IRON CURTAIN REVIEWED

The dinner session followed a two-hour meeting between Macmillan and Dulles and their advisers at the British Embassy. A statement released by the state department said that they "began a general review of world affairs and of many aspects of political and military considerations involved."

Officials reported the discussions so far have been cordial and friendly and there appeared to be no doubt that agreement will be reached on further lines of action.

These will be designed to pull together the diverse activities of Allied nations all over the world not only for the weapons race but especially for greater and more efficient use of other basic resources, including manpower.

Some authorities are speculating that Eisenhower and Macmillan may be planned here on such a specific measure as an intensive standardization of military equipment in the interest of greater economy and efficiency.

Eisenhower went into this week's talks with what amounted to a pledge of full action to mobilize the resources not only of Britain but the United States behind the whole free world.

FIND BOY DEAD

VANCOUVER (CP) — David Binstead, 19 months, whose body was found Wednesday face down in a puddle near his home in suburban Burnaby, died, from drowning, a coroner's jury ruled. Police believe the child, lost in heavy rain about two blocks from his home, became exhausted and fell forward into the mire. The body was found two blocks from Binstead, was missed shortly after 1 p.m. Binstead left him with a neighbor Tuesday morning.

Rokossovsky Transfer Used To Keep Tension

Syria Rejects Saud's Mediation Proposal

LONDON (AP) — Russia is sending one of her foremost soldiers, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, to command her forces on the Turkish border.

Diplomatic observers in London said the transfer of Rokossovsky, former Soviet pro-consul of Poland, was another Russian propaganda move to keep Middle East tension alive and bolster Syria in its cold war with Western allied Turkey.

Syria Wednesday rejected mediation of the Middle East crisis by Saudi Arabia's King Saud, former U.S. delegate to the United Nations to press for a broad inquiry into causes of the Syrian-Turkish tension.

The UN renews debate Friday on the Syrian charges that Turkey, provided by the United States, is planning to attack Syria. Turkey and the United States have denied the accusation, counter-charging that Soviet arms and influence in Syria are causing the trouble.

TITLE OF COMMANDER

Tiflis radio, in the capital of the Soviet republic of Georgia, announced Rokossovsky would be Brossovsky to command the trans-Caucasian military area bordering Turkey and Iran. It lies just 200 miles from Syria.

Rokossovsky, born of his recall from Poland has been a deputy defence minister. The broadcast said he will head the Caucasus area command of Col. Gen. Ivan Fedyuninsky, last reported commanding the area.

Tiflis is believed to be the headquarters of Soviet military headquarters for the trans-Caucasian area, which has an efficient road and rail system along which large forces could be moved quickly.

Rokossovsky was second only to Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov as a second world war Russian field commander. Stalin sent the Oriental-Polish - born soldier to Warsaw in 1949 as commander of Polish combined forces, a symbol of Soviet domination to anti-Russian Poles. He left last October's Polish nationalist movement Communist boss Wladyslaw Gomulka got him back.

Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO secretary-general, in an interview published in Bonn, Germany, that a Russian attack on Turkey would be "a motion the entire NATO machinery."

Cities, Railways Oppose Change in Crossing Policy

OTTAWA (CPG)—Cities, municipalities and the railways have finally united on the board of transport commissioners to make no change in a practice under which utilities pay for the cost of relocating their facilities when a railroad level crossing is converted into an overpass or underpass.

In briefs submitted Wednesday at a special board hearing, they opposed a plea by the Telephone Company of Canada, Ontario-Hydro, Manitoba Telephone System and other utilities for relief from payment of such relocation costs. The hearing was adjourned indefinitely.

Will Permit Pensioners to Enjoy Longer Vacations Outside Country

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's old age security pensioners can look forward to the possibility of vacations or other absences abroad — without loss of pensions—of double the length now permitted, if the terms of the changes proposed by the federal government along with the planned increase to $55 a month from $46 in the federal pension paid to all those 70 and over.

The government has said it plans to extend the six months from three the permissible length of temporary absences from Canada without loss of payments.

However, the way this rule is applied a pensioner conceivably will be able to be out of the country for eight months without loss of payments.

Under present regulations, pensions are continued for absences of up to five months. They are paid for the month of departure, the month of return, and up to three months in between. However, this three-month payment is counted only once in a calendar year.

Under the new plan, a pensioner might leave the country Jan. 1 and return Aug. 30 without loss of pay. But, now, he/she would be paid for those, two months and for the six intervening months in a single calendar year.

Thus a pensioner might go south for the winter from Oct. 1, 1957, to May 30, 1958, without loss of pension, being paid during the six intervening months.

Liberal MPs Think Pearson Shoo-In in Leadership Race

By DAVE McINTOSH*
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's former external affairs minister, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, appears to be a shoo-in for the Liberal leadership.

The key word is "appears." Liberal members of the Commons seem to feel that the former external affairs minister will win the Jan. 16-18 Liberal leadership convention here hands down. But there are hundreds of delegates to the convention who are not MPs and whose votes, in the long run, will count the most.

Some observers believe that Hon. Paul Martin, the former health minister, will make it a close fight. Mr. Martin possibly knows more people personally than any man in Canada.

There is also a fairly good chance that Hon. George Marler, bilingual Protestant from Montreal and former transport minister, will contest the leadership.

But the feeling is that he would be a dark horse.

Chances of Hon. Walter Harris, former finance minister who was defeated in last summer's general election, are considered dim. He may not even be nominated for the leadership.

Many Liberal MPs feel that Mr. Pearson, an English-speaking Protestant from Ontario, has backing in every part of Canada, including Quebec.

Mr. Pearson has made few, if any, strictly political speeches in the Commons since he left Ottawa when he went after the Progressive Conservatives on trade policy.

He appears to want the Liberal leadership now, compared to a time when he might have been more interested in accepting a post as NATO secretary-general.

One Liberal said Mr. Pearson has the leadership of the Liberal party as a real challenge, much as he has regarded East-West diplomatic negotiations as a challenge.

Pearson Fires Broadside at Trade Policies

Calls P.M.'s Speech Careless Assertion

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. Lester B. Pearson, expected to be a strong contender for the Liberal leadership in January, has launched his first major political attack of the new parliamentary session on the Progressive Conservative government.

In a 40 - minute Commons speech Wednesday the former Liberal external affairs minister fired broadsides at the new administration's trade policies.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement that the government will seek a 15-per-cent diversion to British of imports from the United States was "one of the most careless assertions ever made by the head of a Canadian government."

He said that the government has unsuspected by the resulting British proposal for Anglo-Canadian free trade and hopes "the whole unhappy business will be swept under the rug."

FOLLOWS DISCUSSION

Mr. Pearson's speech, during the throne speech debate, was a follow-up to a general trade discussion initiated by him at the end of the sitting by a statement from Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Fleming claimed important results had been achieved as he summarized the Commonwealth conferences: The Commonwealth finance ministers meeting at Montreal, Commonwealth trade talks here and Canadian-American trade discussions in Washington.

Mr. Pearson's main criticism was that the government had not given Parliament any chance to discuss the results of the conferences. The Commonwealth finance ministers' meeting, he said, was "just a get-together" with no decisions announced.

Mr. Pearson said there is no reason to believe the recent trade talks are settled in the manner of a satellite. They pointed out that this was not the intention of the government. Furthermore, they said, the rocket was fired virtually straight up, instead of at an angle parallel to the earth's surface, as is done in satellite launchings.

CARELESS DRIVING CONVICTION QUASHED

In an appeal heard before Judge Gerald Smith of Napanee here, on Tuesday, a conviction against Gordon Kingston of Napanee for careless driving for a speeding was quashed. On July 3 Mr. Kingston was convicted by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on the charge and his licence suspended for one month.

The fact that Mr. Kingston was driving at an excessive speed was admitted. The basis for the appeal was an argument as to whether this excessive speed constituted careless driving. William Argue appeared for the appellant; Crown Attorney John Pringle for the Crown.

ZONE 3, L.O.D.A., HOLDS REGULAR MEET

Representatives of Zone 3 of the LODA met last night in the Hotel Quinte and heard Percy Ray, Holloway, president of the Federation of Agriculture in Hastings County, stress the need for more and better public relations.

W. Gord. Powell, past-president of the LODA, brought greetings from the region and pointed out various programs currently underway by the association.

The meeting had an agricultural theme and while agricultural representatives from the three counties of the zone were unable to attend, Mr. Ray contributed many fine remarks.

Among the guests were Mayor Forrester and a representation from Hallowell township in Prince Edward County.

Barber Shop Quartet Pleases With 'Old Songs'

The Belleville Chapter of "the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America's" sang its way through a meeting again last night. No doubt some of the boys are somewhat hoarse this morning one ventures to say but they are not sorry. The Society, for the benefit of those who do not know, is the last refuge for that hearty group of individuals (male of course) who still love "the old songs".

Most pleased to welcome back as a guest Mr. Harold Bonter, and as a new member, W.O. 1 Archie Murdoch, who was previously enlisted in the Barrie, Orlar's Chapter.

Any "congenial men who love harmony in music or who have a desire to harmonize" are invited to drop in to Saint Margaret's-On-the-Hill church in Belleville, on the second or fourth Wednesdays at 8.30 p.m. The fellows will be glad to meet you and split a chord. or two with you.

Will Help Pensioners

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday indicated the government will increase the pensions of retired civil servants and CNR employees, though not necessarily at this session of Parliament.

Asked about the matter by Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, the prime minister said the government could not be expected to do everything in a few weeks.

But it had increased civil service salaries and he was sure that the causes of complaints on behalf of retired civil servants and CNR employees would be removed.

Consider Move To Oust Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled teamsters bosses, found by a federal court to have conducted a rigged union convention three weeks ago, face punishment today on corruption charges from the parent AFL-CIO.

The federation's powerful 29-member executive council, comprising organized labor's leadership, assembled to consider ousting the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the largest United States labor union, from AFL-CIO ranks.

Although President-elect James R. Hoffa has made a number of overtures to avoid suspension of the union, it was reliably reported the council will reject these and was ready both to suspend the union and recommend its expulsion by the AFL-CIO convention next December.

Slayer Called Peaceful Man Hurt by Hate

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Witnesses have portrayed 33-year-old Gilbert Clement as a peaceful man who was shocked and hurt by sudden animosity on the part of the fellow guide he is accused of murdering at Lochalsh, a hunting and fishing resort 130 miles northeast of here.

Clement is being tried for the murder in the slaying of 23-year-old Erwin Grant Gideon June 23.

DAY OF PARTY

Fred Gideon, another guide and the slain man's cousin, told of a party at the camp where he heard Clement ask Erwin:

"How come you hate me?"

Provincial police constable Harold Kerns testified Clement described the shooting after telling police he was beaten by Gideon at a party given by tourists.

He was at home bathing his face, Clement had said, when Gideon appeared outside and shouted: "Open up or I'll bust in."

Kerns testified Clement said he fired a shot and Gideon said: "You won't shoot me, Gilbert."

Then Clement fired another shot through the door.

May Be Election Without Warning

MONTREAL (CP) — Revenue Minister George Nowlan says a general election could come "at any time without too much warning."

Mr. Nowlan said Wednesday the liberal opposition is "very reluctant" to go to the country now, but its conduct in the House of Commons could force it.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market marched ahead in brisk morning trading today but after the first hour prices appeared to be levelling off.

The market opened quiet but within 10 minutes heavy buying pushed prices higher following Wednesday's rise, the sharpest in the Toronto stock exchange's history.

At the end of the first half hour the high-speed ticker tape was five minutes behind floor sales and by 11 a.m. it was 13 minutes behind. A few minutes later it was catching up to the sales. Sales at 11 a.m. were 1,093,000 shares, the second-heaviest volume since July 2. Wednesday's total at the same time was 886,000.

The industrial index climbed 4% points in the first hour, about a one-quarter of a point more than it gained in the corresponding time Wednesday. Base metals and western oils were each ahead 3½ points and golds were up one-half point on index.

Page-Hershey Tubes led industrial winners with an eight-point hunk to 108. Canada Cement and Trans Mountain Pipe Line each added two points while Aluminum, Bell Telephone, Canadian Oil, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Dominion Stores, Imperial Oil, Royal Bank, Steico, Trans Canada Pipeline and Walker's were each ahead at least a point.

Labrador and Falconbridge led senior base metals with gains of more than a point. Senior uraniums were fractionally higher. Lower-priced stocks moved up in a 15-cent range.

High-priced western oils were ahead fractionally after gains had ranged to more than a point in the first few minutes. There were several 25-75 cent gains among lower-priced issues.

Biggest of Thirty

John Tanner, 162 Yeomans street, is shown above proudly displaying a 45-inch, 25-pound muskie which he caught at Allan's Mills, on the Crowe River south of Marmora, on Oct. 1. Mr. Tanner, a retired CNR conductor, has a cottage at Allan's Mills and this year he has caught 30 muskies, eight of them "keepers" with the 25-pounder shown above being the largest. He was using a live 8-inch sucker as bait when the fish struck and it took Mr. Tanner 40 minutes to land the whopper.

Stranded Hunters On Way Home

PINCHER CREEK, Alta. (CP) Some of the estimated 200 big-game hunters stranded in the foothills of southwestern Alberta began heading home today while others awaited hunting as plows cleared roads blocked since Monday.

The hunters were isolated by impassable roads and vehicle breakdowns following a snow-storm that dumped nearly two feet of snow in the Rocky Mountain region of southwestern Alberta.

Hard hit by snow were southern Alberta and Saskatchewan. Calgary had an 11.5-inch snowfall, bringing the month's total to nearly 19 inches, a 43-year record.

Says Theory Not Correct

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. William Boyd, professor emeritus of pathology at the University of Toronto, says rare cases of complete and spontaneous recovery from cancer have been encountered.

He said Wednesday an opinion formed by some medical men that cancer is a disease which, if not treated promptly and thoroughly, will kill is not correct.

"Rare cases proven by microscopic examination to be cancer have recovered completely and permanently."

In these cases recovery had to be attributed to resistance on the part of the tissues of the body, that is, immunity.

Dr. Boyd spoke at a meeting at University of Toronto medical school.

Seat Formally Declared Vacant

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons seat of Liberal Aubrey Simmons, winner of a disputed election in Yukon constituency last June 10, Wednesday was formally declared vacant.

Speaker Roland Michener announced receipt of the judgment of a court at Whitehorse, Y.T., which voided the election on the grounds that 465 ballots had been cast irregularly. The court found no evidence of fraud or corruption.

Mr. Simmons, 60-year-old former Yukon magistrate and MP since 1949, was not in his seat when the announcement was made. He announced last Friday that he would not appeal the court decision to the Supreme Court of Canada, but rather would seek re-election in the new vote which will be ordered in the Yukon. No date has been set for the vote.

The court decision was made on a petition by Progressive Conservative candidate Erik Nielsen, who lost the election by a 94-vote margin. He had had a slight edge on the civilian vote but the armed services vote swung the election to Mr. Simmons.

GETS SEVEN YEARS

NEWCASTLE, N.B. (CP) — Alshy Martin, 47-year-old Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., fisherman, was sentenced Wednesday to seven years in penitentiary on a reduced charge of manslaughter. He had been charged with murdering his stepson, Thomas Carroll, 30, who died Aug. 24 after a party.

Burglars Raid Curling Club

STURGEON FALLS, Ont. (CP) Burglars went on a rampage in the unoccupied Sturgeon Falls curling club Wednesday and made off with most of the prizes that were to be distributed at a banquet Nov. 9.

Before leaving the building they tore curtains from the women's locker room, forced keys off the lobby piano and broke all the glasses in the kitchen. They also broke 24 trophies.

Club officials, who estimated damage at $2,000, said some of the trophies are 40 years old and irreplaceable.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

VACATION COSTS

The Lake Ontario Development Association, in its most recent issue of "Regional Development News," publishes a breakdown of the "tourist dollar," as ascertained by two annual surveys conducted by the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity.

According to these surveys, 19.2 cents out of every dollar spent by a tourist goes for food in restaurants and dining rooms. Another 19 cents is spent for retail purchases and take-home gifts. Accommodation including meals accounts for 16.5 cents, accommodation without meals for 14.3 cents and another 11.5 cents is required to meet automobile expenses, including gasoline and oil.

Add those figures up and you find that the tourist has already spent 80½ cents.

All of which leaves him just 19½ cents with which to have a good time. The Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity says that out of this 19½ comes 6.8 cents for miscellaneous expenditures, leaving only 12.7 cents for entertainment, but as the Department includes "angling licences, boat rentals, guides" among miscellaneous expenses we are going to lump them all in the entertainment category.

Now, let's look at those figures again - - about four-fifths of every dollar one saves for a vacation are spent getting there, keeping alive and getting back home again. The money that one actually "vacations" on is just a fifth of what one had hoped to have available for the purpose.

Then, there - - we believe them! There is only one thing to do - - start saving five times earlier, if you get what we mean. "Right now, tonight," to steal a phrase from Sal Mineo.

TEACHERS WHO CAN'T PASS GRADE 8?

This is old news. However, we make no apology for using it, because it may have escaped the notice of some of our readers, as it escaped our notice.

There has just arrived on the editorial desk a pamphlet containing the recommendations of a joint committee of the Ontario School Trustees' Council and the Ontario Teachers' Federation, submitted to the Trustees' Council in May of this year and to the board of governors of the Teachers' Federation in August.

Here is the second of the committee's recommendations:

"That screening tests in reading, arithmetic and spelling be given to all students making application for admittance to the summer course leading to a temporary elementary teaching certificate and that those who fail to attain Grade 8 level in achievement be refused admittance to the course."

Now this recommendation can only mean one of two things: Either the committee was on so irresponsible that it would suggest such a test before ascertaining whether any of the students admitted to summer courses actually fell below Grade 8 level of achievement in reading, arithmetic or spelling;

Or

Some of the students taking these courses and presumably accepting teaching positions at the end of them actually could not have passed the tests for entrance into secondary school.

Either explanation is disquieting.

BRIEF BUT POINTED COMMENT

Brevity is said to be the soul of wit - - but it can also be the hole into which the half-wit stumbles. And many of us are half-witted occasionally.

This observation is prompted by one of those better second thoughts which prevented us from sputtering indignantly over a three-sentence editorial in the St. Catharines Standard.

"The Russians," said the Standard, "can launch a satellite. So what? Mike Todd can stfil beat them at giving parties."

Here we were all set to launch into a discourse on the comparative importance of Sputnik and Mike Todd's parties when we suddenly realized that this was exactly what the Standard had just done - - in seventeen little words.

PARLIAMENTARY LANGUAGE

We note that Parliamentary language has not changed. The readily turned period, of course, being a politician's strongest weapon, it would not be worth while to change it. We quote an example or two from last week's debates: "Aw, get rid of that graft!" "The hon. member for Lanier; "You can read, can't you?"—The Hon. Minister of Justice and Attorney General and the Acting Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. (Peterborough Examiner.)

THE CLOCK

Few men will ever reach the top
Who just await the time to stop
And watch the clock.
They never climb who drop their tools,
And work by certain codes and rules
And watch the clock.

But those who reach the topmost heights
You'll find work days and even nights
Without a clock.
They are not men there's work to do,
And those just when their labor's through

Without a clock.

And when at last one task is done,
Straightway another is begun.
Just like the clock
That as it ticks one hour away
Takes up another, so each day
Moves on the clock.

And men who reach fame's rosy peak
Toil day by day and week by week
Not by the clock.
But finishing one task today,
Take up another right away,
Just as the clock.

Guatemala's Art Hospital

By Bertha Gaster in UNESCO Features

Not much more than a bus ride out from the busy modern capital of Guatemala, some eight or nine miles, the mountains as the crow flies, is a ghost town. For over two hundred years the ruins of Old Town — was capital of the Spanish captain-general of Guatemala, second in the time only to Mexico and Peru. In the eighteenth century it was the most populous city in Central America, its university was third on the American continent, its printing-house second; and the great halls rang incessantly over the city from more than a hundred imposing churches and convents.

All this pride and magnificence came to a sudden end one afternoon in June 1773. A catastrophic earthquake destroyed the town, and most of the buildings to rubble. With the removal of the capital to Guatemala City, Antigua fell into decay. For a long time it was the great walls rand second-ingly over the city from more than a hundred imposing churches and convents.

All this pride and magnificence came to a sudden end one afternoon in June 1773. A catastrophic earthquake destroyed the town, and most of the buildings to rubble. With the removal of the capital to Guatemala City, Antigua fell into decay. For a long time it was the great walls rand second of the population to carry away ing the ruins, until coffee-growing restored a modest prosperity.

Today Antigua is famous as ice-cream pink and green stand side by side with Baroque churches and crumbling arcades. And everywhere, in abandoned gardens and over sleepy, cobbled streets, Jasmine, white and golden roses climb and flourish, as the old town drowses its past away in the siesta hour.

Attempts to preserve something of that past for future generations have been going on for a considerable time. Several of the ruined facades of ancient mansions have been restored, and sculpture and carvings recorded. On a sunny day in December last year, in the ancient cloisters of the Capuchine convent, the only one to survive the earthquake comparatively undamaged, I saw another aspect of that past had been preserved. Pillars, arched against massive pillars, exposed on easels, lying on trestle tables, were a number of paintings. Many of them were religious pictures of Madonnas and Shepherdesses and other biblical subjects which had been painted in the churches of Guatemala, some of them from the ruins of Antigua. Others were portraits of bygone dignitaries of the Spanish colonial era, and occasionally scrolls and personalities of the young Republic. All of them were, to a lesser or greater degree, dirty, peeling, some of them with gaping holes and slashes of the 1773 earthquake.

Four men were busily working on them, moving them to the light to inspect them, examining the backs, carefully peeling paint. The chief among them, Mr. Helmut Ruhemann, was one of the leading experts in the delicate restoration in the world. Originally in charge of restoration work at the State Art Galleries in Berlin, and later consultant to the National Gallery in London until his retirement two years ago to Switzerland, he visited Guatemala City and Antigua in September, and help the country to organize the second of its historical past.

The story, with him, one a youth of sixteen, followed his every move with closest attention. For Mr. Ruhemann is not only to survey the painting, but to train a small number of Guatemalan artists in the technique of restoration, to carry on the work after his return to England. There had been many applicants, but there was not work to justify the selection of more than three, and Mr. Carlos Morales, M. Luis Alvarez and Mr. Alberto Luis Alvarez were the fortunate ones chosen.

The work of restoring the pictures selected was carried out in Guatemala City, with the assistance and support of the Ministry of Fine Arts and the directors of the national museums and art schools, and with equipment and material provided by Unesco. Theoretical exposition and practical training went hand in hand. "There is no secret in modern restoration methods," Mr. Ruhemann stressed, "but without a thorough knowledge of the basic methods there is great danger of damaging old pictures, and in fact, many of the finest art have been injured this way."

Mr. Ruhemann's three pupils followed him step by step through the different processes. They were taught the first stage of preserving the original paper over the canvas to hold the loose paint. Then the picture was lifted off the old canvas with the aid of a thermo-cautery, a controlled electric iron. Afterwards followed the cleaning with a small swab on a stick, with the right amount of solvent and non-active diluent. "One of the first things I do in my career," recalled Mr. Ruhemann "was the task of cleaning several Rembrandts, a delicate job. You had to handle your swab in a certain way, and even ran the risk of removing paint when you cleaned them." Old paintings in the Netherlands, Ruhemann, presented a much less serious problem. The straight oil or oil paints used by the masters of the Renaissance are much more durable. From the eighteenth century on, painters added soft resins to their colors and the painting of their work was much more delicate."

Finally came the re-touching. Most of the pigments used today are the same as those used in former times, and present little difficulty. "But you have to be a good painter for this stage of the work," said Mr. Ruhemann, "and you also have to choose your picture-restoration courses of professional artists. Both M. Morales and M. Alvarez were good painters. M. Alvarez is now in charge of storing paintings for the Archbishop's palace, and his wife and son had been working with him on panel work and gilding. I hope it is going to be possible to arrange to send two of them to Florence on a fellowship to complete their training."

At the end of his stay in Guatemala, Mr. Ruhemann organized a one-day conference at the School of Plastic Arts of the pictures on which they had been working. He discussed their techniques of restoration, and the work achieved, to an extremely interested public were able to see untreated pictures in immediately adjacent to them beside others in various stages of restoration, repaired but not cleaned, and finally those finally completely restored, such as a picture of "Santa Teresa" dating from 1703, The exhibition was a demonstration of what had been achieved, and the training of three restorers was reserved by the Guatemalan of Guatemala's historical and artistic past in religious and secular painting would continue.

The whole project has aroused such interest that there is now some question of a refresher course for restorers in Havana, where a magnificent new museum has been built, and has attracted students from all the South American and Central long, but to train a small number of Guatemalan artists in the

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article Three in a weekly series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

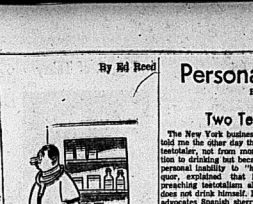
Residents of Belleville and district, many of whom count among their ancestors the early settlers of the district, will find much of interest in a book recently presented to the newly-organized Hastings County Historical Society.

The book, "A Directory of the County of Hastings for 1884-85" (published by Mackenzie Bowell), publisher of the Intelligencer and later Prime Minister of Canada, contains almost 150 pages to the city, then a town of slightly more than 6,000 inhabitants.

The directory particularly praised the town's "pleasant and healthy situation," noting that: "Very few towns or cities possess such fine situations for private residences as the elevations to the east, west, and north of the business portion of the town, Taylor's hill, to the east-ward, seems to have been the choice of the largest proportion of our wealthy merchants, professional men and mechanics."

While many fine residences had been built on the east, west and north hills, as well as the east, the historic directory concluded that "a more delightful location could scarcely be wished for quiet and comfortable homes" than Taylor's hill to the east.

Then, as now, the principal business section of the town was on the east side of the Moira River.



In 1865, Front Street was "the chief business thoroughfare," and was then being paved with cedar blocks, the superintendence of Mr. G. Nelson, chairman of the Street Committee," who was also a local councillor and represented the three councillors representing Baldwin Ward.

With this work completed, the directory editor noted that Front Street would "be an excellent roadway."

At the same time, it was forecast that Pinnacle Street, because it was well laid out, would be "in the course of a few years be one of our principal business thoroughfares."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD WILL

Good will is something that cannot be expressed in terms of dollars. If it could be salable the price would always be too small and most businesses do use the term, however, to give substance to something.

We say that a certain character, or soul, enters a business or a personality and we honor even its mystery. We refer to the word "good will," which is but a phrase borrowed from its major meaning.

Good will is often associated with the word "peace — "peace and good will." Certainly it is something good to meditate upon. We have the good will of all with whom we associate or do business is something worth striving to gain.

The government and its tax collectors are shy about giving a business good will, although the government without it would soon be no government! It's that intangible, anyway. It is doubtful that we all desire the good will of our community, and of all its inhabitants. We can well designate good will as the spiritual wealth which we put in the spiritual bank of the heart!

God's attitude is scattered lavishly all over this earth. On the seal of the state of Michigan (my native state) are these words: "If you would behold a beautiful peninsula look about you." If you have lost faith and feel your good will at a low ebb, just look about you and the good will of others and you will be given ample opportunity to have it restored to you!

Personal Health Talks

Two Teetotalers Talk Shop

The New York businessman who told me the other day that he is a teetotaler, not from moral opposition to drinking but because of his personal inability to "handle" liquor, explained that he is not preaching teetotalism although he does not drink himself. Instead, he advocates Spanish sherry in place of martinis, cocktails, highballs and vodka when a businessman must take a client, customer or prospect out to lunch.

Spanish sherry is an elegant drink, my friend's friends who have visited Spain say, and after a few rounds (if they drink in rounds in Spain) a businessman might still be in condition to do some work when he returns to the office.

Yahbut when the host and guest sit down at the luncheon table, how does the host persuade the guest to take sherry? Does he say "Have some sherry — you'll like it." Or does he just ask, "What'll you have to drink?"

And does the guest say, "Sherry? No, thank you, it gives me a headache, but I'll have a glass of Tinlet"?

Moreover, if it is discourteous to comment on or call attention to the fact that a guest does not drink, it would seem to be equally discourteous to try to tell the guest what to drink.

But then, after a few drinks, who cares about courtesy?

People who attend cocktail parties and dinners, my New York businessman friend tells me, feel that it would be rude to refuse a drink when the hostess has been good enough to serve liquor. And almost invariably guests must have a "hard" drink for the simple reason that nothing milder is available.

Here again, the New York man thinks, the problem could be solved for those who would like to avoid the stronger stuff. If he honor, explained that he is not would make available the sherry I've mentioned or something else similar. As a matter of fact, it seems to me that it would be simple courtesy for the thoughtful hostess to have on hand something for those guests who would like to drink but who would avoid the customary highball or martini.

Maybe my friend's compromise would be the best possible solution of the problems of business and social intemperance. No doubt he is more intimately acquainted with both aspects of the narcotic problem falsehol is a narcotic from first to last than I am. I'm no real a teetotaler that I stay away if I think there is likely to be any drinking. I do so loathe the very sight of it makes me sick. If this were really a free country, I'd tell you why it makes me sick.

The Spaniards, who have been drinking sherry for more than 2,000 years, have found that it increases the appetite, and does not spoil food. Thus the hostess who has prepared a fine dinner finds her guests eating it, and she gives orders the pre-dinner drinking in this way.

In contrast this," my friend suggests, "with the lot of the hostess who has had pre-dinner drinks and highballs into the guests before dinner. Often when they finally arrive at the table not only are their taste buds dead but, it has been my observation, the appetite for the fine food milady has prepared has flown the coop and she might just as well have served sawdust.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A BLADE OF GRASS

Have you ever noticed grass growing up through the cracks in the sidewalk? It is really the minute remarkable, when you stop to think about it, that such a weak and tiny thing as a blade of grass should have the power to force itself through the hard concrete. ?

The growth of the grass is slow, of course, but its pressure is constant. Day and night, it keeps pushing its way through. Its progress imperceptible, but its triumph certain at last.

Habit works the same way on human character. The man who begins to let himself indulge in a vice is sure that he can stop it whenever he wants to. And the growth of the bad habit is like that of the grass — so slow that it is hardly noticeable at first, but the character, like the concrete, gives way, and the habit ends in alcoholism and drug addiction. For example, almost always start casually and imperceptibly.

But there is a bright side too. Habits can be just as powerful, and can be made into character-building forces just as strong. Habits are the result of a constant pressure, and perhaps it was even longer to form good habits than to acquire bad ones.

Character develops slowly. Just be sure that the right pressure keeps it developing in the right direction.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Two or three times in the past year I have noted a particular taxi driver in town whose politeness is a slightly spectacular. On one occasion, when I was trying to make a left hand turn, it was he, out of all the downcoming stream, who stopped and waved me across. across. His face is easy to memorize: a stout, round face with a cheerful, open expression. Since then, I have spotted him a couple of times in the street and he always waves me through the running-down scene.

At the railway station yesterday I had the great luck to get him for my conveyance home. As soon as we opened the customary conversation between hackie and passenger, I complimented him on behalf of all the citizens on his fair city for the example he was setting us as well as his fellow taxi drivers.

As we rocketed and chivied our way through the heavy morning traffic, dodging, swerving, cutting in, and making time at all times,

"Well, when I haven't got a passenger, I'm ready to give one," he said. The police don't allow me to loiter and cruise around on the main streets. You get a lot of taxis loitering along looking for fares, and you slow up traffic, see? So what I do is be polite. By being polite to the police, by being polite, I can take twice the time loitering down the main streets that I could if I didn't do nearly twice the fares I'd get otherwise.

As our cab rocked and screeched and faked its way uptown in that familiar taxi fashion, I entertained on the cynicism that had so deceived me.

"You're politeners," went on my driver, in a pause for a stop light. "It doesn't come natural to anybody. It always served a purpose. When people are polite to me, I always can figure what they are trying to put over on me. Usually, all they're trying to put over on me is that they are superior people, superior to me." I tipped him ten cents, and thanked him most politely.

Mrs. D. Gunter New President H&S Assoc.

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. D. Gunter was elected the new president of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association at the meeting of the group at Queen Elizabeth School last night.

The meeting, which was conducted by the retiring president and school principal, Thomas Bedford, opened with the singing of "O Canada" and the Home and School prayer. Mr. Bedford thanked the parents for turning up in fairly good numbers, in spite of the prevailing flu epidemic. During the business part of the meeting, it was decided that following the example of the previous year, bursaries to the value of $25 should be awarded to the top boy and girl in grade six. Mr. Bedford announced the purchase of graduation pins and baseball gloves. It was decided to present the pins to the graduating class at the next meeting. The thanks of the former music instructor, Mr. George Downs, who is now at Fenelon Falls, for the present of a pen that he had received from the association in remembrance of his many years as an instructor on Trenton schools was passed on by Mr. Bedford.

The room count of the patents present then took place, which was won by Mr. Bedford's grade six.

Mr. Bedford then conducted the election of officers, with the following results: Mrs. Gunter, president; Mrs. Patterson, first vice-president; Mrs. Bob Blight, second vice-president; Mr. Bellamy, re-elected as treasurer; Mrs. Aziz, recording secretary; Mrs. N. Marchese, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Cassidy, lunch convener; Mr. Bedford, program convener; Mrs. A. Ehler, membership convener; Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Bill Blight and Mrs. Bull, executive officers; and Mrs. Sharpe, Mrs. J. Foote, Mrs. Farmer, Mrs. Bull, Mrs. M. Walt, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Grey, and Mrs. St. Hilaire, room mothers.

Mr. Bedford then introduced the speaker for the evening, Miss A. Rowe, the Trenton Art School instructor, who had brought along some interesting colored films to illustrate her talk. After a very interesting evening watching the pictures, and listening to Miss Rowe's interesting commentary, the meeting ended with a social half hour, during which time a delicious lunch was served by the ladies' committee.

Murder Trial Nears Its End

HAILEYBURY (CP) — Defence and Crown lawyers have concluded their cases in the murder trial of Wilbrod Jolivet, 32, of Kirkland Lake, and will address the jury today.

Jolivet faces the murder charge in the July 30 slaying of Mrs. Shirley Daigneault, 28, a waitress in a restaurant at Kenogami, six miles west of Kirkland Lake.

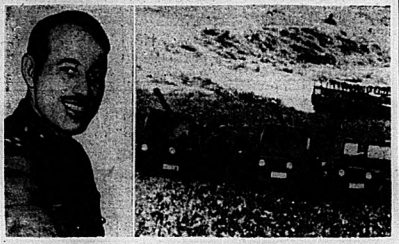
Jolivet took the stand in his own defence Wednesday and underwent stiff cross examination by acting Crown Attorney R. Cumming, admitted he remembered the slaying.

He had said previously that he had obtained the information for a police statement from fellow prison inmates.

BREAKS DOWN

Jolivet broke down after he had testified "All I wanted was to scare her."

Mr. Cumming asked: "Did you shoot her?" And Jolivet replied "Yes, I did."



Wren Requested To Join PC's

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member of the legislature for Kenora, has indicated he would be prepared to join another party if he is unable to press his views with Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver.

Mr. Wren and Arthur Reaume, Liberal member for Essex North, were banned from party caucuses last week by Mr. Oliver who charged them with disloyalty for criticizing party policies.

Mr. Wren said Tuesday that he had already been approached by what he described as 30 prominent Progressive Conservatives in his riding to contest the seat for them at the next provincial election. They promised to support him, he said, adding that he did not yet given them an answer.

U.N. AWAITS RESULT OF KING SAUD'S MEDIATION

Maj-Gen. Aziz Bizri, left, Syria's army chief of staff, has reportedly flown to Saudi Arabia after an offer by King Saud to mediate the Middle East crisis between Turkey and Syria. In background are other military vehicles and over the hill lies the Syrian border. Debate in the U.N. was suspended until a report was ready on Saud's mediation effort.

Want Answers To 17 Problems About Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 17 problems about rockets and space travel, it says here, that the United States government would like somebody to solve.

Sputnik doesn't show on the list. But there's something just as good or better — "aerial platforms, manned or unmanned, for observation and missile launching."

This is one of 337 technical puzzles presented in a 34-page catalogue just issued by the commerce department under the title "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces."

Some of the wants are right out of science fiction. For example, a death ray. Or a device to get troops rapidly across rivers or canyons without bridges. Or an idea on how to put out an atomic fire in a big city.

The Pentagon says it would like a tunnelling device to bore through the earth at 6,000 feet an hour without filling up the hole behind it.

Pearson, Believer in Quiet Diplomacy, Comes Into Open

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hon. Lester B. Pearson is a firm believer in quiet diplomacy. That is, he has preferred to conduct diplomatic negotiations away from the glare of publicity. He had some reservations, for instance, about the 1955 "summit" meeting at Geneva on the ground that people everywhere would be led to expect too much.

Mr. Pearson does not hold for secret agreements. But he has always felt that private negotiations are more fruitful than public ones and it was behind the scenes that he excelled at international compromises.

PRIVATE NEGOTIATOR

He feels that unpublicized negotiations, such as at the United Nations, cause no harm if they fail. But if public discussions lead nowhere, the public pessimism grows.

These quiet and unobtrusive negotiations, which helped to win Mr. Pearson the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize, now are denied the former external affairs minister.

If he has suggestions now for compromises, he must bring them into the open immediately without being able to sound out other foreign ministries beforehand on their thoughts about them.

A case in point was his suggestion that United Nations Emergency Force troops be placed on the Turkey-Syria border to help ease the taut situation there.

In the days when he was a Canadian cabinet minister, he would have first sought the reaction of other countries through diplomatic channels. If it were favorable, then he would probably have put the suggestion formally before the United Nations.

These plans failed to materialize. But this peace-making process now is off limits to him. He has to make his proposals in the House of Commons, about as public a place as you could find in Canada.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday rejected Mr. Pearson's proposal for UN troops on the Turkey - Syria border on the grounds that the UN was considering sending a fact - finding mission to that area.

There is no indication that the Conservatives rejected the idea just because it came from Mr. Pearson.

But at the same time they can't be overjoyed—politically, not personally—that Mr. Pearson's international standing was never higher and that the master is peering over their foreign-policy shoulder. And ahead of them is the possibility that Mr. Pearson may become Liberal leader with the added authority that the office would bring.

Gamma Mu Plans For Future Events

Gamma Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Wolfendon, Dundas Street East.

The president, Mrs. J. McDonald, welcomed two prospective pledges, Mrs. D. Bateman and Mrs. J. Green.

A Hallowe'en party to entertain the new pledges has been planned for next Tuesday. Tentative plans have been made to have a dinner with Xi Alpha Mu in November. This event will follow rituals in both chapters.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. A. Pringle introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ralph Morden, who teaches "speech arts" at Albert College, who gave a most interesting and informative talk on the importance of good speech. She stressed that no matter how well one speaks there is always room for improvement, which can be accomplished through proper deep breathing and the use of throat and facial muscles.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Wolfendon.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Wolfendon, and co-hostesses Mrs. J. L. Acton and Mrs. B. Bishop.

Sandwiches and cake that has been cut will stay moist and fresh if you seal the vacated paper wrapping with a hot iron.

Weddings

PATTINSON — HUBBS

Potted ferns and baskets of white and gold 'mums adorned Farrington Church, Brantford, on Saturday, October 19, for the marriage of Miss Rose Hubbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hubbs of Brantford (formerly of Wellington and Gilead) to Mr. Glenn Charles Pattinson of Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pattinson of Hamilton. Rev. Robert T. Young of Brantford officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length bouffant skirt of white nylon over taffeta with wide inset band of lace, lace bodice with long sleeves coming to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil fell from a pleated tulle halo and she carried a cascade of white 'mums.

Miss Laurel Dutton of Detroit, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Tim Todd of Hamilton, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Both attendants were gowned alike in ballerina-length skirts gathered from over taffeta with full skirt, V-neck front and back with a bow and streamers at the back of the neck. Their headdresses were matching sequined bows with short veils and they carried bouquets of white 'mums.

Mr. Jack Hubbs of Brantford, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Bob Pattinson, Mr. Jim Pattinson and Mr. Wayne Hubbs, all of Brantford.

Mr. Jack Waters, uncle of the bridegroom, accompanied by Mr. George E. Sweet at the organ, sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "Wedding Prayer" duringthe signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Hotel Kirby in Brantford where the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of black crepe with beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of moss green velvet with black and white accessories, and yellow roses.

For a wedding trip to Montreal and Niagara Falls, the bride changed to a black sheath dress with white feathered hat and accessories, beige coat, and a corsage of pink roses. They will reside at 726 Colbourne Street, Brantford.

Guests were present from Wellington, Detroit, Guelph, Cobourg, Hamilton, Bloomfield and Calgary.

CHISHOLM — DONOVAN

A pretty, but quiet wedding was solemnized on a recent Saturday morning in Holy Rosary Church, Donald Street, when Joan Margaret Donovan, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Richard Donovan, became the bride of Roy Bertram Chisholm, of Canniffton Road, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chisholm. The Reverend Michael Simon officiated before an altar adorned with colored gladioli.

The wedding music was provided by the church organist, Mrs. W. G. Grant, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Helen Gaffney, who rendered, "At Thy Feet," "Panis Angelicus," "O Lord, I am not Worthy," and "Sweet Sacrament Divine."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Leo Richard Donovan, was lovely in her full-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin, with matching lace tacket. Her beautiful shoulder-length veil was enhanced with a lovely border of flowers, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. A. E. Brooks, as matron of honor, sister of the bride, wore a full-length gown of pale blue net over taffeta with matching jacket, and headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Little Brenda Colden, as flower girl, was sweet in her pale blue frock of net over taffeta with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses, and white, baby 'mums.

Mr. Roy Gavin, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Bill Donovan, and Ernest Brooks, both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, which was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells, for the occasion.

The bride's table was appointed with white linen damask, and centered by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and flanked by tall, white candles in crystal holders.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a medium blue flowered tricon, with matching accessories, and corsage of white baby 'mums. She was assisted in receiving the guests by the bridegroom's mother who wore wine and grey with matching accessories, and corsage of white, baby 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, the bride chose a navy and turquoise ensemble with black accessories, and corsage of red, Sweetheart roses and white 'mums. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm will reside at Belleville R. R. 6.

Guests attended from Belleville; Point Anne, and Frankford.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower in her honor given by the Northern Electric girls at the home of Mrs. J. Hull, Quinte Lemoine Street, Belleville. Also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Blanche Teague, of Belleville R. R. 6. She was also the recipient of a toaster from the Northern Electric.

Jewish Ladies' Aux. Sponsors Scintillating Bazaar and Tea

Enticing homecooking, beautiful handicrafts and displays, and unusual decorations combined to produce a highly successful bazaar and tea at the Sons of Jacob Synagogue hall, Wednesday afternoon.

Sponsored by the Jewish Ladies' Auxiliary, much of the bazaar's success was due to the imagination and industry of the auxiliary members.

The theme—"Tea and Symphony"—was cleverly carried out in the decoration of the hall. Tables laden with articles for sale were covered with white crepe paper decorated with a black musical note motiff and each table had an appropriate "musical" name, such as "Shorin' Bread" for the homecooking table and "Brahms' Lullaby" for the table containing baby clothes.

TEA ROOM SEPARATED

The "tea room" section of the hall was separated from the bazaar section by a fence of large black and white cardboard harps and basses on white wicker stands connected by a musical score.

The head tea table was decorated with a white cloth, two blue and white candles, and a centrepiece of large white 'mums. Two gleaming silver tea services graced either end. The small individual tables were decorated with bronze and yellow baby 'mums.

Many beautiful, unusual and useful articles were on sale, such as oil paintings and flowers, leaves and drittwood displays by Johnny Meyers, plants, knickknacks, flower and shell displays, aprons, woollen articles, dishes and kitchen utensils, and homecooking.

Perhaps the most popular table was the homecooking or 'Shorin' Bread" table, which was heaped with all kinds of dainty delicacies—fancy cookies, tarts, cream puffs, scones, mouth-watering pies and cakes, sponge, angel food, chocolate, and fruit cakes and pound and yeast rolls.

The "H.M.S. Pinafore" table laden with aprons for all occasions; from colorful service-able cotton prints for everyday use to flimsy nylon, and net and required aprons for party use, also did a thriving business.

The "Brahms Lullaby" table held beautiful knitted sweaters for youngsters, as well as mitts, scarves, and baby clothes, while the "Fine Elephant" table was heaped with jewellery, cosmetics, toys, dishes and kitchen utensils, and homemade preserves.

A beautiful doll with a complete wardrobe (all handmade) from wedding gown and formal finery to sports togs, was drawn for.

TEA SANDWICHES SERVED

Tea and fancy sandwiches and pastries were served during the afternoon.

Those in charge of the bazaar and tea were:

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . . ABOUT "SMALL-TALK"

Do you do your part in getting acquainted with people to whom you have just been introduced? Polish up your small-talk so that you will quickly think of something to say . . . to avoid that awkward silence. If you can't think of any other small-talk, talk about the weather. That can be a good starter!

PROPER FOR HER TO INVITE HIM . . . BUT BY NOTE

About a month ago my married sister and I went to see a girl friend of ours who was staying at her mother's house after an illness. While there I met this girl's brother for the first time. He is very attractive, and we all had a good time together. I haven't seen him since, really didn't expect to, but now we are planning to give a party next month, and I'm wondering if you think it would be proper for me to invite him. If so, should I telephone him or what — Reader

I see no reason why it wouldn't be proper for you to invite this attractive young man to the party to be given at your house. You met him in a very pleasant way, and inviting him would be a friendly gesture. But I don't at all approve of your telephoning to invite him. Instead, write him a little note . . . this is much the better and wiser way to do, for it gives the guest whom you don't know very well an opportunity to consider the invitation. If he accepts or finds that for any reason he cannot accept your invitation, his replying to your note will be simpler all around.

GUEST OF HONOR SHOULD BE SERVED FIRST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's mother is coming to visit us for the first time since our recent marriage. The evening following her arrival, we are planning to give a small dinner, inviting two or three couples who are our closest friends, so they can meet her at once. She is a most charming woman, and we have told them so much about her that we want them to meet her as soon as possible after she arrives. I'm going to hire a maid to help me, and to serve. Should I instruct her to serve me first, as the hostess, or my husband's mother — Hostess-to-be

I'm so glad you wrote me about this . . . for I want you to show this charming mother-in-law of yours that you know this important Rule of Courtesy. She is your guest of honor, and the guest of honor should be served first.

"Waiting in a Hot Tureen"

By Mary Moore

There's something warmly hospitable about a household with a soup pot. And when the soup from that pot is served from a tureen you know full well the hand with the ladle is sure and attached to a strong character.

Donald S. asked for a vegetable soup recipe in yesterday's column, so I will give a simple recipe for it first that a man will find uncomplicated then go on to Vegetable Cream and Oxtail soups because they are nourishing, economical, and old favorites. Do be sure to serve them with an elegant air of silver, fine china cream soups, and lofty conversation.

OLD FASHIONED VEGETABLE SOUP

Two lbs. brisket, chopped, 1-2 cup pearl barley, 1 cup dried navy beans, 2 qts. water, 1-2 cup onion, sliced, 1-3 cup turnip, diced, 1 1-3 cups cabbage, shredded, 1 cup canned or fresh tomatoes, 1 cup celery, diced, 1 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper. Put brisket, barley and beans in cold water and bring slowly to simmering point. Skim if necessary. Simmer 3 hours. Add vegetables and simmer 1-2 hour. Season. Serves 8-12.

VEGETABLE CREAM SOUP

In one cup boiling water cook until tender 1-4 cup each shredded carrots, potatoes, turnip, celery, and if desired cabbage and one teaspoon each finely chopped sweet red and green peppers. In 4 tablespoons butter or bacon fat, gently sauté 1 medium onion chopped finely, until transparent. Add 3 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 or 2 chicken bouillon cubes, and when these are blended and smooth, stir in 2 cups whole milk until thickened. Add the vegetables and water in which they were cooked and stir and blend and heat through. Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley and serve with croutons and if desired a sprinkling of old grated cheese. If desired 1-4 cup finely chopped cooked chicken or veal may be added.

HOMEMADE OXTAIL SOUP

One oxtail, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons fat, 6 cups water, 1 cup diced carrot, 1-2 cup diced turnip, parboiled, 1-3 cup diced onion, 1-2 cup diced celery, 1-3 red pepper minced, 1 bayleaf, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 teaspoons salt. Ask the butcher to cut the oxtail in pieces. Sprinkle with salt, dredge with flour and saute in the fat. Add to water, simmer 3 hours, add the vegetables, pepper, parsley and bayleaf. Boil gently until vegetables are tender (about 20 minutes). Add remaining seasonings. Vegetables may be cut into julienne shapes if you are preparing this for a party.

HANDY REVIVER

Smelling salts generally consists of a mixture of ammonium carbonate with some sort of perfume.

Criticism Seen As Attempt to Recruit Nurses

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec nurses said Tuesday that criticism of their profession by an American social worker was inspired by efforts to recruit nurses here for private service in the United States.

Mrs. Maxime Taylor of San Francisco had said in an interview Canadian hospitals will continue to lack nurses unless the "dreadful exploitation" of nurses is ended.

The Association of Nurses of the Province of Quebec said it had learned Mrs. Taylor was recruiting Canadian nurses for her private registry and for several large American hospitals.

The association said it had no objections to Mrs. Taylor recruiting nurses, but it did object to her charges of "drudgery" in the profession.

Mrs. Taylor said it doesn't take a "full ward of beds to learn how to make one, nor does it take thousands of hypos to learn how to give one." She said it was "drudgery" that kept girls from training as nurses.

There is a "certain amount of drudgery in any profession," the association said.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is based on a real case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Margaret S. — Women go ga-ga over Stan.

Stanley S. — Maybe I've gotten glamorous since I've married.

Margaret S. — I have the misfortune to have a very handsome husband. Women take one look at Stan and they really go ga-ga and start making a play for him. When we were going together, I used to be amused and flattered. After all, I figured, Stan could have his pick and he had chosen me.

Well, now that we have been married a year, I find I don't like it at all. I can't help feeling that Stan should do something to show them he won't permit just any old woman to maul him and make eyes at him. This one friend of ours is always offering to massage the back of his neck or take something out of his eye. Stan just stands there placidly and lets her do it.

I can't see why I should have to stand by and take it, or be denounced as a jealous woman. I think it's just terrible.

• • •

Stanley S. — I don't know what I'm supposed to do if somebody isn't good enough to give me a massage or take something out of my eye when I need it. I never told Stan very polite to turn her down — especially after Id been complaining. I thought it was very thoughtful of this woman. I didn't see any harm at all in it.

Meg hates to be called jealous, but she really is. She is always pointing out women looking at me. I never noticed it before. Maybe I've gotten more glamorous since I've married.

I've noticed that Meg doesn't mind it a bit when men eye her. She says that's different, but I don't see how. Personally, I'm proud when anybody seems to like Meg. It would be different if she made a play for them, but she wouldn't do that any more than I would with any of these women she talks about.

The Council: Meg will create a great unhappiness for herself and her husband unless she gets enough confidence in herself to believe she can hold her husband's love. She does not complain of her husband's wandering eye and therefore, evidently has no fear on that score. She simply feels inadequate against the competition of other women.

We feel, nevertheless, some of Margaret's complaints are justified — but that Stan is handling them in the wrong way. She can hardly be blamed for disliking the spectacle of her husband being "mauled" by another woman. Stan ought to find a polite way of ducking out of such situations.

Margaret should realize, however, that she is foolish to create an issue out of such incidents. She can take things quietly into her own hands and steer away socially from women who behave in an objectionable manner.

Complaining to Stanley about it only serves to make him more conscious that a woman is making a play for him. He may feel a bit too flattered. For the same reason, she is foolish to make a point of fact that women eye him.

If she wants to live happily with her handsome husband, Margaret must accept the fact that an attractive appearance may draw attention from the opposite sex, but the occasions for ringing in the fire alarm are limited.

HOSTESS HINTS

by DORIS LOVE

well-known Canadian Colour Consultant

A gracious hostess is something every woman likes to be! Next to the art of homemaking itself the pleasure of entertaining is one thoroughly enjoyed by almost everyone.

And when you stop to think . . . it's the small details, the clever niceties, the "extra" touch that marks you as a charming hostess. To-day with coloured fixtures, wall tile, floor surfaces and decorative accents there is no reason why the bathroom shouldn't be a harmony of colour. Take, for instance, the new, SOFTLY COLOURED White Swan tissue—carefully selected to blend or contrast with popular colour decors. It's a touch like this that are long remembered by your guests.

Rainbow selection . . . is yours to choose from in coloured tissue to harmonize with tile, fixtures and wall treatments. For instance, with light, warm colours such as yellow, peach and pink in either tile or paint colours, the cool contrast of blue or green accessories is excellent. Sea Spray Green and Azure Blue are equally pleasant with white or even cream tiling. It's a good decorative feature to match coloured fixtures and tissue.

Summer colours . . . Marigold Yellow and Dawn Pink are clear and light-hearted combinations with turquoise, wedgwood blue, jade green or sandalwood tile fixture and tile colours which appear frequently in modern decoration.

And for a colour dare . . . there are innumerable decorative ideas. Dawn Pink is considered a dainty colour which gains drama when combined with Black. But have you considered it combined with sandalwood, rich chocolate, plum or peacock?

Again . . . Sea Spray Green is a renowned favourite. You can give even popular green an added fillip in a decorative treatment of melon and black or coral and cocoa.

Parlour entertaining . . . is a lark with easy-to-prepare refreshments and no-trouble White Swan embossed serviettes of fine quality and weight. Lovely 2 ply White Swan Serviettes are right at home in the most formal gathering. Their generous size, exquisite design and lustrous appearance duplicate the feeling of the finest linens. WILL PERMIT

But since four of those months would be in the new year, the pensioner could not start another extended vacation abroad before October, 1958, without loss of pension.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously Tuesday that the period of permissible absences without loss of pension would be reduced to three months from six, instead of being increased from three to six.)

INCREASES COSTS

No estimate has been made of the likely cost of the change. But the $9 monthly boost to $55 in the federal pension is expected to add $90,000,000 to the present $450,000,000 annual cost of that program. The pensions are paid from a special federal fund.

Approximately $9,000,000 more could be added to annual federal outlays if all provinces accept a parallel proposal to make a similar increase to $55 in maximum monthly payments to the needy aged between 65 and 69, the disabled and the blind. Cost of welfare programs to those groups is shared by federal and provincial governments, and the annual federal bill now runs at $38,000,000.

(A Canadian Press report Wednesday, through a transmission error, stated the increases in the shared programs should cost the federal government $90,000,000).

The boosts in the old age security pensions and in the shared welfare programs, together with present annual outlays of $454,000,000 for family allowances, would push the federal social security bill over the $1,000,000,000 mark.

U.S. FIRES

The USAF declined to claim any specific height for its rocket, which was sent aloft to gather scientific information. An officer familiar with the tests said it's difficult to say how high it went until the instruments are checked and rechecked. But he added it's possible the rocket soared well beyond the 4,000 - mile goal set for it. Four previous efforts failed.

The USAF announcement followed publication by the Los Angeles Examiner of a story saying the rocket soared 4,000 miles after launching from a balloon 100,000 feet over Eniwetok Island.

The navy announced Wednesday night it has doubled the amount of money put into its own intermediate missile project, the Podaris. This missile, considerably farther back in development than the Jupiter or Thor, uses solid instead of the liquid fuel favored by the army and air force. A new award of $62,100,000 was made to Lockheed Aircraft Corporation for continuing development of Polaris.

The trade publication Aviation Daily came up with some more bad news for the U. S. today. It says Russia has built and tested a rocket engine with almost three times the thrust of the largest liquid - propelled rocket units in development in the United States.

This Russian power plant, says Aviation Daily, has a thrust rating of 820,000 pounds, compared with a 300,000-pound thrust for the first stage engine of the Titan, one of the two intermediate missiles being developed by the United States.

Aviation Daily writes that the 820,000 - pound thrust plant "is presumably intended to power the largest of the Soviet ballistic missiles, the so-called T-3 with a range of 7,000 miles. Specifications for the United States intercontinental missile call for 5,000 miles range.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

JEWELRY

10—2-9

Long face and swan-like neck? Chunky necklaces and button earrings are your best bet.

Costume jewelry has become such an important accessory to the modern woman's wardrobe that she'd no more think of going without necklace, earrings or her favorite bracelet than she'd leave home without gloves or her handbag. Proper selection of pieces is, however, much more important than some girls seem to think. All too many buy jewelry because it's "pretty" . . . never giving a thought as to whether it's a beauty asset or a liability.

One of the important considerations in selection is the facial features. The right gem designs can help to play up good features, play down imperfect ones. If, for instance, you have a round face and don't want it to appear rounder, avoid the big hoop earrings. Instead, wear drop earrings since they give an illusion of length to your face.

For the girl with a long, thin face, round button earrings are just perfect since they help to make her facial contour appear broader. Another good choice for this type of face is the earring that hugs the lobe, broadening and lifting the facial line.

Contours should be taken into consideration when choosing necklaces, too. The girl with a short, heavy neck should wear long, graceful ones. Chokers should be avoided since they cut into the neckline and make it seem even shorter and fatter than it is. Chokers, however, camouflage long necks beautifully.

If your hands are graceful and especially well-shaped, be sure to wear a bright bracelet which will call attention to them. But, if hands are stubby, skip such an ornament. It only calls attention to a bad feature.

Consider color, too. If your eyes are blue, sapphire-colored stones will make them seem even bluer. With green eyes, emerald-colored gems are sure-fire glamour and, for the brown-eyed lass, amber's a wonderful choice. If your hair's silver, never mind what color your eyes are. Stick to mauve or sapphire for the sake of contrast and for a softening effect on your complexion.

Women's Institutes

FOXBORO W.I.

The October meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held in the school auditorium.

"Thank-you" letters from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed and Mr. Dalrymple were read, as an invitation from Carmel W.I. to attend their historical research meeting and a reminder of the leadership training school on special legal pin. Marilyn Reid

The delegates to the area convention were chosen, Mrs. M. S. Sharey and Mrs. C. Hubble as alternate, Mrs. C. H. LaRue and Mrs. P. L. Galipeau.

Mr. Reid, as leader of the Foxboro 4-H Potato Club, was introduced by Mrs. Hubble. Mr. Reid said he was so very pleased with the club as it had had a 100 per cent completion, and by so doing had earned for him a special lapel pin. Marilyn Reid and Raymond Rose had been chosen as a team from the Foxboro club to go to Guelph.

Mrs. S. Hayton introduced the special guest of the evening, Jimmy Churchill, who was one of some 1,500 Canadian Scouts to go to England for the Jamboree, the 50th anniversary of Scouting and the 100th anniversary of the birth of the founder, Lord Baden-Powell.

Jimmy gave a graphic description of this memorable occasion and trip. He toured parts of London and went to Buckingham Palace where he met the Queen and Prince Philip.

Mrs. Simmons thanked Jimmy saying how proud everyone was to have a boy from a small village chosen to be a representative to meet the Queen and Prince Philip.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Youth for Christ Rally Hears Man From Los Angeles

Belleville Youth for Christ held a regular rally on Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple.

The rally opened with a chorus and prayer led by Jim Blackwood. After a few choruses, led by Ernie Baich, the choir sang "Wonderful Grace of Jesus."

Jim Blackwood introduced Bob Bradford from Los Angeles, nationally known ventriloquist with puppets. Mr. Bradford with one of his puppets, "Leo the Lion," gave a very interesting entertainment.

Everyone joined in the singing of "My Lord Knows the Way," after which Kenneth Hurns from Picton, led in prayer.

Two choir members, Linda Pritchard and Marjorie Bronson blended their voices in a duet, "In the Garden".

Picton and Napanee high schools competed in a quiz. The winning team was Picton.

Carl Green, choir director, rendered a solo, "Others," before Mr. Bradford introduced his second puppet, "Jiggers," Mr. Bradford and his puppet gave the story of David and Goliath. At the conclusion of this story he gave an invitation to come forward and accept Christ. Many teen-agers were led to do so and were counselled after the service.

Jim Blackwood, director of Belleville Youth for Christ, closed with prayer.

Frost a reading, "Let us thank God for the things we do not have".

KING SIZE MONARCH CAKE MIXES with LOCKED-IN FRESHNESS and FLAVOUR!

Look for this all-new Monarch package. In it you'll find a totally new idea in cake mixes from Monarch's famed research division. In fact this mix is so deliciously different . . . so much better in every way . . . that we say until you've tried this new mix you haven't baked your best cake!

1 What's different? Ordinary cake mix flavour tends to fade and dry out. But in new Monarch, flavour is sealed in tiny crystals. When you mix and bake you release the full freshness and flavour—giving you the kind of fresh homemade goodness you want in your cake.

2 See how tall it is! The new Monarch cake is king size—completely fills a standard 8-inch tin. The fact that this new cake exactly fills the pan makes a big difference in baking results. It rises evenly—browns evenly—with a uniform crust and texture throughout.

3 Big luscious layer cakes too! In fact, in any shape . . . for any occasion . . . you can bake a new Monarch cake so moist and light you'll be proud to serve it! Stays fresh too! Try new Monarch soon! Your grocer now has 4 kinds—each with freshness and flavour locked in!

PICTON

Jail Governor, Staff Relieved Of Responsibility

PICTON — "We find the jail governor or his staff in no way responsible or negligent of their duties," was the finding of a coroner's jury Monday night following an inquest into the death of Walter Gross, 53, who died by hanging in the Prince Edward County gaol.

Dr. R. A. Thompson, Wellington, coroner, presided with Crown Attorney G. T. Walmsley, Q.C., questioning the witnesses who were Sgt. Scott Hele, Dr. S. W. D. Hart, Roy Breakenridge, Donald Powers, James Deacon, Stewart Snider, Governor G. Swaffer, Morley Gross, brother of the deceased, and Sheriff H. J. Colliver.

Dr. Thompson pointed out that the inquest was compulsory as the deceased had died in a public institution. The inquest was primarily to ascertain if in any way the jail staff had been negligent in their duties.

Evidence revealed that accused was arrested while intoxicated. He was placed alone in a cell and on the second floor. According to testimony, Gross, placed in the cell at 9.30 p.m., was sleeping at 2.30 when his cell was visited. About 6.15 a.m., October 11, he was found dead by strangulation. Part of a sheet had been used and the jury was told that with effort deceased could have saved himself.

Governor Swaffer said he had no reason to believe any of the staff had been negligent in their duties. Sheriff Colliver stated that even if there had been more such an occurrence could not be prevented since a continued watch cannot be made on all prisoners.

Members of the jury were: F. P. Williams, foreman; Randolph Clapp, Rayburn Dawe, William Henley and William Drew.

CARE TO JOIN ME? Easy now, fellas! Not everyone can celebrate the Pancake Festival with such a charming lass. But, still—you can have the pancakes!

PICTON

Elizabeth Carter Wins Scholarship

PICTON (Special) — For the second year in succession, a Prince Edward Collegiate student has won the scholarship maintained by the University Women's Club of Belleville. The honor goes this year to Elizabeth Carter, a well-deserved tribute to a fine record throughout all her school years.

This scholarship is awarded annually to the student going on to university who has obtained the highest total of marks on any eight papers of the grade thirteen departmental examinations in June. Eligible for the award are all upper school students in a wide area centred around Belleville, and to have the scholarship come to a student from the same school two years running is indeed an achievement. Congratulations are certainly due Elizabeth.

To earn an average of 80 per cent on any set of final examinations is a very real accomplishment; with Elizabeth it was a habit, acquired in public school, carried into grade nine, and continued through her high school career. To stand first in a class is another fine achievement; that too was one of her high school habits. She was awarded the coveted 75 per cent pin (for final standing of 75 per cent for three years) and had a perfect four for four record in winning number pins (for leading her class in June.)

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. William Biggs and Miss Alice Benger of Burlington, were over-night guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Salisbury and Mrs. Charles Halght, of Belleville, spent Sunday evening with Mrs. E. Crook.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Christy of the Gore were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro and Keith.

PEARSON FIRES

Opposition Leader St. Laurent said it did not "destroy the impression that nothing very new has transpired."

CCF Leader Coldwell said the statement, especially on the Washington talks, "was merely a confession of failure." Already U.S. Agriculture Secretary Benson was going to Japan—an important Canadian wheat market—to arrange an agreement to sell U.S. wheat for Japanese currency.

Victor Quelch (SC — Acadia) said the minister's statement "does not seem to provide much hope for any considerable increase in trade."

DENIES FAILURE

Mr. Fleming denied there was failure in the Washington talks or elsewhere. The four Canadian ministers who went to Washington took a strong position, he said.

"Indeed it was the strongest position that has ever been taken by any Canadian government in such discussions at Washington."

Some needling also was done by Hon. Paul Martin (L—Essex East), considered likely to be Mr. Pearson's major opponent for the Liberal leadership being vacated by Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. Martin said press reports indicate Mr. Fleming doesn't think that Mr. Diefenbaker's plan for a 15-per-cent switch of American imports to Britain should be taken seriously.

Mr. Fleming denied he had suggested such a thing. The goal could not be accomplished overnight but "it remains an objective of the Canadian government."

"SIGNIFICANT RESULTS"

The minister's formal statement said that at the Mont Tremblant meeting "minister after minister" had stated that the conference had achieved significant results.

The bilateral trade talks with Britain, he said, were "necessarily of a preliminary character." The British ministers had not been authorized to discuss Canadian farm product exports to Britain.

The British proposal for an Anglo-Canadian free trade area was a long-range one "which neither required nor was expected to be given immediate consideration by the Canadian government," even prior to next year's full-dress Commonwealth trade conference.

It had been agreed "that the matter should rest there."

Referring to Canadian criticisms of the U.S. give-away program of agricultural surpluses, Mr. Fleming said "no ground was given by the Canadian ministers at Washington."

MENTIONS TALKS

Mr. St. Laurent spoke briefly but cuttingly of the various trade talks.

He said the only new proposal which seems to have arisen is the possibility of letting Canadian tourists overseas bring back more purchases duty-free.

That wouldn't do much to divert trade from the U.S. to Britain, but it might have some effect "although not serious" on Canadian production.

Mr. Pearson said that after Mr. Diefenbaker announced the 15-per-cent import diversion as a goal, Britain had proposed the Anglo-Canadian free trade area as the only means to implement it.

The Canadian government's rejection had been surprise and consternation.

Re said a diversion of Canadian importing from the U.S. to Britain might bring a real danger of American retaliation.

LIBERALS TRIED

For years the Liberal government had tried with considerable success to keep the U.S. from increasing tariff barriers against Canadian exports. Now, the Conservative government could not discriminate against American exports to Canada without harm to this country.

Mr. Pearson said little could be done to reduce some 60 per cent of Canadian imports from the U.S.

This would mean trebled British exports to Canada in such fields as textiles and steel. Could this be done without seriously affecting Canadian industry?

ARREST PAIR FOR NORWOOD ROBBERY

Two men, charged in the robbery of a bank at Norwood, Ont., cover their faces as they are led into custody by police. Five members of the bank staff and a customer were forced into a back room of the bank while two men grabbed $3,650 from the cage. The arrested pair, James Watson, 17, of Haverlock, and Elmer Armstrong, of Carp, Ont., will be viewed in a line-up by the staff of the bank at Blind River, where, two weeks ago, a bank manager was killed during a robbery attempt.

'Wheat and Oil' Is Slogan For Fast-Growing Edmonton Situated on Rim of Prairies

EDMONTON (CB)— "Wheat and oil" is the slogan of $38,000 modern frontiersmen in this fast-growing city on the rim of the Prairies.

These well - dressed pioneers spent $60,000,000 on housing construction alone in 1956. When they holiday, they visit Jasper or Banff in the Rockies. They go to Elk Island Park, just 40 miles away, to watch the buffalo graze. They're only a few hours by air from Las Vegas, Vancouver or the Yukon.

They bet $7,000,000 annually on horse races. They have their Eskimos, Canada's champion football team, and the Flyers, their flashy hockey team.

They live in quite a city. Its population has doubled since Leduc, Alberta's first oil field, was opened in 1947. Much more oil has been discovered since then, even on city property.

Tremendous development has marked the boom. The city hall, completed this year, is nine storeys high and cost $4,000,000. The 2,700-seat civic auditorium cost more than $4,500,000. Impressive provincial legislative buildings lie on the north side of the North Saskatchewan River, and on the south side is the University of Alberta with more than 3,000 students.

East of the city numerous oil refineries, chemical plants and related secondary industries fringe the skyline. Since 1950, about $116,000,000 has been spent on their development. West, towards the Rockies, are the oil-fields.

And all around is rich cattle and field-crop country. The produce of ranches and farms is marketed through grain elevators and packing plants here.

In the past decade thousands have poured into Edmonton to share the wealth. Husgarians, the newest Canadians, mix with Indians, the oldest, on brightly-lit avenues.

The growth has raised some civic problems. Busy City Airport is within 16 blocks of Jasper Avenue, the main street. When it was built, it was on the outskirts of town.

The city-owned transit system is in a constant muddle trying to revise its routes to cover new housing developments.

And despite its riches, Edmonton is $99,000,000 in debt—the biggest issue in civic elections. The per capita debt is a whopping $416. It grew as the city was rushed into additional requirements. "Most of our improvements have been made in the last 10 years," explained commissioner J. M. Tweddle.

But few are worrying about the civic load. Only 11 per cent voted in the last municipal election.

Citizens like to think of Edmonton as being a more serious city than Calgary, the boisterous Stampede city to the south. But the wide - brimmed hats and studded belts are common sights here.

And as the base of the Alaska Highway and the supply base for the Northwest Territories, Edmonton just can't help being cosmopolitan.

Family Doctors Told to Take Things Easy

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Family doctors were advised Wednesday that because of the increasing demands for their service and the fast pace of life they lead, they should take time out to relax, or face the prospect of a shorter life.

Dr. Lorne Whitaker of St. Catharines, president-elect of the Ontario Medical Association, told 250 doctors at a luncheon that while a few physicians are living out their three score years and ten, many are dying in their early 30s.

Dr. Whitaker, native of Brantford, was addressing doctors of the OMA's District 1.

Acquitted on Charge

WHITBY (CP)—John Sinnott, 23, an Oshawa taxi driver and son of James Sinnott, reeve of Lancaster, Wednesday was acquitted on a charge of criminal negligence arising out of an accident last March 31, in which one man was killed.

Hubert Leroux, 23, of Oshawa was killed on Highway 12 about 38 miles north of Whitby when a car driven by Sinnott went out of control, struck a pole and bounced across the highway into a tree.

LARGE FAMILY STRICKEN

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Alberta Williams, 41, intended to take her new-born twins home today but had to change plans because 10 of her 19 children are sick with whooping cough. Three grandchildren also are sick. The 13 children, including a married daughter, were quarantined with Mrs. William's husband, Alonzo, 57.

Britain and U.S. Ready To Agree on Mid-East Policy

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain and the United States appear to be ready to hang together in their Middle East policies after hanging separately for the last year.

There is a noticable change in atmosphere in the current talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower from the constraint that heralded their talks in Bermuda last April.

At that time there was an uncomfortable feeling among Britons that Macmillan, heir of Sir Anthony Eden's intervention in Suez, was approaching Eisenhower in the role of the erring schoolboy trying to butter up the headmaster.

American spokesmen had been outspokenly critical of Suez and had made it painfully clear that they were anxious to dissociate themselves from Britain in their future Middle East planning.

But the ostentatious shipment of American arms to Jordan under the Eisenhower doctrine has proved no more popular in Arab capitals than the dropping of British paratroopers at Port Said. Russian penetration of the Middle East has continued and the doctrine itself is virtually dead.

The propaganda mills of Cairo and Damascus, massively supported by Moscow, have virtually ignored Britain and France, the culprits of Suez, in their efforts to brand the United States as the Western imperialist aggressor in the Middle East.

In the face of mounting Arab hostility, the U.S. has nothing to gain diplomatically by further displays of coolness toward Britain.

With the disastrous consequences of precipitate action fresh in their memory, Macmillan and Eisenhower are not expected to attempt a spectacular move to turn the tide of Russian expansion in the Arab world. The Syrian-Turkish problem is before the United Nations assembly and the two leaders are presumed to be content to see it talked out there.

London sources see the possibility of more fruitful discussion of long-term economic projects. There has been considerable talk of a kind of Colombo Plan for the Middle East, under which the two countries would offer technical assistance and material resources to the underdeveloped Arab countries without political strings.

In the present superheated atmosephere, it is an offer that few Arab governments would dare to accept. But it might be effective at a later date.

Russia's hit-and-run economic assistance already has proved a mixed blessing to Egypt, which bartered cotton for arms last year only to find the cotton competing against her current crop on world markets. Syria, which embarked on a similar deal this year, is likely to run into the same difficulties.

Despite Nikita Khrushchev's efforts to fan the flames of Arab hatred of the West, nothing short of war can prevent the ultimate restoration of normal trade relations between the Arab countries and their traditional customers in Europe and America.

In the long run, Western planners hope to capitalize on the resulting relaxation of tension with a ready - made plans for economic aid.

Cocktail Lounges For Wolfe Island

WOLFE ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—Residents of this township three miles south of Kingston Wednesday approved a dining room and cocktail lounge as liquor outlets in separate votes.

The votes was 375 for and 127 against. A total of 502 voted of 560 eligible. Wolfe Island, largest of the Thousand Islands, already has one beer outlet for its 1,002 residents.

DEVELOP SHIPPING LIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — A simple, compact control unit for electrically powered navigation aids, by whose flashing lights guide shipping along Canada's waterways, has been developed by the National Research Council and the federal transport department, it was announced Wednesday. Now in production, the unit is expected to halve the annual outlay for the beacons' batteries alone.

Alberta Govt. Has Final Say on Liquor Plebiscite

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta will hold a province-wide liquor plebiscite next Wednesday to obtain an expression of opinion on a single question.

If the vote is negative, the meaning is obvious—no steps will be necessary to change existing liquor regulations.

If the vote is 51 per cent or more affirmative, it will be up to the government to determine what effect it will have on the present situation.

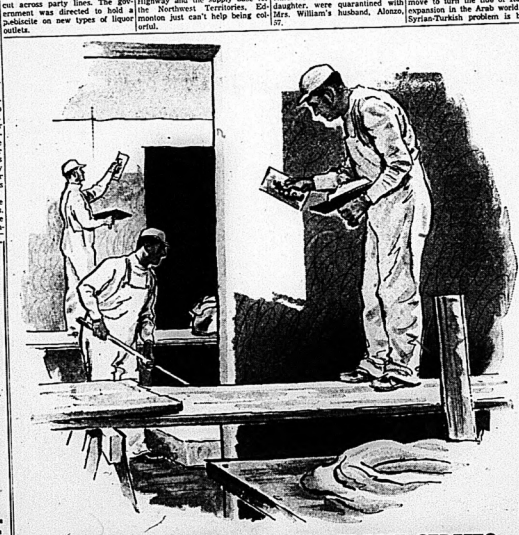
In any case, there will be no sudden change in Alberta's drinking habits.

The question, to which a yes or no answer will be given with an "X" marking, is plain and simple — Do you approve additional types of outlets for the sale of beer, wine and spirituous liquor subject to a local vote? Roughly 350,000 persons will be eligible to give an answer.

Premier E. C. Manning has made it clear the result of the vote is binding on no one; it is an expression of opinion.

He also has made it clear that a negative vote will not be an approval of the province's existing liquor regulations, stating this is not at issue in the plebiscite.

The government's official position also is clear, unchanged from last spring when it accepted a report of a legislature committee which said no additional types of outlets should be allowed.



The premier also has clearly opposed additional types of outlets. He holds that existing facilities in Alberta are sufficient to meet the rights of the individual.

Under Alberta's present liquor regulations, the public may purchase alcoholic beverages by the bottle from government liquor stores; Beer is sold by the glass and bottle in beer parlors and by the case in government liquor stores, certain brewery outlets and beer parlors.

Liquor by the glass may be obtained only in licensed clubs.

Premier Manning says the plebiscite will establish the principle of whether new types of outlets should be permitted. He said no matter what the outcome the government will maintain the responsibility for decision on any changes. So far it had given no consideration to a second step.

The plebiscite results from a resolution approved by the legislature last spring in a vote that cut across party lines. The government was directed to hold a plebiscite on new types of liquor outlets.

Booster Club For Junior Team Is Organized

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton hockey fans are not to be outdone by the enthusiasm of their neighbors to the east and yesterday formed the nucleus of a Booster Club to support and inspire this year's Junior "B" O.H.A. team.

By yesterday morning, even before charter membership cards had been printed, some 30 adults and students had joined the club, shooting at an objective of 600 members.

Leader of the eager beaver supporters is F. Lloyd Worrall, a rabid follower of the sport and chairman of the newly formed Industrial Hockey League. Other members of the Boosters' executive will be appointed and announced later.

The purpose of the club is to give the Trenton Juniors faithful backing throughout the season. Chief Booster Worrall has made arrangements for noise-makers, including horns, rattles and bells, to be distributed before game time to club members occupying a pre-arranged section in the arena. The club executive hopes to decide on distinguishing tams or berets and make them available to the members.

Flu Bug Hits, Attenance Low At Wrestling

TRENTON (Special) — The flu bug got into the act at the Trenton Community Gardens again Monday night. The faithfuls who took a chance and turned out for the Tunney stable wrestling show were not disappointed. Their favorite referee, Bunny Dunlop, was on hand and furnished his usual terrific exhibition, particularly during the tag team match when he could have used Wyatt Earp and 38 Men to keep law and order.

In the role of good guys were the Australians, Al Costello and Ray Hefferman, and it was the old story about everything happening to the bad men, in the persons of Fritz Von Eric of Germany and Jan Gotch of Hamilton. The Aussies flattened the Nazis with kangaroo slams.

In the opener Luther Lindsay of Norfolk, Virginia, pinned Al Korman of Toronto with a body press, following a shattering drop kick.

Pat Flanagan of Toronto, substituting for Lee Hanning, a victim of the Asian flu epidemic, lost to Prince Maiavi of the Samoan Islands in the bout before the main fixture.

Industrial Hockey League Is Organized

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton is to have an Industrial hockey league operating this year with a representation of 10 teams. This was decided at a meeting of 40 people in the board room of the Trenton Community Gardens yesterday.

The loop that bedded last year from a desire of hockey players in plants and business places to get back in harness is headed up by F. Lloyd Worrall who played a leading role in the revival of industrial hockey last year. His committee includes John Villeneuve of Hatawa, Doug Welch, Jack Holmes, Gordon Flynn and Cecil Garrett, all of Trenton.

The chairman and committee agreed that team sponsors must submit names of players and their occupations and that no players from the RCAF stations or junior clubs would be permitted to take part. If a team lacks the required number of players and substitutes, other teams in the league will provide players to bring them up to strength, the committee decided.

NAMED TO EXECUTIVE

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Community Gardens manager Ted Sendzuy has been appointed to the executive of the Ontario Arenas' Association for the eighth consecutive year. He also serves again for the second term as zone representative for eastern Ontario and has been appointed chairman of the booking committee for all of Ontario.

W.I. Members Have Visitors At Monthly Meet

WELLINGTON — The monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held in the town hall, Oct. 15th. The attendance was rather smaller than usual, owing to so much sickness. About fifteen members of the Gilbert Mills and Demorestville Institutes were guests for the evening.

The president, Mrs. Ellis was in the chair and welcomed all the members and visitors. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. Hutchinson.

A letter of thanks for helping to pave the way for Mrs to attend the Scout Jamboree in England was read from Eddie Vandusen. A letter from Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris expressing appreciation for the gift received in honor of their golden wedding.

Thank-you cards from Maud Carson, Mrs. L. Garratt and Mrs. Young were also read.

A cheque was received from the Agricultural Society for exhibits shown at the Picton Fair. The birthday box was open and received four contributions from Mrs. A. Allison, Edith Ward, Mrs. Dick and Mrs. Tripp.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Yourt will be hostesses next month. Mrs. Ralph Preston, hostess for the night, then put on the following program: Poem of the month, "Thanksgiving", (written by the late Helen B. Anderson) was read by Mrs. A. Ogilvy; current events, by Mrs. G. Stoneburg; a piano solo by Miss Sharon Hall, Gilbert's Mills.

Everyone joined in singing "Psanlm." then Miss Faye Young of Demorestville, gave a beautiful vocal solo, "I Forgive." Miss Young has a wonderful voice. Eddy Vandusen was supposed to show some films taken at the Scout Jamboree, but owing to illness he was unable to be present, so Mrs. Freeman very kindly filled in at the last minute and showed, some of the lovely slides of Wellington and also of her trip to New York. Mrs. Wight was pianist for the evening.

Mrs. Marvin, who was to have been one of the hostesses for the evening, was unable to be present owing to illness.

DESERONTO

Councillor Asked By Mayor to Leave Meeting

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chambers on Monday night with all members present except Councillor A. S. Walker.

After calling the meeting to order Mayor McVicker asked Councillor George Knight had made the apology to council as required by a motion of the last regular meeting. Councillor Knight replied: "I never apologize because I have nothing to apologize for." Mayor McVicker then advised Councillor Knight to withdraw from the meeting and he read the section of the Municipal Act dealing with such cases. Councillor G. Knight then withdrew to the public portion of the hall.

Among the correspondence was a letter from the Richmond township council regarding the fees for the fire department which was called early in September. The clerk was advised to notify the Richmond council that the Deseronto Fire department was called on authority of the Napanee mayor and that Deseronto held the township responsible for the payment. Council also was advised by letter that the Tyendinaga Indian Council had checked and to sign an agreement with Deseronto. The council instructed the fire committee that the fire department was not to respond to any calls to the Indian Reserve, even the portion fronting on the town limits.

Council decided to hold Court of Revision on November 4th. Reeve Twiddy was appointed to replace Mayor McVicker and Councillor P. Knight replaced G. Knight on the committee.

After some slight discussion a motion was passed declaring November 11th a Civic Holiday.

After attempting to set a figure for the rental of the lower part of Mill St., to the Drave Corp., it was moved and passed that no lease be granted until the deed for the right of way to the bay at the eastern limits of the Drave property is received.

Three by-laws were passed, one setting the nomination and places of voting for the municipal election, one controlling and setting the fees for bowling alleys and pool rooms, and one conveying a deed of some property along Mill St. to the Drave Corp.

WELLINGTON

School Children Enjoy Visit to Seaway Project

The school holiday proclaimed Queen Queen was used to good purpose by the pupils of Wellington Consolidated School. Mr. Snider, Mr. Trumble and their grade 7 and 8 youngsters left Wellington by chartered bus at 8 a.m. Tuesday morning and headed for the St. Lawrence Power Project at Cornwall, Ont.

The first important stop of the tour was at Fort Wellington, near Prescott, where many fine exhibits from the war of 1813-14 were viewed by the pupils. This was of particular interest to the youngsters as they watched proceedings from the specially constructed observation tower.

The bus arrived at Morrisburg just in time to see the 500th house being moved to a new location by the gigantic house mover.

On the return trip the children were taken back into Morrisburg to see the house in its new location. It was noticed that not even the light bulbs in the front door had been damaged in transit.

From Iroquois to Cornwall the bus followed the old No. 2 highway, thus allowing a complete view of all work on the project. At Cornwall the Ontario Hydro showed a film following which the children were taken onto the coffer dam to view the huge power dam under construction. This was a sight which both the teachers and the children will not soon forget.

After a supper stop at Prescott, the buses continued on to Wellington reaching home at 11.00 p.m.
